The certificate program for family psychiatric nurse practitioner emphasizes the assessment, diagnosis and evidence-based management of common and complex mental health disorders across the lifespan. Valid and reliable tools for screening and identification of mental health disorders as well as early interventions for these problems are highlighted. Content for each disorder include epidemiology, incidence, early signs and symptoms, differential diagnosis, and sociocultural variations in evidence-based management and treatment. Management includes psychopharmacologic and therapeutic skills building that are based in motivational interviewing, mindfulness, cognitive behavioral therapy and dialectical behavior therapy. Individual, group and family therapy techniques are emphasized.

This certificate program is offered in a hybrid iCourse and in-person format that requires students to travel to campus for up to a week for orientation at the beginning of the program and two or three times per semester.

Focused clinical experiences are arranged for students residing in Maricopa County, Arizona. Students should expect to travel throughout Maricopa County and, in some cases, surrounding counties to complete their assigned clinical placement.

Students residing outside of Maricopa County, Arizona, are responsible for identifying the required number of clinical sites in their area of residence and for identifying preceptors and sites willing to accommodate clinical rotations, and Edson College of Nursing and Health Innovation must approve these sites before starting any clinical experience; the DNP program office does not guarantee a clinical placement site for any student outside Maricopa County. If, during the program, faculty determine the student needs additional supervision for clinical progress in the program, the student must complete clinical experiences in the Phoenix area.

Experiences with disadvantaged and multicultural populations are encouraged as are experiences in rural areas when sites are available for these experiences.

As a participating National Council for State Authorization Reciprocity Agreements member, Arizona State University is authorized to offer distance education to persons located in individual SARA states in accordance with the Council's established policies and standards. California does not participate in SARA and the California Bureau of Private Postsecondary Education does not regulate out-of-state public institutions. ASU may offer educational activities in California. There are some exceptions for specific programs at Edson College. These exceptions are noted on the ASU state authorization website: <https://admission.asu.edu/academics/authorizations> (<https://admission.asu.edu/academics/authorizations>).

Degree Requirements:

28 credit hours.

This graduate certificate program (including 585 clinical hours) prepares nurses with a master's degree to become family psychiatric mental health nurse practitioners.

Required prerequisites (or equivalent courses taken while in master's degree program)

DNP 604 Advanced Human Pathophysiology Across Lifespan (4)

DNP 605 Advanced Health Assessment Across Lifespan (3)

DNP 609 Advanced Practice Nursing Role (1)

Students have an individual review of their transcripts and an individualized plan of study designed to meet certification requirements. Depending on how many prerequisite courses are completed in the master's degree program, up to one year of additional study may need to be added to complete this specialty.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Edson College of Nursing and Health Innovation.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's and master's degree in nursing from a nationally recognized, regionally accredited academic institution.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts
- a current unencumbered RN license in the state in which the student plans to do clinical practicums
- three professional letters of recommendation
- resume
- goal statement
- admission essay
- health and safety requirements: passing disposition on a background clearance and satisfactory completion of a substance screen
- proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency per the Graduate College requirement and all requirements for the Commission on Graduates of Foreign Nursing Schools.

International students who need an F1 or J1 visa first need to apply to and be accepted into a graduate degree program prior to being considered for the certificate program. International students residing in the USA on other types of visas must adhere to all Graduate College policies and procedures regarding admission to be considered for admission to this certificate program.

All students are also required to have an unencumbered Arizona RN license or an unencumbered compact state RN license as mandated by the Arizona State Board of Nursing. The RN license must remain unencumbered throughout enrollment in any nursing program.

Applicants must be board certified in a different APRN specialty.

All applicants will have an interview with program faculty prior to admission to the program.

It is preferred that applicants have at least one year of clinical experience working within the student's specialty population.

Admission examinations are not required.

Career Opportunities:

The Edson College of Nursing and Health Innovation prepares graduates for excellence upon entering the workplace. Graduates of the family psychiatric nurse practitioner certificate program have the knowledge and training to provide healthcare for patients across the lifespan in a wide variety of settings.

Career examples include:

- business owner
- community advocate
- nurse practitioner
- professor

Professional Licensure:

ASU programs that may lead to professional licensure or certification are intended to prepare students for potential licensure or certification in Arizona. Completion of an ASU program may not meet educational requirements for licensure or certification in another state. Health Care Simulation, MS (NUHCSMS)

Online Degree Search Title: Health Care Simulation, MS

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Program Description:

In the MS program in health care simulation, students learn to influence the design, operations and evaluation of educational health care simulation in academic or practice settings. Students develop evidence-based scenario design, use technology-enhanced environments replicating real patient experiences with life-like high fidelity computer manikins or simulated participants, and employ operations techniques. Through learning and working with their peers, faculty and leaders from multiple disciplines such as health care, sociology, technology, the arts and public policy, students will gain experience in creating transdisciplinary solutions.

Simulation in health care education aims to improve competencies in communication, teamwork, critical thinking, professional identity and safety. The simulated learning environment provides a psychologically safe space where you can make mistakes without risk to real patients.

This is a hybrid program with most required courses offered in an iCourse format, including both asynchronous and synchronous modalities. Some courses are offered in seven-and-a-half-week accelerated sessions. Several required courses include an immersion experience on the ASU campus for several days at the end of the semester as well as one day on campus at the beginning of the semester.

Additional Curriculum Information

Students in the RN to MS in Nursing bridge program complete 36 credit hours for this degree. In addition to the requirements listed above, these students must complete NUR 552 Dynamics of Professional Nursing I (3) and NUR 553 Dynamics of Professional Nursing II (3) before starting the MS curriculum. Proof of statistics completion with a C or better (applicants may be admitted to the program with a deficiency in statistics.)

Statistics is a required prerequisite for all MS Nursing programs.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Edson College of Nursing and Health Innovation.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned an associate or bachelor's degree in nursing from a regionally accredited institution.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in their associate degree nursing program or the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must be licensed as Registered Nurses (RN) and fulfill the admission requirements of both the Graduate College and the Edson College of Nursing and Health Innovation.

Applicants are required to submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts
- two letters of recommendation
- professional resume
- written statement
- proof of English proficiency
- proof of statistics completion with a C or better (applicants may be admitted to the program with a deficiency in statistics)

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency.

Applicants applying only with an associate degree completed will need to provide a transcript that shows at least 72 earned undergraduate credit hours, from a regionally accredited institution or equivalent, to apply to the master's program.

Students who are admitted with an associate degree will be required to complete additional coursework in their plan of study.

The 4+1 accelerated option is open to online BSN students only. It is not an option for downtown BSN students.

All students are also required to have an unencumbered Arizona RN license or an unencumbered compact state RN license as mandated by the Arizona State Board of Nursing. The RN license must remain unencumbered throughout enrollment in any nursing program.

Students residing in the following states are not eligible for enrollment in this program: Louisiana, New York, Oregon, Rhode Island, Tennessee, or Washington. For more information visit <https://admission.asu.edu/academics/authorizations>.

An interview with faculty may be required for applicants who have a minimum of a bachelor's degree or higher. Applicants who apply without a bachelor's degree will be required to interview with faculty.

Nursing (Nursing Education), MS (NUNURSEDMS)

Online Degree Search Title: Nursing (Nursing Education), MS

Campus: Downtown Phoenix, ASU@Los Angeles, Online

Program Description:

The country is experiencing a shortage of nursing faculty. This degree program, with a concentration in nursing education, can help prepare students to advance their career and achieve their goal of becoming a nurse educator in an academic or practice setting. During this program, students prepare to teach future nurses and nursing leaders. They learn about educational theory and research, curricular design and evaluation, academic and clinical assessment, testing and evaluation, and they gain and advance their skills in curriculum and course development and delivery, research and evidence-based practice, and evaluation methods.

Coursework in the MS program in nursing is delivered completely online, providing each student with a learning experience that meets their needs and future aspirations. Throughout the program, students learn the key competencies of a master's prepared nurse while gaining additional nursing education skills. Students complete direct care clinical hours and a role-focused practicum that allows the student to work with a preceptor in an area or role best suited to their career goals.

The curriculum meets the competencies outlined by the American Association of Colleges of Nursing Essentials. Courses in this program are led by experienced nursing faculty and designed with active learning strategies. Depending on their career goals, students can choose to work with a clinical educator or an academic educator during the practicum.

Additional Curriculum Information

When approved by the student's supervisory committee and the Graduate College, this program allows 30 credit hours from a previously awarded master's degree to be used for this degree. If students do not have a previously awarded master's degree, the 30 hours of coursework are made up of electives and research. From those elective and research hours, 12 credit hours are required in a substantive area of specialization and may be taken in any semester, based on availability and student interest. Twenty-four credit hours of coursework with a research focus are required, including 12 hours of dissertation credit.

Students are required to enroll in a minimum of nine credit hours per semester for years one and two of their plan of study. The plan of study can be as broad or as narrow as the student and the supervisory program committee deem necessary for the student's career goals. Students may choose from the following five substantive areas of study: aging, education, health care innovation leadership, healthy families or world health.

The program may incorporate courses from other disciplines to further refine substantive areas of study.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Edson College of Nursing and Health Innovation.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's or master's degree in nursing or a related field from a regionally accredited institution.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.50 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts
- current resume
- goal statement essay
- writing sample
- proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency.

Applicants must show completion of a current inferential statistics prerequisite course.

GRE scores are recommended, but not required.

Students are admitted once a year, to start in the fall semester.

Pediatric Nurse Practitioner (Certificate), Certificate (NUPDNPGRCT)

Online Degree Search Title: Pediatric Nurse Practitioner (Graduate Certificate)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Program Description:

This certificate program, accredited by the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education, is designed for nurses who are board-certified in a different advanced practice nursing specialty area who seek additional certification as a primary care pediatric nurse practitioner and for nurses with a doctoral degree in nursing who seek to become a pediatric nurse practitioner. It also is a pathway for a DNP degree.

The primary care pediatric nurse practitioner certificate program prepares nurses to meet the physical, psychological and social needs of infants, children, adolescents and young adults (birth to 21 years of age). Core courses, including advanced pharmacology, advanced pathophysiology, advanced health assessment and others determined by the student's unique educational-work experience gap analysis, must be completed within the previous five years to be eligible for transfer credit. Using best evidence, specialty courses focus on health promotion and the assessment and management of culturally appropriate plans of health care for well infants, children, adolescents and young adults as well as those with minor, acute and stable complex and chronic health disorders.

This program is offered in a hybrid format that requires the student to travel to campus for up to a one-week orientation at the beginning of the program and then two or three times each semester for course in-person immersions.

Focused clinical experiences are arranged for students residing in Maricopa County, Arizona. Students should expect to travel throughout Maricopa County and, in some cases, surrounding counties to complete their assigned clinical placement.

Students residing outside of Maricopa County, Arizona, are responsible for identifying the required number of clinical sites in their area of residence and for identifying preceptors and sites willing to accommodate clinical rotations, and Edson College of Nursing and Health Innovation must approve these sites before starting any clinical experience; the DNP program office does not guarantee a clinical placement site for any student outside Maricopa County. If, during the program, faculty determine the student needs additional supervision for clinical progress in the program, the student must complete clinical experiences in the Phoenix area.

Experiences with disadvantaged and multicultural populations are encouraged as are experiences in rural areas when sites are available for these experiences.

As a participating National Council for State Authorization Reciprocity Agreements member, Arizona State University is authorized to offer distance education to persons located in individual SARA states in accordance with the Council's established policies and standards. California does not participate in SARA and the California Bureau of Private Postsecondary Education does not regulate out-of-state public institutions. ASU may offer educational activities in California. There are some exceptions for specific programs at Edson College. These exceptions are noted on the ASU state authorization website: <https://admission.asu.edu/academics/authorizations> (<https://admission.asu.edu/academics/authorizations>).

Degree Requirements:

DNP 648 Management of Complex and Chronic Problems Pediatric Primary Care Practicum (5)

Additional Curriculum Information

Nurses who complete this certificate program meet the eligibility requirements to take a national pediatric nurse practitioner certification examination. In addition to completing didactic courses, students complete 13 credit hours (585 clock hours) of pediatric practicum experiences in a community setting.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Edson College of Nursing and Health Innovation.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's and master's degree in nursing from a nationally recognized, regionally accredited academic institution.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts
- documentation of a current unencumbered RN license in the state in which the student plans to do clinical practicums
- three professional letters of recommendation
- resume
- goal statement
- admission essay
- proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency per the Graduate College requirement and all requirements for the Commission on Graduates of Foreign Nursing Schools.

International students who need an F1 or J1 visa first need to apply to and be accepted into a graduate degree program prior to being considered for the certificate program. International students residing in the USA on other types of visas must adhere to all Graduate College policies and procedures regarding admission to be considered for admission to this certificate program.

All students are also required to have an unencumbered Arizona RN license or an unencumbered compact state RN license as mandated by the Arizona State Board of Nursing. The RN license must remain unencumbered throughout enrollment in any nursing program.

Applicants are required to have an in-person interview with the program faculty.

Applicants are asked to read The Essentials of Doctoral Education for Advanced Nursing Practice (2006) and then submit an admission essay. It should contain the following:

- description of career goals for the next five to 10 years and discussion about how an NP certificate from ASU will help meet these goals
- description of how meeting one of the first seven essentials (from the prescribed reading, above) will further the career goals

All Edson College of Nursing and Health Innovation students are required to complete health and safety requirements, and they must have a passing disposition on a background clearance and satisfactory completion of a substance screen with the program's identified agency.

One year of clinical experience working within the student's specialty population is preferred.

Career Opportunities:

The Edson College of Nursing and Health Innovation prepares graduates for excellence upon entering the workplace. The pediatric nurse practitioner role is well established in all urban and most rural areas of Arizona. Graduates are prepared to provide comprehensive health care for infants, children, adolescents and young adults. Careers include:

Regulatory Science (Food Safety), MS (NURGSCFSMS)

Online Degree Search Title: Regulatory Science (Food Safety), MS

Campus: Online

Program Description:

The MS program in regulatory science with a concentration in food safety online program covers contamination concerns and regulations throughout the food supply chain from growing to distributing to selling. Courses analyze food safety regulations from local, state and federal agencies, including the U.S. Food and Drug Administration. Students also gain an understanding of the ethical and legal challenges of food safety and regulation.

The food science master's degree explores all aspects of food safety including inspections, hazard analysis, safe food practices and the handling of food emergencies. Students learn how to identify food safety issues through the use of videos and simulations and write reports on their findings. The applied learning in the degree directly relates to the type of food safety problems that most frequently occur in the preparation, storage and processing of food.

This food safety master's degree is also unique in that it aligns with the content on the Certified Professional Food Manager certification exam from the National Environmental Health Association. While the degree doesn't result in certification, the program helps prepare students to take the NEHA exam.

Edson College of Nursing and Health Innovation highly recommends, but does not require, introductory chemistry (3 credits + 1 credit lab) and introductory biology (3 credits).

Students are responsible for the comprehension of the requirements of optional certification exams, credentials, and employment eligibility with specific organizations. The university cannot verify students will be eligible to test or to pass exams. Prior work experience, additional coursework, fieldwork and background checks may be necessary to be eligible to test and to acquire certifications and credentials successfully. Students should refer to the National Environmental Health Association (www.neha.org (www.neha.org)) for general information.

Attend Online:

ASU Online: ASU offers this program in an online format with multiple enrollment sessions throughout the year. Applicants may view the program description and request more information here. (<https://asuonline.asu.edu/online-degree-programs/graduate/masters-food-science/>)

Career Opportunities:

Graduates from the food safety master's degree are well suited for a variety of jobs in food safety and regulatory science. In particular, the program prepares students for local, state and federal regulatory careers in agencies such as the FDA, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, state and county health departments, and food manufacturers.

Food safety regulation is a science focused on the safe handling, distribution, selling and preparation of food. Professionals in the food safety industry conduct site inspections, assess food safety hazards, develop preventative food safety procedures, create food safety policies and more depending on the position. No matter the job, the goal in food safety and regulation positions is always to protect the consumer.

Regulatory science and food safety careers include but are not limited to:

- environmental health specialist
- facility manager
- food inspector
- food-safe chemical supplier
- quality assurance manager
- quality control manager
- registered sanitarian
- regulatory investigator

Professional Licensure:

ASU programs that may lead to professional licensure or certification are intended to prepare students for potential licensure or certification in Arizona. Completion of an ASU program may not meet educational requirements for licensure or certification in another state. Women's Health Nurse Practitioner (Certificate), Certificate (NUWHNPGRCT)

Online Degree Search Title: Women's Health Nurse Practitioner (Graduate Certificate)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Program Description:

This certificate program, accredited by the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education, is designed for nurses who are board certified in a different APRN specialty area who seek additional certification as a women's health nurse practitioner or for nurses with a doctoral degree in nursing who seek to become a women's health nurse practitioner.

The post-master's certificate as a women's health nurse practitioner prepares graduates to provide holistic, client-centered primary care for women from adolescence through older adulthood. Courses focus on the assessment, diagnosis and evidence-based management of common and complex gynecologic, sexual, reproductive, menopause-transition and post-menopause health care; uncomplicated and high-risk antepartum and postpartum care; as well as sexual and reproductive health care for men. Courses emphasize research and theories to provide the context essential to advanced nursing practice focusing on health promotion, risk assessment and disease prevention for women across the lifespan, taking into account factors that influence health care and health outcomes.

This women's health nurse practitioner certificate program is offered in a hybrid iCourse and in-person format that requires students to travel to campus for orientation and then two or three times per semester.

Focused clinical experiences are arranged for students residing in Maricopa County, Arizona. Students should expect to travel throughout Maricopa County and, in some cases, surrounding counties to complete their assigned clinical placement.

Students residing outside of Maricopa County, Arizona, are responsible for identifying the required number of clinical sites in their area of residence and for identifying preceptors and sites willing to accommodate clinical rotations, and Edson College of Nursing and Health Innovation must approve these sites before starting any clinical experience; the DNP program office does not guarantee a clinical placement site for any student outside Maricopa County. If, during the program, faculty determine the student needs additional supervision for clinical progress in the program, the student must complete clinical experiences in the Phoenix area.

Rural health and experiences with disadvantaged and multicultural populations are encouraged.

As a participating National Council for State Authorization Reciprocity Agreements member, Arizona State University is authorized to offer distance education to persons located in individual SARA states in accordance with the Council's established policies and standards. California does not participate in SARA and the California Bureau of Private Postsecondary Education does not regulate out-of-state public institutions. ASU may offer educational activities in California. There are some exceptions for specific programs at Edson College. These exceptions are noted on the ASU state authorizations website: <https://admission.asu.edu/academics/authorizations> (<https://admission.asu.edu/academics/authorizations>).

Degree Requirements:

23 credit hours.

Required Core (23 credit hours)

DNP 613 Women's Health Promotion I (3)

DNP 614 Women's Health Practicum I (3)

DNP 615 Management of Common Problems in Women's Health (3)

DNP 616 Advanced Women's Health Practicum II (5)

DNP 617 Management of Complex and Chronic Disease in Women (3)

DNP 618 Advanced Women's Health Practicum III (6)

Additional Curriculum Information

Nurses who complete this certificate meet the eligibility requirements to take the national women's health nurse practitioner certification examination. In addition to completing didactic courses, students complete 14 credit hours (630 clock hours) of practicum experiences in a community setting.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Edson College of Nursing and Health Innovation.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's and master's degree in nursing from a nationally recognized, regionally accredited academic institution.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts
- documentation of a current unencumbered RN license in the state in which the student plans to do clinical practicums
- three professional letters of recommendation
- resume
- admission essay
- proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency per the Graduate College requirement and all requirements for the Commission on Graduates of Foreign Nursing Schools.

International students who need an F1 or J1 visa first need to apply to and be accepted into a graduate degree program prior to being considered for the certificate program. International students residing in the USA on other types of visas must adhere to all Graduate College policies and procedures regarding admission to be considered for admission to this certificate program.

All students are also required to have an unencumbered Arizona RN license or an unencumbered compact state RN license as mandated by the Arizona State Board of Nursing. The RN license must remain unencumbered throughout enrollment in any nursing program.

Applicants must be board certified in a different APRN specialty.

Applicants are required to have an in-person interview with the program faculty.

Applicants are asked to submit an admission essay addressing the applicant's career goals for the next five to 10 years and how obtaining an NP certificate from Arizona State University will help them meet these goals and how meeting one of the first seven essentials from The Essentials of Doctoral Education for Advanced Nursing Practice (2006) will further their career goals.

All Edson College of Nursing and Health Innovation students are required to complete health and safety requirements, and must have a passing disposition on a background clearance and satisfactory completion of a substance screen with the program's identified agency.

One year of clinical experience working within the student's specialty population is preferred.

For U.S. Department of Education Gainful Employment Program Disclosure information, students should refer to the College of Nursing and Health Innovation website.

Career Opportunities:

The Edson College of Nursing and Health Innovation prepares graduates for excellence upon entering the workplace. Graduates of the women's health nurse practitioner certificate program have the knowledge and training to provide healthcare for patients across the lifespan in a wide variety of settings. The broad base of comprehension and clinical expertise enable graduates to effectively participate and lead within clinical, community and academic arenas.

Career examples include:

- business owner
- community advocate
- nurse practitioner

Online Degree Search Title: Community Resources and Development, PhD

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Program Description:

The PhD in community resources and development is a research-intensive doctoral degree program grounded in theory and designed to prepare graduates for research-oriented careers in many areas. The program is based on the concept of building sustainable and healthy communities as the unifying principle in the established focus areas of community studies; nonprofit leadership and management; parks, recreation and leisure; and tourism development and management.

The theoretical and methodological approaches embedded in this program serve to integrate scholarship in these areas in order for students to gain a more meaningful understanding of the impact on community life and dynamics.

The program is transdisciplinary in nature. The core faculty engaged in this program are housed in the School of Community Resources and Development. In addition, the program builds on current collaborations with faculty with related research interests from many ASU departments, schools and centers. In addition, the program builds on current collaborations with faculty with related research interests from many ASU departments, schools and centers.

Degree Requirements:

84 credit hours, a written comprehensive exam, an oral comprehensive exam, a prospectus and a dissertation.

Required Core (24 credit hours)

CRD 502 Statistical and Data Analysis (3)

CRD 555 Theoretical Perspectives in Community Development (3)

CRD 610 Sustainable Communities (3)

CRD 620 Community Research Methods (3)

CRD 683 Fieldwork (3)

advanced statistics or methods (3)

Electives or Research (18 credit hours)

Culminating Experience (12 credit hours)

CRD 799 Dissertation (12)

Additional Curricular Information

Up to 30 credit hours from a previously awarded master's degree can count toward the doctoral requirements.

All students are advised as a cohort initially by the doctoral program director. Students are required to take 24 credit hours of core coursework, 15 hours of which are with the cohort during the first year and six hours of which are with the cohort during the second year. Students are assigned an individual advisor or mentor at the end of the first year of study. A supervisory committee is also formed at the end of the first year which reflects the interests of the student and faculty.

Each student develops a plan of study in consultation with the doctoral program coordinator, advisor and supervisory committee. Students complete elective coursework, including courses from contributing disciplines, selected in consultation with their advisor to foster the transdisciplinary nature of the degree program. Students also complete at least six credit hours of CRD 792 Research and 12 credit hours of CRD 799 Dissertation. When the majority of coursework has been completed and before dissertation research is started, students must complete a written examination followed by an oral examination. These examinations must be completed within five years of admission.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Watts College of Public Service and Community Solutions.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a master's degree, in any field, from a regionally accredited institution.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts
- current and professional resume
- statement of academic and professional goals
- GRE test scores
- three letters of recommendation
- proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency.

International applicants are also required to submit TOEFL or IELTS scores and a financial guarantee statement. The minimum TOEFL requirement is 550 (PBT) or 80 (iBT). The minimum IELTS requirement is an overall band score of 6.5 (no individual band below a 6.0). The TOEFL or IELTS must have been taken within the last two years.

GRE must be taken within the past five years. Applicants are expected to meet the GRE minimum requirements of combined score of at least 300, verbal minimum of 146, quantitative minimum of 140, and writing of 3.5.

The statement of academic and professional goals should be in sufficient detail to indicate compatibility with the educational objectives and capabilities of the doctoral program (approximately three pages, single spaced). Applicants need to explain their research interests and indicate the faculty member with whom they would like to work. Students should review faculty profiles (https://scrd.asu.edu/faculty_directory (https://scrd.asu.edu/faculty_directory)) to learn their research expertise. Applicants are encouraged to contact the PhD program director prior to application submission to discuss interests and fit with the program and faculty. They are also encouraged to contact faculty with similar interests to discuss their fit with the program. Successful statements should make it clear why the applicants have chosen to do a doctorate in community resources and development and how this program will fulfill their career goals.

The recommendation letters may be a mix of academic and professional references, but each must address the applicant's capacity to successfully complete the doctoral program.

Students applying to the program are expected to have a master's degree (from an accredited institution) which included a master's degree-level research methods and statistics class or classes. If deficiencies exist in community resource and development-related coursework at the master's degree level, appropriate classes are suggested.

The doctorate in community resources and development is designed as a full-time, research-intensive program. Students are admitted once a year as a cohort and are generally expected to complete the degree in three to four years. A small number of part-time students on a longer completion time frame may be admitted when space is available. The school does not provide funding for part-time students.

Applications are reviewed by the admission committee and recommendations for admission are then made by the graduate program director to the dean of the Graduate College.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates are prepared for research-oriented careers in higher education, governmental agencies, nonprofit organizations and private-sector businesses. Career opportunities include university professor, think-tank researcher, independent scholar, consultant, foundation officer, government officer and corporate social responsibility officer.

The thesis option is a research-oriented program and is recommended for students planning to continue graduate studies beyond the master's degree. Students in the thesis option take an advanced inquiry course, and they take three credit hours of elective coursework. The thesis must be defended in an oral examination before a supervisory committee of at least three faculty members, one of whom resides in another department.

The applied project option is intended for students seeking additional knowledge and expertise relevant to professional career development. Students in the applied project option take CRD 530 as part of their core coursework and take nine credit hours of electives.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Watts College of Public Service and Community Solutions.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's or master's degree in any field from a regionally accredited institution.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts
- statement of professional and academic goals
- three letters of recommendation
- current resume
- proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency.

International applicants are also required to submit TOEFL or IELTS scores and a financial guarantee statement.

Only complete application files are reviewed or considered for admission. Applicants without undergraduate academic work in related disciplines are required to take six credit hours of deficiency coursework in addition to the master's degree requirements. Deficiency coursework may be taken in conjunction with master's degree-level classes.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates are prepared for careers in governmental agencies, nonprofit organizations and private-sector businesses. Career opportunities include:

- community services officers.

Criminal Sentencing and Sentencing Advocacy (Certificate), Certificate (PPCSAGRCT)

Online Degree Search Title: Criminal Sentencing and Sentencing Advocacy (Graduate Certificate)

Campus: Online

Program Description:

The certificate program in criminal sentencing and sentencing advocacy assumes that in order for any professional to function effectively they must have a fundamental knowledge of the respective roles sentencing professionals play during various phases of the criminal justice process.

In keeping with this viewpoint, all students are required to take courses for practice as both a presentence investigator and a sentencing advocate. Those courses are seminars in courts and sentencing, in presentence investigations and in alternatives to penal sanctions. After taking these required courses, students select an area of specialization to further their expertise as either a probation professional, mitigation specialist or victim advocate. They take these courses from a range of electives available in the School of Criminology and Criminal Justice and in the School of Social Work.

This interprofessional certificate program also provides participants with content on the relationship between mental disorder and crime and the way in which differential sentencing frameworks affect the sentencing of offenders suffering from mental disorders.

This program is highly recommended for social workers desiring to practice as mitigation specialists and for criminal justice professionals responsible for making recommendations about the appropriateness of sentencing alternatives for persons with known mental disorders.

Degree Requirements:

15 credit hours.

Required Core (9 credit hours)

CRJ 513 Seminar in Courts and Sentencing (3)

SWG 528 Presentence Investigations (3)

SWG 529 Alternatives Penal Sanctions (3)

Electives (6 credit hours)

Additional Curriculum Information

For electives, students should see the academic unit for the approved course list.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Watts College of Public Service and Community Solutions.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's or master's degree in social work, criminology, criminal justice or a related field, or if they are individuals who are currently enrolled in the master of criminal justice program.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts

Additional Curriculum Information

A maximum of 30 credit hours of coursework from a previously awarded master's degree or JD may, with approval of the supervisory committee and the Graduate College, be applied toward the doctoral plan of study.

For the theory, criminal justice systems, criminal procedures and research methods courses, students select the number of required credit hours from the list provided. Other courses may be substituted with approval of the academic unit.

The following professional development workshop courses are recommended, but not required.

- CRJ 614 Professional Development Workshop I: Professionalization
- CRJ 615 Professional Development Workshop II: Preparing to Teach Effectively
- CRJ 616 Professional Development Workshop III: Navigating the Academic Job Market in CCJ

All students must demonstrate proficiency in research design as well as quantitative and qualitative methods.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Watts College of Public Service and Community Solutions.

Applicants should hold a master's degree from an accredited institution; it may be in criminal justice, criminology or another field (e.g. sociology, political science, history, social work, public administration, psychology or philosophy). In exceptional cases, the admission committee will consider applicants who hold only a bachelor's degree.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts
- GRE scores
- two letters of recommendation
- current curriculum vitae or resume
- personal statement
- sample of the applicant's written work
- proof of English proficiency.

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency. Requirements can be found on the Admission Services website at <https://admission.asu.edu/international/graduate/english-proficiency> (<https://admission.asu.edu/international/graduate/english-proficiency>).

Official transcripts must be submitted from every university or institution in which a degree was awarded.

GRE scores must be from within the last five years.

The letters of recommendation must be from faculty members or others qualified to evaluate the applicant's academic potential for doctoral study.

The personal statement should not exceed five pages, and it should describe the applicant's prior education, relevant professional experience and career goals. The statement must explain how the doctorate in criminology and criminal justice will help the applicant attain his or her career goals. The statement should explicitly explain how the student's plans are consistent with the role and mission of the School of Criminology and Criminal Justice at ASU.

The applicant's sample of written work should be submitted electronically. The writing sample may be an article (published or unpublished), a research paper, or any other extended sample of expository skill, and the sample must be no longer than 35 pages in length. Longer writing samples should not be submitted without first consulting the graduate director. Documents should not be password protected. Acceptable file types are .rtf, .pdf, and .doc.

Students should see the unit website for application deadlines.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates of the criminology and criminal justice doctorate program find a strong job market in the public and private sectors. Employment opportunities exist in supervisory and management positions in criminal justice agencies (federal, state, and local), policymaking, and teaching and research, including:

- city, county, and state government liaison to criminal justice agencies
- court administrator

Emergency Management and Homeland Security, MA (PPEMHSMA)

Online Degree Search Title: Emergency Management and Homeland Security, MA

Campus: Downtown Phoenix, Online

Program Description:

The MA program in emergency management and homeland security is designed to assist the professional development of current or future practitioners as the next generation of leaders in these fields.

The program emphasizes a blended approach of practical knowledge and broader integrative thinking about the complex societal challenges of the 21st century. Its core values of collaboration between practitioners, faculty and students; public service; commitment to diversity; critical thinking and evidence-based assessment are all central to promoting informed and effective leadership.

One of the unique features of this program is its breadth of content coverage. The program offers the following five distinct concentration areas: emergency management, homeland security, community resilience, biosecurity and threat management, and cybersecurity policy and management. These subject area specializations underscore the program's commitment to strategic thinking about current and future challenges. Likewise, the program has a number of learning opportunities from an international perspective.

When students enroll in this program, they are encouraged to choose one of these area specializations. Students can enroll in the degree program without declaring a concentration; however, selecting a concentration is advisable because doing so assists in developing knowledge, skills and abilities pertinent to an intended career path.

Emergency Management and Homeland Security (Cybersecurity Policy and Management), MA (PPEHSCPMMA)

Online Degree Search Title: Emergency Management and Homeland Security (Cybersecurity Policy and Management), MA

Campus: Downtown Phoenix, Online

Program Description:

Cybersecurity is an important threat and vulnerability issue that cuts across multiple domains.

The cybersecurity policy and management concentration within the MA program in emergency management and homeland security provides motivated students with knowledge, skills and abilities that will enable them to assume leadership, key management and other key operational positions with public sector agencies (or related private sector organizations) with responsibilities related to managing cybersecurity hazards in the area of homeland security, emergency management, critical infrastructure protection, risk management and other related fields.

This concentration is uniquely geared toward professionals in emergency management, homeland security, critical infrastructure protection, hazard mitigation, planning and emergency preparedness who do not seek nor require highly technical training in cybersecurity (beyond a basic competency level) but, instead, have major operational responsibilities that pertain to cyber-related vulnerabilities. This program is a unique contribution: It provides education and training on cyber policy and management issues for general administrators. Further, it leverages the PLuS Alliance for course offerings.

Students serve and promote stronger and more resilient communities across public, private or nonprofit sector organizations. The program emphasizes a blended approach of practical knowledge and broader integrative thinking about the complex societal challenges of the 21st century. Latino Cultural Competency in Social Work (certificate), Certificate (PPSWGGRCL)

Online Degree Search Title: Latino Cultural Competency in Social Work (Graduate Certificate)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Program Description:

The goal of the graduate certificate in Latino cultural competency in social work is to enhance a social work professional's capacity for engaging in culturally grounded practice with Latino clients and their families.

The program provides social work students the opportunity to learn the critical, cross-cultural factors that influence a worker's competency in forming professional helping relationships with Latinos; understand the social and cultural context and theoretical principles of social work practice with Latinos; and learn the social service delivery issues involved in providing services for bilingual and limited- or non-English speaking Latino populations.

The School of Social Work offers Latino-oriented courses with an emphasis on Spanish language development for professional social workers.

Degree Requirements:

15 credit hours.

The following is required for students enrolled in the Master of Social Work program:

- completion of 480 hours of field practicum with Latino clients and communities (60% of case load to be Spanish-speaking)
- field practice consisting of six credit hours of field practicum
- six credit hours of Latino-oriented coursework
- SWG 533 Diversity and Oppression in a Social Work Context (3)

At least three credit hours are required to be taken from within the School of Social Work.

Requirements for those already working in the field of social work as a community professional social worker and community worker are as follows:

- six credit hours of independent study field practice consisting of the completion of 480 hours with Latino clients and communities (60% of client caseload to be Spanish-speaking)
- six credit hours of Latino-oriented coursework
- SWG 533 Diversity and Oppression in a Social Work Context (3)

Additional Curriculum Information

At least three credit hours of the Latino-oriented coursework are required to be taken from within the School of Social Work.

Students already working in the field of social work may petition to use their place of employment for the six credit hours of independent study field practice.

Students with a Master of Social Work or BSW degree who have completed SWG 533 in the past five years may substitute another Latino-oriented course.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Watts College of Public Service and Community Solutions.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's or master's degree from a regionally accredited institution.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts
- the School of Social Work Latino cultural competency application form and the required $50 application fee
- proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency.

International students who need an F1 or J1 visa first need to apply to and be accepted into a graduate degree program prior to being considered for the certificate program. International students residing in the USA on other types of visas must adhere to all Graduate College policies and procedures regarding admission to be considered for admission to this certificate program.

No more than two certificate courses may be completed before applying for admission to the certificate program.

Social work graduate students must have graduate status in the Watts College of Public Service and Community Solutions' School of Social Work and must demonstrate proficiency in the Spanish language.

Community professional social workers must possess a Master of Social Work, Bachelor of Social Work or related master's degree and must demonstrate proficiency in the Spanish language.

Community workers must have the equivalency of a two-year work experience in the social service field, an undergraduate degree and demonstrate proficiency in the Spanish language.

Career Opportunities:

The Latino cultural competency in social work certificate is intended for graduate social work students and current professional social workers who want to expand their employment potential by adding an expertise in professional services with Latino populations. Graduates can:

- demonstrate the ability to communicate with the growing monolingual Spanish speaking population
- demonstrate an understanding of issues affecting Latino populations
- increase their cultural competency as social workers regarding Latino populations

NLM 550 Philanthropy (3)

NLM 620 Capstone: Integrative Seminar (3)

Electives (15 credit hours)

Additional Curriculum Information

Students are required to take 18 credit hours of core coursework, of which three credit hours are a capstone course that is completed at the end of the program of study. The capstone course is integrative and case-based, allowing students to synthesize material from prior coursework. Successful completion of this course is required in place of a thesis or applied project.

Students complete 15 credit hours of related elective coursework. Students may petition for one three credit hour course not listed as an approved elective in their program of study as long as students can establish an intellectual and professional development objective that substantiates the course selection. The petition should be submitted prior to enrollment in an elective.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Watts College of Public Service and Community Solutions.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's or master's degree in any field from a regionally accredited institution.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts
- curriculum vitae or resume
- statement of educational and career goals
- three reference letters
- proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency.

International applicants are also required to submit TOEFL or IELTS scores and a financial guarantee statement.

The statement of educational and career goals should be written in sufficient detail to indicate compatibility with the educational objectives and capabilities of the school.

Reference letters should be from a combination of academic and professional references. References from friends and family members are not accepted.

Students currently pursuing the nonprofit leadership and management certificate who are interested in applying for the master's program must apply to the degree program before the completion of nine credit hours in their certificate program.

Applicants without nonprofit work experience will be required to take NLM 430 or NLM 310 for three credit hours as deficiency coursework.

Students enrolling in Master of Public Administration core courses must demonstrate minimum competency in statistics and American government. Courses taken to fulfill the competency do not count toward the total credit hours required for the degree program. Completion of prerequisite courses is not a requirement for admission but must be completed within one semester after starting the program.

Competency in statistics is met with a grade of "B" (scale is 4.00 = "A") or higher in one of the approved courses (PAF 301 or PAF 401, POS 401, PSY 230, ECN 221, QBA 221, SWU 321, STP 226 or SOC 390) within the past two years or passing a diagnostic test approved by the MPA committee. Other courses taken within the last two years may be substituted upon approval of the Master of Public Administration director.

Competency in American government is a demonstrated understanding of American government institutions and processes. Students may be required to take an undergraduate class in American government (PAF 300, PAF 340, POS 110 or POS 310) with a grade of "B" or higher. The College-Level Examination Program can also be used to demonstrate competency in American government.

Public Administration and Policy, PHD (PPPUBADPHD)

Online Degree Search Title: Public Administration and Policy, PhD

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Program Description:

The PhD in public administration and policy is a theoretically grounded research degree program designed to prepare students for a research-based career. This is a four-year, full-time degree program.

This program is designed to develop well-rounded, independent scholars who are grounded in the classic and current literatures of public administration and public policy, skilled in research methods, and ready to contribute to the field through research and teaching. As a result, graduates are poised for success as productive and active scholars, researchers and teachers.

Degree Requirements:

84 credit hours, a written comprehensive exam, an oral comprehensive exam, a prospectus and a dissertation.

Required Core (24 credit hours)

- PAF 601 Advanced Public Policy Seminar (3)
- PAF 602 Advanced Research Design for Public Policy and Management (3)
- PAF 603 Advanced Economics for Public Administration and Public Policy (3)
- PAF 604 Intellectual Foundations of Public Administration (3)
- PAF 605 Organization Theory and Behavior Seminar (3)
- PAF 609 Advanced Quantitative Methods Seminar (3)
- PAF 610 Advanced Qualitative Methods for Public Affairs Research (3)
- PAF 620 Public Administration Professional Development Workshop (3)

Electives (12 credit hours)

Research (6 credit hours)

- PAF 792 Research (6)

Culminating Experience (12 credit hours)

- PAF 799 Dissertation (12)

Additional Curriculum Information

When approved by the student's supervisory committee and the Graduate College, this program allows 30 credit hours from a previously awarded master's degree to be used for this degree.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Watts College of Public Service and Community Solutions.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a master's degree from a regionally accredited institution.

ASU's School of Public Affairs expects applicants for the doctorate to have demonstrated competency in the following subject areas at the time of application: organizational theory, public policy analysis, economics and quantitative analysis.

Applicants who have obtained a master's degree accredited by the Network of Schools of Public Policy, Affairs and Administration in public affairs, public administration or public policy are not required to complete prerequisites for admission to ASU's School of Public Affairs. In some cases, applicants from allied fields (i.e., political science, economics, sociology, business) are not required to complete prerequisites, depending upon the extent to which previous training aligns with the competencies described above.

As is the case with all applicants, the doctoral program director or advisors may require or recommend completion of courses when there is a perceived deficit, especially if the deficit relates to graduate-level quantitative analysis and economics (PAF 502 and PAF 504, respectively, or equivalent courses). However, these requirements or recommendations, if any, are not a barrier to admission.

In cases where the doctoral student applicant has graduated from a public affairs, public administration or public policy program from another nation, or from a program not accredited by NASPAA, the applicant may be admitted and required to meet prerequisites after a review by the doctoral committee and doctoral program director.

Students applying with master's degrees from programs not closely related to public affairs (e.g., engineering, modern languages, chemistry) are required to meet prerequisites equivalent to the courses required for either ASU's Master of Public Administration or Master of Public Policy.

<https://spa.asu.edu/content/graduate-programs> (<https://spa.asu.edu/content/graduate-programs>)

Prior to enrolling in any of the school's core classes, all students are expected to be familiar with the foundational competency readings related to organizational theory, public policy analysis, economics and quantitative analysis.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program and have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts of all undergraduate and graduate coursework
- completed checklist
- written statement
- current resume or curriculum vitae

- three letters of recommendation
- samples of research reports or papers
- GRE scores (verbal, quantitative, analytical)
- proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must submit TOEFL scores to be considered for admission regardless of current residency; applicants should use institution code: 4007. This is true even for those who have a master's degree from a United States university. To be considered for admission to the doctoral program in public administration and policy, the minimum score on a traditional TOEFL test is 600, the minimum score for a TOEFL iBT is 100. Applicants with scores below the minimum are not considered. More on the English proficiency requirement is available at <https://admission.asu.edu/international/graduate/english-proficiency> (<https://admission.asu.edu/international/graduate/english-proficiency>).

The written statement of educational and career goals must include a discussion of research interests.

The letters of recommendation should be primarily from faculty members. All letters should address the candidate's capacity to successfully complete the doctoral program. They should assess the student's capacity for critical and analytic thought, their ability to communicate effectively, both orally and in writing, and their commitment to completion of the program.

Only GRE test scores from within the past five years are accepted, and analytical scores are considered in admission decisions.

Admission is competitive; a limited number of well-qualified applicants are admitted each year.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates of this degree program are prepared to conduct high-level research and policy development in academic careers, public and nonprofit agencies, foundations and research institutes. This may include opportunities as a college or university professor, research scientist, research associate or researcher for another organization.

Public Administration and Policy (Urbanism), PHD (PPPAURBPHD)

Online Degree Search Title: Public Administration and Policy (Urbanism), PhD

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Program Description:

The PhD in public administration and policy is a theoretically grounded research degree program designed to prepare students for an academic career. The program is also appropriate for individuals who want to conduct high-level research and policy development in public and nonprofit agencies, foundations and research institutes. It is designed for students who seek full-time study.

The goal is to develop well-rounded, independent scholars who are grounded in the classic and current literatures of public administration and public policy, skilled in research methods, and ready to make a positive and important contribution to the field through teaching and research.

The doctoral program in public administration and policy with an urbanism concentration permits students to draw upon the extensive resources in urban affairs at ASU. As a result, these students are poised for success as productive and active scholars, researchers and teachers upon graduation.

The concentration in urbanism is a mechanism for organizing varied perspectives on urbanism into a collective body of scholarship. The study of public administration is enriched by grounding it in a comprehensive understanding of the characteristics of urban context and the dynamic forces that shape them. The concentration in urbanism leverages the varied interests in urbanism and helps emerging scholars as they attempt to compare, contrast and take stock of urbanism. Working with faculty from across a range of departments and programs at ASU, doctoral students are able to capture the creative tensions that scholarship on urbanism has inspired in order to stimulate a provocative, constructive kind of inquiry.

Public Policy (Certificate), Certificate (PPPUPGRCT)

Online Degree Search Title: Public Policy (Graduate Certificate)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Program Description:

This certificate program in public policy is designed to give students analytical techniques and conceptual frameworks for understanding policy issues as well as for identifying potential solutions and applying these skills to real-world issues.

Degree Requirements:

15 credit hours.

Required Core (9 credit hours)

PAF 505 Public Policy Analysis (3)

PAF 540 Adv Policy Analysis (3)

PAF 541 Program Evaluation (3)

Electives (6 credit hours)

Additional Curriculum Information

The electives are chosen from a list of preapproved courses and are selected with the faculty advisor. The faculty advisor directs the selection of the electives to ensure that they focus on a common theme and to see that the students' experiences in the courses align with the learning goals outlined for the certificate. For the electives, students select any two three-credit PAF courses that are 500-level. Students should note that PAF 504 is a prerequisite for PAF 505.

Students are required to maintain a minimum GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") and to have no more than one grade below a "B-" in courses taken to complete the certificate program.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Watts College of Public Service and Community Solutions.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's or master's degree, in any field, from a regionally accredited institution.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts
- statement of career and educational goals
- proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency.

Students from related fields (e.g., public administration, political science, planning, urban and metropolitan studies, sociology, and other social science fields) might be interested in this program. However, all eligible students are considered.

Students should see the program website for application deadlines and admission terms.

Career Opportunities:

Students receiving this certificate are prepared to pursue a career in a field related to public administration or public policy, particularly in the areas of participatory governance and public engagement. This may include opportunities as either a manager or policy analyst in local, state or federal agencies; nonprofit organizations; and private organizations that interface with the public sector.

Additional Curriculum Information

Students on the 51, 54 and 57 credit hour paths have an undergraduate Council on Social Work Education-accredited BSW in social work degree or BA degree in community advocacy and social policy. Path selection depends on the student's educational background. Students are to consult an academic advisor in the unit.

The 60 credit hour advanced generalist track is the digital immersion option. These students have a bachelor's or master's degree from a regionally accredited institution. Students in the 60-hour path must take foundation year coursework in restricted electives per CSWE accreditation standards.

All credit hour path criteria must be approved by the academic unit prior to selection in the iPOS. A student interested in moving to a concentration should notify the academic advisor prior to submitting their iPOS. The academic unit advises and monitors students to ensure they choose the appropriate coursework.

The number of credit hours required for restricted electives depends on the credit hour path chosen and the culminating experience. Students should see the academic unit for a complete list of approved electives.

The foundation year includes basic courses in direct practice, organizational and community change, social policy, human behavior and research. Foundation coursework is selected in consultation with the academic advisor. Students are required to complete two practicums: a foundation field placement (480 hours) and a specialization field placement (480 hours) in a different setting.

Other requirement coursework may be substituted with approval of the academic unit.

The program may be completed within four semesters (full time) or six semesters (part time).

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Watts College of Public Service and Community Solutions.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's or master's degree in a closely related field from a regionally accredited institution.

The School of Social Work requires one of the following:

- undergraduate degree with 30 credit hours in liberal arts courses at the undergraduate or graduate level
- Bachelor of Social Work from a Council on Social Work Education-accredited school of social work

- liberal arts undergraduate degree

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts of all undergraduate and graduate work
- three letters of reference
- professional resume that includes volunteer and paid work experience
- statement of educational and career goals
- signed standards of ethical and professional behavior form
- proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency.

A combination of academic and professional references is desirable. References from friends, family members or personal therapists are not accepted. At least one of the three required references must be from the applicant's Bachelor of Social Work field instructor or, if employed in a social work-related job for two or more years, from the applicant's supervisor.

Professional resume should include both work and volunteer experience in social service organizations. In order to be considered for possible admission, applicants who do not have work experience in social service organizations are required to have a minimum of 240 hours of volunteer experience in the social services over a six-month period in the five years immediately preceding application.

Guidelines for writing the statement of educational and career goals can be found at <https://socialwork.asu.edu/content/msw-application-proceduresmaterials> (<https://socialwork.asu.edu/content/msw-application-proceduresmaterials>).

Test scores from either the GRE or the Miller Analogies Test are required only if the applicant's junior and senior GPA was below a 3.20 (scale is 4.00 = "A").

Students should see the program website for application deadlines.

Part-time program

Students interested in this option must specifically apply to the part-time program and complete it in accordance with the plan developed to finish the degree in three years.

Transfer credit

Any transfer work is reviewed and approved in accordance with Graduate College policy. Transfer work must have been completed within three years of the semester and year of admission to the Master of Social Work degree program at ASU with a grade of "B" (3.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better.

Exemptions

Courses must have been completed within three years of the admit term of the Master of Social Work degree. Grades received must be an A- or better. A letter of good standing is required from the institution where students have taken the coursework. Course equivalencies from outside of ASU are reviewed by the MSW program coordinator. Courses identified as required core and culminating experiences in the breakdown of requirements cannot be substituted.

Concurrent degrees are currently unavailable for the online Master of Social Work degree program.

Students should contact the School of Social Work with any questions about the application process.

Online Degree Search Title: Social Work, PhD

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Program Description:

The purpose of the PhD program in social work is to train future social work scholars --- social work professionals engaged in research, teaching and service.

Supplementary to the coursework, this doctoral program offers students opportunities to be actively involved in both research and teaching. Students benefit from the close mentorship of the committed faculty and regular partnerships with many internal research centers and offices. Students also receive valuable opportunities to develop a teaching portfolio, positioning them to succeed in academic careers.

Degree Requirements:

84 credit hours, a written comprehensive exam, a prospectus and a dissertation.

Required Social Work Courses (12 credit hours)

Research Methods and Statistics (12 credit hours)

Directed Electives (9 credit hours)

Theory (3 credit hours)

Research (12 credit hours)

SWG 792 Research (12)

Culminating Experience (12 credit hours)

SWG 799 Dissertation (12)

Additional Curriculum Information

When approved by the student's supervisory committee and the Graduate College, this program allows 30 credit hours from a previously awarded master's degree to be used for this degree. The doctoral program requires students to take a minimum of 36 course credit hours beyond the MSW in addition to the required 24 credit hours of research and dissertation; 84 credit hours are required beyond the bachelor's degree. Students may need to take additional coursework to achieve the competency requirements set by the program or set by their graduate supervisory committees.

Students develop their plan of study in consultation with the graduate supervisory committee. Required social work courses must be 700 level and approved by the doctoral program committee. Students should see the academic unit for approved course lists and other requirements for research methods and statistics courses, electives and theory coursework.

Once the 36 minimum course credit hours are completed, students are required to register for 12 hours of SWG 792 Research before the defense of the prospectus and 12 hours of SWG 799 Dissertation after the prospectus defense. Students must be registered for at least one credit hour during the semester, including summer, when they do their dissertation proposal defense. At least one of the dissertation hours must be taken in the semester the student expects to defend the dissertation.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Watts College of Public Service and Community Solutions.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's or master's degree in social work or a closely related field from a regionally accredited institution.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts of all undergraduate and graduate work
- curriculum vitae or resume
- GRE scores
- personal statement
- three letters of reference
- required writing sample: social problem essay
- optional writing sample
- proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency.

Admission to the doctoral program in the School of Social Work is based on the following criteria:

- an MSW from an accredited school of social work, preferably with two or more years of post-degree employment in human services
- experience in social work teaching or research and other scholarly activities
- experience with diverse populations
- goodness-of-fit with program goals
- good professional standing
- undergraduate and graduate GPA
- quality and extensiveness of social work experience
- research potential and creativity as demonstrated in requested essays and references
- scores of the GRE, with emphasis on verbal and analytic scores

Though a Master of Social Work degree is preferred, exceptions may be made for students with a BSW from an accredited school of social work and a master's degree in a related field and for students from countries without accreditation.

Guidelines for writing the statement can be found at <https://socialwork.asu.edu/content/application-and-admission> (<https://socialwork.asu.edu/content/application-and-admission>) under PhD application and admission information.

Applicants have the option of submitting a sample of their written work. Examples include a referred journal article, a class paper and a professional report such as one might write in an agency setting. The writing sample should illustrate the applicant's ability to succeed in the doctoral program. Guidelines for writing the statement can be found at <https://socialwork.asu.edu/content/application-and-admission> (<https://socialwork.asu.edu/content/application-and-admission>).

All required admission materials are submitted directly to Graduate Admission Services at <https://admission.asu.edu/graduate> (<https://admission.asu.edu/graduate>). Students should contact the School of Social Work at 602-496-0800 with any questions about the application process.

Students should see the program website for application deadlines.

Program Learning Outcomes:

Program learning outcomes identify what a student will learn or be able to do upon completion of their program. This program has the following program outcomes:

- Develop an individual teaching philosophy for social work education
- Apply knowledge of research methods to an area of social work scholarship.
- Develop a research proposal in an original area of social work scholarship

Career Opportunities:

Graduates are prepared to enter careers in applied research that enhance human well-being, particularly among oppressed and vulnerable populations, and to educate the next generation of social workers.

The policy, administration and community practice concentration in the MSW program prepares professional social workers for leadership in social change. Graduates work for social justice and human rights through building sustainable systems that support peoples' social well-being, often by addressing the root causes of social problems and by reforming unjust policies. Policy, administration and community practice roles include program planning and evaluation; policy development and analysis; political advocacy and lobbying; organizational leadership, management and supervision; community development, organizing and social movement building.

Students learn skills to intervene across the macro level of society: in systems, institutions, agencies, organizations, laws, policies, programs and communities. Students complete a practicum in government, nonprofit, social service, advocacy and research agencies.

The Master of Social Work with a concentration in policy, administration and community practice is accredited by the Council on Social Work Education and certified by the Network for Social Work Management.

Students on the 51 credit hour path have an undergraduate CSWE-accredited Bachelor of Social Work degree.

Students on the 60 credit hour path have an undergraduate degree that is not directly in social work or community advocacy. Students in this path may need to take foundation coursework as part of their elective coursework to satisfy CSWE requirements. Students should see the academic advisor when selecting courses.

All credit hour path criteria must be approved by the academic unit prior to selection in the iPOS. The academic unit advises and monitors students to ensure they choose the appropriate coursework. Core course selection depends on the student's background.

Students complete a practicum and choose one of the culminating experiences above. The amount of elective coursework allowed depends on the credit hour path chosen and the culminating experience selected. Electives may be selected from offerings at the School of Social Work or from courses offered through other departments with the approval of the Master of Social Work program coordinator.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Watts College of Public Service and Community Solutions.

Applicants must have a BSW from a Council on Social Work Education-accredited program with a minimum GPA of 3.20 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last two years of work leading to the Bachelor of Social Work (junior and senior GPA). Applicants must have received their Bachelor of Social Work degree no more than six years prior to the date of admission to the Master of Social Work program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts of all undergraduate and graduate work
- three letters of reference
- professional resume that includes volunteer and paid work experience
- statement of educational and career goals
- proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency.

A combination of academic and professional references is desirable. References from friends, family members or personal therapists are not accepted. At least one of the three required references must be from the applicant's Bachelor of Social Work field instructor or, if employed in a social work-related job for two or more years, from the applicant's supervisor.

Guidelines for writing the statement can be found on the program website at <https://socialwork.asu.edu/content/msw-application-proceduresmaterials> (<https://socialwork.asu.edu/content/msw-application-proceduresmaterials>).

Applicants should see the program website for application deadlines.

Curriculum and Instruction (Early Childhood Education), MEd (TEECDMED)

Online Degree Search Title: Curriculum and Instruction (Early Childhood Education), MEd

Campus: Online

Program Description:

The MEd in curriculum and instruction with a concentration in early childhood education prepares individuals to meet the educational, social and emotional needs of children from birth through age 8 or grade 3.

This master's degree program is appropriate for students interested in learning about early childhood education research and working with infants and children and can help advance the professional development of students who already have a teaching certificate and are interested in deepening their knowledge, strengthening their skills or pursuing doctoral studies in the future.

Through online coursework and applied activities, the program equips students with specialized skills and advanced knowledge in early childhood pedagogy, community collaboration, technology, administration, policy analysis and advocacy.

Students can also choose to add in-person professional experiences to their degree program that prepare them to enter the teaching profession after graduation. Students pursuing teacher-certification complete internships and full-time teaching residencies to gain experience in two grade levels: preK and grades K-3. Faculty members and highly qualified, certified mentor teachers provide guidance and support along the way.

Graduates earn an institutional recommendation from ASU that is recognized by the Arizona Department of Education for teacher certification as Early Childhood, Birth-Age 8 or Grade 3 teachers. In order to teach in an Arizona public school, graduates must pass the appropriate Arizona educator exams: National Evaluation Series or Arizona Educator Proficiency Assessments.

Degree Requirements:

30 credit hours including the required applied project course (ECD 593).

Students in this program complete an applied project within their plan of study as a culminating experience.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's or master's degree in any field from a regionally accredited institution.

Education (Educating Multilingual Learners), MA (EEDSLMA)

Online Degree Search Title: Education (Educating Multilingual Learners), MA

Campus: Online

Program Description:

The MA in education with a concentration in educating multilingual learners prepares students to educate bilingual and multilingual learners in a variety of settings, including preK-12 schools, colleges, universities and organizations that serve and advocate for linguistically diverse populations.

Program courses are designed and led by full-time faculty. The program advances a contextualized view of multilingualism, highlights language learning processes and related pedagogies, and promotes educators' self-reflection about their potential as advocates for their students.

Students take both a practicum and a capstone course. The practicum provides students an opportunity to apply theoretical and practical information presented through coursework in schools and other learning environments that serve multilingual learners. This is a structured practical experience supervised by a faculty member with whom the student works closely. For the capstone, students identify a specific topic or problem of practice and lead a research-driven project or in-depth review of the literature.

While the program is an excellent choice for teachers seeking to improve their preparation for bilingual and multilingual learners, it does not lead to teacher certification. There is no requirement that students entering the program hold a teaching certificate or seek to obtain one.

This program is not designed to address specific requirements of any single state endorsement but may address many components for state endorsements, depending on the state's requirements.

Note: Individuals who wish to build a career in the field of English language teaching should consider the Master of Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (<https://webapp4.asu.edu/programs/t5/majorinfo/ASU00/LAENGMTESL/graduate/false>) (<https://webapp4.asu.edu/programs/t5/majorinfo/ASU00/LAENGMTESL/graduate/false>) offered through The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Degree Requirements:

30 credit hours including the required capstone course (BLE 597).

Required Core (3 credit hours)

COE 501 Introduction to Research and Evaluation in Education (3)

Concentration (24 credit hours)

Culminating Experience (3 credit hours)

BLE 597 Capstone (3)

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's or master's degree from a regionally accredited institution.

Education Sciences, MS (TEEDUSCIMS)

Online Degree Search Title: Education Sciences, MS

Campus: Tempe

Program Description:

The MS program in education sciences prepares educational research professionals to address contemporary problems in many educational settings. Students learn to use quantitative analysis and optimized research design to address important issues in education policy and practice.

Coursework in the program focuses on scientifically valid research designs, data management, data mining and quantitative data analysis --- all at intermediate to advanced levels. The accompanying research apprenticeship allows students to integrate coursework into their professional experiences, enriching their ability to understand and solve complex education challenges.

The supervised research project and internship places students in a research institute, business or agency. This combined project and internship model provides graduates with integrated, relevant experience designed to open opportunities for career advancement. Working students may be able to arrange for an existing job to serve as their internship site.

This program is ideal for individuals currently working in or interested in social science research centers, school districts, state or federal agencies, university research centers, foundations, educational testing companies and any industry that focuses on employee education and outcomes.

This MS program qualifies for the STEM OPT extension for students studying on F-1 visas.

Additional Curriculum Information

The 15-month, standards-based leadership development program begins with a three-week summer intensive that immerses the cohort in a simulated school experience during which students engage in required coursework in a hybrid format. Learning continues during the school year with a blend of web-based and face-to-face courses taken at an ASU campus, including set meetings each semester wherein students visit schools and participate in instructional rounds. All students participate in a two-semester, school-based internship that provides the opportunity to apply new learning and research in a K-12 setting. The program concludes with a two-week summer intensive during which the cohort meets together and engages with coursework in a hybrid format.

Students must be employed in a school-based position or have access to an ASU- and district-approved school placement that serves as the laboratory of practice for applying the concepts, principles and leadership approaches learned through the coursework.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's or master's degree from a regionally accredited institution and have at least two years of pre-K through grade 12 teaching experience as a teacher of record.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

Educational Leadership (Principalship), MEd (TEPRINMED)

Online Degree Search Title: Educational Leadership (Principalship), MEd

Campus: West, Online

Program Description:

The MEd program in educational leadership with a concentration in principalship is designed for educators who believe in the power of education to transform children's lives and who aspire to school leadership positions as administrators or in other leadership roles in K-12 settings.

All courses are offered remotely, and students select one of two modalities:

- ASU Sync --- This is an accelerated, 14-month program in which students attend all classes via Zoom at scheduled times, offering a live learning experience with faculty and peers. While all classes are taught remotely, students must apply and be admitted to either the ASU West or ASU Polytechnic campus.
- ASU Online --- This is a two-year program for students admitted to the online location. In this format, coursework is delivered asynchronously and can be accessed on students' own schedules.

Both options prepare students to meet Arizona requirements for principal certification and national standards for educational leadership. Students interested in certification in a state other than Arizona should contact their state department of education to determine the principal certification requirements prior to applying to the program.

Students in this program gain the skills to facilitate school-level and systemic change; create and sustain a culture of innovation, collaboration and collective excellence; successfully interpret and research school-based data to support student success; provide effective feedback in the interest of students; effectively support teachers; build a community network for all students and families; and lead schools in the pursuit of equitable and excellent educational opportunities.

Students must be employed in a school-based position or have access to an approved school placement that serves as their laboratory of practice. During the school year, students complete a two-semester, school-based internship with a certified principal who serves as a mentor for all field experiences. As part of the internship, students plan, research, implement and evaluate an action research project designed to solve a problem of practice in their placement school.

ASU Sync

Students on I-20 visas are not permitted to complete courses via Sync and should speak with an advisor about other options to complete this program.

Students seeking to use GI Bill® benefits for ASU Sync programs should contact the Pat Tillman Veterans Center regarding certain limitations.

Educational Policy and Evaluation, PHD (EDLDRSHPHD)

Online Degree Search Title: Educational Policy and Evaluation, PhD

Campus: Tempe

The GRE requirement is waived for Fall 2023 applications.

Program Description:

The PhD program in educational policy and evaluation prepares scholars to conduct rigorous, high-impact and transdisciplinary research on education policies that advance the educational conditions in preK-20 and other educational environments.

Doctoral students in the educational policy and evaluation program engage in systematic analyses of education policies and practices in a variety of settings, including schools, universities, research centers, government agencies and nongovernmental organizations.

The program emphasizes intensive training in the theory, methods and implementation of education policy with a focus on research and evaluation. Students pursue an area of specialization supported by faculty expertise.

Educational policy and evaluation students work closely with nationally and internationally recognized faculty members on collaborative and independent research projects that result in scholarly articles, policy briefs, reports and engagement in education policy. The program also provides opportunities for internships in applied settings and experiences in scholarly publishing to influence the field.

Degree Requirements:

84 credit hours, a written comprehensive exam, a prospectus and a dissertation.

Of the 84 credit hours required for the degree, 54 must be earned at ASU and 24 of the ASU credit hours must be earned in research and dissertation courses. The coursework includes classes in evaluation, policy analysis, research methods and an area of specialization. Students entering the doctoral program with a master's degree in a related discipline may count up to 30 credit hours from the master's degree toward the 84 credit hours. In addition, with program and Graduate College approval, a student may use up to 12 additional credit hours toward the doctorate if documentation is provided showing that those credit hours were not part of the master's degree.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a master's degree from a regionally accredited institution or an international equivalent as determined by Graduate Admissions.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

Elementary Education, MEd (TELEMED)

Online Degree Search Title: Elementary Education

Campus: Online

Program Description:

The MEd program in elementary education prepares students to start a career teaching grades K-8. It is designed for individuals who do not need to obtain teacher certification. The program builds on connections between educational design and decision-making and is designed to foster strong professional growth and leadership development.

All courses are offered remotely, and students select one of two modalities:

- ASU Sync offers regularly scheduled evening classes via synchronous learning over Zoom. Instructors and students are not in the same physical space but do meet at the same time, offering a live learning experience with peers and faculty. Students completing the program through ASU Sync must be admitted to the ASU Tempe campus even though classes do not meet on campus. ASU Sync students need to reside in Arizona throughout the duration of the program.
- ASU Online offers classes via asynchronous instruction. Instructors and students are not in the same physical space and do not meet at the same time, allowing students to complete coursework on their own schedules. Students completing their program through ASU Online must be admitted to the online campus.

This program can be taken in three continuous semesters, allowing students to complete the program in one year. Students can also enroll part-time over additional semesters.

Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College faculty actively engage in the educational research community, bringing new and relevant knowledge into the program. Students engage in their own research through applied project coursework, deepening their knowledge and improving their practice through research, critical evaluation and application of education concepts. The program culminates in an action research project in which students apply what they've learned to address a challenge in education.

The master's degree program does not lead to teacher certification. Students interested in certification should enroll in the Master of Education program in elementary education with a concentration in teacher certification or in the teacher certification graduate certificate program.

Online Degree Search Title: Elementary Education (Teacher Certification), MEd

Campus: Online

Program Description:

The MEd program in elementary education with a concentration in teacher certification is for those who already hold a bachelor's degree in any field and want to become licensed to teach grades K-8. The program builds on connections between educational design and decision-making and is designed to foster strong professional growth and leadership development.

All courses are offered remotely, and students select one of two modalities:

- ASU Sync offers regularly scheduled evening classes via synchronous learning over Zoom. Instructors and students are not in the same physical space but do meet at the same time, offering a live learning experience with peers and faculty. Students completing the program through ASU Sync must be admitted to the ASU Tempe campus, even though classes do not meet on campus. Students completing the program through ASU Online must be admitted to the online campus.

This program can be taken in three continuous semesters allowing students to complete the program in one year. Students can also enroll part-time over additional semesters.

Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College faculty actively engage in the educational research community, bringing new and relevant knowledge into the program. Students engage in their own research through applied project coursework, deepening their knowledge and improving their practice through research, critical evaluation and application of education concepts.

A series of professional experiences assist students in developing a thorough understanding of teaching and learning as they apply knowledge from their coursework in varied school settings. Individualized guidance through the clinical framework provides students with the support they need to become effective educators.

This program offers two routes leading to Arizona teacher certification:

- In the traditional certification route, students conduct one internship or teaching residency per semester for at least three semesters. They begin by completing an internship in a local school and then progress to a full-time teaching residency.
- The alternative certification route provides an alternative pathway to teacher certification for individuals who are currently employed full-time by a school as a teacher of record. To qualify, individuals must secure a full-time teaching position in an approved content and grade level.

The coursework is the same in both certification routes and culminates in an action research project in which students apply what they've learned to address a challenge in their classroom.

Graduates earn an institutional recommendation from ASU that is recognized by the Arizona Department of Education for teacher certification in Elementary Education, K-8. In order to teach in an Arizona public school, graduates must pass the appropriate Arizona educator exams: National Evaluation Series or Arizona Educator Proficiency Assessments.

Higher and Postsecondary Education, MEd (EDPOSTMED)

Online Degree Search Title: Higher and Postsecondary Education, MEd

Campus: Downtown Phoenix, Tempe

Program Description:

The MEd program in higher and postsecondary education is designed to facilitate the professional development of those who work in colleges and universities in administrative roles, as well as academic support and student support positions.

The program develops leaders who have a strong understanding of the theory and practice of higher education administration; possess the ability to analyze issues confronting contemporary colleges and universities; and can exercise innovative and effective decision-making.

Coursework addresses a range of practice-focused topics in the field, including the following: the history of higher education in the United States; organizational characteristics of colleges and universities; important laws and policies pertaining to administrative practice in higher education; how colleges and universities are funded; how to work successfully with diverse stakeholders in contemporary higher education; and how to collect and use data to improve decision-making.

This 30 credit-hour, 10-course program is offered on a 7.5-week calendar in fall and spring semesters (six weeks in summer). Students may enroll part time or full time.

Most courses are offered in a hybrid format with 50% of the content delivered face-to-face (weekday evenings) and 50% delivered through independent or technology-supported learning experiences and fieldwork.

This program culminates with the creation and presentation of an applied project in which students demonstrate their understanding of critical issues in higher education and how to collect and use data to improve their professional practice. The project is also designed to promote graduates' career advancement in higher and postsecondary education settings.

Instructional Design and Performance Improvement (certificate), Certificate (EDEDTGRCT)

Online Degree Search Title: Instructional Design and Performance Improvement (Graduate Certificate)

Campus: Tempe, Online

Program Description:

The graduate certificate program in instructional design and performance improvement prepares students to advance technology-based learning initiatives. Students study the creation of instructional plans and materials and combine theories in education, psychology and communication to create effective teaching solutions for adult learners.

Coursework in effective communication and leadership supports each student's professional growth, and integrating this coursework into applied projects prepares them for careers focused on optimizing learning. Students learn how to identify gaps in the performance of individuals, teams or organizations, as well as how to develop methods to close those gaps and improve performance and efficiency.

The information covered in this program does not prepare graduates to teach in a K-12 classroom, though educators with a secondary role in their district --- such as creating or conducting professional development experiences, or as a technology coordinator or trainer --- can benefit from this certificate. Students can pursue this graduate certificate while enrolled in other graduate programs at ASU.

Program Description:

The EdD program in leadership and innovation prepares scholarly practitioners and is designed for practicing educator-leaders who work in a range of settings and who want to transform and improve their practice to create better learning opportunities for students of all ages.

This three-year, cohort-based program is offered in two modalities - Hybrid (a combination of classes delivered at West campus and online) and 100-percent online - with similar coursework and structure and taught by the same faculty.

Students begin as accomplished teachers, teacher leaders, principals, superintendents, higher education professionals or leaders in other educational contexts. Through coursework, students deepen their abilities to lead change and implement innovation in their local educational organizations.

The program focuses on action research and includes required coursework abilities to reflectively and critically think about problems of practice in one of the following contexts: preK-12 change leadership; higher education change leadership; or systems, professional and reimagined change leadership.

Differentiation among these contexts and students' interests occurs within the required coursework.

Students conduct multiple cycles of inquiry throughout the program and learn research within their own workplace. They share their research at the end of each academic year through presentations in a public doctoral research conference.

Leader-scholar communities, formed at the end of the first year and consisting of five to seven students and one faculty member, meet regularly for the second and third years of the program to supply academic and personal support. Through LSCs, students support each other, under faculty guidance, in the conceptualization, implementation and study of change initiatives. Each student's LSC leader serves as the dissertation chair, along with two additional committee members who ultimately make up the doctoral committee.

Successful graduates make a commitment to continuing systematic study of their professional practice and sustaining innovation and leadership by making a positive difference in their local settings. The program aims to enable more thoughtful, intentional and informed leaders who are willing and able to implement and study continuous improvement.

The program makes a difference in the way a student thinks and works as a leader in education, for the immediate and local benefit of school children, adult learners, schools or other organizations, and local communities. It is not designed to prepare students for academic research-oriented tenure-track positions.

Degree Requirements:

90 credit hours, a written comprehensive exam, an oral comprehensive exam, a prospectus and a dissertation.

Required Core (24 credit hours)

Research (9 credit hours)

Advanced Professional Studies (6 credit hours)

Directed Field-based Study (3 credit hours)

Participation in Leader-Scholar Communities (6 credit hours)

Dissertation (12 credit hours)

Additional Curriculum Information

Students should see the academic unit for an approved course list.

Students register for required research and dissertation hours as part of the Leader-scholar Communities requirement.

When approved by the student's supervisory committee and the Graduate College, this program allows 30 credit hours from a previously awarded master's degree to be used for this degree. If students do not have a previously awarded master's degree, the 30 hours of coursework is made up of electives to reach the required 90 credit hours.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's and master's degree, in any field, from a regionally accredited institution.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts
- three letters of recommendation
- personal statement
- an academic writing sample
- curriculum vitae
- proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency.

The letters of recommendation should be from individuals who can speak to the applicant's potential for success in a graduate program and the personal statement should describe the applicant's interests and reasons for seeking this degree, along with potential problems of practice to serve as a guide for applied research in the program.

GRE scores are not required for admission.

Attend Online:

ASU Online: ASU offers this program in an online format with multiple enrollment sessions throughout the year. Applicants may view the program description and request more information here. (<https://asuonline.asu.edu/online-degree-programs/graduate/edd-leadership-and-innovation/>)

Career Opportunities:

Students gain skills in thinking critically about problems of practice, designing and conducting action research, collaborating with teams in leader-scholar communities and leading change in an educational organization. This prepares them to expand or pursue leadership positions in pre-K-12 schools and higher education institutions.

Career examples include:

- community college leader
- educational consultant
- educational professional developer

Learning Sciences, MA (EDPSYCHMA)

Online Degree Search Title: Learning Sciences, MA

Campus: Tempe

Program Description:

The MA program in learning sciences emphasizes an understanding that learning happens in many places other than traditional school settings, and doing so focuses on the power of design thinking to improve educational systems.

The curriculum's systems-level approach includes cognitive, social and contextual factors as well as the interactions among them.

Individualized guidance provides students with the support they need to succeed in today's rapidly evolving educational environment. Students work with faculty to determine whether they'll conduct an applied project or complete a research thesis study. Applied projects provide evidence of mastery of the skills and knowledge obtained through the program, while a thesis project requires students to complete a research study within an area of inquiry in the learning sciences and also has the potential for scholarly recognition.

This program does not lead to teacher certification but can prepare graduate students for doctoral credentials in education after graduation.

Accelerated Program Options:

This program allows students to obtain both a bachelor's and master's degree in as little as five years. It is offered as an accelerated bachelor's and master's degree with:

Educational Studies, BAE

Acceptance to the graduate program requires a separate application. During their junior year, eligible students are advised by their academic departments to apply.

Degree Requirements:

30 credit hours including the required applied project course (LSE 593), or 30 credit hours, a thesis and a written comprehensive exam.

Required Core (3 credit hours)

LSE 540 Theoretical Views of Learning in the Learning Sciences (3)

Electives or Research (21-24 credit hours)

Culminating Experience (3-6 credit hours)

LSE 593 Applied Project (3) or

LSE 599 Thesis (6)

Additional Curriculum Information

With advisor approval, EDP 540 may be taken in place of LSE 540 for the core requirement.

Students completing an applied project for their culminating experience take 24 credit hours of electives or research courses.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's or master's degree, in any field, from a regionally accredited institution.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee

- proof of English proficiency

Additional Admission Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency.

The letters of recommendation should be from individuals who can speak to the applicant's potential for success in a graduate program, and the personal statement should describe the applicant's interests and reason for seeking this degree.

Career Opportunities:

Students gain skills in facilitating learning using an interdisciplinary approach, drawing upon cognitive science, educational psychology, computer science, anthropology, sociology, information sciences, neurosciences, instructional design and more. This prepares students to expand or pursue a variety of educational careers tailored to their professional goals.

Graduates of the program are equipped to design effective learning and teaching systems in a broad range of settings such as museums, libraries, workplaces and schools. The program prepares graduates to become leaders in the development, integration and improvement of these systems.

Career examples include:

- educational and interactional designer
- educator in community organization
- educator in educational institution

Learning, Literacies and Technologies, PHD (EDCIPHD)

Online Degree Search Title: Learning, Literacies and Technologies, PhD

Campus: Tempe

The GRE requirement is waived for Fall 2023 applications.

Program Description:

The PhD program in learning, literacies and technologies is designed to prepare scholars who address socially significant educational programs and transform preK-20 educational programs through rigorous research, transdisciplinary engagements and educational interventions. Students rely on multiple theoretical and methodological perspectives to explore, influence and transform educational institutions and their practices.

Students begin engaging in research studies during their first semester and continue throughout the four-year program. Faculty with diverse disciplinary backgrounds collaborate with doctoral students, individually and in teams, to design powerful studies, implement them in authentic settings, collect and analyze data, write research reports, and present and publish research primarily in academic journals.

Academic study and research in the learning, literacies and technologies program focuses on the nature of curriculum learning and literacies for diverse learners in various educational contexts. Furthermore, students in this program examine how the use of technologies can support learning, design learning environments and understand the conditions under which learning occurs.

Students develop areas of specialization with faculty advisors and doctoral committee members, work at the cutting edges of educational research, and thus lead the way to innovate and explore how new technologies can assist literacies for various learning contexts.

Degree Requirements:

85 credit hours, a written comprehensive exam, an oral comprehensive exam, a prospectus and a dissertation.

Required Core (9 credit hours)

DCI 701 Transdisciplinary Seminar I (3)

DCI 702 Transdisciplinary Seminar II (3)

DCI 752 Quantitative Research Design (3) advanced research methods course (6)

Electives (37 credit hours)

Culminating Experience (12 credit hours)
DCI 799 Dissertation (12)

Additional Curriculum Information

Students entering the doctoral program with a master's degree in a related discipline may count up to 30 credit hours from the master's degree toward the 85 credit hours. In addition, with program and Graduate College approval, a student may use up to 12 additional credit hours toward the doctorate if documentation is provided showing that those credit hours were not part of the master's degree.

As part of electives, students complete seven credit hours of inquiry courses selected in consultation with the program advisor.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's and master's degree, in any field, from a regionally accredited institution.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

Physical Education, MPE (ECPHYEDMPE)

Online Degree Search Title: Physical Education, MPE

Campus: Polytechnic

Program Description:

The MPE program prepares students to successfully teach and conduct research on quality physical education programs for learners in preschool through grade 12.

This flexible program allows students to design a program of study that enhances their interests and professional specializations. There are three program options:

- The teacher certification route provides the coursework and professional experiences necessary for students to obtain certification to teach physical education in Arizona public schools after graduation. Students in this route take a total of 58 credit hours --- 33 credits for the master's degree and 25 credits for teacher certification coursework. Students complete internships prior to a full-time student teaching residency.
- The physical education endorsement route familiarizes students with the most current trends and issues in school physical education. Students can focus on numerous topics within elementary physical education, secondary physical education and adapted physical education. This option may be of interest to students who already have a teaching certificate in a different subject area and are interested in earning a physical education endorsement. Students in this route take 33 credit hours and complete the coursework required for the Physical Education PreK-12 endorsement through the Arizona Department of Education.
- The pedagogy research route is appropriate for students interested in learning more about research on teaching in physical education and other related physical activity settings. This track may be of interest to students who already have a teaching certificate in physical education and are interested in pursuing doctoral studies in the future. Students in this route take 33 credit hours.

Students in all three options learn about designing, implementing and assessing comprehensive school physical activity programs. This type of programming reflects current global trends in promoting physical activity for children, youth, school staff and families in communities surrounding school campuses.

Graduates from the teaching certification route earn an institutional recommendation from ASU for Arizona teacher certification in Secondary Education, 6--12, along with a physical education endorsement, grades PreK--12, from the Arizona Department of Education. In addition, teacher candidates must pass the appropriate Arizona educator subject knowledge exam, as well as the professional knowledge exam offered through the National Evaluation Series or Arizona Educator Proficiency Assessments.

Degree Requirements:

33 credit hours including the required applied project course (PPE 593) and a written comprehensive exam.

The Master of Physical Education degree program has three tracks.

Physical Education K-12 Teaching Track: (33 credit hours)

required core (24 credit hours)

electives (6 credit hours)

applied project (3 credit hours)

Physical Education Pedagogy Research Track: (33 credit hours)

*additional courses are required for certification

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's or master's degree in any field from a regionally accredited institution.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts
- three letters of recommendation
- personal statement
- resume
- IVP Fingerprint Clearance Card issued by the State of Arizona
- proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency. The letters of recommendation should be from individuals who can speak to the applicant's qualifications and potential for success in a graduate program.

The personal statement should describe the applicant's interests and reason for seeking this degree.

GRE scores are not required for admission.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates of Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College are highly sought-out educators in public, charter and private education institutions. Students gain skills in teaching, conducting research and collaborating in teams --- all of which prepare them for success in educational careers focused on physical activity, health and wellness.

Career examples include:

- coach
- educator in community organizations

Secondary Education, MEd (TESECEMED)

Online Degree Search Title: Secondary Education, MEd

Campus: Online

Program Description:

The MEd program in secondary education prepares students to start a career teaching grades 6-12. It is designed for individuals who do not need to obtain teacher certification. The program builds on connections between educational design and decision-making and is designed to foster strong professional growth and leadership development.

All courses are offered remotely, and students select one of two modalities:

- ASU Sync offers regularly scheduled evening classes via synchronous learning over Zoom. Instructors and students are not in the same physical space but do meet at the same time, offering a live learning experience with peers and faculty. Students completing the program through ASU Sync must be admitted to the ASU Tempe campus, although classes do not meet on campus. ASU Sync students need to reside in Arizona throughout the duration of the program.

- ASU Online offers classes via asynchronous instruction. Instructors and students are not in the same physical space and do not meet at the same time, allowing students to complete coursework on their own schedules. Students completing their program through ASU Online must be admitted to the online campus.

This program can be taken in three continuous semesters allowing students to complete the program in one year. Students can also enroll part-time over additional semesters.

Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College faculty actively engage in the educational research community, bringing new and relevant knowledge into the program. Students engage in their own research through applied project coursework, deepening their knowledge and improving their practice through research, critical evaluation and application of education concepts.

The program culminates in an applied action research project in which students apply what they've learned to address a challenge in education.

The master's degree does not lead to teacher certification. Students interested in certification should enroll in the Master of Education program in secondary education with a concentration in teacher certification or the teacher certification graduate certificate program.

ASU Sync

Students on I-20 visas are not permitted to complete courses via Sync and should speak with an advisor about other options to complete this program.

Students seeking to use GI Bill® benefits for ASU Sync programs should contact the Pat Tillman Veterans Center regarding certain limitations.

Secondary Education (Teacher Certification), MEd (TESCERTMED)

Online Degree Search Title: Secondary Education (Teacher Certification), MEd

Campus: Online

Program Description:

The MEd program in secondary education with a concentration in teacher certification is for those who already have a bachelor's degree in any field and want to become licensed to teach grades 7-12. The program builds on connections between educational design and decision-making and is designed to foster strong professional growth and leadership development.

All courses are offered remotely, and students select one of two modalities:

- ASU Sync offers regularly scheduled evening classes via synchronous learning over Zoom. Instructors and students are not in the same physical space but do meet at the same time, offering a live learning experience with peers and faculty. Students completing the program through ASU Sync must be admitted to the ASU Tempe campus, even though classes do not meet on campus. ASU Sync students need to reside in Arizona throughout the duration of the program.
- ASU Online offers classes via asynchronous instruction. Instructors and students are not in the same physical space and do not meet at the same time, allowing students to complete coursework on their own schedules. Students completing their program through ASU Online must be admitted to the online campus.

This program can be taken in three continuous semesters allowing students to complete the program in one year. Students can also enroll part-time over additional semesters.

Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College faculty actively engage in the educational research community, bringing new and relevant knowledge into the program. Students engage in their own research through applied project coursework, deepening their knowledge and improving their practice through research, critical evaluation and application of education concepts.

A series of professional experiences assist students in developing a thorough understanding of teaching and learning as they apply knowledge from their coursework in varied school settings. Individualized guidance through the clinical framework provides students with the support they need to become effective educators.

This program offers two routes leading to Arizona teacher certification:

- In the traditional certification route, students conduct one internship or teaching residency per semester, for at least three semesters. Students begin by completing an internship in a local school and then progress to a full-time teaching residency.
- The alternative certification route provides an alternative pathway to teacher certification for individuals who are currently employed full time by a school as a teacher of record. To qualify, individuals must secure a full-time teaching position in an approved content and grade level.

The coursework is the same in both certification routes and culminates in an applied action research project in which students apply what they've learned to address a challenge in their classroom.

Graduates earn an institutional recommendation from ASU that is recognized by the Arizona Department of Education for teacher certification in Secondary Education, 6-12. To be eligible for secondary certification in Arizona, students must:

pass the appropriate Arizona educator subject knowledge exam, as well as the professional knowledge exam offered through the National Evaluation Series or Arizona Educator Proficiency Assessments.

OR • hold a conferred bachelor's or master's degree with the content area listed in the degree title, and receive a passing score on the professional knowledge exam offered through the National Evaluation Series or Arizona Educator Proficiency Assessments.

SPE 593 Applied Project (3)

Additional Curriculum Information

For the teacher certification concentration requirements, students complete six or eight credit hours from Internship and Student Teaching. For traditional and alternative certification in special education, at least two credit hours must be SPE internship, and at least two credit hours must be SPE student teaching for one certification.

Students seeking dual certification in elementary and special education must complete both an EED and SPE student teaching placement, which extends the teaching certification requirement by two for a total of eight credit hours. Students switching from Alternative Certification may substitute Apprentice Teaching for Student Teaching with permission from the program.

The dual certification option additionally requires other requirements courses EED 529 and EED 534 and does not have an elective.

Students in one of the single certification program options complete a three credit hour elective and should see the academic unit for the current list of possible elective coursework.

Students wanting to switch certification option mid-program should reach out to the academic unit for appropriate advisement.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's or master's degree in any field from a regionally accredited institution.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts
- three letters of recommendation
- personal statement
- resume
- proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency.

The letters of recommendation should be from individuals who can speak to the applicant's potential for success in a graduate program.

The personal statement should describe the applicant's interests and reason for seeking this degree.

Teacher Certification (Certificate), Certificate (TETEACGRCT)

Online Degree Search Title: Teacher Certification (Graduate Certificate)

Campus: Online

Program Description:

The graduate certificate in teacher certification is a flexible, alternative certification program designed for students who want to obtain teaching licensure in a compressed time frame while working in a classroom.

Through online courses, video-based teaching observations and supportive coaching, the certificate qualifies as a pathway to Arizona teacher certification in elementary education or secondary education. Coursework may be completed over the span of two or three semesters, depending on start date.

This program requires students to be employed as a full-time teacher of record aligned with their certification area (elementary or secondary) before enrolling in the program.

Students in this program can choose to transfer credits to a Master of Education in elementary education or a Master of Education in secondary education within three years of earning the graduate certificate.

Graduates earn an institutional recommendation for Elementary Education, K-8 or Secondary Education, 6-12 through the Arizona Department of Education.

To be eligible for secondary education certification in Arizona, students must:

pass the appropriate Arizona educator subject knowledge exam as well as the professional knowledge exam offered through the National Evaluation Series or Arizona Educator Proficiency Assessments.

OR • hold a conferred bachelor's or master's degree with the content area listed in the degree title and receive a passing score on the professional knowledge exam offered through the National Evaluation Series or Arizona Educator Proficiency Assessments.

Admission Requirements:

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's or master's degree in any field from a regionally accredited institution.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:

- graduate admission application and application fee
- official transcripts
- professional resume
- personal statement
- proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information

An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency. The following are accepted to meet this requirement:

- TOEFL: Applicants must have a score of at least 90 on the internet-based test (iBT), with scores on the speaking and writing portions in the high fair-good range (22-30). ASU's institutional code is 4007. Only electronic copies of scores are accepted.
- IELTS: Applicants must have an overall band score of at least 5 with speaking and writing portions needing to be at least 6.5 (6 = Competent User, 7 = Good User). No institutional code is needed.

The personal statement should describe the personal and professional goals that motivated applicant to apply to the graduate certificate, and explain what led the applicant to this career path and how they will excel as an educator. The admission committee pays particular attention to the quality of writing and ideas expressed in the personal statement. The statement should be prepared in an MS Word (.doc), Rich Text (.rtf), Portable Document Format (.pdf), or Text (.txt) file format.

The professional resume should be one to two pages and include relevant personal, professional, educational and community activities. The resume should be prepared in an MS Word (.doc), Rich Text (.rtf), Portable Document Format (.pdf), or Text (.txt) file format.

Fingerprint clearance is required for enrollment in the first term of placement. A copy of the applicant's IVP fingerprint clearance card (front and back) should be included or a copy of the Arizona DPS fingerprint card application if the IVP card has not yet been acquired at the time of program application. Students should visit the DPS site for information on applying for and receiving an IVP fingerprint clearance card. For out-of-state students, confirmation of fingerprint clearance or a background check in the host state is equivalent to IVP fingerprint clearance.

Aging Minor (ASALDMIN)

Campus: West

Description:

People are living longer. While this represents one of the crowning achievements of the last century, it is also a significant challenge. Longer lives must be planned for. ASU's minor program in aging offers students the opportunity to create positive differences in the lives of older adults.

This minor program helps students develop the tools and mindset to anticipate challenges in existing social structures at every level as the proportion of retired adults increases faster than that of persons in the workforce. Students learn to develop solutions in areas of personal finance, transportation, increased demands for health care, assisted-living options, and recreation needs for an aging population.

Program Requirements:

The minor in aging consists of 18 credit hours, including 12 credit hours of upper-division coursework. At least six upper-division credit hours must be completed through coursework in the New College of Interdisciplinary Arts and Science. All courses used to fulfill the requirements of this minor must be passed with a "C" (2.00) or better.

Introductory Coursework (choose two) -- 6 credit hours

- ASB 102: Introduction to Cultural Anthropology (SB & G) (3)

Anthropology Minor (LAASBMIN)

Campus: Tempe, Online

Description:

Coursework in anthropology complements many majors and provides critical thinking skills beneficial in any career field that requires understanding human behavior and its motivations, including medicine, marketing, business, consulting and human resources.

A minor in anthropology completes the academic experience by focusing on the lessons and people that make human societies so interesting and challenging to understand, both in the past and in modern times.

A focus in evolutionary anthropology is perfect for a premedical track in which a broad evolutionary perspective is important for understanding disease processes. A focus in sociocultural anthropology provides understanding of human interaction and how social groups function.

Anthropological training provides a competitive advantage in the workforce as students learn how to problem-solve creatively and better understand themselves and others.

Program Requirements:

The anthropology minor requires a minimum of 18 credit hours, at least 12 of which must be upper division. Only courses completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) can be used to fulfill minor requirements.

The minor in anthropology is also available in an online format to complement the studies of ASU Online students.

Required Introductory Courses (choose two) -- 6 credit hours

ASB 102: Introduction to Cultural Anthropology (SB & G) (3)

ASB 222: Buried Cities and Lost Tribes ((HU or SB) & G & H) or ASB 223: Aztecs, Incas and Mayas ((HU or SB) & G & H) (3)

ASM 104: Bones, Stones, and Human Evolution (SB or SG) (4)

Upper-Division Subfield Courses -- 12 credit hours

Students choose 12 upper-division credit hours from the subfields of archaeology, evolutionary anthropology and sociocultural anthropology (including linguistics). The particular required introductory courses selected may limit the courses available for use as subfield courses. At least two of the three subfields must be represented. (12)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BA in anthropology; BS in anthropology

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Attend Online:

ASU Online: ASU offers this program in an online format with multiple enrollment sessions throughout the year. Applicants may view the program description and request more information here. (<https://asuonline.asu.edu/online-degree-programs/minors/>)

Career Opportunities:

The demand in the job market for people with an anthropology background is stimulated by a growing need for researchers and analysts with keen thinking skills who can manage, evaluate and interpret large amounts of data. As the many spheres of human interaction expand globally, people trained in anthropology are increasingly sought for their broad, holistic knowledge and perspectives, which are the hallmarks of anthropology.

Some career opportunities include:

- acting as legal advocates in international cases
- analyzing and proposing policies
- conducting postgraduate academic research
- consulting for private and public organizations
- curating cultural resources
- directing nonprofit organizations
- directing programs in the private or public sector
- managing culture or heritage resources in private or public sectors
- modeling infectious diseases
- planning communities
- teaching

Applied Biological Sciences Minor (TSABSMIN)

Campus: Polytechnic

Description:

The applied biological sciences minor is a rigorous and practical program that can help students understand the interrelationships between evolution, natural history and the conservation of plants and animals.

Consistent with a polytechnic vision, this minor involves extensive student interaction with faculty through experience-based learning activities, including:
Academic Catalog Archive 2022-2023

- faculty-guided research and service-learning projects
- field trips
- internships
- laboratories

Mastery of fundamental biological principles is emphasized through quality learning in the classroom and hands-on activities in laboratories and in outdoor settings that include the Sonoran Desert, surrounding ecosystems and the landscape of the greater Phoenix area.

Program Requirements:

The applied biological sciences minor consists of 23 credit hours. Students must complete 15 credit hours in courses offered by the College of Integrative Sciences and Arts.

Required Courses -- 11 credit hours

ABS 270: Sustainable Biological Systems (3)

BIO 181: General Biology I (SQ) (4)

BIO 182: General Biology II (SG) (4)

Electives -- 12 credit hours

ABS Elective (3)

ABS Upper Division Elective (9)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

Incompatible Majors: All applied biological sciences, biological sciences or biology majors at ASU

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and the minor.

Career Opportunities:

Minor programs allow students to develop additional competencies that complement the marketable knowledge and skills they acquire in their majors.

Applied Computing Minor (ASACOMIN)

Campus: West

Description:

The minor in applied computing combines technical computing skills with an understanding of the impact of computer science in real-world contexts.

Coursework in the applied computing minor provides a depth of knowledge in databases, networks and systems and gives students from other disciplines a computational component to their major field of study.

Computational and problem-solving skills are in demand in a multitude of career fields including cybersecurity, web administration, business, government, education, science, medicine and telecommunications.

The program is offered by the School of Mathematical and Natural Sciences.

Program Requirements:

The minor in applied computing consists of 15 credit hours. At least nine credit hours must be upper division. Six upper-division credit hours must be taken from classes offered by the School of Mathematical and Natural Sciences. All courses used to satisfy requirements for the minor must be passed with a "C" (2.00) or better.

Core Requirements -- 15 credit hours

ACO 201: Data Structures and Algorithms (CS) (3)

ACO 240: Introduction to Programming Languages (3)

ACO 320: Database Systems (3)

ACO 330: Computer Networks (3)

ACO 350: Systems Programming (CS) (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BS in applied computing; BS in applied computing (cybersecurity); BS in computational forensics

Other Enrollment Requirements: Students must complete ACO 102, MAT 210, and MAT 243/300 with a C or better as prerequisites to coursework in the minor.

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Career Opportunities:

The applied computing curriculum provides a solid background for employment as:

- computer network administrator
- computer network technician
- computer programmer
- computer systems analyst
- database administrator
- information security analyst
- information technology manager
- software developer
- software engineer
- web developer

Applied Ethics Minor (ASAPETHMIN)

Campus: West, Online

Description:

Students pursuing the applied ethics minor have the opportunity to develop their critical thinking, reading and writing capacities while exploring philosophy and ethical theory. They also have the opportunity to do so in a manner that explicitly complements their major by focusing their minor coursework on ethical concepts that are discipline-specific. This program provides students an opportunity to gain a humanistic perspective on a nonhumanities field of study, such as health sciences, business and computer science, thereby adding nuance and depth to their educational experience.

Program Requirements:

The minor consists of 18 credit hours, and a minimum of 12 credit hours must be upper division. At least six upper-division hours must be taken in the School of Humanities, Arts and Cultural Studies. Program requirements include three credit hours of required courses and fifteen credit hours of electives. Students may complete their fifteen credit hours of electives from within one of the recommended tracks or from multiple areas. All courses must be completed with a minimum grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better.

Required -- 3 credit hours

IAS 406 / PHI 406 / FOR 406: Moral Dilemmas (L or HU) (3)

Applied Ethics Electives -- 15 credit hours

Complete five courses (15 credit hours) from within one track area or from multiple areas to meet the requirement. (15)

Applied Mathematics Minor (ASAPMMIN)

Campus: West

Description:

Mathematical modeling is a fundamental tool of modern science and engineering in which a firm grasp of the underlying processes in a system is synthesized into quantitative predictions. A minor in applied mathematics provides students the mathematical language required to analyze existing models and to produce new models for new questions.

The foundational tools in this applied mathematics minor are calculus, differential equations and linear algebra. When combined, these concepts provide a powerful new lexicon that unlocks the majority of models throughout science and engineering.

Upper-level electives grant students in the applied mathematics minor the opportunity to focus in specialty areas such as the study of chaos, mathematical biology, partial differential equations or optimization. Expertise in these areas is becoming increasingly important for students who expect to participate in careers requiring analysis or modeling of real-world situations.

Program Requirements:

The minor in applied mathematics consists of 20 credit hours, of which nine must be upper division. A minimum of six credit hours must be taken through courses offered by the School of Mathematical and Natural Sciences. All courses used to satisfy requirements for the minor must be passed with a "C" (2.00) or better.

Required -- 14 credit hours

MAT 271: Calculus with Analytic Geometry II (MA) (4)
MAT 272: Calculus with Analytic Geometry III (MA) (4)
MAT 275: Modern Differential Equations (MA) (3)
MAT 343: Applied Linear Algebra (3)

Electives -- 6 credit hours

MAT 300: Mathematical Structures (L) (3)
MAT 350: Techniques and Applications of Applied Mathematics (3)
MAT 371: Advanced Calculus I (3)
MAT 421: Applied Computational Methods (CS) (3)
MAT 451: Mathematical Modeling (CS) (3)
MAT 494: Special Topics (1-4)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BS in applied mathematics; BA or BS in mathematics; BS in applied mathematics for the life and social sciences

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Career Opportunities:

Career opportunities for a student with a minor in applied mathematics include:

- bioinformatics scientist
- business intelligence analyst
- clinical data manager
- mathematician, statistician, or biostatistician
- molecular and cellular biologist
- natural science manager
 - secondary school teacher
- water resource specialist

Applied Mathematics Minor (LSAPMMIN)

Campus: Polytechnic

Description:

The minor in applied mathematics in the College of Integrative Sciences and Arts enables students to understand and apply mathematics most commonly used in the fields of business, economics, engineering, physics, computer sciences, life sciences, social sciences and sustainability. The minor is recommended for students who plan to major in these diverse fields, are preparing for further graduate study or who wish for increased employment options.

The coursework explores the study of advanced applied mathematical topics with an emphasis on applied sciences. Students with a minor in applied mathematics learn to use theories and techniques, such as mathematical modeling, computational methods and statistics to resolve practical, real-world problems.

Program Requirements:

The applied mathematics minor consists of 21 credit hours, of which 12 must be upper division. At least 12 credit hours of MAT courses must be offered by the College of Integrative Sciences and Arts, of which at least six credit hours must upper division.

A minimum of 15 credit hours of the minor must be earned at ASU.

Required Courses -- 12 credit hours

MAT 266: Calculus for Engineers II (MA) or MAT 271: Calculus with Analytic Geometry II (MA) (3-4)

MAT 267: Calculus for Engineers III (MA) or MAT 272: Calculus with Analytic Geometry III (MA) (3-4)

MAT 275: Modern Differential Equations (MA) (3)

MAT 343: Applied Linear Algebra (3)

Electives (choose three courses) -- 9 credit hours

MAT 300: Mathematical Structures (L) (3)

MAT 310: Introduction to Geometry (3)

MAT 495: Undergraduate Research or MAT 499: Individualized Instruction (3-4)

PHY 302: Mathematical Methods in Physics II (3)

STP 420: Introductory Applied Statistics (CS) (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

Incompatible Majors: BA in applied mathematics

Other Enrollment Requirements: MAT 265 or 270 with a "C" or better.

The minor in applied mathematics is open to all ASU undergraduate majors. Students should consult an advisor in the department of their major to determine if the minor is consistent with their educational goals and to be recognized in their particular major.

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and the minor.

Arabic Studies Minor (LAARBMIN)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The minor program in Arabic studies provides students with instruction in Modern Standard Arabic as well as Arab culture and literature. Students completing the prescribed coursework are expected to be able to communicate effectively in Arabic and interact with native speakers of the language as well as reading authentic material in Arabic and writing paragraphs in Modern Standard Arabic.

Literature courses expand students' knowledge in Arabic, the Middle East and Islamic culture and civilization. Students of all academic disciplines doing research or seeking employment in areas related to the Middle East or other parts of the Arab world will find the minor in Arabic highly beneficial.

Students are encouraged to participate in a study abroad program to enhance their education and overall minor experience. Students should visit <https://goglobal.asu.edu/> (<https://goglobal.asu.edu/>) for more information.

Program Requirements:

The minor in Arabic studies requires 28 credit hours of courses detailed below. A minimum grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required in each course. Course substitutions are allowed for heritage and advanced speakers of the language.

Required Courses -- 25 credit hours

Art History Minor (FAARTHMIN)

Campus: Tempe, Online

Description:

The art history minor is designed for students who are interested in a broad introduction to the study of the history of art. In giving students substantial chronological exposure to the history of art from diverse cultures, the minor program strengthens their academic preparation. Students are able to select courses based on their individual interests.

A minor in art history, especially in conjunction with a major in another field, enhances opportunities for future graduate study.

Program Requirements:

The School of Art offers a minor in art history consisting of 18 credit hours of coursework, including 12 credit hours of upper-division electives. A minimum grade of "C" (2.00) is required in all courses for the minor. For those pursuing a minor, a minimum overall GPA of "C" (2.00) is required. Courses may not be double counted in a major and the minor, and a minimum of 12 credit hours of resident credit at ASU are required. ARS 100 and ARS 300 may not be used toward an art history minor if the student has credit in ARS 101 and ARS 102. If a student has completed ARS 100 or ARS 300, then they must complete ARS 201 and ARS 202 instead of ARS 101 and 102.

Core Courses -- 6 credit hours

ARS 101: Art from Prehistory Through Middle Ages (HU & H) (3)

ARS 102: Art from Renaissance to Modernism (HU & H) (3)

Art History Upper Division Courses -- 12 credit hours

ARS Upper Division Elective (12)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

Incompatible Majors: BA in art (art history)

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

Incompatible Majors: BA in Asian languages (Chinese); BA in Asian languages (Chinese) --- Chinese flagship; BA in business (Chinese language and culture)

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Students who wish to add a minor in Asian Languages with a focus in Chinese to the bachelor's degree program they are pursuing may do so by contacting the School of International Letters and Cultures advising office.

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Career Opportunities:

Minor programs allow students to develop additional competencies that complement the marketable knowledge and skills they acquire in their majors.

A minor in Chinese studies helps students with communication and cultural competency skills as they pursue careers in political analysis, education, tourism and hospitality, the military and sociology or marketing.

Asian Languages (Japanese) Minor (LAJPNMIN)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

Students pursuing the minor in Asian languages with a focus on Japanese gain an understanding of the language, literature and cultures of Japan.

There are opportunities to partake in study abroad programs, which can serve to enhance a student's minor experience and education. Students should go to <https://goglobal.asu.edu/> (<https://goglobal.asu.edu/>) for more information.

Program Requirements:

The minor in Asian languages (Japanese) consists of 18 credit hours, of which 12 credit hours must be upper division.

Course substitutions are allowed for heritage and advanced speakers of the language.

Required Courses -- 9 credit hours

JPN 301: Third-Year Japanese I (G) (3)

JPN 302: Third-Year Japanese II (G) (3)

JPN 333: Japanese Civilization from the Ice Age to Last Thursday (3)

Elective Courses -- 9 credit hours

JPN 309: Japanese Oral Communication I (<https://webapp4.asu.edu/catalog/courselist?s=JPN&l=200-299&t=2227&hon=F>) > JPN 2 Elective (6)

Notes: JPN 201 (5 credit hours) and JPN 202 (5 credit hours) or JPN 210 (8 credit hours) are prerequisites to JPN 300-level language courses. A maximum of six credit hours of the JPN 200-level electives or prerequisite courses may be applied to the Japanese minor. Any remaining credit hours from the JPN 200-level courses will be applied to the 120 credit hours minimum for graduation.

Asian Pacific American Studies Minor (LAAPAMIN)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The Asian Pacific American studies minor program prepares students to address issues of justice, equity and access at the intersections of citizenship, race and ethnicity, gender and sexuality, class and culture and to identify actions and solutions based in community experiences and community-based research across multiple disciplines. Students have the opportunity to work with a dedicated faculty committed to community-engaged research and student-centered learning.

The program educates students in social justice, the global causes and impacts of Asian and Pacific Islander migration, relational and comparative racial formations, and ethnic studies movements that have made and continue to make a difference in society for all people. The interdisciplinary faculty comprises expertise in critical ethnic studies, diaspora and globalization, U.S imperialism and settler colonialism, social networks, immigration, interracial and interethnic relations, and the health and well-being of Asian Pacific American families and communities. The faculty listing is on the Asian Pacific American studies website: <https://sst.asu.edu/apas-faculty?dept=95886&id=1> (<https://sst.asu.edu/apas-faculty?dept=95886&id=1>).

The Asian Pacific American studies program is housed in ASU's interdisciplinary School of Social Transformation, the only school of its kind in the United States.

Program Requirements:

The minor requires completion of 18 credit hours. At least 12 credit hours must be completed at the upper-division level and a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required for all courses.

Required Core Courses -- 6 credit hours

- APA 200: Introduction to Asian Pacific American Studies ((HU or SB) & C) (3)
- APA 360: Asian Pacific American Experience ((HU or SB) & C) (3)

Electives (choose four) -- 12 credit hours

- APA 210: Introduction to Ethnic Studies in the U.S. (C) (3)
- APA 310: Asian Pacific American Arts and Cultures (HU & C) (3)
- APA 315: Asian Pacific American Literature (HU & C) (3)
- APA 330: Asian Pacific American Genders and Sexualities ((L or SB) & C) (3)
- APA 340: Asian Pacific Americans and Media (HU & C) (3)
- APA 345: Asian Pacific Americans and Film (HU & C & H) (3)
- APA 360: Asian Pacific American Experience ((HU or SB) & C) (3)
- APA 450: Asian Pacific American Contemporary Issues (SB & C) (3)

APA 484: Internship (3)

APA 499: Individualized Instruction (3)

APA 360 Asian Pacific American Experience is required for the core. The course may be repeated for APA elective credit if taken with different topic titles.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BA in Asian Pacific American studies

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Astronomy Minor (LAASTMIN)

Campus: Tempe, Online

Description:

The astronomy minor is designed for students interested in developing a basic understanding of astronomy and astrophysics and analyzing issues through a scientific viewpoint.

Program Requirements:

The minor in astronomy consists of a minimum of 23 credit hours, of which at least 12 credit hours must be upper division. All courses must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better.

Required Courses -- 14 credit hours

AST 111: Introduction to Solar Systems Astronomy (SQ) (4)

AST 112: Introduction to Stars, Galaxies, and Cosmology (SQ) (4)

AST 321: Introduction to Planetary and Stellar Astrophysics (3)

AST 322: Introduction to Galactic and Extragalactic Astrophysics (3)

Electives -- 9 credit hours

Nine upper-division credit hours of electives are chosen in consultation with an academic advisor in the School of Earth and Space Exploration.

AST OR MAT OR PHY OR SES Upper Division Elective (9)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatibles Majors: BS in earth and space exploration (astrophysics); BA in physics; BS in physics; BS in astronomical and planetary sciences

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Astrophysics Minor (LAASTPHMIN)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The astrophysics minor is designed for students interested in developing a background in the theoretical modeling and observational techniques of galactic and stellar astronomy, extragalactic astronomy and cosmology.

Students completing the minor are able to think critically about scientific problems by reducing complex problems to their most important attributes and are able to design experiments, observations and theoretical models that address those attributes.

Students pursuing an astrophysics minor are expected to have a strong background in physics and mathematics.

Program Requirements:

The minor in astrophysics consists of a minimum of 20 credit hours. At least 12 credit hours must be upper division. Students complete 12 credit hours of required coursework and select one of three eight-credit hour options to complete the minor. All courses must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher.

Required Courses -- 12 credit hours

AST 321: Introduction to Planetary and Stellar Astrophysics (3)
AST 322: Introduction to Galactic and Extragalactic Astrophysics (3)
AST 421: Astrophysics I (3)
AST 422: Astrophysics II (3)

Electives Options -- 8 credit hours

Choose one of the following options for the additional eight credit hours. (8)

Option 1

SES 121: Earth, Solar System and Universe (SQ) (3)
SES 123: Earth, Solar System and Universe Laboratory (SQ) (1)
SES 126: Exploration of the Universe (3)
SES 128: Exploration of the Universe Lab (1)

Option 2

AST 111: Introduction to Solar Systems Astronomy (SQ) (4)

AST 112: Introduction to Stars, Galaxies, and Cosmology (SQ) (4)

Option 3

AST OR MAT OR PHY OR SES Upper Division Elective (8)

In order to satisfy SQ natural science requirements, both a lecture and its corresponding laboratory section must be completed.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BS in earth and space exploration (astrophysics); other BS in earth and space exploration concentrations are only compatible with the astrophysics minor as long as option 2 or 3 of the minor are pursued

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Biochemistry Minor (LABCHMIN)

Campus: Tempe, Online

Description:

The biochemistry minor program is designed to give students majoring in other disciplines a solid grounding in the basics of biochemistry to complement their major degree program. It is especially appropriate for students whose majors are in the various disciplines of life sciences, physics, engineering and geology and for students planning careers in the fields of medicine and health.

Program Requirements:

The minor in biochemistry comprises 28 credit hours of required courses, of which at least 12 credit hours must be at the upper-division level. Six of the 12 upper-division credit hours must be from courses offered by The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. All courses must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher.

Required Courses -- 28 credit hours

CHM 113: General Chemistry I (SQ) or CHM 117: General Chemistry for Majors I (SQ) AND CHM 111: General Chemistry Laboratory for Majors I (SQ) (4)

CHM 116: General Chemistry II (SQ) or CHM 118: General Chemistry for Majors II (SQ) AND CHM 112: General Chemistry Laboratory for Majors II (SQ) (4)

CHM 233: General Organic Chemistry I (3)

CHM 234: General Organic Chemistry II (3)

CHM 237: General Organic Chemistry Laboratory I (1)

Notes: ASU Online students will complete CHM 237 and 238 in person in a compressed summer format.

CHM 238: General Organic Chemistry Laboratory II (1)

BCH 341: Physical Chemistry with a Biological Focus (3)

BCH 461: General Biochemistry (3)

BCH 462: General Biochemistry (3)

BCH 467: Analytical Biochemistry Laboratory (L) (3)

Notes: ASU Online students will complete BCH 467 in person in a compressed summer format.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

Incompatible Majors: BS in applied biological sciences (all concentrations); BS in biochemistry (medicinal chemistry); BS in chemistry (environmental chemistry); BS in forensic science; BS in health sciences (preprofessional); BS in biochemistry; BA in biochemistry; BS in chemistry; BA in chemistry; BS in biological sciences (genetics, cell and developmental biology); BS in biological sciences (neurobiology, physiology and behavior)

Biological Sciences Minor (LABIOMIN)

Campus: Tempe, Online

Description:

Biological science encompasses the study of all living things and includes the study of basic organization and function, how organisms evolve, their roles in the natural environment, how hereditary information is transferred and the development of biotechnology.

The biological sciences minor is a program designed to provide students with a flexible curriculum that can be tailored to their interests.

Program Requirements:

The minor in biological sciences requires a minimum of 24 credit hours, of which at least 12 credit hours must be upper division. At least six of the upper-division credit hours must be from courses offered by The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

The remaining elective credit hours may be chosen from those courses in the life sciences that can be used toward the majors offered by the school. Three credits of undergraduate research or internship (BIO 390 OR BIO 484 or MBB 484 or MIC 484 OR BIO 495 or MBB 495 or MIC 495) may be allowed in the minor.

Core Minor Requirement (15-16 credits) -- 15 credit hours

BIO 181: General Biology I (SQ) (4)

BIO 182: General Biology II (SG) (4)

BIO 340: General Genetics or MBB 347: Molecular Genetics: From Genes to Proteins (4)

BIO 345: Evolution or MIC 206: Microbiology Laboratory (SG) AND MIC 220: Biology of Microorganisms (3-4)

Electives (8-9 credits) -- 9 credit hours

BIO OR MBB OR MIC Upper Division Elective (8-9)

Students will complete 8-9 credit hours in electives selected from the BIO, MBB or MIC prefixes, all of which must be upper-division courses.

Lower-division biology courses, including but not limited to, BIO 100, BIO 201, BIO 202 and MIC 205, may not be used in the biological sciences minor.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BS in biological sciences (all concentrations); BS in microbiology (all concentrations) and BS in molecular biosciences and biotechnology. Also incompatible with BS in medical studies, BS in nutrition, and BS in public health.

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Biology Minor (ASLSCMIN)

Campus: West

Description:

A minor in biology can be a valuable asset, particularly when paired with an appropriate major. For instance, a minor in biology paired with a major in political science provides a good background for someone who intends to practice environmental law.

Program Requirements:

The minor in biology consists of 19 credit hours, of which 11 must be upper division. A minimum of eight upper-division credit hours must be completed through courses offered by the School of Mathematical and Natural Sciences. Coursework taken to fulfill the requirements of the minor may not be used to fulfill requirements of a student's major. Students should consult with an academic advisor prior to enrollment. All courses used to satisfy requirements for the minor must be passed with a "C" (2.00) or better.

Core Requirements -- 8 credit hours

BIO 182: General Biology II (SG) (4)
CHM 116: General Chemistry II (SQ) (4)

Ecology, Cell Biology, or Genetics Requirement (select one combination) -- 4 credit hours
BIO 320: Fundamentals of Ecology AND LSC 322: Fundamentals of Ecology Laboratory (4)
BIO 353: Cell Biology AND BIO 354: Cell Biology Laboratory (4)
LSC 347: Fundamentals of Genetics AND LSC 348: Fundamentals of Genetics Laboratory (4)

Upper-Division Electives -- 7 credit hours

BCH 371: Modern Concepts in Biochemistry (3)
BCH 372: Modern Concepts in Biochemistry Laboratory (1)
BIO 306: Modes of Biological Thought (L) (3)
BIO 320: Fundamentals of Ecology (3)

Business Minor (BABUSMIN)

Campus: Tempe, Online

Description:

A minor in business is available to students who are interested in business courses but wish to pursue majors in other colleges. The courses available for the minor are designed to appeal to and inform the nonbusiness student while covering a broad range of topics that are important to managers, such as:

- accounting
- computer information systems
- economics
- finance
- management
- marketing
- supply chain management

Program Requirements:

Students must complete 18 credit hours (12 of which must be upper division) of the specified business courses with a grade of "C" (2.00) or better in each course. At least 12 credit hours must be taken at ASU.

Required Courses -- 15 credit hours

ACC 382: Accounting and Financial Analysis (3)

ECN 211: Macroeconomic Principles (SB) or ECN 212: Microeconomic Principles (SB) (3)

FIN 380: Personal Financial Management (3)

MGT 380: Management and Strategy for Nonmajors (3)

MKT 390: Essentials of Marketing (3)

Elective (select one) -- 3 credit hours

AGB 420: Food Advertising and Promotion (3)

AGB 445: Food Retailing (3)

AGB 456: Food Product Innovation and Development (3)

CIS 300: Web Design and Development (3)

CIS 308: Advanced Excel in Business (3)

ECN 211: Macroeconomic Principles (SB) or ECN 212: Microeconomic Principles (SB) (3)

FIN 331: Financial Markets and Institutions (3)
LES 380: Consumer Perspective of Business Law (3)
MKT 391: Essentials of Selling (3)
MKT 395: Essentials of Advertising and Marketing Communication (3)
MKT 398: Essentials of Sports Business (3)
REA 380: Real Estate Fundamentals (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

The upper-division courses specified for the minor are restricted to students with a minimum of 56 earned credit hours and a minimum 2.00 ASU cumulative GPA.

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences Economics majors must use ECN 211 and ECN 212 in their degree and will take an additional elective to replace that requirement in the minor.

ACC 231 may substitute for ACC 382, if previously taken.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

Incompatible Majors: all W. P. Carey School of Business undergraduate degree programs

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

This minor is open to non-Business majors.

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and the minor.

Career Opportunities:

Minor programs allow students to develop additional competencies to complement the marketable knowledge and skills they acquire in their majors.

Chemistry Minor (ASCHMMIN)

Campus: West

Description:

The minor program in chemistry offered by the School of Mathematical and Natural Sciences gives students expanded proficiency in the area of chemistry. The program's additional biochemistry and analytical chemistry courses give students more experience in the advanced and integrative fields of chemistry.

Many of the growing career fields, such as forensic sciences, medicine and environmental quality, require a greater amount of chemistry than in the past. Therefore, students with a stronger chemistry background have a competitive advantage in these fields, and this chemistry minor highlights that expanded chemistry knowledge for students' future schools and employers.

Program Requirements:

The minor in chemistry consists of 25 credit hours. A minimum of nine upper-division credit hours must be taken through the School of Mathematical and Natural Sciences. All courses used to satisfy requirements for the minor must be passed with a "C" (2.00).

Core Requirements -- 25 credit hours

BCH 371: Modern Concepts in Biochemistry AND BCH 372: Modern Concepts in Biochemistry Laboratory (4)
Academic Catalog Archive 2022-2023

CHM 113: General Chemistry I (SQ) (4)
CHM 116: General Chemistry II (SQ) (4)
CHM 233: General Organic Chemistry I AND CHM 237: General Organic Chemistry Laboratory I (4)
CHM 234: General Organic Chemistry II AND CHM 238: General Organic Chemistry Laboratory II (4)
LSC 425: Analytical Chemistry for Life Sciences AND LSC 426: Analytical Chemistry for Life Sciences Lab (5)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BA and BS in biology; BA and BS in environmental science; BS in biology (pharmacology/toxicology); BS in biology (environmental science); BS in biotechnology and bioenterprise; BS in forensic science; BS in pharmacology and toxicology

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Career Opportunities:

Students with a minor in chemistry are employed in a variety of fields and are well suited in positions such as laboratory technician, research assistant, environmental scientist, technical advisor, science communication professional, hazard communication, chemical education and consultancy.

Chemistry Minor (LACHMMIN)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The chemistry minor program is designed to give students majoring in other disciplines a solid grounding in the basics of chemistry in order to complement their major degree. It is especially appropriate for students whose majors are in the various disciplines of physics, materials science, geology, engineering and life sciences.

Program Requirements:

The minor in chemistry comprises 28 credit hours of required courses, of which at least 12 credit hours must be completed at the upper-division level. Six of the 12 upper-division credit hours must be taken from courses offered by The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. All courses must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher.

Required Courses -- 20 credit hours

CHM 113: General Chemistry I (SQ) or CHM 117: General Chemistry for Majors I (SQ) AND CHM 111: General Chemistry Laboratory for Majors I (SQ) (4)

CHM 116: General Chemistry II (SQ) or CHM 118: General Chemistry for Majors II (SQ) AND CHM 112: General Chemistry Laboratory for Majors II (SQ) (4)

CHM 233: General Organic Chemistry I (3)

CHM 237: General Organic Chemistry Laboratory I (1)

CHM 234: General Organic Chemistry II (3)

CHM 238: General Organic Chemistry Laboratory II (1)

CHM 325: Analytical Chemistry (3)

CHM 326: Advanced Analytical Chemistry Laboratory (1)

Notes: CHM 325 and CHM 326 should be completed at the Tempe campus for this minor.

Options -- 8 credit hours

Choose one of the following options for the additional 8 credit hours. (8)

Option 1

BCH 361: Advanced Principles of Biochemistry (3)

BCH 367: Elementary Biochemistry Laboratory (1)

CHM 341: Elementary Physical Chemistry (3)

Notes: BCH 341 may not be used to substitute CHM 341.

CHM 343: Elementary Physical Chemistry Laboratory (1)

Option 2

CHM 345: Physical Chemistry I (3)

Notes: CHM 345 and CHM 348 are only offered in the Fall semester.

CHM 348: Physical Chemistry Laboratory I (L) (1)

CHM 346: Physical Chemistry II (3)

Notes: CHM 346 and CHM 349 are only offered in the Spring semester.

CHM 349: Physical Chemistry Laboratory II (L) (1)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

Incompatible Majors: BS in applied biological sciences (all concentrations); BS and BA in biochemistry; BS in biochemistry (medicinal chemistry); BS and BA in chemistry; BS in chemistry (environmental chemistry); BS in forensic science; BS in health sciences (preprofessional); BS in nutrition; BS in nutrition (human nutrition)

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Career Opportunities:

A minor from the School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership can support a student's major and may be considered a benefit when a student is interviewing for a job or applying to graduate school. Completing a minor program shows employers or schools that the student is focused on educational goals and can handle the additional workload.

Students interested in careers as lawyers, doctors, journalists, educators, law enforcement officials and political scientists benefit from this liberal arts education that provides the academic foundation they need to ask informed questions, make sound decisions for the common good and solve the difficult problems that leaders confront in any discipline.

Criminology and Criminal Justice Minor (PPCRJMIN)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix, Online

Description:

The minor program in criminology and criminal justice allows students in other undergraduate programs at ASU to explore issues of crime, law and the criminal justice system. The program provides students with the tools to analyze complex issues and policies within the criminal justice system, enhancing students' ability to understand the nature of crime and the system response to law breaking.

In addition to the three required courses which provide a solid understanding of the field, each student selects electives to meet specific interests.

Criminal justice majors may not pursue a minor in criminology and criminal justice.

Program Requirements:

For this minor, students will:

1. at minimum, be in junior standing to take upper-division courses.
2. complete CRJ 100 as the prerequisite for all upper-division CRJ courses.
3. complete a minimum of 18 credit hours of graded classroom and online course work (internship or independent study not applicable).
4. complete a minimum of 12 credit hours of CRJ resident credit at ASU.
5. earn a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better for all courses in the minor.
6. consider meeting with a criminal justice advisor prior to registration.

Required Courses -- 6 credit hours

CRJ 100: Introduction to Criminal Justice (SB) (3)

CRJ 309: Criminology (SB) (3)

Choose one of the following -- 3 credit hours

CRJ 203: Courts and Sentencing (3)

CRJ 230: Introduction to Policing (3)

CRJ 240: Introduction to Corrections (3)

Choose one of the following -- 3 credit hours

CRJ 305: Gender, Crime, and Criminal Justice (C) (3)

CRJ 306: Race, Ethnicity, Crime, and Criminal Justice (C) (3)

CRJ Electives -- 6 credit hours

CRJ Upper Division Elective (6)

Notes: Choose any two CRJ courses at the 300- or higher level.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

Incompatible Majors: BS in criminology and criminal justice; BS in public service and public policy with the following concentrations: criminology, law and policy, or emergency management and homeland security

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Applicants are asked to meet with a criminal justice advisor prior to registration.

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Attend Online:

ASU Online: ASU offers this program in an online format with multiple enrollment sessions throughout the year. Applicants may view the program description and request more information here. (<https://asuonline.asu.edu/online-degree-programs/minors/>)

Career Opportunities:

Graduates of the criminology and criminal justice minor find a strong job market in the public and private sectors. Employment opportunities exist in:

- bank fraud investigation
- corrections
- the courts
- domestic terrorism investigation
- federal agencies
- homeland security
- law enforcement
- legal offices
- parole offices
- private security
- probation offices
- victim advocate agencies

Graduates also may pursue advanced degrees in law, criminology and criminal justice, and other social science disciplines. Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Dance Minor (FADANMIN)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The minor program in dance provides an inclusive, dynamic and culturally diverse learning environment in which students develop their creativity as artists, scholars and educators. The innovative curriculum promotes creative collaboration and a holistic approach to acquiring skills for successful career transitions. Movement practices, performance and creativity practice define the core of the program. The rich educational experience is further enhanced by studies in:

- criticism
- dance cultures
- dance history
- digital media
- movement science
- music
- pedagogy and leadership
- philosophy
- production
- somatics

Program Requirements:

The minor in dance consists of 20 credit hours of coursework, including nine upper-division credit hours. A minimum grade of "C" (2.00) or higher is required in all classes for the minor.

A minimum GPA of 3.00 in minor courses is required to earn the minor in dance.

Choose one course -- 3 credit hours

- DCE 100: Introduction to Dance (HU) (3)

Data Science Minor (LADATSCMIN)

Campus: Tempe, Online

Description:

A minor in data science provides students with skills in statistics, probability and coding in the context of large data sets. Students in this minor become useful consumers and producers of data. They understand and manipulate data sets to make conclusions and recommendations that can have an impact in real world settings.

Program Requirements:

The minor in data science consists of a minimum of 25 credit hours. A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required for courses used in the minor.

Required Courses -- 25 credit hours

DAT 250: Data Science and Society (3)

DAT 300: Mathematical Tools for Data Science (3)

DAT 301: Exploring Data in R and Python (4)

DAT 401: Statistical Modeling and Inference for Data Science (3)

DAT 402: Machine Learning for Data Science (3)

MAT 265: Calculus for Engineers I (MA) or MAT 270: Calculus with Analytic Geometry I (MA) (3-4)

MAT 266: Calculus for Engineers II (MA) or MAT 271: Calculus with Analytic Geometry II (MA) (3-4)

MAT 343: Applied Linear Algebra (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: N/A

Incompatible Majors: All majors in the School of Mathematical and Statistical Sciences

Other Enrollment Requirements: N/A

Design Studies Minor (ARDSNMIN)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

Students interested in design can earn a minor in design studies through this nonstudio-based program of study that focuses on the design disciplines offered in the ASU Herberger Institute:

- architectural studies
- graphic design
- industrial design
- interior design
- landscape architecture

The courses may also appeal to students who wish to pursue the study of design within the BA program in interdisciplinary studies.

Program Requirements:

Courses selected must satisfy the minimum requirement of 18 credit hours for the minor. Twelve of the credit hours must be in 300-level or 400-level coursework.

To enhance understanding of the subject matter, some of the designated courses are sequential in nature and require certain prerequisites. Consequently, students should carefully note the semester in which these particular courses are offered. All designated courses for the minor in design studies are lecture courses.

Digital Audiences Minor (CSDAUMIN)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix, Online

Description:

Who are digital consumers? How can they be measured? And how can data-driven strategy better engage and grow audiences?

By exploring the users of websites, social networks and apps, and applying techniques across digital analytics, social media campaigns, network analysis, search engine optimization and search engine marketing, students who pursue the digital audiences minor gain a rich understanding of how to acquire and engage audiences.

The program uses real cases from real brands and organizations to explore tools like Google Analytics and Facebook Ads and tactics like hashtag analysis and competitive keyword research. Upon completion, students have a portfolio of real client work and the skills to strategically grow digital audiences and harness analytics to drive organizational change.

Program Requirements:

Students must complete MCO 307 first. In order to enroll in the course, students must have a 2.00 cumulative GPA.

To be awarded the minor, students must earn a "C" or better in all courses.

Required Courses -- 15 credit hours

MCO 307: The Digital Audience (3)

MCO 433: Social Media Campaigns, Engagement and Research (3)

MCO 434: Search Engine Research and Strategy (3)

MCO 438: Digital Audience Analysis (3)

MCO 439: Digital Audience Growth (3)

Students interested in pursuing graduate programs in Digital Audiences should consult their academic adviser.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

Incompatible Majors: BS in digital audiences

Digital Culture Minor (HIDGCMIN)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

With the digital culture minor, students enhance their program of study with integrated, interdisciplinary training in creative processes and technical skills in new media with cultural applications.

Students develop both the technical skills to create computational media and the cultural skills to know when or why to apply them. Students in the digital culture minor learn to create computational media (computation combined with objects, sound, video, time, space, culture and bodies); breathe behavior into media, objects or systems by programming; and think critically about how computation impacts lives and how culture makes a difference in how people experience computational media, a critical skill in the dynamic 21st century.

The School of Arts, Media and Engineering educates the next generation of learners and empowers them with technofluency --- its development, application and implications. The School of Arts, Media and Engineering prepares students to be socially aware, critically thinking global citizens who strive to bring about positive change in a society that is increasingly shaped by new technologies.

Program Requirements:

The digital culture minor requires 21 credit hours, of which 12 are upper division. Courses for the minor may not be used as part of a major. A minimum of 12 upper-division credit hours taken at ASU is required.

Students who earn a minor in digital culture cannot earn a digital culture certificate.
Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.50

Incompatible Majors: All digital culture majors

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Students are required to meet with the digital culture academic success coordinator to develop the digital culture pathway that best meets the proficiencies for the work they are interested in pursuing.

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and the minor.

Global Opportunities:

Global Experience:

The School of Arts, Media and Engineering offers a summer study abroad to the Netherlands. Interested parties, regardless of major, should explore the program Design and Society in the Netherlands: Visualizing the Invisible on the study abroad site.

Career Opportunities:

Digital culture students learn techniques that can transform society, and they communicate using contemporary computational media, a vital power in the world. These skills along with specialized knowledge and judgement complement their major program of study and helps them become more marketable to employers.

Graduates work in cultural communication, marketing, design, social media, health, education, entertainment and creative arts, and all areas in which culture is shaped by technology and computational media, including mobile app design, audio production, autonomous systems and more.

Digital Media Literacy Minor (CSDMLMIN)

Campus: Online

Description:

The minor program in digital media literacy prepares students to be at the forefront of strategic and ethical issues related to digital media, including mis- and disinformation, automation, verification, security and privacy. Students explore how media is created, consumed and researched, and how better information creates better communities.

Graduates of the program are able to use cutting-edge tools and tactics to analyze media; verify and interpret information; exercise their freedom of expression; and use content to improve their own lives, and society.

Program Requirements:

Students must maintain a minimum 2.00 cumulative GPA to pursue a minor in digital media literacy, and obtain a minimum grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) in each course in the minor.

Required Courses -- 15 credit hours

MCO 302: Media Research Methods (3)

MCO 425: Digital Media Literacy I (3)

MCO 426: Digital Media Literacy II (3)

MCO 427: Misinformation and Society (3)

MCO 428: Digital Media and Freedom of Expression in the 21st Century (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

Incompatible Majors: BA in digital media literacy

Other Enrollment Requirements: None.

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Attend Online:

ASU Online: ASU offers this program in an online format with multiple enrollment sessions throughout the year. Applicants may view the program description and request more information here. (<https://asuonline.asu.edu/online-degree-programs/minors/>)

Career Opportunities:

Graduates of this program pursue a variety of professional and educational opportunities. The program's liberal arts foundation --- including critical thinking, communication, research and problem solving --- gives graduates the intellectual agility to thrive in many fields. Specialization in the technical, ethical, legal, social and economic aspects of digital media is especially valuable, as employers of all sizes try to leverage digital media in serving consumers.

As organizations try to keep up with digital transformation and plan for the future, having a deep understanding of how digital ecosystems work is critical. Demand for graduates of digital media literacy in fields such as health care communication, public service and sustainability is anticipated to rise, and the U.S. Department of Labor categorizes many jobs in these areas as having a bright outlook in the job market.

Given increasing emphasis on teaching media literacy at every age level, graduates can expect to find employment opportunities in a variety of educational settings, and some students may pursue graduate school in disciplines such as education, library science, law, public policy, business, public relations, digital strategy and journalism.

Engineering Management Minor (ESENMMIN)

Campus: Tempe, Online

Description:

The minor in engineering management program provides students with the skills for effective management and leadership of engineering-driven enterprises.

The minor curriculum supplements students' majors by adding to the breadth of engineering science and design and equipping the student with additional management and design skills. This knowledge is augmented with an understanding of business practices, organizational behavior and management skills to enable the student to succeed in the management of a scientific or engineering enterprise.

Topics such as project and resource management, financial engineering, risk management, configuration management, service plans, product liability, entrepreneurship and operations management are covered, in addition to product design and process development.

Program Requirements:

The minor in engineering management requires completion of 18 credit hours: four core courses (12 credit hours) and two elective courses (six credit hours). All courses must be passed with a "C" or better. At least 12 credit hours must be completed in residency at ASU or through ASU Online.

Core Courses -- 12 credit hours

IEE 300: Economic Analysis for Engineers (3)

IEE 380: Probability and Statistics for Engineering Problem Solving (CS) or IEE 220: Business and Industrial Engineering (3)

Notes:

*Students whose major requires IEE 380 Probability and Statistics for Engineering Problem Solving will need to take IEE 220 Business and Industrial Engineering for the engineering management minor.

*Students who are not required to take IEE 380 as part of their major requirements should select it for the minor to be eligible for more elective options.

*IEE 380 is the option for ASU Online students.

IEE 431: Engineering Administration (L) (3)

IEE 458: Project Management or CEE 481: Civil Engineering Project Management (3)

Notes: CEE 481 may not be used for both the BSE in civil engineering and the minor in engineering management.

Electives -- 6 credit hours

IEE 369: Work Analysis and Design (L) (3)

IEE 376: Operations Research Deterministic Techniques/Applications (4)

IEE 381: Lean Six Sigma Methodology (3)

IEE 412: Introduction to Financial Engineering (3)

IEE 454: Risk Management (3)

IEE 456: Introduction to Systems Engineering (3)

IEE 474: Quality Control (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BSE in engineering management; BSE in industrial engineering

Other Enrollment Requirements: Prior to enrolling in the minor, students must have completed MAT 265 and MAT 266 (or an equivalent calculus sequence) with a grade of "C" or better in each.

Students who are not required to take IEE 380 as part of their major requirements should plan to take it for the minor instead of IEE 220 to be eligible for more required electives. Online students must take IEE 380 since IEE 220 is not available online.

Interested students should consult with a School of Computing and Augmented Intelligence advisor to verify eligibility and to review all courses required for the minor. To schedule a SCAI advising appointment, students should visit <https://fultonapps.asu.edu/advising/> (<https://fultonapps.asu.edu/advising/>).

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Attend Online:

ASU Online: ASU offers this program in an online format with multiple enrollment sessions throughout the year. Applicants may view the program description and request more information here. (<https://asuonline.asu.edu/online-degree-programs/minors/>)

Career Opportunities:

A minor can help students enhance the marketable skills they acquire in their major program and help them develop new skills apart from it, though most career areas do require more training than a minor alone can provide. The minor in engineering management can help students pursuing careers in engineering and business fields gain valuable skills in management for engineering-related professions, which could fast track an individual into a managerial role down the line in their profession.

Career examples include production supervisor, project management team member or project management team leader.

Environmental Science Minor (ASENVMIN)

Campus: West, ASU@Lake Havasu

Description:

The environmental science minor program provides students with a fundamental understanding of how the natural world functions as a system, how changes in this system influence organisms and humans, and, in turn, how this system is impacted by humans.

An understanding of human-environment interactions gained through this minor will augment students' major field of study. To accommodate broad interests for students from a variety of majors, the curriculum is designed to allow students to explore their interests by choosing from categories of scientific coursework and skill-based curricula, to provide applied experiences for students from a variety of majors.

Program Requirements:

The minor in environmental science consists of 15 credit hours, of which 12 credit hours must be upper division. A minimum of six upper-division credit hours must be taken through the School of Mathematical and Natural Sciences. All courses used to satisfy requirements for the minor must be passed with a "C" (2.00) or better.

Core Requirements -- 6 credit hours

ENV 201: Fundamentals of Environmental Science (3)

IAS 407 / PHI 407: Environmental Philosophy and Policy (L or HU) or IAS 409 / PHI 409: Eco-Community Ethics (HU) or PHI 310: Environmental Ethics (HU) (3)

Upper-Division Electives -- 9 credit hours

Choose a minimum of nine credit hours from the following categories. Students may choose freely from among the categories; it is not necessary to take one from each or all from one category.

Global/Ecosystem Focus:

BIO 422: Ecosystem Ecology (3)

CHM 302: Environmental Chemistry (3)

ENV 410: Soil Science (4)

LSC 434: Marine Ecology (3)

MIC 443: The Microbial Universe AND MIC 444: The Microbial Universe Laboratory (4)

Organismal Focus:

BIO 370: Vertebrate Zoology (4)

BIO 385: Comparative Invertebrate Zoology (4)

BIO 410: Techniques in Conservation Biology and Ecology (L) (3)

BIO 412: Conservation in Practice (3)

BIO 474: Herpetology (4)

PLB Upper Division Elective (3-4)

Skills in Environmental Science:

ENV 345: Spatial Analysis in the Environmental Sciences (3)

ENV 388: STEM Research Fundamentals (L) (3)

ENV 485: Environmental Impact Assessment (3)

ENV 499: Individualized Instruction (1-3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

Incompatible Majors: BS and BA environmental science

Other Enrollment Requirements: This first course in this minor (ENV 201) has prerequisites of BIO 181, BIO 182 and CHM 116.

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Career Opportunities:

Students who complete this major have the foundational knowledge they need to apply environmental concepts and awareness to their future careers. Many career fields have environmental applications, including business and entrepreneurship, the health industry, economics and academic research careers. Career opportunities include employment in environmental policy, management or leadership positions in federal and state agencies, local municipality planning offices, private consulting firms, and nongovernmental and nonprofit organizations, and many others.

Environmental and Resource Management Minor (ESERMMIN)

Campus: Polytechnic

Description:

The minor program in environmental and resource management provides students with a thorough introduction to environmental regulations and key environmental management issues such as the provision of clean, potable water; wastewater treatment; and solid and hazardous waste management, as well as remediation technologies for polluted soils, groundwater and air. Students learn to apply basic science and engineering principles to solving problems that significantly impact human health and ecosystems.

The environmental and resource management minor program provides a valuable option to other majors that focus on environmental issues whether from a technical or policy perspective. The courses form a coherent whole and demonstrate the connection between science, engineering, public policy, management and the law.

Program Requirements:

The minor requires completion of four core courses (12 credit hours) and two elective courses (six credit hours) for a total of 18 credit hours. At least 12 credit hours must be completed in residency at ASU. Courses must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher.

Core Courses -- 12 credit hours

ERM 201: Environmental Management (3)

ERM 203: Environmental Regulations (3)

ERM 302: Water and Wastewater Treatment Technology (3)

ERM 401: Hazardous Waste Management (3)

Electives -- 6 credit hours

ERM 402: Unit Treatment Technologies (3)

ERM 406: Environmental Chemistry (3)

ERM 407: Occupational Hygiene (3)

ERM 426: Environmental Issues (3)

ERM 428: International Environmental Management (G) (3)

ERM 432: Sustainable Solid Waste Management (3)

Gender, Women and Sexuality Studies Minor (LAWSTMIN)

Campus: Tempe, Online

This program's name has changed effective Fall 2022. The previous name was Women and Gender Studies.

Description:

In the minor program in gender, women and sexuality studies, students complete a variety of courses that explore how gender and sexuality both impact and are affected by societies as a whole from around the world. The curriculum leads students to explore ideas about gender from an interdisciplinary perspective, to learn about social structures for different genders, and understand how these have been transformed by feminist theory and gender equality.

This minor also explores prominent contemporary issues through the lenses of sexuality, race and religion.

Original undergraduate research is encouraged and some course options may involve studying community problems and formulating policy solutions. Students have the option to include a capstone seminar requiring original research or an internship that prepares them through real-world experience for life after college.

Program Requirements:

The women and gender studies minor consists of 18 credit hours, of which at least 12 must be upper division. A minimum grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) is required for all courses in the minor.

Career Opportunities:

Nationally and internationally, the health field provides enormous and varied career opportunities, and demand is high and growing for graduates with specific skills. The major supports the goals of those pursuing careers in academic research, teaching and health services. Sample employment venues include:

- departments of health
- government agencies
- international agencies (World Health Organization, Center for Disease Control, Global Health Council, World Bank, Inter-American Development)

Bank)

- nongovernmental organizations
- private sector
- universities

The degree program also provides a broad intellectual base for those who plan advanced specialist health training in fields such as:

- dentistry
- medicine
- nursing
- pharmacy

In Arizona and elsewhere, there is a pressing need for professionals with appropriate skills to work in cross-cultural settings or with underserved populations, such as migrants, minorities and those living in poverty, and many of these jobs are directly or indirectly related to health.

Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Career Opportunities:

Minor programs allow students to develop additional competencies that complement the marketable knowledge and skills they acquire in their majors.

Although most career areas require more training than a minor can provide, students completing the health innovation minor often pursue employment in an organization focused on health care and utilize their skills to help impact change within the organization.

History Minor (ASHISMIN)

Campus: West

Description:

The minor program in history educates students in the methods and the use of basic tools of the historical discipline. Students are exposed to a broad span of history, both temporally and geographically, ranging from the ancient world through the modern period and extending from Europe to Latin America and the United States.

The program is offered by the School of Humanities, Arts and Cultural Studies.

Program Requirements:

The minor in history consists of 18 credit hours (a minimum of 12 credit hours must be upper division). A minimum of six upper-division credit hours must be completed through courses offered by the School of Humanities, Arts, and Cultural Studies. Students wishing to pursue the minor should meet with an academic advisor to construct a set of courses that reflect a particular area of specialty and interest. All courses used to satisfy requirements for the minor must be passed with a grade of "C" (2.00) or better.

History Survey Requirements -- 6 credit hours

Choose one of the following survey sets. If choosing to complete the European History/Western Civilization survey, complete two of three courses.

HST 100: Global History to 1500 (HU & H & G) AND HST 101: Global History Since 1500 (HU & H & G) (6)

HST 102: Europe and the Mediterranean: Ancient and Medieval (SB & H) or HST 103: Early Modern Europe: Renaissance to Enlightenment ((HU or SB) & H) or HST 104: Modern Europe: French Revolution to European Union ((HU or SB) & G & H) (6)

HST 109: United States to 1865 ((HU or SB) & H) AND HST 110: United States Since 1865 (SB & H) (6)

Upper-Division History Electives -- 9 credit hours

HST 495: Methods of Historical Inquiry (L) (<https://webapp4.asu.edu/catalog/courselist?s=HST&l=upperdivision&t=2227&hon=F>) > HST Upper Division Elective (9)

History Capstone Course -- 3 credit hours

(3)

Students must complete a minimum of six upper-division credit hours in History before enrolling in HST 495.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BA in history

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates of this minor are prepared for graduate study, for professional degree programs and for careers in which critical thinking, research and writing skills are highly valued, such as journalism, editing, law and civil service.

History Minor (LAHISMIN)

Campus: Tempe, Online

Description:

Students who pursue the minor in history study the growth and development of human society from all aspects: political, social, economic and cultural. The program covers the history of the United States, Europe, Asia, Latin America and Africa. By providing an understanding of how the various regions of the world developed, the minor in history enables students to understand today's complex world.

Program Requirements:

The history minor consists of 18 credit hours of coursework, at least 12 of which must be upper division. A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required for all courses in the minor. A minimum of six upper-division credit hours must be in courses offered by The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

The minor in history is available to students in both on campus and ASU Online degree programs. ASU Online students choose courses from the designated track lists below.

HST Upper Division Elective (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BA in history; BA in history (secondary education); BAE in secondary education (history)

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Attend Online:

ASU Online: ASU offers this program in an online format with multiple enrollment sessions throughout the year. Applicants may view the program description and request more information here. (<https://asuonline.asu.edu/online-degree-programs/minors/>)

Career Opportunities:

A minor can help students enhance the marketable skills they acquire in their major program and help them develop new skills apart from it, though most career areas do require more training than a minor alone can provide. A minor in history can help students as they pursue careers in many fields, including education, law, public administration, social services, foreign service and communications.

History of Science, Technology and Innovation Minor (LSHSIIMIN)

Campus: Polytechnic

This program's name has changed effective Fall 2022. The previous name was History of Science, Ideas and Innovation.

Description:

Science and technology shape every facet of modern human life, but all too frequently the underlying histories and ideas go unexamined. The minor program in the history of science, technology and innovation helps students understand how society reached its present state and helps them reflect on what the future might hold by providing a foundation in the social and intellectual issues central to understanding the intertwined histories of science, technology and ideas.

Program Requirements:

The minor of history of science, technology and innovation requires 15 credit hours, including a minimum of 12 upper-division credit hours. A minimum of six upper-division credit hours must be taken in courses offered by the College of Integrative Sciences and Arts. A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required in all courses.

Required Course -- 3 credit hours

Human Nutrition Minor (ECNTRMIN)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Description:

The minor in human nutrition focuses on the science behind nutrition. This includes how the body processes nutrients for energy, how nutrients play important roles in health and disease, and how nutritional needs change across the lifespan. This minor also includes the medical nutrition therapy sequence which provides students with a clear understanding of how nutrition can be used to prevent and treat diseases in a medical setting.

Knowledge obtained from this minor is useful for careers in the life sciences, biology, medicine, public health and health policy.

Program Requirements:

The minor requires a total of 18-19 credit hours. A minimum grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) is required for each course.

Required Courses -- 19 credit hours

NTR 241: Human Nutrition (3)

NTR 341: Medical Nutrition Therapy I (3)

NTR 440: Advanced Human Nutrition I (3)

NTR 441: Advanced Human Nutrition II (3)

NTR 444: Medical Nutrition Therapy II (3)

NTR 446: Medical Nutrition Therapy III or NTR 450: Nutrition in the Life Cycle (SB) (3-4)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BAS in food and nutrition entrepreneurship, BS in dietetics, BS in food and nutrition entrepreneurship, BS in health sciences (healthy lifestyles and fitness science), BS in nutritional science

Other Enrollment Requirements: In order to enroll in the courses required for the minor, students must complete the following courses:

BCH 361 Advanced Principles of Biochemistry
BIO 201 Human Anatomy and Physiology I
BIO 202 Human Anatomy and Physiology II
CHM 101 Introductory Chemistry
CHS 260 Health Professions Terminology

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Human Systems Engineering Minor (ESHSEMIN)

Campus: Polytechnic, Online

Description:

The minor in human systems engineering in the Ira A. Fulton Schools of Engineering provides students with an understanding of the science of human performance and with experience using methods and tools that will enable them to apply their understanding to design and problem-solving. These skills can be used in a wide variety of domains, such as product usability, learning design, sports performance, and workplace and hospital safety.

Program Requirements:

The minor requires 21 credit hours. All required minor courses must be passed with a "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better.

Required Courses -- 18 credit hours

HSE 101: Introduction to Human Systems Engineering (SB) (3)
HSE 225: Human Systems Integration (3)
HSE 230: Statistics for Human Systems Research I (CS) (3)
HSE 290: Experimental Methods for Human Systems Research (L) (3)
HSE 323: Perceptual Systems (SB) or HSE 324: Applied Cognitive Science (SB) (3)
HSE 325: Human-Computer Interaction (3)

Elective Course -- 3 credit hours

HSE 422: Human Factors in Sport (3)
HSE 423: Human Factors in Transportation (3)
HSE 424: Human Automation Interaction (3)
HSE 425: Human Factors in Medical Systems (3)
HSE 426: Training and Expertise (3)
HSE 427: Designing for Learning (3)
HSE 428: Judgment and Decision Making (3)
HSE 429: Product Design and Evaluation (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

Incompatible Majors: BS in human systems engineering

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Students should consult with a Polytechnic School advisor to verify eligibility and to review all courses required for the minor. To schedule an advising appointment, students should go to <https://fultonapps.asu.edu/advising> (<https://fultonapps.asu.edu/advising>).

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Students interested in pursuing a minor should consult their academic advisor to declare the minor and to ensure that an appropriate set of courses is taken. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and the minor. Students should contact their academic advisor for more information.

ASU Online: ASU offers this program in an online format with multiple enrollment sessions throughout the year. Applicants may view the program description and request more information here. (<https://asuonline.asu.edu/online-degree-programs/minors/>)

Career Opportunities:

A broad range of professions need experts in human factors to work on problems that involve an understanding of human performance. Interest areas include user experience, aviation human factors, cognitive performance, consumer psychology, transportation human factors, patient safety, effective teamwork, health psychology, learning optimization, social cognition, threat detection and sports psychology.

The human systems engineering minor prepares students for industry and government careers in positions such as:

- game designer
- human factors engineer
- human systems integrator
- interface designer
- user experience designer
- usability engineer

Graduates may work as a member of a design team for a product or system.

Innovation in Society Minor (FIFISMIN)

Campus: Tempe, Online

Description:

The minor in innovation in society equips students with the tools needed for analyzing how science, technology and other social forces shape the present and future.

Students cultivate the critical thinking skills they need to develop creative strategies that steer innovation toward the needs and values of society. They are trained to synthesize research and theory from the social sciences, humanities, natural sciences and engineering so they can develop proposals for how to build better futures. This enables students to understand the broader context of their major and helps them mesh those studies with other disciplines to develop more encompassing solutions to important problems.

Program Requirements:

Required Courses -- 15 credit hours
FIS 111: Welcome to the Future (3)
FIS 201: Innovation in Society (H) (3)
FIS 305: Ways of Knowing (L) (3)
FIS Upper Division Elective (3)
FIS Upper Division Elective (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

Incompatible Majors: BA innovation in society, BS innovation in society

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Attend Online:

ASU Online: ASU offers this program in an online format with multiple enrollment sessions throughout the year. Applicants may view the program description and request more information here. (<https://asuonline.asu.edu>)

Career Opportunities:

Completing this minor can help students bring about positive change in a diverse workforce. The unique knowledge and skills gained from this program enhance a student's bachelor's degree and career opportunities. The minor can complement any career path in a variety of sectors, including business, technology, science, education or government.

Instructional Design Minor (TELDTMIN)

Campus: Online

Description:

The curriculum of the minor in instructional design is grounded in modern learning theory and design. Coursework addresses a variety of components within the field of education including foundations of instructional design, theory and design of digital learning, and digital learning evaluation. All courses are taught online and combine a range of resources and technologies to facilitate direct interaction between students, program faculty and classmates.

This program culminates with an internship where students create and present a project that demonstrates their knowledge of instructional design by applying it in a professional context. Students work with an organization to identify an instructional need, problem or performance gap, and then they develop and deploy a solution to be delivered in an online or blended format.

This minor does not lead to teacher certification. Students seeking teacher certification should enroll in one of the other Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College undergraduate programs.

Program Requirements:

Required Courses -- 12 credit hours

LDT 301: Foundations of Instructional Design (3)

LDT 320: Digital Learning Theories (3)

LDT 330: Design of Digital Learning (3)

LDT 410: Assessment and Evaluation for Digital Learning (3)

Required Internship -- 3 credit hours

LDT 484: Internship (3)

The required internship LDT 484 is a Session C 15-week course. Students must secure an approved ASU work or volunteer placement for the internship. It is recommended that this be secured three months before the start of your internship. The MLFTC Office of Professional Experiences (OPE) (<https://education.asu.edu/student-life/office-professional-experiences>) supports all site placements for students in our college. For students who do not have an existing placement that meets the requirements of ASU, OPE will help find an appropriate placement.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

Incompatible Majors: None

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Attend Online:

ASU Online: ASU offers this program in an online format with multiple enrollment sessions throughout the year. Applicants may view the program description and request more information here. (<https://asuonline.asu.edu/online-degree-programs/minors/>)

Career Opportunities:

There is growing demand for online educators, including at companies that develop the materials for online students and any organization focused on digital learning. Graduates are prepared for instructional design roles in K-12, higher education, nonprofits and corporate settings. Career examples include:

- curriculum coordinator
- curriculum designer or developer
- distance learning manager
- instructional designer
- media center specialists
- technology coordinator
- training specialist, coordinator or manager

Integrative Social Science Minor (LSISSMIN)

Campus: Polytechnic

Description:

The minor program in integrative social science is designed to provide general education in the social sciences to individuals who desire exposure to the variety of theories and methods of social scientists. Individuals seeking to expand their analytical, problem-solving and strategic planning skill sets benefit from this minor.

The minor is useful to engineers, technologists and other professionals whose specialized education may not have given them access to social science research theories and methodologies, though their professional activities demand knowledge of those tools.

Program Requirements:

The minor requires 18 credit hours, including 15 credit hours of required courses and three credit hours of electives. Because of their specific design for this particular minor, the 15 credit hours of required courses may not be substituted, nor may transfer hours be used to satisfy the requirements.

Required Courses -- 15 credit hours

ISS 301: Integrated Social Science Research Methods (SB) or POS 301: Empirical Political Inquiry (SB) or STS 301: Research in Science and Technology Studies (SB) (3)

Interior Design History Minor (ARINTMIN)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The minor in interior design history is available to students interested in studying design and culture across many time periods.

The courses designated for the minor are part of the professional studies in interior design environments. The coursework introduces theories informing the professions of architecture, decorative arts and interior design, while also examining cultures and history from around the globe.

Program Requirements:

Eighteen credit hours (of which 12 credit hours must be from the 300- or 400-level) are required for the minor. A minimum grade of "C" (2.00) is required in all courses for the minor. To enhance the understanding of the subject matter, the selected courses are sequential in nature and require certain prerequisites. Consequently, students should carefully note the semester in which any of these courses are offered.

A minimum GPA of 2.50 in minor courses is required to earn the minor in interior design history.

Required Courses -- 12 credit hours

DSC 101: Design Awareness (HU & G) (3)

INT 111: Interior Design Issues and Theories (HU) (3)

INT 310: History of Interior Design I (HU & H) (3)

INT 311: History of Interior Design II (HU & H) (3)

Interior Design History Courses -- 6 credit hours

APH 300: World Architecture I/Western Cultures (HU & H & G) (3)

INT 415: Latin American Design or INT 494: Design and Culture in Latin America (3)

INT 494: Contemporary Design Issues in Europe (3)

INT 494: Design and Context (3)

INT 494 "Contemporary Design Issues in Europe" and INT 494 "Design and Context" are offered as part of a summer study abroad program only.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.50

Incompatible Majors: BSD in interior design

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and the minor.

Career Opportunities:

Minor programs allow students to develop additional competencies that complement the marketable knowledge and skills they acquire in their majors.

The minor in interior design history can complement professional studies in architecture, interior design, environmental design, art, education and history. Degrees within these disciplines can lead to professional positions within studio design firms, design administration and design education.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.50

Incompatible Majors: BS in landscape architecture

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and the minor.

Career Opportunities:

Minor programs allow students to develop additional competencies that complement the marketable knowledge and skills they acquire in their majors.

The minor in landscape architecture is intended to augment a degree and expand career possibilities in any of the environmental design disciplines, including architecture, interior design and planning.

Latin American Studies Minor (ASLASMIN)

Campus: West

Description:

The minor program in Latin American studies offers a learner-driven model in which the student's specific interests are deepened through the study of Latin America. It is interdisciplinary and allows for flexibility in course selection while also instilling a breadth and depth of knowledge about issues surrounding Latin America.

Program Requirements:

The minor in Latin American studies consists of 18 credit hours, of which 12 credit hours must be upper division. A minimum of six upper-division credit hours must be taken from the School of Humanities, Arts, and Cultural Studies and a minimum of 12 credit hours must be completed at ASU. Relevant course substitutions from other ASU colleges and schools may be permitted with the approval of the Latin American Studies faculty lead and if the course focuses solely upon Latin American studies. All courses used to satisfy the requirements for the minor must be passed with a "C" (2.00) or better.

Core Requirements -- 6 credit hours

Materials Science and Engineering Minor (ESMSEMIN)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The materials science and engineering minor is a program designed to give science and engineering majors an in-depth understanding of materials, including their structure, processing, properties and performance.

Program Requirements:

Students are required to take five courses and one lab (minimum of 16 credits), listed below:

Required Courses -- 12 credit hours

MSE 250: Structure and Properties of Materials (3)

MSE 355: Structure and Defects (3)

MSE 356: Thin Film and Microelectronic Devices Lab (<https://webapp4.asu.edu/catalog/courselist?s=MSE&l=300-399&t=2227&hon=F>) > MSE 3

Elective or MSE 4 Elective (6)

Materials-related Lab Course -- 1 credit hours

MSE 451: Nanomaterials and Electronics Characterization Lab (1)

Materials-related Course -- 3 credit hours

BME 318: Biomaterials (4)

CEE 353: Civil Engineering Materials (4)

CHE 468: Polymer Principles and Processing (3)

CHM 471: Solid-State Chemistry (3)

EEE 352: Properties of Electronic Materials (4)

EEE 436: Fundamentals of Solid-State Devices (3)

PHY 481: Materials Physics I (<https://webapp4.asu.edu/catalog/courselist?s=MSE&l=300-399&t=2227&hon=F>) > MSE 3 Elective (3)

MSE 4 Elective (3)

(3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Maintain 2.50 GPA in Minor Courses.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.75

Incompatible Majors: BA in interdisciplinary studies with a concentration in materials science and engineering

Other Enrollment Requirements: Students must hold sophomore status to enroll in the materials science and engineering minor. To earn the minor, students must receive a minimum GPA of 2.50 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in all minor courses. Students adding the minor also need to complete MAT 265 (MAT 270), MAT 266 (MAT 271), MAT 267 (MAT 272), MAT 242 (MAT 342 or 343), and CHM 114 or CHM 113 and 116.

Interested students should consult with a School for Engineering of Matter, Transport and Energy advisor to verify eligibility and to review all courses required for the minor. To schedule an advising appointment, students should contact the SEMTE advising office at 480-965-2335 or semte@asu.edu (<mailto:semte@asu.edu>).

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Students interested in pursuing a minor should consult with their major academic advisor to declare the minor after they have met with a SEMTE advisor to ensure that an appropriate set of courses is taken. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and the minor. Students should contact their academic advisor for more information.

Career Opportunities:

For engineering majors, a minor in materials science and engineering could open up career opportunities in nanotechnology, electronics, health care and sustainability and energy. For nonengineering majors, a minor in materials science and engineering can provide a foundation in sustainability, nanotechnology and materials physics.

Mathematics Minor (ASMATHMIN)

Campus: West

Description:

The minor program in mathematics explores the study of higher mathematics. It is designed to enable the student to understand the mathematics most commonly used in business, economics and science. It is expected that students in the minor will be able to reason and to find creative solutions to problems that are either presented to them or meaningfully formulated by them.

The program is offered by the School of Mathematical and Natural Sciences.

Program Requirements:

The minor in mathematics consists of 20 credit hours (a minimum of 12 credit hours must be upper division). A minimum of nine upper-division credit hours must be taken from the School of Mathematical and Natural Sciences. Elective courses not on this list should be approved by an academic advisor prior to enrollment. All courses used to satisfy requirements for the minor must be passed with a "C" (2.00) or better.

Core Requirements -- 14 credit hours

MAT 271: Calculus with Analytic Geometry II (MA) (4)
MAT 272: Calculus with Analytic Geometry III (MA) (4)
MAT 300: Mathematical Structures (L) (3)
MAT 342: Linear Algebra or MAT 343: Applied Linear Algebra (3)

Upper-Division Electives -- 6 credit hours

MAT 310: Introduction to Geometry (3)
MAT 371: Advanced Calculus I (3)
MAT 411: History and Philosophy of Mathematics (HU & H) (3)
MAT 421: Applied Computational Methods (CS) (3)
MAT 443: Introduction to Abstract Algebra (3)
MAT 445: Theory of Numbers (3)
MAT 452: Introduction to Chaos and Nonlinear Dynamics (3)
MAT 461: Applied Complex Analysis (3)
MAT 462: Applied Partial Differential Equations (3)
MAT 472: Intermediate Real Analysis I (3)
MAT 494: Special Topics (1-4)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BS in applied mathematics

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

The minor in mathematics is open to all ASU undergraduate majors.

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Mathematics Minor (LAMATMIN)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The minor in mathematics is designed for students who want to further their knowledge of mathematics. It is beneficial for students majoring in any field where there is a need for quantification in the analysis of information.

Program Requirements:

The minor in mathematics consists of a minimum of 18 credit hours, of which at least 12 must be upper division. A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required for courses used in the minor.

Required Courses -- 9 credit hours

A minimum of 9 credit hours is required. Students completing MAT 271 and MAT 272 will complete a total of 11 credit hours.

MAT 271: Calculus with Analytic Geometry II (MA) or MAT 266: Calculus for Engineers II (MA) (3-4)

MAT 272: Calculus with Analytic Geometry III (MA) or MAT 267: Calculus for Engineers III (MA) (3-4)

MAT 342: Linear Algebra or MAT 343: Applied Linear Algebra (3)

Upper Division Electives -- 9 credit hours

In consultation with an academic advisor in the School of Mathematical and Statistical Sciences, students choose nine credit hours of upper-division coursework in any combination from ACT, DAT, MAT and STP subjects. Students complete at least three courses from these subjects.

ACT OR DAT OR MAT OR STP Upper Division Elective (9)

Students may not apply ACT 491, MAT 411, or MAT 485, or any course not offered by The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences to the minor, unless approved by an academic advisor in the School of Mathematical and Statistical Sciences prior to registration.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BS in actuarial science; BS in applied mathematics; BS in computational mathematical science; BS in statistics; BS in data science; BA and BS in mathematics (including all concentrations); BAE in secondary education (mathematics)

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Students should confer with an academic advisor in the School of Mathematical and Statistical Sciences before declaring the minor.

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Career Opportunities:

Mathematics is foundational and can be applied to many different types of careers. Math is a crucial part of engineering, life sciences, business, physics, economics and social sciences. These are just a few of the top careers possible with a minor in mathematics:

- cryptographer
- engineer
- financial analyst
- mathematician
- operations research analyst
- statistician
- teacher

Media Analysis Minor (CSCMOMINA)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix, Online

Description:

The mass media play vital roles in how information is created and disseminated, and how societies and cultures evolve. In the media analysis minor, students learn to understand the roles media play, how they're changing and what impact they make. Students learn the tools they need to critically evaluate, analyze and interpret media messages in order to become wise consumers of media, and stronger communicators in their major fields.

Program Requirements:

The minor in media analysis consists of 18 credit hours of coursework: nine credits of MCO core courses and nine credits of MCO electives. To pursue the minor in media analysis, students must maintain a minimum 2.00 cumulative GPA, and obtain a minimum grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) in each course in the minor.

Required Courses -- 9 credit hours

- MCO 120: Media and Society (SB) (3)
- MCO 240: Media Issues in American Pop Culture (3)
- MCO 418: History of Mass Communication (SB & H) (3)

Elective Courses -- 9 credit hours

- MCO 302: Media Research Methods (3)
- MCO 307: The Digital Audience (3)
- MCO 335: Social Media (3)
- MCO 366: Media Ethics and Diversity (3)
- MCO 403: Media Law (3)
- MCO 425: Digital Media Literacy I (3)
- MCO 426: Digital Media Literacy II (3)
- MCO 427: Misinformation and Society (3)
- MCO 428: Digital Media and Freedom of Expression in the 21st Century (3)

MCO 430: International Mass Communication (G) (3)
MCO 431: Media Entrepreneurship (3)
MCO 450: Visual Communication (HU) (3)
MCO 456: Political Communication (SB) (3)

Medical Studies Minor (NHMESTMIN)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix, Polytechnic, West

Description:

The minor program in medical studies focuses on preparing students for employment in health care and clinical medicine, including in both direct and indirect patient care.

Students take coursework in historical aspects of medicine, ethics in health care, and leadership and professionalism. Students have the option of selecting an internship course that enhances the application of core concepts.

Program Requirements:

The minor requires a total of 18 credit hours. A minimum grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) is required for each course.

Required Courses -- 15 credit hours

HCD 303: Global Health Care Systems (G) (3)
HCD 330: Health Care Systems in the U.S. (3)

MED 300: Historical and Contemporary Issues in Health (L) (3)

MED 320: Applied Medical/Health Care Ethics (HU) (3)

MED 450: Leadership and Professionalism (3)

Elective Course (choose one) -- 3 credit hours

HCD 420: Population Health Management (3)

MED 484: Internship (3)

PBH 422: Health Disparities and Access to Health (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

Incompatible Majors: BS in medical studies; BS in science of health care delivery; BS in health sciences; BS in population health

Other Enrollment Requirements: Students must complete a minimum of 30 credit hours prior to adding the minor.

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Career Opportunities:

The medical studies minor program provides students with the opportunity to acquire valuable skills in health care that can be implemented along with those developed in the major program in a variety of career settings. Some career opportunities include project coordinators, marketing, sales and research.

Military Leadership Minor (LAMISMIN)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The minor in military leadership is a program designed to enhance students' learning experience by providing tools that prepare them for leadership roles in various organizations. Students complete courses that cover academic and practical skills in many areas, including:

- effective communication
- leadership ethos
- negotiation
- problem-solving
- staff motivation and empowerment
- team-building

Program Requirements:

The minor in military leadership requires a minimum of 18 credit hours, 12 of which must be at the 300- or 400-level. Twelve credit hours must be taken in residence on an ASU campus. Each course must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher.

Students choose the option befitting their chosen branch of the military. An option is also provided for non-ROTC students wishing to benefit from the skills and knowledge developed in the minor.

Branch Specific Options -- 18 credit hours

The branch-specific options for Army, Air Force and Navy require a minimum of 12 credit hours specific to the option, and six credit hours chosen from a list of approved electives. Students choosing the Marine option complete nine credit hours within the branch option courses and nine credit hours from the list of approved electives.

Army Option

MIS 301: Training Management and the Warfighting Functions (L) (4)

MIS 302: Applied Leadership in Small-Unit Operations (L) (4)

MIS 401: The Army Officer (4)

MIS 402: Company Grade Leadership (4)

Choose two additional courses from the list of Approved Electives below.

Air Force Option

AES 301: Air Force Leadership Studies I (L) AND AES 302: Leadership Laboratory (3)

AES 303: Air Force Leadership Studies II (L) AND AES 304: Leadership Laboratory (3)

AES 401: National Security Affairs (L) AND AES 402: Leadership Laboratory (3)

AES 403: Preparation for Active Duty II AND AES 404: Leadership Lab (3)

Choose two additional courses from the list of Approved Electives below.

Navy Option

NAV 301: Naval Ship Systems I (3)

NAV 302: Naval Ship Systems: Weapons (3)

NAV 401: Naval Operations and Seamanship (3)

NAV 402: Leadership and Ethics (3)

NAV 499: Individualized Instruction (3)

Choose two additional courses from the list of Approved Electives below.

Marine Option

NAV 303: Evolution of Warfare (3)

NAV 402: Leadership and Ethics (3)

NAV 403: Fundamentals of Maneuver Warfare (3)

Choose three additional courses from the list of Approved Electives below.

Non-ROTC Option -- 18 credit hours

The minor also offers an option designed for non-ROTC students desiring the training provided by the minor. Student in the non-ROTC option complete three courses from this list of approved core courses and three courses selected from the list of Approved Electives.

Choose three courses from the following:

AES 301: Air Force Leadership Studies I (L) (3)

AES 303: Air Force Leadership Studies II (L) (3)

AES 401: National Security Affairs (L) (3)

AES 403: Preparation for Active Duty II (3)

MIS 301: Training Management and the Warfighting Functions (L) (4)

MIS 303: National Advanced Leadership Camp (4)

MIS 401: The Army Officer (4)

MIS 402: Company Grade Leadership (4)

NAV 301: Naval Ship Systems I (3)

NAV 302: Naval Ship Systems: Weapons (3)

NAV 303: Evolution of Warfare (3)

NAV 401: Naval Operations and Seamanship (3)

NAV 402: Leadership and Ethics (3)

NAV 403: Fundamentals of Maneuver Warfare (3)

Choose three additional courses from the list of Approved Electives below.

Approved Electives

Courses can only satisfy one requirement. No course used toward the branch-specific courses or the core courses for the non-ROTC option can be repeated as an elective.

AES 101: Air Force Today I (2)

AES 103: Air Force Today II (2)

AES 201: The Evolution of USAF Air and Space Power I (2)

AES 203: The Evolution of USAF Air and Space Power II (2)

FAS 101: Personal Growth and Relationships (SB) (3)

FAS 331: Modern Family Relationships (SB) (3)

HST 372: Modern Middle East (SB & G & H) (3)

HST 408: Civil War and Reconstruction ((L or SB) & H) (3)

HST 456: The Vietnam War (SB & G & H) (3)

MIS 101: Introduction to the United States Army (4)

MIS 102: Foundation of Agile and Adaptive Leadership (4)

MIS 201: Army Leadership and Decision Making (4)

MIS 202: Army Doctrine and Team Development (4)
MIS 499: Individualized Instruction (3)
NAV 101: Introduction to Naval Science (3)
NAV 102: Sea Power and Maritime Affairs (3)
NAV 202: Navigation (3)
REL 100: Religions of the World (HU & G) (3)
REL 366: Islam in the Modern World (HU & G) (3)

Additional electives may be used with the prior approval of the department chair.
Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Students in the history or religious studies BA programs may not use HST or REL courses to meet the elective requirement for this minor.

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Career Opportunities:

The minor in military leadership provides students with the knowledge of the military as a profession, its purpose and capabilities in support of national defense. Students who complete the minor improve problem-solving abilities and enhance critical and creative thinking skills, and assists students pursuing careers in support of the Department of Defense.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: All music majors

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Attend Online:

ASU Online: ASU offers this program in an online format with multiple enrollment sessions throughout the year. Applicants may view the program description and request more information here. (<https://asuonline.asu.edu/online-degree-programs/minors/>)

Career Opportunities:

A minor can help students enhance the marketable skills they acquire in their major program and help them develop new skills apart from it, though most career areas do require more training than a minor alone can provide.

Graduates with a minor in music have additional knowledge that can help them as they pursue careers in arts administration, teaching, fundraising management or marketing.

Nonprofit Leadership and Management Minor (PPNLMMIN)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Description:

The minor program in nonprofit leadership and management empowers students to positively impact the community in which they work. The nonprofit sector in the U.S. is unique in form and function, with more than 1.6 million organizations in the U.S.

This program is ideal for ASU students who wish to earn a minor that concentrates on the management of nonprofit organizations. Coursework introduces students to the knowledge and skills required for successful professional careers with nonprofit, social sector organizations that exist to improve the quality of life of communities.

Students from various disciplines such as business, communication, education, global studies, museum studies, nursing, public affairs, religious studies, social work and sustainability find this program a beneficial supplement to their existing program as many find that the career pathways from their degree occur within nonprofit organization forms.

This program affords students the opportunity to earn the National Certified Nonprofit Professional credential awarded through the Nonprofit Leadership Alliance; <https://www.nonprofitleadershipalliance.org/credential/> (<https://www.nonprofitleadershipalliance.org/credential/>). Students seeking more information about completing the CNP credential and requirements should refer to the school website.

Program Requirements:

The minor requires 18 credit hours: 12 credit hours of required core courses and six credit hours of elective courses.

Required Core Courses -- 12 credit hours

NLM 220: Introduction to Nonprofit Organizations (3)

NLM 300: Fund Raising and Resource Development (3)

NLM 310: Volunteer Management (3)

NLM 430: Managing Nonprofit Organizations (L) (3)

Elective Courses -- 6 credit hours

Choose six credit hours from either Block A or Block B (6)

Block A - choose this block if interested in the CNP credential

Choosing Block A will help you earn the CNP credential. Please review <https://www.certifiedtochangetheworld.org/> (<https://www.certifiedtochangetheworld.org/>) for more information.

NLM 320: Professional Development Seminar (4)

Notes: This seminar is one credit hour taken for four semesters.

NLM 420: Nonprofit Leadership Alliance Institute (2)

Notes: Offered fall semester only

Block B - choose two courses if interested in minor only, without CNP credential

NLM 160: Voluntary Action and Community Leadership (SB) (3)

NLM 380: Financial Management for Nonprofit Organizations (3)

NLM 435: Service Learning for Community Development (3)

PRM 145: Special Events Management (3)

Standards

1. minimum grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) required for all courses in the minor.
2. 15 credit hours of graded classroom coursework (no internship, no independent study).
3. students should be a junior to take 400-level classes.
4. no double counting of courses for both a major and the minor.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

Incompatible Majors: BS in nonprofit leadership and management, including the American Indian studies concentration

Students pursuing the nonprofit leadership and management bachelor's degree may earn the certified nonprofit professional credential along with their major upon successfully completing both curricular and cocurricular requirements. (Students should see an advisor for details.)

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Students interested in pursuing a minor should consult their academic advisor to declare the minor and to ensure that an appropriate set of courses is taken. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and the minor. Students should contact their academic advisor for more information.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates with a nonprofit leadership and management minor find opportunities in diverse settings involving a wide range of missions, including arts and culture, environmental, health, youth development, etc. Some graduates find employment with local, grassroots, direct-service nonprofits while others find work with grant-making foundations.

Description:

The minor program in philosophy provides students with an understanding of central philosophical issues, problems and ideas; a capacity for critical thinking and analytic reasoning; and the ability to present one's positions effectively through oral and written communication.

The program is offered by the School of Humanities, Arts and Cultural Studies.

Program Requirements:

The minor in philosophy consists of 18 credit hours (a minimum of 12 credit hours must be upper division). A minimum of six upper-division credit hours must be completed through courses offered by the School of Humanities, Arts, and Cultural Studies. Students pursuing this minor will work with an academic advisor to choose and complete six courses from the list below or from the PHI subject area. Credit hours may not be shared between major and minor requirements. Six hours maximum of PHI/REL 484 and/or PHI/REL 499 may apply. All courses used to satisfy requirements for the minor must be passed with a "C" (2.00) or better.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: None

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

The minor in philosophy is open to all ASU undergraduate majors.

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates who have completed the minor in philosophy have critical thinking and strong communication skills essential to success in health care, law, public service, journalism, business and education. The minor program provides ideal preparation for careers in a wide range of careers, including:

- entrepreneur
- intelligence analyst
- lawyer
- medicine
- minister
- paralegal
- politician
- real estate agent
- teacher or professor
- writer

Philosophy Minor (LAPHIMIN)

Campus: Tempe, Online

Description:

The minor in philosophy provides students with an understanding of philosophical inquiry and method. The program offers an introduction to central themes both in the history of philosophy and in the current literature. Students in this minor have the opportunity to sharpen their critical-reasoning skills while addressing profound questions regarding the nature of:

- existence
- knowledge
- law
- morality
- politics
- science

Program Requirements:

The minor in philosophy consists of 18 credit hours, of which at least 12 must be upper division. At least six upper-division credit hours must be in courses offered by The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. Each course must be completed with a minimum grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher.

The minor in philosophy is also available to complement the studies of ASU Online students. Certain course selections below are offered as oCourses to accommodate ASU Online students.

Subdisciplinary Electives -- 18 credit hours

Subdisciplinary Elective (6)

Upper Division Subdisciplinary Elective (12)

Available subdisciplines are epistemology, ethics and political philosophy, history of philosophy, logic, and metaphysics. Students choose courses from the philosophical subdiscipline lists, with no more than two courses from any single track. Courses in the "other" list cover multiple subdisciplines and students may apply these courses within the minor without limit. Students should consult with an academic advisor in the School of Historical, Philosophical and Religious Studies about a proposed selection of courses before enrolling.

Physics Minor (LAPHYMIN)

Campus: Tempe, Online

Description:

The physics minor provides students with the fundamental concepts of physics beyond the introductory level. Through rigorous hands-on experience, students deepen their understanding of foundational concepts and develop their quantitative skills.

Students can tailor the minor through upper-division electives to enhance their career outlook.

Program Requirements:

The minor in physics requires a minimum of 24 credit hours, at least 12 of which must be completed at the upper-division level. Each course must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher.

Required Courses -- 12 credit hours

PHY 121: University Physics I: Mechanics (SQ) AND PHY 122: University Physics Laboratory I (SQ) or PHY 150: Physics I (SQ) (4)

PHY 131: University Physics II: Electricity and Magnetism (SQ) AND PHY 132: University Physics Laboratory II (SQ) or PHY 151: Physics II (SQ) (4)

PHY 252: Physics III (SQ) or PHY 241: University Physics III AND PHY 202: Programming for Physicists (4)

Electives -- 12 credit hours

Choose one of the following options for the remaining required coursework. (12-15)

Option 1

PHY 361: Introductory Modern Physics (3)

PHY 333: Electronic Circuits and Measurements or PHY 334: Advanced Laboratory I (L) (3)

PHY 201: Mathematical Methods in Physics I (CS) (<https://webapp4.asu.edu/catalog/courselist?s=PHY&l=upperdivision&t=2227&hon=F>) > PHY Upper Division Elective (6)

Option 2

PHY 201 and PHY 302 are required.

(3)

PHY 302: Mathematical Methods in Physics II (3)

Select nine additional credit hours (three courses) from the below list.

PHY 310: Classical Particles, Fields, and Matter I (3)

PHY 311: Classical Particles, Fields, and Matter II (3)

PHY 314: Quantum Physics I (3)

PHY 315: Quantum Physics II (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BS in applied physics; BS in biophysics; BA and BS in physics; BS in physics (secondary education)

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Physics Minor (LSPHYMIN)

Campus: Polytechnic

Description:

The physics minor program provides a rigorous foundation in physics with an emphasis on fundamental concepts and applied hands-on experience. The program broadens and deepens a student's understanding of the field and increases options for employment and graduate study.

The primary emphasis of the physics minor is to give students experience through applied and computational physics projects. The projects are guided by faculty with expertise in the physics of semiconductors and graphene, quantum nano-optics, laser physics and materials science.

The program is offered by the College of Integrative Sciences and Arts at the Polytechnic campus.

Program Requirements:

The minor in physics requires 23 credit hours, including a minimum of 12 upper-division credit hours. A minimum of six upper-division credit hours must be taken in courses offered by the College of Integrative Sciences and Arts. A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required in all courses.

Required Courses -- 17 credit hours

PHY 121: University Physics I: Mechanics (SQ) (3)
PHY 122: University Physics Laboratory I (SQ) (1)
PHY 131: University Physics II: Electricity and Magnetism (SQ) (3)
PHY 132: University Physics Laboratory II (SQ) (1)
PHY 314: Quantum Physics I (3)
PHY 321: Vector Mechanics and Vibration (3)
PHY 499: Individualized Instruction (3)

Electives (choose two) -- 6 credit hours

PHY 201: Mathematical Methods in Physics I (CS) (3)
PHY 302: Mathematical Methods in Physics II (3)
PHY 331: Principles of Modern Electromagnetism (3)
PHY 361: Introductory Modern Physics (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00 or higher

Incompatible Majors: BA or BS in physics

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Political Science Minor (ASPOLMIN)

Campus: West

Description:

The minor program in political science helps students gain an understanding of theory, practice and policy underlying local, national and international political processes and trains students in the research skills necessary for the analysis of complex local and global sociopolitical issues.

Students engage in a flexible program of learner-centered coursework in political theory, American political institutions, and international relations and world affairs. The curriculum focuses on international urban, race or ethnic sociopolitical areas and internships and service-learning or action research opportunities. Under the direction of faculty, students focus on intellectual and concrete policy issues in the greater Phoenix metropolitan area, Arizona, the Arizona-Mexico borderlands, the Americas, and the world.

The degree is offered by the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences.

Program Requirements:

The minor in political science consists of 18 credit hours, requiring a minimum of 12 upper-division credit hours. A minimum of six upper-division credit hours must be completed through courses offered by the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences. All courses used to satisfy requirements for the minor must be passed with a "C" (2.00) or better.

Project Management Minor (LSPROMAMIN)

Campus: Polytechnic, Tempe, Online

Description:

The minor in project management prepares students to manage complex projects and lead project management teams in a variety of professional settings. The project management minor complements many majors at ASU because project management skills enhance and enrich the skills students acquire from a variety of majors.

Students learn the skills needed to manage complex projects in fields like engineering, business, health care, information technology, sustainability, computing, public and nonprofit sectors and many more. Students learn skills in project leadership, project quality management, project risk management, project schedule management, project cost management and project resource management.

Program Requirements:

The minor in project management requires 18 credit hours, including a minimum of 12 upper-division credit hours.

Required Core Courses -- 6 credit hours

PMG 320: Foundations of Project Management (3)

PMG 321: Project Leadership, Strategy and Scope (3)

Electives (choose four) -- 12 credit hours

PMG 322: Project Time Management (3)

PMG 323: Project Cost Management (3)

PMG 324: Resources in Project Management (3)

PMG 326: Project Procurement Management (3)

PMG 421: Project Risk Management (3)

PMG 422: Project Quality Management (3)

PMG 320 is needed as a prerequisite for all 300-level minor courses and PMG 321 is required for all 400-level minor courses.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00 (university minimum)

Incompatible Majors: BA in organizational leadership (project management)

Psychology Minor (LAPGSMIN)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The minor program in psychology focuses on appreciating and understanding the human condition from a scientific, psychological point of view.

Students who complete the minor in psychology possess a breadth of knowledge across many areas of psychology. They are able to use basic research and quantitative methods to gather and synthesize psychological findings. Ultimately, they come to understand the relevance and applicability of psychological principles, approaches and findings to individual, group and social issues. In doing so, they are prepared to pursue productive careers and engage on a daily basis with the increasingly complex, information-rich world.

Program Requirements:

The minor in psychology consists of completing 22 credit hours of coursework in the foundations of psychology and the breadth within psychology categories described below. Twelve credit hours must be completed at the upper-division level, of which at least six credit hours must be completed in courses offered by The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences Department of Psychology. All courses for the minor must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better.

Required Courses -- 10 credit hours

PSY 350: Social Psychology (SB) (3)
PSY 351: Honors Social Psychology (L or SB) (3)

If a non-psychology statistics course is approved by the psychology department to substitute for PSY 230 Introduction to Statistics, an additional psychology course must be taken to complete the 22 credit hours of required psychology coursework. Internship credit, research credit, and teaching assistant credit may not be used to satisfy this requirement. For more information, please contact a psychology advisor.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BA and BS in psychology (including all concentrations)

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Career Opportunities:

Minor programs allow students to develop additional competencies that complement the marketable knowledge and skills they acquire in their majors.

Graduates with a minor in psychology are knowledgeable in the complexities of human behavior and interpersonal skills, of benefit as they pursue careers in human resources, management or marketing.

Description:

The minor program in sociology, offered by the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences, provides students with an understanding of the theory, practice and policy underlying issues of social change, inequality and diversity. These issues are approached from multiple perspectives, including race or ethnicity, gender, economic position, age, geographic location and position in the global political economy.

The student minoring in sociology learns how sociology enhances one's understanding of social realities and institutions at local, national and international levels and how it contributes to the other social sciences and to the humanities.

Students gain a basic understanding of the assumptions underlying the discipline of sociology and develop the research skills necessary for analysis of complex social issues. These objectives are met by offering a flexible program and by providing the student with individual and group experiences in working with faculty members on concrete intellectual and policy issues.

Program Requirements:

The minor in sociology consists of 18 credit hours (a minimum of 12 credit hours must be upper division). A minimum of six upper-division credit hours must be completed through the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences. A maximum of three credit hours of SOC 484 or SOC 499 may be used to fulfill the requirements of this minor. All courses used to satisfy requirements for the minor must be passed with a "C" or better. Students wishing to pursue this minor must meet with an academic advisor in the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences to construct a minor that reflects a particular area of specialty and interest.

Foundation Requirement -- 3 credit hours

SOC 101: Introductory Sociology (SB) (3)

Select one course -- 3 credit hours

SBS 303: Quantitative Methods (3)

SBS 304: Social Statistics I (CS) (3)

SOC 426: Social Inequalities (SB) (3)

SOC 486: Contemporary Theory (SB) (3)

Electives -- 12 credit hours

SOC Elective (3)

SOC Upper Division Elective (9)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BS or BA in sociology

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates are prepared for employment in corporate or governmental organizations as well as for continuation of their studies in graduate programs in sociology, social science or professional schools.

The sociological perspective is applicable to a wide variety of jobs in business, management, government, social services, the criminal justice system, and the health professions. Coursework in sociology provides a valuable preparation for careers in journalism, law, the nonprofit sector, public administration and public relations. These are all fields that involve investigative skills and an ability to work with diverse groups.

Graduates with an advanced degree in sociology may become community activists, community developers, criminologists, demographers, gerontologists, organizational advocate, research analysts, statisticians, survey researchers or urban planners.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BA in Spanish

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

The minor in Spanish is open to all ASU undergraduate students.

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Career Opportunities:

The Spanish program offers excellent preparation for graduate school or for employment as a teacher in the elementary or secondary school system, especially in those districts where bilingual programs are integral to the curricula.

Outside the education system, graduates with a minor in Spanish find employment as translators and interpreters in:

- diplomatic corps
- federal and state courts
- law enforcement agencies
- law firms
- social agencies

The business world also provides employment for those fluent in Spanish. This is especially true in the American Southwest, with its proximity to Mexico and through outlets opened by multinational trade agreements.

Special Events Management Minor (HSEVNMIN)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Description:

The minor program in special events management is designed to offer students a solid understanding of special events programming and management.

In addition to the two-tiered special events course, which provides basic and advanced instruction as well as experiential learning opportunities through event production, students are able to select electives to meet their interests.

The minor allows students enrolled in other undergraduate programs at ASU to broaden their educational experiences. Students from such various disciplines as business, communication, journalism, music, fashion and many others find this program a beneficial supplement to their existing program.

Program Requirements:

The minor requires 15 credit hours: six credit hours of required courses, and nine credit hours of elective courses.

Required Core Courses -- 6 credit hours

PRM 145: Special Events Management (3)

PRM 487: Advanced Special Events Management (3)

Notes: Offered spring semester only

Electives (choose three) -- 9 credit hours

NLM 300: Fund Raising and Resource Development (3)

NLM 310: Volunteer Management (3)

PRM 304: Recreation and Sport Planning and Facilities (L) (3)

Notes: Offered fall semester only

PRM 350: Tourism, Recreation and Sports Marketing (3)

PRM 475: Entrepreneurial Recreation and Tourism (3)

PRM 483: Sports Tourism (3)

PRM 484: Internship (3)

PRM 485: Sports Events (3)

Notes: Offered spring semester only

TDM 345: Meeting and Convention Planning (3)

TDM 458: International Tourism (G) (3)

Standards

1. 15 credit hours of graded coursework (no independent study)
2. minimum grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) required for all courses in the minor
3. should be a junior to take 400-level courses
4. no double counting of courses for a major and the minor

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

Incompatible Majors: BS in parks and recreation management; BS in tourism development and management (including all concentrations), BS in community sports management (including all concentrations)

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Statistics Minor (ASSTAMIN)

Campus: West

Description:

Data is increasingly the lifeblood of decision-making, and the discipline of statistics studies how to gain insights from data. The minor program in statistics is intended for students in STEM majors who wish to significantly increase their grasp of statistics and probability at the upper-division level.

The core courses of STP 280 and STP 281 provide foundational skills in probability, the analysis of distributions and the most common methods of inference. Later, more advanced coursework allows for specialization in nonparametric regression, statistical computing, multivariate analysis or other specialized topics.

The completion of this minor in statistics indicates to employers and graduate school admission committees that students have had significant training in the proper handling, analysis and interpretation of data.

Program Requirements:

The minor in statistics consists of 19 credit hours, of which nine must be upper-division. A minimum of six credit hours must be taken through courses offered by the School of Mathematical and Natural Sciences. All courses used to satisfy requirements for the minor must be passed with a "C" (2.00) or better.

Required Courses -- 13 credit hours

MAT 271: Calculus with Analytic Geometry II (MA) (4)

STP 280: Probability and Statistics for Researchers (CS) (3)

STP 281: Statistical Analysis for Researchers (3)

STP 310: Design and Analysis of Experiments or STP 311: Regression and Time Series Analyses (3)

Upper Division Electives -- 6 credit hours

STP 310: Design and Analysis of Experiments (3)

STP 311: Regression and Time Series Analyses (3)

STP 315: Statistical Computing (3)

STP 421: Probability (3)

STP 450: Nonparametric Statistics (3)

STP 452: Multivariate Statistics (3)

STP 460: Categorical Data Analysis (3)

STP 494: Special Topics (1-4)

STP 499: Individualized Instruction (3)

STP 494 is repeatable for different topics. STP 499 may be taken only once, up to three credit hours.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BS in statistics

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Career Opportunities:

A minor in statistics is an excellent addition for students with an interest in data and data analytics. Graduates work in a variety of fields, including government, business, health care and technology.

Statistics Minor (LASTAMIN)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The minor in statistics is beneficial for students majoring in a variety of disciplines, such as physics, engineering applications, business, economics, the life and social sciences, or to any field where there is a need for quantification in the analysis of information.

Program Requirements:

The minor in statistics requires a minimum of 18 credit hours, of which at least 12 hours must be completed at the upper-division level. All courses must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher.

STP 421 and STP 427 must be taken through The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Required Courses -- 18 credit hours

MAT 271: Calculus with Analytic Geometry II (MA) or MAT 266: Calculus for Engineers II (MA) (3-4)

MAT 272: Calculus with Analytic Geometry III (MA) or MAT 267: Calculus for Engineers III (MA) (3-4)

STP 420: Introductory Applied Statistics (CS) (3)

STP 421: Probability (3)

STP 427: Mathematical Statistics (3)

STP 429: Applied Regression (CS) (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BS in actuarial science; BS in applied mathematics; BS in computational mathematical science and statistics; BS in data science, BA and BS in mathematics (including all concentrations); BAE in secondary education (mathematics)

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Students should confer with an academic advisor in the School of Mathematical and Statistical Sciences before declaring the minor.

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and minor.

Career Opportunities:

Statistical analysis and data mining have been identified as two of the most desirable skills in today's job market. Based on factors like pay, growth and job satisfaction, statistics has been named in separate job reports as one of the best careers. The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics projects 35% growth rate in the need for employees trained in statistical analysis.

For students pursuing a minor in statistics, that means an exciting future of career opportunities in fields as diverse as business, finance, economics, engineering, technology, sports, marketing, government, health care, the environment, politics and more.

Description:

The studio art minor is an opportunity for students across ASU to pursue their interest in art and expand any career path with critical thinking and creative problem solving skills. Across six art courses, students learn art techniques and concepts. The designated coursework is flexible enough for students to concentrate in a single area of the studio arts or explore several mediums.

Program Requirements:

The minor in studio art requires 18 credit hours (nine upper division). All courses must be completed with a minimum grade of "C" (2.00).

Studio Core -- 9 credit hours

ARA 195: Art in My World (HU) (3)

ART 107: Photography as Experience (<https://webapp4.asu.edu/catalog/courselist?s=ARA&t=2227&hon=F>) > ARA OR ART Elective (3)

ART 108: Digital Literacy for the Arts or ART 109: Making as Seeing and Thinking or ART 110: Drawing as Seeing and Thinking (HU) (3)

Upper-Division Studio Courses -- 9 credit hours

ARA OR ART Upper Division Elective (9)

Notes: When selecting upper division (3XX/4XX) ART studio courses, check the prerequisites. In some cases, instructors will approve an override.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this minor.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: All studio art majors

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

Current ASU undergraduate students may pursue a minor and have it recognized on their ASU transcript at graduation. Minor requirements appear on the degree audit once the minor is added. Certain major and minor combinations may be deemed inappropriate by the college or department of either the major program or the minor. Courses taken for the minor may not count toward both the major and the minor.

Attend Online:

ASU Online: ASU offers this program in an online format with multiple enrollment sessions throughout the year. Applicants may view the program description and request more information here. (<https://asuonline.asu.edu/online-degree-programs/minors/>)

Career Opportunities:

Minor programs allow students to develop additional competencies that complement the marketable knowledge and skills they acquire in their majors. A minor in studio art can help students as they pursue careers in animation; ceramics; painting and drawing; textiles; printmaking; and sculpture, woods, and metals.

Undergraduate Programs

Undergraduate Certificates (Program Descriptions and Requirements)

Actuarial Science Certificate (LAACTCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

Actuarial science is an area of mathematical and statistical science that requires expertise in specializations of probability and interest theory, coupled with a strong foundation in accounting, finance and economics.

This certificate provides students with preparation for professional actuarial credentialing exams offered by the Society of Actuaries and the Casualty Actuarial Society.

Program Requirements:

The certificate requires a minimum of 18 credit hours, of which at least 12 credit hours must be upper division. Specific minimum course grades are required for each course, see notes below.

Required Courses -- 12 credit hours

ACT 201: Introduction to Elements and Techniques of Actuarial Science (3)

ACT 410: Mathematics of Finance (3)

ACT 415: Probability for Risk Management (3)

ACT 440: Single Life Mortality or ACT 450: Actuarial Models (3)

A grade of "B" (3.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required for ACT 201, ACT 410 and ACT 415. A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required for ACT 440 or ACT 450.

Electives (choose two courses) -- 6 credit hours

ACT 420: Ratemaking and Reserving (3)

ACT 430: Mathematics of Financial Derivatives (3)

ACT 435: Statistics for Risk Modeling (3)

ACT 440: Single Life Mortality (3)

ACT 441: Long-Term Actuarial Mathematics (3)

ACT 450: Actuarial Models (3)

ACT 451: Short-Term Actuarial Mathematics (3)

A grade of "B" (3.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required in the following courses: ACT 420, ACT 430, ACT 435.

A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required in the following courses: ACT 440, ACT 441, ACT 450, ACT 451.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Although no specific degree is required for admission to the actuarial science certificate program, a strong mathematical background is essential (found in majors such as mathematics, statistics, engineering and natural sciences). Students with a major or degree other than those listed will require additional preparation beyond the certificate. Students are required to have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") and grades of "B" or better in courses of multivariate calculus, linear algebra and introductory statistics at ASU or an equivalent institution.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Risk is a part of daily life and wherever there is risk, there are opportunities for actuarial intervention. Many actuaries work with insurance companies to calculate premiums, determine reserves needed to ensure an organization's financial health and to ensure organizations conform to stringent, complex legal mandates. Others help companies to establish retirement plans or are employed as consultants. Graduates with a certificate in actuarial science possess skills that are transferable to any industry and any organization that requires risk modeling and management, including:

- colleges and universities

- consulting firms
- energy, such as utilities, oil and gas
- environment (on issues such as climate change and the financial impact or risk of extreme events)
 - financial services, such as banking and investment management
 - government agencies such as Social Security, the Department of Labor and Medicare (to manage social programs and to develop regulations and legislation)
- insurance companies
- retirement and pensions
- transportation, such as shipping and air travel

Students can also apply the advanced problem-solving skills learned in the actuarial science certificate program to a variety of other professional careers, including:

- analysts
- business operations specialists
 - consultants
- teachers

Other courses may be used with approval from an academic advisor in the School of Social Transformation

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Program Learning Outcomes:

Program learning outcomes identify what a student will learn or be able to do upon completion of their program. This program has the following program outcomes:

- Demonstrate an understanding of the myriad local variations within the global scope of the African diaspora
- Explain the practical and experimental value and benefit of interdisciplinarity.

Career Opportunities:

Students can advance their career options with an undergraduate certificate. By adding this specialization in African and African American studies as a complement to their major program of study, students will become more attractive to employers.

Graduates who have completed this undergraduate certificate often decide to pursue employment in education, public service, and human welfare and social work. Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Applied Cybersecurity Certificate (ASACSCERT)

Campus: Polytechnic, Tempe, West

Description:

The applied cybersecurity certificate program is designed to build competencies in security operations, risk assessment, network security, and governmental and regulatory compliance in an interdisciplinary learning setting. Building upon core skills that students bring with them from their majors, students practice dealing with cyber threats and resolving issues from multiple perspectives.

The program is offered through a collaboration between the New College of Interdisciplinary Arts and Science, the Ira A. Fulton Schools of Engineering and the W. P. Carey School of Business.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in applied cybersecurity consists of 15 credit hours; a minimum of 12 upper-division credit hours must be earned at ASU. Six credit hours must be unique and not count towards a student's undergraduate degree. All courses used to satisfy requirements for the certificate must be passed with a "C" (2.00) or better. Students must select courses from more than one subject to fulfill certificate requirements.

Students must take CSE 365 or IFT 202 and one course each from groups A, B or C, and D; then one course from Group E for a total of five courses or 15 credit hours. It is recommended that the Group A course be taken concurrently with CSE 365 or IFT 202. The Group B or C and D courses must be taken after successful completion of CSE 365 or IFT 202. Group A through D courses must be completed successfully before enrolling in the Group E required course.

Required Courses -- 3 credit hours

CSE 365: Information Assurance or IFT 202: Foundations of Information and Computer System Security (3)

Electives -- 12 credit hours

Group A - Security Operations and Risk Management -- 3 credit hours

ACO 461: Security Operations (3)

CIS 401: Managing Cyber Risks in Enterprise Business Processes (3)

IFT 381: Information System Security (3)

Group B - Systems and Network Security OR Group C - Forensics/Cyber Crime -- 3 credit hours

Group B - Systems and Network Security:

ACO 431: Network Security (3)

CSE 466: Computer Systems Security (3)

CSE 468: Computer Network Security (3)

IFT 458: Middleware Programming and Database Security (3)

IFT 475: Security Analysis (3)

Group C - Forensics/Cyber Crime:

CSE 469: Computer and Network Forensics (3)

FOR 350: Computer Forensics (3)

IFT 482: Network Forensics (3)

Group D - Policy -- 3 credit hours

ACO 351: Governance, Risk and Compliance (3)

CIS 402: Privacy, Ethics and Compliance Issues (3)

CSE 467: Data and Information Security (3)

IFT 483: Developing Security Policy (3)

Group E - Project -- 3 credit hours

Students may take more than one semester of the Applied Project but only three credit hours will count towards the certificate.

ACO 484: Internship or ACO 499: Individualized Instruction (3)

CIS 440: Capstone in Information Systems (L) (3)

CSE 485: Computer Science Capstone Project I (L) or CSE 486: Computer Science Capstone Project II (L) (3)

IFT 401: Information Technology Capstone Project I or IFT 402: Information Technology Capstone Project II (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

To enroll in this certificate program, students should have completed at least 45 credit hours in their declared majors and have a cumulative GPA of 2.00 or better.

Students should pay attention to the prerequisites needed for required certificate courses and make sure to complete prerequisite courses prior to enrolling in the certificate program.

CSE 365 Information Assurance has prerequisites of ACO 240, CIS 235, CIS 236, CSE 220 or CSE 240.

Prerequisites for ACO 240: ACO 102 or CSE 205, or GIS major with GIS 222, or software engineering graduate student

Prerequisites for CIS 235: CIS 105, 200 or 220; MAT 210, 211, 270 or 271

Prerequisites for CSE 220: CSE 205

Prerequisites for CSE 240: ACO 102 or CSE 205, or GIS major with GIS 222, or software engineering graduate student

IFT 202 Foundations of Information and Computer System Security has prerequisites of IFT 101, IFT 103 and IFT 166.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

This certificate is an ideal supplement for students interested in careers in cybersecurity in both the private sector and within government agencies (FBI, Homeland Security, NSA, DOD). The certificate in applied cybersecurity provides a solid background for students interested in the following careers:

- chief information security officer
- cyber risk analyst
- information security engineer
- network security engineer
- security operations center analyst

Applied Social Sciences Certificate (ASAPSSCERT)

Campus: West

Description:

The certificate program in applied social sciences prepares students to apply social science tools to practical problems. Through collaboration, students develop case studies, engage in fieldwork, and learn both how to apply expert knowledge and how to communicate evidence. Working with stakeholders, students identify and solve problems, reform managerial structures and organizational systems, and drive social change.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in applied social sciences requires a minimum of 15 credit hours (at least 12 must be upper division), consisting of six core credit hours and nine credit hours of electives. Six credit hours must be completed through the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences in the New College of Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences. A maximum of three credit hours of individualized instruction or internship may be applied toward the certificate. A maximum of six credit hours may be shared between the certificate and a New College major.

Electives are not limited to the certificate elective list; students should see their academic advisor prior to enrollment. Students are encouraged to take courses that develop breadth rather than limiting their selection to courses in one particular discipline. Only courses in which a student receives a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher may be used to meet the certificate requirements.

Required Core Courses -- 6 credit hours

SBS 304: Social Statistics I (CS) or SBS 404: Social Statistics II: Multivariate Analysis (CS) (3)

SOC 331: Environmental Sociology (SB & G) (3)

Electives (minimum six upper-division credit hours) -- 9 credit hours

Students will select nine credit hours from courses where an applied project is assigned within a specific context. Selected courses must come from at least two of the following prefixes: ASB, JHR, POS, SBS or SOC.

ASB 339 / SBS 339 / POS 339 / SOC 339: Grassroots Social Movements (SB) (3)

ASB 340 / SOC 328: Migration and Culture (SB & G) (3)

ASB 394 / JHR 394 / POS 394 / SBS 394 / SOC 394: Special Topics (3)

ASB 442 / SBS 460: Global Cities (SB & G) (3)

ASB 484 / JHR 484 / POS 484: Internship or SBS 484: Internship or SOC 484: Internship (3)

ASB 494 / JHR 494 / POS 494 / SBS 494 / SOC 494: Special Topics (3)

ASB 499 / JHR 499 / POS 499 / SBS 499 / SOC 499: Individualized Instruction (3)

GCU 373: Introduction to Geographic Information Science (SG) (4)

JHR 305: Theory and Practice of Social Justice and Human Rights (SB & G) (3)
POS 150: Comparative Government (SB & G) (3)
POS 350: Comparative Politics (SB & G) (3)
SOC 241: Modern Social Problems (SB) (3)
SOC 331: Environmental Sociology (SB & G) (3)
SOC 371: Inequality and Sustainability (3)
SOS 111: Sustainable Cities ((HU or SB) & G) (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

The certificate program is recommended for students with academic or career interests in human resources, administration, journalism, social work, business, community and civic work as well as politics, organizing and advocacy, public policy, education and sustainability. Graduates may find employment in positions such as research specialist, research project manager, human resources manager or assistant, recruiter, education or social worker.

Arabic Studies Certificate (LAARBCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The certificate program in Arabic studies provides students with skills that enable them to communicate effectively in Arabic in the four areas of language acquisition: listening, reading, speaking and writing.

Simultaneously, students gain broad knowledge and understanding of the culture, literature and traditions of the vast Arabic-speaking world. The program provides critically needed educational and cultural diversity that enriches students' undergraduate experiences and prepares them for life as employees and employers.

Graduate students in the liberal arts, social sciences and humanities seeking academic or professional careers in any of the three disciplines also benefit from this certificate because of the added advantage the program gives them in the job market, given the demonstrably high need for graduates with knowledge of the Arabic language.

Program Requirements:

The Arabic studies certificate requires students to complete 18 credit hours of upper-division coursework. A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required for each course.

Arabic Core (choose three) -- 9 credit hours

ARB 311: Advanced Arabic Skills I or ARB 411: Advanced Arabic Skills II (G) (3)

ARB 321: Arabic Conversation I or ARB 421: Arabic Conversation II (3)

ARB 331: Arabic/Islamic Culture and Literature (HU & H & G) (3)

ARB 335: Arabic Culture and Islam (G) (3)

ARB 341: Quran Text and Women (HU & H) or ARB 351: Classical Arabic Literature (HU & G) (3)

ARB 352: Modern Arabic Literature in Translation (HU & G) or ARB 422: Advanced Arabic Media (G) (3)

Elective Courses (choose three) -- 9 credit hours

Some courses can be used either as a core course or as an elective, but no course can be counted more than once toward certificate requirements.

ARB 321: Arabic Conversation I (3)
ARB 335: Arabic Culture and Islam (G) (3)
ARB 336: Introduction to the Qur'an (G) (3)
ARB 337: Hadith and Prophetic Tradition (HU & H & G) (3)
ARB 340: Arabic Translation (3)
ARB 341: Quran Text and Women (HU & H) (3)
ARB 351: Classical Arabic Literature (HU & G) (3)
ARB 352: Modern Arabic Literature in Translation (HU & G) (3)
ARB 360: Islamic Philosophical Literature (3)
ARB 421: Arabic Conversation II (3)
ARB 422: Advanced Arabic Media (G) (3)
ARB 427: Arabic Prose: Reading the Arabian Nights (3)
ARB 428: Arab Women's Writing (HU & G) (3)
GCU 328: Geography of Middle East and North Africa (SB & G) (3)
HST 307: Studies in African History (H) (3)
HST 372: Modern Middle East (SB & G & H) (3)
REL 365: Islamic Civilization (HU & H) (3)
REL 366: Islam in the Modern World (HU & G) (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Any student accepted into an appropriate degree program at ASU can declare the certificate in Arabic studies. Requests to declare this certificate are reviewed by the academic advisor in the academic unit offering the certificate. Students may be contacted to discuss the certificate prior to the addition of the certificate to the student record.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates who have combined the certificate in Arabic studies with their major program of study may be more marketable to employers. They often decide to pursue employment in education, political analysis, the military, tourism and hospitality, or marketing.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

The certificate in arts entrepreneurship, meant to extend the study of an individual arts discipline, is available only to current students with a major within the Herberger Institute for Design and the Arts.

Students may be admitted to the certificate program upon completion of HDA 252 Foundations Arts and Design Entrepreneurship with a grade of "B" or better (scale is 4.00 = "A") and an overall GPA of 3.00 or higher. Students must submit an application to the Herberger Institute Office of Student Success. Herberger Institute students meeting the course and GPA requirements may enroll in the certificate, and a Herberger Institute advisor will add the certificate plan code to the student's record.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

The certificate in arts entrepreneurship provides an excellent foundation for those who want to work in arts management and provides each student the unique opportunity to explore their own creative process and ability to collaborate with others. Additionally, the program's liberal arts emphasis prepares graduates for a variety of careers.

Arts and Humanities in Games Certificate (ASAHGCERT)

Campus: West

Description:

The certificate program in arts and humanities in games trains students to design, develop, create and analyze games from holistic and interdisciplinary perspectives and to understand the utilization, consumption and real world impact of games in a diverse culture and society.

The goal is to make students' minds more supple, critical in thinking and expansive, through an interdisciplinary approach that encompasses the design and development of toys and games as well as the qualitative study of them. The interdisciplinary approach helps students understand the impact of play on human mental, emotional and social growth.

This program, through foregrounding arts and humanities in the study of games, provides a complementary approach to the technically based study of games offered by the ASU Ira A. Fulton Schools of Engineering.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in arts and humanities in games consists of 18 credit hours; a minimum of 12 credit hours must be upper division. A minimum of six upper-division credit hours must be completed through courses offered by the School of Humanities, Arts, and Cultural Studies. All courses used to fulfill the requirements for the certificate must be passed with a "C" (2.00) or better.

The certificate consists of six credit hours of required foundational courses, and nine credit hours from one of the following game emphasis areas: Toys and Games as Works of Art (Art Game Practitioner); Toys and Game Culture (Research Scholar); Game Writing (Game Design Practitioner); or Game Sound (Game Design Practitioner); and three credit hours of playworks portfolio.

Asian Pacific American Studies Certificate (LAAPACERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

Asian Pacific American studies educates students in social justice, the global causes and impacts of Asian and Pacific Islander migration, relational and comparative racial formations, and ethnic studies movements that have made and continue to make a difference in society for all people.

Topics include diaspora, globalization, U.S imperialism and settler colonialism, social networks, immigration, interracial and interethnic relations, and health and well-being of Asian Pacific American families and communities. The certificate program provides students with the opportunity to work with a dedicated faculty committed to community-engaged research and student-centered learning.

The Asian Pacific American studies program is housed in ASU's interdisciplinary School of Social Transformation, the only school of its kind in the United States.

Program Requirements:

The certificate consists of 18 credit hours, of which at least 12 must be completed at the upper-division level. Nine credit hours of core coursework are required and the remaining nine credit hours are selected from any of the courses with an APA subject. At least nine credit hours must be taken in residency at ASU. All courses must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better.

Required Core Courses -- 9 credit hours

APA 200: Introduction to Asian Pacific American Studies ((HU or SB) & C) (3)

APA 360: Asian Pacific American Experience ((HU or SB) & C) (3)

APA 484: Internship (3)

*One APA 360 course is required for the core. The course may be repeated for credit with these different topics: Chinese American; Filipino American; Japanese American; Multiracial Experiences; Pacific Islander.

Electives -- 9 credit hours

APA Elective (3)

APA Upper Division Elective (6)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Program Learning Outcomes:

Program learning outcomes identify what a student will learn or be able to do upon completion of their program. This program has the following program outcomes:

- Perform critical analysis of a historical or contemporary issue affecting the Asian Pacific American population drawing upon key concepts in the field of Asian Pacific American Studies.
- Summarize a range of Asian American and Pacific Islander experiences and communities within local, national and global contexts. /

Career Opportunities:

Graduates who have combined the certificate in Asian Pacific American studies with their major program of study may be more marketable to employers. They often decide to pursue employment in law, education, public service, and human welfare and social work.

Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Asian Studies Certificate (LAASNCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The Asian studies certificate supplements a bachelor's degree, providing students with knowledge of an Asian language as well as general knowledge of Asian history, art, culture and society.

Graduates possess official transcript recognition of specialization in Asian studies.

Program Requirements:

The certificate requires 24 credit hours of approved coursework, in addition to proficiency in an Asian language. Fifteen credit hours of upper-division area studies coursework must be chosen from at least four different disciplines, e.g., language and cultures, history, religious studies, anthropology, geography, political science, global studies, art and music. Courses from other disciplines may be used by approval. The remaining nine credit hours may be chosen in any combination.

At least six upper-division hours in the certificate must be in courses offered by The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. A minimum grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) is required for each course that is used to fulfill the certificate requirements.

Language Requirement

Students must demonstrate proficiency in an Asian language by completing the 201 and 202 course sequence, one year of study abroad at the intermediate level or satisfactory performance on a proficiency exam. Asian languages include Chinese, Hindi, Indonesian, Japanese, Korean, Thai, and Vietnamese.

Disciplinary Electives -- 24 credit hours

Upper Division Disciplinary Electives (15)

At least four different disciplines must be represented within the upper-division disciplinary electives (e.g., history, religious studies, global studies, anthropology). Crosslisted courses will only apply to the certificate under one discipline; students may choose the discipline that is most advantageous.

Disciplinary Electives (9)

Students select the remaining disciplinary electives from the lists below in any combination.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: None

Incompatible Majors: BA in Asia studies (East Asia); BA in Asia studies (South Asia); BA in Asia studies (Southeast Asia)

Other Admission Requirements: There are no specific admission requirements other than a student's desire to learn about Asia.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

For disclosure information about this U.S. Department of Education Gainful Employment program, students should see <https://catalog.asu.edu/files/disclosures/LAASNCERT/Gedt.pdf> (<https://catalog.asu.edu/files/disclosures/LAASNCERT/Gedt.pdf>).

Career Opportunities:

Graduates who have combined the certificate in Asian studies with their major program of study may be more marketable to employers. They often decide to pursue employment in teaching, journalism, global finance and banking, international law and global public health. Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Atmospheric Sciences Certificate (LAATMSCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

Students in the atmospheric sciences certificate program gain a focused understanding of weather, climate and the various related methods of measurement and instrumentation. The coursework is designed to give students the knowledge and skill set necessary for approaching meteorological-related programs through the lens of their primary field of study.

The curriculum of the certificate program is also associated with the requirements for certification as a meteorologist by the National Weather Service. Through completion of both the atmospheric sciences certificate and the BS program in geography with a concentration in meteorology-climatology, students acquire the skills in GIS and meteorological instrumentation required for national-level certification with the National Weather Service.

Program Requirements:

The certificate requires 19 credit hours with a "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher. At least 12 of the 19 credit hours must be upper-division coursework.

Required Courses -- 16 credit hours

GPH 213: Climate and Weather (SG) (3)

GPH 215: Climate and Weather Laboratory (SG) (1)

GPH 412: Physical Meteorology (3)

GPH 413: Meteorological Instruments and Measurement (3)

GPH 414: Climate Change (G) (3)

MAT 275: Modern Differential Equations (MA) (3)

Upper-Division Elective -- 3 credit hours

GIS 311: Geographic Information Science III (CS) (4)

GIS 341: Cartography and Georepresentation (CS) (3)

GPH 314: Global Change (HU & G) (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Applicants must have completed GPH 111 Introduction to Physical Geography, MAT 271 Calculus with Analytic Geometry II, and PHY 121 University Physics I: Mechanics with a grade of "C" or better (scale is 4.00 = "A").

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

A certificate in atmospheric sciences is a valuable addition to a degree for students looking for a career in which understanding weather systems could be beneficial, including career fields related to sustainability, resource management and more.

When combined with a BS in geography with a concentration in meteorology-climatology, students earning the certificate in atmospheric sciences are prepared for careers as meteorologists, such as those with the National Weather Service, broadcast meteorologists. They also are prepared to continue on their studies for an advanced degree.

Bilingual Education and English as a Second Language Certificate (TEESLCERT)

Campus: Tempe, ASU Sync

Description:

The certificate program in bilingual education and English as a second language prepares students to work with a growing population of culturally and linguistically diverse learners.

This certificate program allows graduates to meet requirements for endorsements in bilingual education and English as a second language through the Arizona Department of Education. This certificate program can be added to the following degree programs at Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College:

- BAE in early childhood education
- BAE in elementary education
- BAE in physical education
- BAE in secondary education
- BAE in special education

In this program, students learn and apply knowledge and skills in areas related to second language acquisition, biliteracy and bilingualism, culturally relevant and sustaining pedagogies and evidence-based instructional practices that value language diversity as an asset. Additionally, the certificate program helps students to develop critical perspectives that allow them to advocate for equitable support systems that meet the needs of linguistically diverse children and families.

This program does not lead to teacher certification.

Format option: This program is also offered via ASU Sync. ASU Sync enables students to attend live classes remotely via Zoom. Classes are designed to foster active collaboration and discussion in real-time with faculty and peers. Students can learn more about ASU Sync for undergraduates at Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College on the college's website at <https://education.asu.edu/degree-programs/undergraduate-programs/asu-sync-statewide> (<https://education.asu.edu/degree-programs/undergraduate-programs/asu-sync-statewide>).

Students on I-20 visas are not permitted to complete courses via Sync and should speak with an advisor about other options to complete this program.

Students seeking to use GI Bill® benefits for ASU Sync programs should contact the Pat Tillman Veterans Center regarding certain limitations.

GI Bill® is a registered trademark of the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs. More information about education benefits offered by VA is available on the official U.S. government website at <https://www.benefits.va.gov/gibill>.

Program Requirements:

To be eligible to apply for an English as a Second Language Endorsement or a Bilingual Education Endorsement, students must complete this certificate, complete their teacher preparation program, and provide verification of second language experience. The ESL endorsement requires second language learning experience which can be satisfied through the completion of two undergraduate foreign language classes. The BLE endorsement requires verification of proficiency in a spoken language other than English or sign language which can be satisfied through an external test. Students majoring in Special Education who want to obtain the BLE endorsement will be required to take one additional course in teaching students with exceptionalities from non-English language backgrounds.

This certificate requires 15 credit hours. A "C" or better is required in all coursework.

Required Courses -- 15 credit hours

BLE 220: Foundations of Structured English Immersion (L) or BLE 408: Structured English Immersion (SEI) Methods (L) (3)

BLE 336: Culturally Sustaining and Transformative Pedagogies (3)

BLE 338: Foundations of Second Language Acquisition and Development (L) (3)

BLE 400: Principles of Language Minority Education (3)

BLE 481: Reading Practicum (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

This certificate is only open to students majoring in the early childhood education, elementary education, special education, secondary education and physical education undergraduate teacher preparation programs in the Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College.

Students should have a valid Arizona DPS Identity Verified Print fingerprint clearance card.

A GPA of 2.25 is required for continued good standing. Students should contact the Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College for more information.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student but may not be eligible for an institutional recommendation for Arizona teaching licensure without additional preparation beyond the certificate.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates of Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College are highly sought-out teachers in public, charter and private education institutions, including the increasing number of dual-language programs.

Biomedical Research Certificate (ASBMRCERT)

Campus: West

Description:

The biomedical research certificate program combines authentic research experience conducted in laboratories of practicing academic scientists with upper-division coursework, including laboratory courses, that allow for specialization in given subject areas.

Students gain competency in addressing scientific questions in the laboratory. The certificate prepares them to be highly competitive for careers in the research sector or to pursue graduate and professional schools, such as medical school.

The program is offered by the New College of Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in biomedical research requires a minimum of 15 credit hours (at least 12 must be upper division). Twelve credit hours must be taken at ASU. Nine credit hours must be counted toward the certificate alone and may not be shared with a student's major requirements. Only courses in which a student received a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher may be used to meet certificate requirements.

Core Requirement -- 3 credit hours

STP 280: Probability and Statistics for Researchers (CS) (3)

Upper-Division Elective Requirements -- 8 credit hours

Complete at least two of the lecture/lab combinations below.

BCH 371: Modern Concepts in Biochemistry AND BCH 372: Modern Concepts in Biochemistry Laboratory (4)

BIO 353: Cell Biology AND BIO 354: Cell Biology Laboratory (4)

BIO 360: Animal Physiology AND LSC 359: Animal Physiology Laboratory (4)

BIO 443: Applied Molecular Genetics and Genomics AND LSC 447: Molecular Genetics Laboratory (4)

MIC 443: The Microbial Universe AND MIC 444: The Microbial Universe Laboratory (4)

Other Certificate Requirements (choose one option below) -- 4 credit hours

Option A -- 4 credit hours

If choosing Option A, complete three credit hours of STEM Research Fundamentals (any subject area) and one credit hour of Individualized Instruction or Supervised Research (any subject area).

ENV 388: STEM Research Fundamentals (L) AND ENV 499: Individualized Instruction (4)

FOR 388: STEM Research Fundamentals (L) AND FOR 499: Individualized Instruction (4)

LSC 388: STEM Research Fundamentals (L) AND LSC 499: Individualized Instruction (4)

PLB 388: STEM Research Fundamentals (L) AND PLB 499: Individualized Instruction (4)

PTX 388: STEM Research Fundamentals (L) AND PTX 499: Individualized Instruction (4)

Option B -- 4 credit hours

If choosing Option B, take two credit hours of Individualized Instruction or Supervised Research (any subject area) in each of two consecutive semesters.

ACO 399: Supervised Research (2)

ACO 499: Individualized Instruction (2)

ENV 499: Individualized Instruction (2)

FOR 499: Individualized Instruction (2)

Biomimicry Certificate (SUBMYCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The undergraduate biomimicry certificate is an 18 credit hour interdisciplinary opportunity for students from a variety of backgrounds and any major. The certificate program is designed to address the growing interest in biomimicry knowledge and training.

The knowledge, competencies, and skills students have upon completion of this program include the ability to:

- integrate biomimicry thinking into a discipline-specific opportunity resulting in biomimetic outcomes.
- apply Life's Principles to specific needs within one's discipline.
- facilitate the integration of biology into design within one's discipline using biomimicry thinking.
- guide processes in one's discipline towards sustainability from a biomimetic perspective.
- interpret observations in nature with a functional lens for design applications.

The biomimicry certificate consists of four core classes, one elective course within the student's discipline, and a practicum capstone course offered through either the student's discipline or BMY 430 Biomimicry Practicum.

Program Requirements:

Students must earn a grade of "B" or better in all biomimicry certificate courses.

Core Courses -- 12 credit hours

BMY 230 / BIO 230: How Nature Works (3)

BMY 302: Principles of Life (3)

BMY 304: The Practice of Biomimicry (3)

SOS 110: Sustainable World (SB) (3)

Elective -- 3 credit hours

Upper Division Elective course that is biomimicry related and ideally makes a connection between the student's major and the certificate. The elective must be approved in advance by a biomimicry advisor (who will seek final approval from The Biomimicry Center). (3)

Capstone -- 3 credit hours

Upper Division Capstone course is required. To fulfill this requirement, students may take 1) a biomimicry-focused capstone in their corresponding major with approval from their biomimicry advisor (who will seek final approval from The Biomimicry Center), 2) BMY 430: Biomimicry Practicum, OR 3) BMY 499 Independent Study (if a capstone is not available). (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Students must have a GPA of 3.00 in order to add the undergraduate certificate in biomimicry.

Advising is not required, but it is suggested that students make an appointment with a College of Global Futures advisor to review additional details about the requirements. Students can schedule an appointment through the College of Global Futures advising website:

<https://collegeofglobalfutures.asu.edu/student-life/advising/undergraduate-advising> (<https://collegeofglobalfutures.asu.edu/student-life/advising/undergraduate-advising>).

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue the graduate certificate in biomimicry.

Career Opportunities:

Completing a biomimicry certificate can help students bring about positive change. The unique knowledge and skills gained enhance a student's bachelor's degree and career prospects and help them stand out in a sea of job applicants. The certificate can complement any career path, whether it's in business, technology, science, education or government.

Brazilian Studies Certificate (LABZSCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The certificate program in Brazilian studies encourages students to create a plan of study focusing on current sociocultural influences that will allow them to compete more successfully in the global job market.

Students pursue coursework in important areas, including complementary courses in specific issues in Brazilian culture, the examination of major themes in Brazilian popular and urban culture with particular emphasis on Afro-Brazilian society, a grounding in the major texts of Brazilian literature and proficiency in the Portuguese language at the intermediate level.

Program Requirements:

The Brazilian studies certificate requires 18-20 credit hours of Portuguese language and elective culture content coursework, of which 12 credit hours must be upper division. A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required in all coursework. Students choose one two-course language sequence for a total of 6-8 credit hours of Portuguese language.

Course substitutions may be permitted for heritage speakers of Portuguese based on their proficiency level as determined by a Portuguese placement test. The language course substitution for advanced speakers of Spanish language can be satisfied by the two-course POR 320 and POR 321 sequence.

Portuguese Language -- 6 credit hours

Choose one two-course sequence for 6-8 credit hours. The upper-division two-course language sequence is 6 credit hours total.

POR 101: Elementary Portuguese I (G) AND POR 102: Elementary Portuguese II (G) (8)

POR 201: Intermediate Portuguese I (G) AND POR 202: Intermediate Portuguese II (G) (8)

POR 313: Portuguese Conversation and Culture (G) AND POR 314: Portuguese Composition and Culture (G) (6)

Notes: POR 313 and POR 314 may be applied to either Portuguese Language or to Upper-Division Electives but may not be applied and counted in both categories for this certificate.

POR 320: Portuguese for Spanish Speakers I AND POR 321: Portuguese for Spanish Speakers II (6)

Upper-Division Electives -- 12 credit hours

GCU 323: Geography of Latin America (SB & G) (3)

GCU 485 / PUP 485: International Field Studies (G) (3)

POR 313: Portuguese Conversation and Culture (G) (3)

POR 314: Portuguese Composition and Culture (G) (3)

POR 394: Special Topics (3)

POR 460: Brazilian Society Through Music (HU & G) (3)

POR 472: Luso-Brazilian Civilization (HU & G) (3)

POR 484: Internship (3)

POR 494: Special Topics (3)

POR 499: Individualized Instruction (3)

*Other courses may be used with approval from the faculty coordinator and academic advisor in the School of International Letters and Cultures.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Students can become more marketable to employers and advance their career options with an undergraduate certificate that complements their major program of study.

Students who complete this certificate in Brazilian studies along with their major often decide to pursue employment in education, political analysis, the military, tourism and hospitality, or marketing.

Civic Education Certificate (LACVECERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The civic education certificate program is geared toward students who seek to actively engage in or teach others about political issues and reforms.

Coursework in the certificate provides a strong foundation in the theories and ideologies that provide the motivation and reasoning for much political activity. In addition, a civics in action component of the program enables students to investigate how contemporary American political institutions grapple with competing interests, values and civic ideas.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in civic education is comprised of 15 credit hours in political science. At least 12 credit hours must be upper division. A minimum of six upper-division credit hours must be taken in courses offered by The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. All courses must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher.

Theoretical Foundations -- 6 credit hours

POS 210: Political Ideologies (SB) (3)

POS 442: American Political Thought (HU) (3)

Topics in Political Theory (choose one course) -- 3 credit hours

POS 340: History of Political Philosophy I (HU & H) (3)

POS 341: History of Political Philosophy II (HU & H) (3)

POS 346: Problems of Democracy (HU) (3)

POS 443: Topics in Contemporary Political Theory (HU) (3)

POS 475: Morality and Politics (3)

Civics in Action (choose two courses) -- 6 credit hours

POS 313: The Congress (SB) (3)

POS 314: The American Presidency (SB) (3)

POS 315: The Supreme Court (SB) (3)

POS 325: Public Policy Development (SB) (3)
POS 332: American Political Parties (SB) (3)

POS 435: Women and Politics (SB & C) (3)
POS 439: Minority Group Politics in America (SB & C) (3)
POS 470: Law and the Political Order (SB) (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Requests to declare this certificate are reviewed by the academic advisor in the academic unit offering the certificate. Students may be contacted to discuss the certificate prior to the addition of the certificate to the student record.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates who have combined the certificate in civic education with their major program of study may become more marketable to employers. They often decide to pursue employment in K-12 teaching (especially social studies), journalism, government or nonprofit organizations.

The civic education certificate program helps prepare undergraduate students for careers in primary and secondary education in which the teaching of government and civics may be involved. The program is also preparation for careers or participation in politics, public service, civic and social movements and for further education in law, journalism, business, history, sociology, political science, public administration, social work and other fields in which an understanding of questions of citizenship, leadership, community, democracy, public responsibility and ethics is crucial.

Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Enrollment Requirements:

Requests to declare this certificate are reviewed by the academic advisor in the academic unit offering the certificate. Students may be contacted to discuss the certificate prior to the addition of the certificate to the student record.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates who have combined the certificate in civil communication with their major program of study may be more marketable to employers. They often decide to pursue employment in social services, public policy or workplace organization.

Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Classical Studies Certificate (LACLG CERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The classical studies program offers students a wide variety of opportunities to study the language, literature and culture of the ancient Greeks and Romans. It is ideal for those students interested in pursuing a classical education in conjunction with another major or as part of their general studies.

This program is offered by The School of International Letters and Cultures.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in classical studies requires a minimum of 18 credit hours. At least 12 credit hours must be at the upper-division level. All courses must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher.

Language Requirement -- 6 credit hours

Students must complete two semesters of language courses in either Ancient Greek or Latin. (6-8)

Credit hours taken for the language requirement that exceed the required eight credit hours will be applied to ASU's 120 credit hour minimum.

ASU Language Placement: Only true beginners are eligible for 101-level courses. Students with previous experience in the language are required to take a language placement test.

Ancient Greek

Students who choose Greek must take a minimum of two semesters of language courses from the following list. The ASU Language Placement test determines what class students start with.

GRK 101: Elementary Ancient Greek (4)

GRK 201: Intermediate Ancient Greek (4)

GRK 301: Ancient Greek Literature I (HU) (3)

GRK 302: Ancient Greek Literature II (HU) (3)

Notes: GRK 302 can be taken twice if needed to reach two semesters of credit. It may also be repeated to count toward the Classical Studies Electives Requirement.

Latin

Students who choose Latin must take a minimum of two semesters of language courses from the following list. The ASU Language Placement test determines what class students start with.

LAT 101: Elementary Latin (4)

LAT 102: Elementary Latin (4)

LAT 201: Intermediate Latin I (HU) (4)

LAT 202: Intermediate Latin II (HU) (4)

LAT 421: Roman Literature (HU) (3)

Notes: LAT 421 can be taken twice if needed to reach two semesters of credit. It may also be repeated to count toward the Classical Studies Electives Requirement.

Classical Studies Electives (choose four) -- 12 credit hours

SLC 344 / LAT 344 / GRK 344: Classics and Comics (HU) (3)

SLC 351 / GRK 351: Tales of Troy (HU & H) (3)

SLC 352 / GRK 352: The Rise and Fall of Ancient Athens (HU & H) (3)

SLC 353 / GRK 353: Alexander and His Empires (HU & H) (3)

SLC 356 / LAT 356: Rome from Village to Empire (3)

SLC 357 / LAT 357: Rome's First Emperor (HU & H) (3)

SLC 360 / LAT 360 / GRK 360 / HST 397: Greece and Rome at War (3)

SLC 361 / LAT 361 / REL 361: Roman Religion (HU) (3)

SLC 362 / GRK 362 / REL 360: Ancient Greek Religion (HU) (3)

SLC 363 / LAT 363 / GRK 363: Ancient Magic and Witchcraft (3)

SLC 444 / LAT 444 / GRK 444: Heroes, Ancient and Modern (L or HU) (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Communication Sciences and Disorders Certificate (NHCSDCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The postbaccalaureate certificate in communication sciences and disorders is for students who have already received a bachelor's degree in another discipline but wish to pursue a master's degree in speech-language pathology or communication disorders.

The coursework provides students with the prerequisite background and knowledge necessary to perform at the master's degree level in the field.

Completion of the postbaccalaureate certificate does not guarantee admission to ASU's graduate program, but it enables students to meet the requirements of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association to enter master's degree programs in speech-language pathology or communication disorders.

Program Requirements:

The certificate requires 27 credit hours. A "C" minimum is required for all courses in the certificate, although students must maintain a 3.00 GPA in the certificate program.

Required Courses -- 27 credit hours

SHS 250: Introduction to Phonetics (3)

SHS 310: Anatomical and Physiological Bases of Speech (3)

SHS 311: Hearing Science (3)

SHS 367: Language Science (SB) (3)

SHS 375: Speech Science (3)

SHS 401: Principles of Audiology (3)

SHS 402: Clinical Methods and Treatment of Communication Disorders (3)

SHS 496: Aural Rehabilitation (3)

SHS 565: Speech and Language Acquisition (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Prospective students must have earned a bachelor's degree in a field outside of speech and hearing science with a minimum GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A").

Students interested in this certificate should apply for university admission as nondegree-seeking graduate students and submit a supplemental application to the program.

More information is available on the program website at <https://chs.asu.edu/programs/communication-sciences-and-disorders> (<https://chs.asu.edu/programs/communication-sciences-and-disorders>).

Career Opportunities:

This certificate program provides post-baccalaureate students with the academic preparation needed to apply to graduate programs in communication sciences and disorders. The program is also preparation for those who wish to transition into the speech-language pathology assistant certificate with the eventual goal of becoming a speech-language pathology assistant.

Communication Training and Assessment Certificate (ASCTACERT)

Campus: West

Description:

The certificate program in communication training and assessment prepares students to assess communication skills in business, professional and community settings and to develop training efforts that help others improve their communication skills.

Access to the award-winning, state-of-the-art CommLab at ASU's West campus facilitates skill development in communication training, presentation skills, professional development and assessment practices.

The combination of relevant coursework and hands-on experience developed through CommLabASU provides students with the knowledge and expertise necessary to train others in a variety of professional and community settings.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in communication training and assessment requires a minimum of 18 credit hours (at least 12 credit hours must be upper division). The certificate consists of 12 credit hours of core requirements and six credit hours of electives. At least nine credit hours must be completed through the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences in the New College of Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences. A maximum of six credit hours may be shared between the certificate and a major. Only courses in which a student received a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher may be used to meet the certificate requirements.

Core Requirements -- 12 credit hours

COM 225: Public Speaking (L) or COM 325: Advanced Public Speaking and Presentations (L) or COM 342: Oral History and Storytelling (3)

COM 383: Communication and Mentoring or COM 483: Advanced Communication and Mentoring (3)

COM 453: Communication Training and Development (3)

COM 482: Communication, Instruction and Training (3)

Electives -- 6 credit hours

COM 230: Small Group Communication (SB) (3)

COM 259: Communication in Business and the Professions (3)

COM 312: Communication, Conflict, and Negotiation (3)

COM 319: Persuasion and Social Influence (SB) (3)

COM 353: Professional Communication (3)

COM 415: Risk Communication (3)

COM 430: Leadership in Group Communication (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

The certificate in communication training and assessment provides a solid background for positions such as:

- advertising and promotions managers
- human relations managers
- marketing associates
- marketing managers
- mediators
- public relations specialists
- public relations and fundraising managers
- sales managers
- training and development managers

THP 483: Acting: Viewpoints and Composition (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

A minimum GPA of 3.00 is required to complete the certificate. The certificate is administered through the Office of Student Success in the Herberger Institute and through the Design and Arts Corps and is open to all undergraduate students admitted to ASU.

Students enrolled in the BA in the Arts in the Herberger Institute must complete three additional credit hours of coursework unique to the certificate program that does not also count toward their major (this is due to the overlapping requirements of HDA 210 and HDA 310).

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

This certificate program allows students to develop unique pathways that also earn micro-credentials across a broad range of competencies including ethical communication, group facilitation, project structuring and evaluation, project management, ethics and asset-based community cultural development. These competencies prepare graduates for excellence in a range of occupations.

Computational Life Sciences Certificate (LACLSICERT)

Campus: Tempe, Online

Description:

The computational life sciences certificate program introduces students to a burgeoning new field. Huge leaps in processing technologies have thrown open the doors for new research techniques and exciting opportunities for interdisciplinary collaborations.

Students are introduced to a suite of tools and approaches that enable them to uncover correlations, glean new understanding, and help solve scientific problems.

Students examine many different types of data generated from a wide range of fields, including ecology, botany, evolutionary biology, neuroscience, molecular and cellular biology, and animal behavior. Students investigate topics such as DNA, RNA, protein, imaging, conservation and even historical data from long-term ecological research sites.

Finally, students also explore the ethical implications of collecting, analyzing and sharing the results of computational life sciences data.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in computational life sciences requires a minimum of 15 credit hours, of which at least 12 credit hours must be upper division. The core consists of one computing course and one ethics course. A minimum of nine credit hours in elective courses complete the certificate. The computing course not used toward the core requirements may be used toward the elective credit hours. A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher is required for all courses used toward the certificate.

Required Courses -- 6 credit hours

BIO 312 / PHI 320: Bioethics (HU) or BIO 316 / HPS 330: History of Biology: Conflicts and Controversies (H) or BIO 317 / HPS 323: History of Science II (HU & H) or BIO 318 / HPS 331: History of Medicine (HU & H) or BIO 416 / HPS 410: Biomedical Research Ethics (L) (3)
BIO 439: Computing for Research or BIO 440 / MBB 440: Functional Genomics (3)

Electives -- 9 credit hours

BIO 355 / MAT 355 / MBB 355: Introduction to Computational Molecular Biology (CS) (3)
BIO 411: Quantitative Methods in Conservation and Ecology (4)
BIO 415: Statistical Models for Biology (CS) (4)
BIO 439: Computing for Research (3)

BIO 440 / MBB 440: Functional Genomics (3)
BIO 494: Data Analysis in Neuroscience (3)
BIO 494: Data Analysis and Visualization in R (3)
BIO 494: Genomic Analysis (3)
BIO 498: Programming for biologists (1)
BME 494: Systems Biology of Disease (3)
BMI 311: Modeling Biomedical Knowledge (3)
BMI 312: Modeling Biomedical Data (3)
BMI 330: Topics in Translational Bioinformatics (3)
DAT 301: Exploring Data in R and Python (4)
GIS 469 / SOC 469: Multivariate Statistics for Social Sciences (3)
GIS 471: Spatial Statistics for Geography and Planning (3)
MAT 353: Mathematics and Cancer (3)
MAT 451: Mathematical Modeling (CS) (3)

If not used as the required computing course, students may include BIO 439 or BIO 440 as a certificate elective.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Attend Online:

ASU Online: ASU offers this program in an online format with multiple enrollment sessions throughout the year. Applicants may view the program description and request more information here. (<https://asuonline.asu.edu/online-degree-programs/minors/>)

Career Opportunities:

In the life sciences, employers need scientists who are skilled in understanding and interpreting data, and those who have experience using new computational approaches and computer programs are in particular demand.

Graduates who have combined the certificate in computational life sciences with their major program of study often decide to pursue employment in ecology, medicine, botany, evolutionary biology, neuroscience, molecular and cellular biology, or animal behavior, and they work to identify and interpret data in the respective field.

Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Computer Gaming Certificate (ESSCICERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The computer gaming certificate program is designed to provide a game development skill set that the student can apply to domain-specific applications in the student's major. The skill set includes architecture of game engines, art design and computer graphics for gaming, and game software development.

In this certificate program, students learn to apply gaming technology to the rapidly growing video game industry and to business, medicine, geography, biotechnology and education. Examples of projects include:

- building a game that teaches linear algebra by incorporating trigonometric rules into the game design
- creating a game that teaches correct sentence construction to beginning learners of English
- creating a game to help patients with physical therapy

- creating an interactive virtual world for corporate training
- designing a game platform incorporating geographic information systems
- inventing a surgical simulation to educate medical students

Program Requirements:

Students will complete nine credit hours of core courses (including a final capstone project) and nine credit hours of elective courses. The certificate requires 12 credit hours of upper-division coursework. All courses must be passed with a "C" or better. Students need to allow at least three years to complete the certificate program due to the prerequisite structure.

Core Courses -- 9 credit hours

CPI 111: Game Development I (CS) (3)

CPI 211: Game Development II (3)

CPI 441: Gaming Capstone (3)

Notes: CPI 441 is only offered in Spring semesters

Electives -- 9 credit hours

CPI 311: Game Engine Development (3)

Notes: CPI 311 is only offered in Fall semesters

CPI 321: Fundamentals of Game Art (3)

Notes: CPI 321 is only offered in Spring semesters

CPI 394: Game Design Fundamentals (3)

CPI 411: Graphics for Games (3)

Notes: CPI 411 is only offered in Spring semesters

CPI 421: 3-D Modeling and Texturing (3)

Notes: CPI 421 is only offered in Fall semesters

CPI 462: Design for Learning in Virtual Worlds (3)

Notes: CPI 462 is offered infrequently

CPI 484: Internship (3)

FMS 394: Video Games and Narrative (3)

SER 431: Advanced Graphics (3)

Notes: SER 431 is offered infrequently

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

The computer gaming certificate is open to any student admitted to an undergraduate degree program at ASU and in good academic standing. This certificate can also be used by interdisciplinary studies BA students as part of their degree program.

All students are eligible to take CPI courses.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Students can advance their career options with an undergraduate certificate. The certificate in computer gaming helps students become more marketable to employers in the gaming industry by adding this specialization to complement their major program of study.

Convention Sales and Meeting Planning Certificate (PPTDMCERT)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Description:

The certificate program in convention sales and meeting planning provides students a solid foundation in convention sales and management and incorporates the scope of convention properties, budgeting, contracting and risk management. Students can explore this exciting growth industry, learn marketing and sales strategies to attract convention and meeting markets, and learn the techniques required for meeting the needs of meeting and convention services.

The U.S. meetings, conventions and exhibitions industry generates more than $120 billion a year, supporting nearly two million jobs.

Phoenix alone is a major convention and meeting destination. There is a need for qualified professionals to service conventions and meetings, due in large part to the $600 million investment in the Phoenix Convention Center expansion, development of new hotels and other visitor-related products, and the steady influx of corporate headquarters relocating to the greater Phoenix area.

The certificate, which has been endorsed by the Greater Phoenix Convention and Visitors Bureau and the Arizona Sunbelt Chapter of Meeting Professionals International, enhances a graduate's career opportunities as a tourism professional.

Program Requirements:

The certificate requires 15 credit hours: three required core courses (nine credits) and two elective courses (six credits). Courses taken as part of a university major may count toward that degree and the certificate. Requirements can be met online. All core classes and some elective classes are taught online at least once a year. To earn the certificate, students must complete a minimum of 12 upper-division credit hours. An application to the program is required.

Required Core Courses -- 9 credit hours

TDM 345: Meeting and Convention Planning (3)

TDM 350: Tourism, Recreation and Sports Marketing (3)

TDM 386: Convention Sales and Management (3)

Electives (choose two, one must be upper-division) -- 6 credit hours

NLM 310: Volunteer Management (3)

PRM 145: Special Events Management (3)

TDM 205: Introduction to Travel and Tourism (G) (3)

TDM 225: Introduction to Resort and Hotel Management (3)

TDM 458: International Tourism (G) (3)

Standards

1. Fifteen credit hours of graded classroom coursework are required (no internship, no independent study).
2. A minimum "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) grade is required for all classes in the certificate.
3. A minimum GPA of 2.00 is required for those pursuing the certificate.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

The field of convention sales and meeting planning comprises a multitude of areas, including fundraising, recruitment, coordination, supervision and a variety of management responsibilities. The demand for professionals is strong, and this program provides an excellent foundation for enhancing career opportunities nationally, regionally and locally.

Correctional Studies Certificate (PPCRTSCERT)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Description:

The certificate program in correctional studies educates students about a variety of components that make up the corrections system.

It is designed to provide students with understanding and knowledge of the histories, philosophies and contemporary practices of both institutional and community corrections. The program emphasizes evidence-based best practices concerning the rehabilitation of correctional clients to reduce recidivism.

Program Requirements:

Required Courses -- 15 credit hours

CRJ 100: Introduction to Criminal Justice (SB) (3)

CRJ 240: Introduction to Corrections (3)

CRJ 443: Community Corrections (3)

CRJ 444: Institutional Corrections (3)

CRJ 445: Tools for Engaging Correctional Populations (3)

Elective Courses (choose one) -- 3 credit hours

CRJ 317: Inside-Out Prison Exchange Program (3)

CRJ 394: Special Topics (3)

Notes: Only approved corrections-related topics

CRJ 406: Sex Crimes (3)

CRJ 411: Legal Issues in Corrections (3)

CRJ 434: Drugs of Abuse (3)

CRJ 435: Crime and Forensic Mental Health (SB) (3)

CRJ 484: Internship (3)

CRJ 494: Special Topics (3)

Notes: Only approved corrections-related topics

Special Topics courses (CRJ 394 and CRJ 494) will be designated and approved by departments and schools. Students will need to work with an advisor in order to select appropriate special topics courses that are approved for credit in the correctional studies certificate program.

At least 15 credit hours must be taken in residence at ASU.

Lower-division courses such as CRJ 100 (Introduction to Criminal Justice) and CRJ 240 (Introduction to Corrections) may be used to satisfy the requirements of any major or a minor at ASU, as well as requirements for the certificate program in correctional studies. No upper-division courses in criminology and criminal justice, however, may be used to satisfy the requirements of the certificate program in correctional studies and either the major or minor in criminology and criminal justice. For example, students majoring or minoring in criminology and criminal justice may not use CRJ 394, CRJ 406, CRJ 411, CRJ 434, CRJ 435, CRJ 443, CRJ 444, CRJ 445, CRJ 484, or CRJ 494 to satisfy the requirements of the certificate in correctional studies and either the major or minor in criminology and criminal justice.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Students must complete CRJ 100 Introduction to Criminal Justice with a grade of "C" or better (scale is 4.00 = "A") in order to be admitted to the certificate program. This course may be taken in residence at ASU or may be transferred from other institutions, including community colleges. Because this course is a requirement for the bachelor's degree program and the minor in criminology and criminal justice, its completion satisfies the requirements of the major or minor and satisfies the prerequisite requirement for admission to the certificate program in correctional studies.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates of the correctional studies certificate program find a strong job market in the public and private sectors. Employment opportunities exist in supervisory and management positions in criminal justice agencies (federal, state and local) including National Institute of Corrections, Federal Bureau of Prisons, and local and state-level corrections departments. Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Creative City Certificate (PPURBCERC)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Description:

Students in this program explore best practices in a global context and develop asset-based proposals, including implementation plans, for specific locales.

The creative city certificate adds value to other majors as well as work and life experience for students aspiring to assume leadership roles in improving quality of life, specifically by enhancing quality of place.

Cities are centers of human creativity and cultural innovation; they both attract and breed these qualities of urban areas. Such creativity and innovation are apparent in the vitality of the arts as well as that of businesses (large and small), research (basic and applied) and the everyday life unique to any given locale. These are the ingredients that make places sustainable, economically, socially and environmentally, by endowing a sense of place along with a sense of community.

This certificate also serves professionals in the community working in the areas of community development, land-use law, parks and recreation, philanthropy, planning, public art, urban governance and others.

Flexible class times and locations make the program a viable option for those unable to attend classes during the day.

Program Requirements:

The creative city certificate consists of 15 credit hours of coursework. All courses must be taken at ASU. A "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required in all coursework.

Required Core Courses -- 6 credit hours

PAF 405: Citizen Engagement and Community Building (3)

PAF 406: Public Administration and Community Development (3)

Elective Courses -- 9 credit hours

CRD 301: Sustainable Communities (3)

CRD 302: Inclusive Community Development (SB & C) (3)

GRA 401: Creative Environment (3)

NLM 160: Voluntary Action and Community Leadership (SB) (3)

NLM 220: Introduction to Nonprofit Organizations (3)

NLM 300: Fund Raising and Resource Development (3)

NLM 402: Assessment and Evaluation of Community Services (3)

PAF 220: Introduction to Urban America (3)

PAF 420: Managing Across Boundaries (3)

PRM 120: Leisure and the Quality of Life (SB) (3)

PRM 210: Leisure Delivery Systems (3)

TDM 448: Heritage and Cultural Tourism (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Students receiving this certificate are prepared to pursue a career in a field related to public administration or public policy, particularly in the areas of participatory governance and public engagement. This may include opportunities as either a manager or policy analyst in local, state or federal agencies, nonprofit organizations, and private organizations whose work interfaces with the public sector.

Criminal Investigations Certificate (PPCRICERT)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix, West

Description:

The certificate in criminal investigations educates students about a variety of aspects of criminal investigations and criminalistics. It is designed to provide students of the social sciences, natural sciences, humanities and public services with an understanding of the nature of criminal evidence; the language of forensic science; the scope, probative value and limitations of a variety of investigative specializations and their techniques; and an appreciation of how forensic investigative methods are used in the quest for justice.

The certificate program allows students to satisfy at least two of their General Studies requirements, the SQ and SB, in a thematic manner.

This program is not designed to prepare students for work in a crime laboratory.

Program Requirements:

Required Courses -- 12 credit hours

- CRJ 100: Introduction to Criminal Justice (SB) (3)
- CRJ 210: Introduction to Criminal Investigations (3)
- CRJ 211: Documenting the Crime Scene (3)
- CRJ 410: Criminal Procedure I: The Law of Investigations (3)

Elective Courses (choose three) -- 9 credit hours

- CRJ 321: Evidence: Imperatives of Proof (3)
- CRJ 433: Death Investigations: Principles of Forensic Medicine (3)
- CRJ 434: Drugs of Abuse (3)
- CRJ 435: Crime and Forensic Mental Health (SB) (3)
- CRJ 450: Crime Analysis (3)
- CRJ 484: Internship (1-6)
- CRJ 494: Special Topics (3)

Notes: only in approved investigations-related topics

- FOR 350: Computer Forensics (3)
- FOR 394: Special Topics (3)

Notes: only in approved investigations-related topics

- FOR 410: Testimony and Ethics in the Forensic Sciences (L) (3)
- FOR 484: Internship (1-6)

1. Special Topics courses (FOR 394 and CRJ 494) will be designated and approved by departments and schools. Students will need to work with an advisor in order to select appropriate special topics courses that are approved for credit in the criminal investigations certificate program.
2. At least 12 credit hours must be taken in residence at ASU.
3. A "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required in all course work required for the certificate.
4. Upper-division course work may not be used to satisfy the requirements of both a major and the certificate. Thus, if any elective courses in the certificate program are being used to satisfy the requirements of a major, different elective courses must be taken to satisfy the requirements of the certificate program. For example, students majoring in criminology and criminal justice may not use CRJ 321, CRJ 410, CRJ 433, CRJ 434, CRJ 435, CRJ 450, CRJ 484 or CRJ 494 to satisfy the requirements of the major and the certificate in criminal investigations. Similarly, students majoring in forensic science may not use FOR 350, FOR 410 or FOR 484 to satisfy the requirements of the major and the certificate in criminal investigations.

Prerequisite Information

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

CRJ 100 Introduction to Criminal Justice, SB (3) is a prerequisite requirement to enroll in CRJ 210, CRJ 211, CRJ 433, CRJ 434, CRJ 435, CRJ 484 and CRJ 494.

ACO 100 All About Data: Design, Query, and Visualization, CS (3) is a prerequisite requirement to enroll in FOR 350 Computer Forensics.

Either FOR 286 Principles of Forensic Science (3) or the two semester sequence in FOR 105 and FOR 106 is a prerequisite requirement to enroll in FOR 410 Professional Practices in Forensic Science, L (3). ENG 102 or 105 or 108 are also prerequisites for FOR 410.

The completion of at least 45 credit hours is a prerequisite requirement to enroll in FOR 484 Internship.

Enrollment Requirements:

Students must complete the following prerequisite courses with a grade of "C" or higher (scale is 4.00 = "A") in order to be admitted to the certificate program. These courses may be taken in residence at ASU or may be transferred in from other institutions, including community colleges.

The following prerequisite courses are required for admission to the certificate program:

For students majoring in the social sciences, humanities or the arts:*

FOR 105 Physical Evidence and the Crime Scene, SQ (4) and

FOR 106 Biology Behind the Crime Scene, SQ (4)

For students majoring in the natural sciences:*

FOR 286 Principles of Forensic Science (4)

*Neither FOR 105 nor FOR 106 have any prerequisites. These courses are designed for students majoring in the social sciences, humanities or arts to meet the natural science requirement of ASU's General Studies program. Thus, students not majoring in the natural sciences who wish to declare the certificate program in criminal investigations must complete the two-course sequence in FOR 105 and FOR 106. In contrast, students majoring in the natural sciences, including forensic science, should not take FOR 105 and FOR 106; they need only complete FOR 286: Principles of Forensic Science, which has prerequisite requirements of BIO 181, BIO 182, CHM 113 and CHM 116.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates of the criminal investigations certificate program find a strong job market in the public and private sectors. Employment opportunities exist in:

- bank fraud
- the courts
- domestic terrorism
- federal agencies
- forensics
- homeland security
- law enforcement
- legal offices

Graduates also may pursue advanced degrees in law, criminology and criminal justice, and other social science disciplines. Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Cross-Sector Leadership Certificate (PPCSLDCERT)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Description:

The certificate program in cross-sector leadership provides a comprehensive overview of leading solutions to complex social challenges by integrating the public, private, nonprofit and military sectors.

Students engage in a systems-thinking approach to real-world challenges faced by local and global communities, explore the diverse characteristics and motives of each sector in engaging in cross-sector collaborations, and master processes to formalize such partnerships. Students gain leadership skills, such as leading change within and between organizations across multiple sectors, and they learn to use human-centered design, social entrepreneurship and other approaches when tackling community challenges. Students study values-based leadership and how individual, organizational and sector values can drive a leader's ability to act. Students end the program with a thesis or applied project that integrates the theories, procedures and concepts learned in the certificate courses with experiences from the students' internships in each sector.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in cross-sector leadership is a requirement for, and is limited to, participants in the Public Service Academy's Next Generation Service Corps, a four-year leadership development track that engages future civilian leaders in the public, private and nonprofit sectors to engage in collaboration and change in the context of social challenges in which they hold interest. Students are required to maintain a 3.00 ASU GPA, a 3.00 GPA across certificate courses and demonstrate forward academic progress to maintain enrollment in the certificate as well as the Next Generation Service Corps. ROTC students also may pursue the certificate, but must maintain a 3.00 GPA in certificate courses.

Required Courses -- 12 credit hours

PAF 115: Foundations of Cross Sector Leadership (1)

PAF 215: NGSC Community Impact Lab (2)

PAF 311: Leadership and Change (SB) (3)

PAF 315: Cross-Sector Collaboration (3)

PAF 415: Social Entrepreneurship (3)

Elective (choose one) -- 3 credit hours

PAF 394: NGSC Leadership Instruction (3)

PAF 421: Leadership Capstone (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Enrollment in the 15-credit hour certificate program in cross-sector leadership is offered only to students participating in ASU's Next Generation Service Corps or in the Reserve Officers Training Corps. Enrollment requirements for the certificate are the same as admission requirements for the Next Generation Service Corps or Reserve Officer Training Corps (by request). Public Service Academy staff and the Watts College of Public Service and Community Solutions Dean's Office enroll the students.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree.

Career Opportunities:

Students can advance their career options with an undergraduate certificate.

Graduates of the certificate in cross-sector leadership have acquired a unique knowledge of cross-sector collaboration, advanced leadership skills, and an understanding of how to use these, and this complement to their major program of study may make them more marketable to employers.

Cryptology Certificate (LACRYCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

Cryptology is the art and science of making and breaking codes and ciphers. The certificate program in cryptology is designed to provide a strong foundation in the mathematical topics that are most applicable to modern cryptosystems. It also provides specialized knowledge required for understanding and working in the field of mathematical cryptology.

Program Requirements:

This certificate requires 18 credit hours. A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required for all courses.

Required Courses -- 12 credit hours

MAT 440: Group Theory or MAT 444: Intermediate Abstract Algebra (3)

MAT 445: Theory of Numbers (3)

MAT 447: Cryptography I (3)

MAT 448: Cryptography II (3)

Electives (select two) -- 6 credit hours

MAT 415: Introduction to Combinatorics (3)

MAT 416: Graph Theory (3)

MAT 441: Ring Theory (3)

STP 421: Probability (3)

STP 427: Mathematical Statistics (3)

Students may substitute an approved cryptography-related internship for 3 credit hours of elective coursework.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

This program has additional admission requirements; students should see a college advisor for details. Applicants should be in good academic standing with a "B" or better (scale is 4.00 = "A") in MAT 300 Mathematical Structures or the equivalent.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

A certificate in cryptology offers a wide variety of career possibilities. Some students pursuing this certificate are interested in areas such as government, business, financial, medical and educational institutions. All of these institutions require skill sets involved in securing data, and this program assists students in developing these skills.

Data Science Certificate (ASDTSCERT)

Campus: West

Description:

The data science certificate program combines the strengths of database skills with interdisciplinary computational statistics.

The program provides students with an understanding of the computational and statistical methods used to extract insights from complex datasets and provides hands-on experience with them. In particular, it includes courses that cover key techniques for the different stages of the data science process: data collection, data processing for small and big data, data cleaning, exploratory data analysis, data visualization, predictive modeling with machine learning techniques and statistical modeling.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in data science consists of 15 upper-division credit hours. A minimum of six upper-division credit hours must be completed through courses offered by the School of Mathematical and Natural Sciences. A maximum of 6 credit hours may be shared between certificate and major coursework. All courses used to satisfy requirements for the certificate must be passed with a "C" (2.00) or better.

Required Courses -- 9 credit hours

ACO 320: Database Systems (3)

ACO 423: Data Science (3)

STP 315: Statistical Computing (3)

Electives (choose two courses) -- 6 credit hours

ACO 321: Database Development & Applications (3)

ACO 420: Big Data Systems (3)
ACO 421: Data Mining and Warehousing (3)
BMI 311: Modeling Biomedical Knowledge (3)
BMI 312: Modeling Biomedical Data (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Prerequisites for this certificate are:

ACO 201 Data Structures and Algorithms (3)
MAT 243 Discrete Mathematical Structures (3) or MAT 300 Mathematical Structures (3)
STP 226 Elements of Statistics (3)

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

A certificate in data science helps prepare students who have an interest in databases and statistics. Possible careers include data scientist, machine learning scientist or engineer, applications architect, data architect and data engineer.

Desert Food Production Certificate (LSDFPRCERT)

Campus: Polytechnic

Description:

The certificate program in desert food production equips students interested in producing foods locally with the knowledge and skills they need in order to grow edible plants and to navigate the challenges unique to desert climates.

Coursework in the program emphasizes organic food production, sustainable horticultural technologies, green waste reduction, water conservation, maintaining biodiversity and biological cycles, and enhancing soil quality.

Students gain marketable skills that enable them to participate in the growing trend of producing and supporting the consumption of local foods.

Program Requirements:

The desert food production certificate requires a minimum of 18 credit hours.

A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required in all courses.

Required Courses -- 12 credit hours

ABS 260: Fundamentals of Sustainable Horticulture (SG) (4)
ABS 368: Plant Propagation (3)
ABS 460: Organic Gardening (2)
ABS 464: Desert Horticulture (3)

Elective Courses -- 6 credit hours

At least four credit hours of certificate electives must be from upper-division courses.

No more than two credit hours of ABS 484 Internship may be counted toward the certificate requirements.

ABS 225: Soils (SQ) (3)
ABS 226: Soils Laboratory (SQ) (1)
ABS 360: Southwest Home Gardening (2)
ABS 462: Greenhouse/Nursery Management (4)

ABS 484: Internship (2)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

Incompatible Majors: None

Other Enrollment Requirements: None

This certificate is open to students in any major.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Students can advance their career options with an undergraduate certificate.

Graduates who combined the certificate in desert food production with their major program of study may be more marketable to employers. Those who complete this undergraduate certificate along with their major often decide to pursue employment in nursery and greenhouse management, food science or farm and ranch management.

Digital Business Innovation Certificate (BADBICERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

This certificate program in digital business innovation provides students with a broad overview of modern-day digital information systems. It gives exposure to modern tools for transforming business processes, maintaining digital presence and developing analytical insights.

Students who complete the program are well suited for the business landscape, phenomenally transformed in recent years by digital innovations.

Program Requirements:

The digital business innovation certificate is available to all majors. To earn the certificate, students must complete all courses with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a scale of 4.00) or better. No more than six credit hours may be shared between the certificate and other degree programs, minors, and/or other certificates.

Required Courses -- 18 credit hours

Digital Culture Certificate (HIDGCCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The digital culture certificate program in the Herberger Institute for Design and the Arts focuses on the creative exploration of how new media is influencing culture, or rather the way people live, learn, create and communicate.

Pursuing the digital culture certificate allows students to enhance their program of study with integrated, transdisciplinary training in creative processes and technical skills in new media with cultural applications.

The School of Arts, Media and Engineering educates the next generation of learners and empowers them with technofluency --- its development, application and implications. The School of Arts, Media and Engineering prepares students to be socially aware, critically thinking global citizens who strive to bring about positive change in a society that is increasingly shaped by new technologies.

Program Requirements:

The digital culture certificate requires 18 credit hours, of which 12 are upper division.

A minimum grade of a "C" (2.00) and an overall GPA of 3.00 is required in all courses in the certificate program. Courses in the certificate program may not be used as part of a major. All upper-division certificate coursework must be taken at ASU.

Required Courses -- 6 credit hours

AME 111: Introduction to Digital Culture (CS) (3)

AME 112: Computational Thinking for Digital Culture or AME 230: Programming for the Media Arts (CS) (3)

Digital Culture Studies -- 6 credit hours

Generous substitution rules allow for course flexibility. Students receiving the digital culture certificate can petition to substitute up to six credit hours. Three credit hours can come from any course related to digital culture through courses offered by any ASU unit on any ASU campus, including the interdisciplinary arts and performance program on the West campus and the film and media studies program on the Tempe campus. Courses may include any on the list of related subjects and substitutions (shown above) or courses with comparable content.

The other three substitution hours can be achieved through the following path:

The three-hour media arts and design course requirement may be substituted with a three-hour course in the digital culture-related category. Students who earn a digital culture certificate cannot earn a minor in digital culture. Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Degree-seeking undergraduates or nondegree-seeking graduate students may add the digital culture certificate. Students must complete two AME courses with a "C" or higher to be eligible to add the certificate; this requirement is so that students' understanding of the discipline is sufficient to develop a pathway that best meets the proficiencies for the work they are interested in pursuing.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Students can advance their career options with a undergraduate certificate. The certificate in digital culture helps students become more marketable to employers by adding this specialization to complement their major program of study. Digital culture students go on to work in a variety of fields, some of which are mobile app design, audio production and autonomous systems.

Disability Studies Certificate (LADISCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

As a vibrant and diverse area of academic study, disability studies utilizes a cross-disability, intersectional and interdisciplinary approach that views disability as a social construct and people with disabilities as a minority group. The program in disability studies draws upon diverse disciplines such as history, sociology, law, policy studies, economics, anthropology, geography, philosophy, theology, gender studies, media studies, architecture and the arts in order to understand the social, cultural and political situation of disabled cultures.

Students are critically challenged to reject simplistic definitions of disability as a restrictive, functional impairment that requires fixing or curing. Rather, students learn to identify disability as a construct that finds its meaning within cultural contexts, is central to individual and social identity and crucial to changing political processes and public attitudes.

This program prioritizes development of theoretical, methodological, educational and advocacy models that redefine legal, physical, policy and attitudinal barriers excluding disabled communities from society.

Program Requirements:

Students must complete 15 credit hours with at least 12 hours completed at the upper-division level. A minimum grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) is required for a course to count toward the certificate.

Students should contact the School of Social Transformation advising center for more information.

WST 477: Gender and Violence (SB & C) (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Students enrolled in the BA or minor in disability studies offered by the New College of Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences are not prohibited from adding this certificate.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Program Learning Outcomes:

Program learning outcomes identify what a student will learn or be able to do upon completion of their program. This program has the following program outcomes:

- Employ and critically assess core theories, models and perspectives that have contributed to the development of disability studies.
- Understand and identify representations of disability as historically specific and culturally contingent.
- Apply disability studies perspectives in the construction of social policy, engagement, and advocacy.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates who have combined the certificate in disability studies with their major program of study may become more marketable to employers. They often decide to pursue employment in law, education, public service, and human welfare and social work.

Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Diversity and Equity Studies Certificate (ASDESCERT)

Campus: West

Description:

This certificate program in diversity and equity studies develops students' intercultural competence through knowledge gained related to the histories, practices and perspectives of diverse groups, both local and global.

Reflecting on this knowledge permits students to develop strategies to work with and through differences of gender, race, ethnicity, sexuality, age, religion and class. Integrative social sciences perspectives enable bridge-building within and across differences to redress inequalities.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in diversity and equity studies requires a minimum of 15 credit hours (at least 12 must be upper division), consisting of a core of three credit hours and 12 credit hours of electives. Six credit hours must be completed through the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences in the New College of Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences. A maximum of six credit hours may be shared between the certificate and major requirements. A maximum of three credit hours of internship or individualized instruction may be applied to the certificate.

Electives are not limited to the certificate elective list; see academic advisor prior to enrollment. Students are encouraged to take courses that develop breadth rather than limiting their selection to courses in one particular discipline. Domestic Violence and Evidence-based Practice Certificate (PPDVEPCERT)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Description:

The certificate program in domestic violence and evidence-based practice provides students with the experience and knowledge they need to intervene safely and effectively on behalf of the survivors of gender-based violence, a vulnerable group that helping professionals are likely to encounter in all areas of practice. Those knowledgeable about the dynamics of intimate partner violence are better equipped to assist those suffering its negative physical and mental health consequences.

Evidence-based care is crucial in domestic violence settings. Students of the certificate program engage in service-based and classroom learning to understand the role of evidence-based interventions in promoting survivor safety and client empowerment.

Upon completion of the program, certificate holders become Arizona state-certified advocates for victims of domestic violence.

Program Requirements:

During their first semester in the certificate, students enroll in SWU 416, Domestic Violence and National AmeriCorps Service.

A grade of B or better is required in each course to satisfy the certificate.

Students must participate in an approved internship for a minimum of 300 hours.

Required Courses -- 9 credit hours

SWU 416: Domestic Violence and National AmeriCorps Service (3)

SWU 484: Internship or SWU 412: Field Instruction I (3)

Notes: Other internship credit may be substituted with department approval.

SWU 484: Internship or SWU 414: Field Instruction II (3)

Notes: Other internship credit may be substituted with department approval.

Electives -- 6 credit hours

SWU 417: Technology, Interpersonal Relationships and Abuse (3)

SWU 418: Global Violence Against Women (3)

SWU 494: Domestic Violence: Fatality Analyses (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

All students seeking the certificate must have 56 credit hours of coursework completed with a minimum GPA of 2.50. In order to enroll in SWU 416, students must have a current Arizona fingerprint clearance card, which will be verified through the State of Arizona system.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Program Learning Outcomes:

Program learning outcomes identify what a student will learn or be able to do upon completion of their program. This program has the following program outcomes:

- Implement evidence-based interventions, safety planning and the utilize of an evidence-based safety decision aid (myPlan, a tool to enhance risk assessment).
- Apply professional values and ethics

Career Opportunities:

The domestic violence and evidence-based practice certificate program prepares graduates to work with domestic violence survivors. Prospective administrators, helping professionals and community activists gain practical knowledge, implement interventions backed by evidence, and develop the tools and networks to create change for survivors, families and communities. Graduates are verified as Domestic Violence Advocates in the State of Arizona.

Career examples include:

- domestic violence or lay legal advocate
- domestic violence support group facilitator
- shelter case manager

Early Childhood Education Certificate (TEECD CERT)

Campus: Tempe, ASU Sync

Description:

The certificate program in early childhood education prepares students to support the cognitive and social-emotional development of young children.

This certificate program allows students to be eligible for dual-teaching certificates upon the completion of an undergraduate degree or to allow students to meet requirements for an Early Childhood endorsement. This certificate can be added to the following degree programs:

- BAE in elementary education
- BAE in elementary multilingual education
- BAE in special education

Students develop skills in understanding and applying evidence-based practices in early childhood education. The innovative coursework is centered on child development theory, development of young children, assessment practices and instructional pedagogy. Students explore techniques and approaches to engage children's family members in the growth and development of young children.

Graduates earn an institutional recommendation for teacher certification in Early Childhood Education, Birth--Age 8 or Grade 3, or an endorsement in Early Childhood Education, Birth--Age 8 or Grade 3, through the Arizona Department of Education. Those desiring to teach in public schools must pass the appropriate Arizona educator exams (National Evaluation Series or Arizona Educator Proficiency Assessments) to be certified to teach in the state of Arizona.

Format option: This program is also offered via ASU Sync. ASU Sync enables students to attend live classes remotely via Zoom. Classes are designed to foster active collaboration and discussion in real-time with faculty and peers. Students can learn more about ASU Sync for undergraduates at Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College on the college's website at <https://education.asu.edu/degree-programs/undergraduate-programs/asu-sync-statewide> (<https://education.asu.edu/degree-programs/undergraduate-programs/asu-sync-statewide>).

Students on I-20 visas are not permitted to complete courses via Sync and should speak with an advisor about other options to complete this program.

Students seeking to use GI Bill® benefits for ASU Sync programs should contact the Pat Tillman Veterans Center regarding certain limitations.

GI Bill® is a registered trademark of the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs. More information about education benefits offered by VA is available on the official U.S. government website at <https://www.benefits.va.gov/gibill>.

Program Requirements:

In addition to completing this certificate and a teacher certification program major, students will be required to earn a passing score on the professional knowledge portion of the AEP/NES exam and a passing score on the subject knowledge portion of the AEP/NES exam in each area an Arizona teaching credential is sought. Subject knowledge exam waivers may apply. Students should contact the Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College for more information.

This certificate requires 18 credit hours. A "C" or better is required in all coursework.

Required Courses -- 18 credit hours

ECD 321: Foundations in Language, Literacy and Culture in Early Childhood (L) (3)

ECD 417: Arts Integration for Young Children (3)

Energy and Sustainability Certificate (SUESUCERT)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix, Polytechnic, Tempe

Description:

The transdisciplinary certificate program in energy and sustainability examines current energy systems and explores what will be required to transition to a sustainable energy future.

Students begin with an overview of how energy affects people's lives, the basic science and methods of energy production, and a full overview of energy policy options. Students may tailor the certificate around their unique interests in energy with a variety of electives representing a broad array of academic disciplines. The breadth of their energy knowledge is enriched by taking courses outside their primary area of study.

An understanding of energy is increasingly important for jobs related to climate change, environmental quality, urban sustainability and sustainable development. This program helps students enhance their understanding of the technology and infrastructure for generating, distributing and using energy; the associated sustainability issues; and the social and policy dimensions of energy systems.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in energy and sustainability consists of 15 credit hours, of which at least 12 must be upper division.

A minimum GPA of 2.50 is required for all courses completed in the certificate.

Required Core Courses -- 9 credit hours

SOS 171 / GCU 171: The Thread of Energy (SB & G) (3)

SOS 314: Basic Energy Science or SOS 324: Sustainable Energy Technology and Systems (3)

SOS 315: Energy Policy (3)

Energy Elective Courses -- 6 credit hours

ALT 412: Village Energy Systems (3)

CHM 394: Chemistry, Energy, and Society (3)

EGR 371: Best Practices for Humanitarian Engineering (3)

EGR 476: Microgrid Design and Operation (3)

ERM 494: Algae in Water/Energy/Food Nexus (3)

FIS 494: Climate Change, Energy, and Social Justice (3)

GCU 364: Energy in the Global Arena (SB & G) (3)

GCU 442: Geographical Analysis of Transportation (SB) (3)
GLG 304: Minerals, Energy, and Society (3)
GPH 405: Energy and Environment (3)
JUS 332: Politics of Energy Policy and Justice (3)
JUS 444: Environment and Justice (L & C) (3)
PHY 498: The Science of Sustainable Energy (3)
POS 394: Global Environmental Politics (3)
PUP 430: Transportation Planning and the Environment (3)
SOS 309: History and Philosophy of Sustainability (3)
SOS 323: Sustainable Urban Dynamics (3)

SOS 494: Renewable Energy (3)
SOS 498: Designing a Living Building (L) (3)
STS 317: Science, Technology, and Global Engagement (SB & G) (3)
STS 329: Technology in Developing Countries (SB & G) (3)
STS 332: Global Issues in Science and Technology (SB) (3)
TEM 450: Design for the Developing World (3)

394, 494 and 498 courses must be taken with the specific course title/topic indicated above.

Energy elective courses are not limited to courses from this list only. Other courses on energy may be offered (special topics, etc.). Students may request to have those approved as an elective for this certificate by submitting a College of Global Futures undergraduate standards petition: https://students.asu.edu/College_Standards_Petitions (https://students.asu.edu/College_Standards_Petitions). Completed petitions may be submitted directly to cgfadvicing@asu.edu (<mailto:cgfadvicing@asu.edu>).

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Students must earn a grade of "C" or better in all courses.

Some energy elective courses have prerequisites. Any and all prerequisites must be met in order to select and enroll in those courses.

Some energy elective courses are more technical in nature, which may require additional math and science knowledge or prerequisites.

Enrollment Requirements:

Advising is not required, but students who wish to speak with an advisor can make an appointment through the College of Global Futures advising website: <https://collegeofglobalfutures.asu.edu/student-life/advising/undergraduate-advising> (<https://collegeofglobalfutures.asu.edu/student-life/advising/undergraduate-advising>).

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Global Opportunities:

Global Experience:

With over 250 programs in more than 65 countries (programs vary in length, from one week to one year), study abroad is possible for all ASU students who wish to acquire global skills and knowledge in preparation for a 21st century career. Students earn ASU credit for completed courses, while staying on track for graduation, and they may apply financial aid and scholarships toward program costs. <https://goglobal.asu.edu> (<https://goglobal.asu.edu>)

Students may also participate in a School of Sustainability study abroad program. More information is available on the school's study abroad website at <https://schoolofsustainability.asu.edu/student-life/study-abroad> (<https://schoolofsustainability.asu.edu/student-life/study-abroad>).

Career Opportunities:

Graduates of this program can pair the certificate with a bachelor's degree to make themselves competitive for energy jobs in a variety of sectors. Government, utilities, nonprofit and private businesses are a few examples of entities that need employees with the unique knowledge and skills gained from this transdisciplinary program who understand and can analyze energy systems, energy policy and sustainability.

Depending on a student's undergraduate program of study, prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

The certificate in entrepreneurship and innovation is available to all ASU students in good standing except those majoring in business entrepreneurship, management with a concentration in entrepreneurship, and technology entrepreneurship and management.

No more than six credit hours may be shared between the certificate and other degree programs, minors, or other certificates.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates who have combined the certificate in entrepreneurship and innovation with their major program of study may become more marketable to employers. They often decide to pursue employment in management, sales and marketing.

Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Environmental Education Certificate (TEEVEDCERT)

Campus: Polytechnic, Tempe, West

Description:

The certificate in environmental education is for students in all majors and for nontraditional educators. The program is designed to establish standards for professional excellence in environmental education.

Environmental education is taught in traditional classrooms and in community-serving organizations such as nature centers, museums, parks and zoos. The coursework required in the certificate increases the environmental literacy of future educators, fosters community leadership strategies and provides opportunities to practice environmental education teaching methods.

Students who complete the certificate are eligible to apply for the environmental education certificate recognized by the North American Association for Environmental Education.

Program Requirements:

This certificate requires a minimum of 15 credit hours, 12 of which must be upper division. A "C" or better is required in all coursework.

Required Core Courses (select three) -- 9 credit hours

SCN 201: Discovering the Deserts of the Southwest or SCN 301: Ecology and Natural History of the Sonoran Desert (SG) (4)

SCN 207: Introduction to Biomimicry or SCN 307: Learning from Nature: Biomimicry and STEM (3-4)

SCN 208: Nature and Society: An Introduction to Environmental Studies (SG & G) or SCN 308: Urban Environmental Education (3-4)

SCN 300: Foundations of Environmental Education (3)

SCN 302: Environmental Education (L & G) (3)

SCN 310: Biodiversity Conservation: An Educational Inquiry (4)

Elective Options -- 6 credit hours

Any core course not taken above may be used to satisfy electives.

SCN 209: Introduction to Environmental Education Project or SCN 309: Environmental Education Project (1)
SCN 303: Environmental Education Internship (1-3)
SCN 304: Sonoran Desert Flora (3)
SCN 305: Tropical Ecology: A Cultural Exchange (3)
SCN 311: Nature Mindfully (3)
SCN 400: Sustainability Science for Teachers or SCN 401: Sustainability Science, Technology, and Society (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates who combine the certificate in environmental education with their major program of study may become more marketable to employers. They often decide to pursue employment in educational settings such as nonprofit organizations, nature centers, museums, parks and zoos.

The environmental education certificate does not lead to teacher certification.

SOS 370 / ASB 370: Ethics of Eating (L or SB) (3)

Other courses may be used by approval of an academic advisor in the Department of English.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Requests to declare this certificate are reviewed by the academic advisor in the academic unit offering the certificate. Students may be contacted to discuss the certificate prior to the addition of the certificate to the student record.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Program Learning Outcomes:

Program learning outcomes identify what a student will learn or be able to do upon completion of their program. This program has the following program outcomes:

- Produce analytic writing about environmental issues that meets or exceeds standards in the field.
- Engage critically, with writing and group oral discussion assignments, with up-to-date scholarly or creative Environmental Humanities texts.
- Present team-prepared oral presentations on the cultural elements of an environmental challenge they are studying in order to prepare to learn team work and how to present pressing issues accessibly to the public.

Career Opportunities:

The certificate provides students with a multidisciplinary knowledge base and practical skill set to enact social and environmental change. Students who complete this certificate are well-prepared for careers in sustainability, environmental science and public policy and are better equipped to implement environmentally-responsible practices into their own lives.

Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Ethics Certificate (LAETHCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The ethics certificate program is designed to give students a richer understanding of systematic philosophical thinking about ethics. Students with majors in business, nursing, journalism and public administration as well as students planning to pursue legal careers, among others, may well find that training in ethics is beneficial to their career goals.

The certificate program permits some flexibility regarding course selection, thereby facilitating particular student interests.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in ethics consists of 18 credit hours approved by an undergraduate advisor in the School of Historical, Philosophical and Religious Studies. All courses must be passed with a minimum grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale). At least 12 credit hours must be upper division. At least six upper-division hours must be in courses offered by The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Core Course (choose one) -- 3 credit hours

PHI 335: History of Ethics (HU) (3)

PHI 420: Political Philosophy and Pandemic Ethics (3)

PHI 420: Stoicism (3)

PHI 420: Well-Being: Philosophy of Happiness (3)

PHI 420 is a variable topics course that may be taken more than once, so long as the topics are different. Only topics related to ethics will apply to the certificate.

One course outside the list of electives, and perhaps outside the PHI subject code, may be used with written approval of the director of undergraduate studies.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Incompatible Majors: BA in philosophy (morality, politics and law)

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Program Learning Outcomes:

Program learning outcomes identify what a student will learn or be able to do upon completion of their program. This program has the following program outcomes:

- Evaluate how well different normative ethical theories such as consequentialism, deontology, virtue theory provide moral standards that dictate which (if any) actions are right and wrong or how well different metaethical theories such as realism, expressivism, relativism, nihilism, compatibilism or incompatibilism account for the meaning and truth of moral claims.
- Apply leading ethical theories to practical ethical questions that arise in life

Career Opportunities:

An undergraduate certificate can advance students' career options.

Students become more marketable to employers when they complement their major program of study with this specialization in ethics. The certificate is evidence of analytical, reasoning and writing skills and competence in areas of increasing concern to employers, such as ethics, public policy and justice.

Students who complete the ethics certificate often decide to pursue careers in business, law, policy or politics. Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

European Studies Certificate (LAESCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The European studies certificate program provides a broad overview of the European countries, from their natural environment to their cultural, demographic, economic and political aspects. The pressing issues facing Europe today reveal both its tremendous diversity and the globalizing elements that invite investigation.

This certificate, a transdisciplinary collaboration involving several faculties of the School of International Letters and Cultures and other ASU faculty engaged in the study of Europe, serves a diverse population of students who would like to enhance their knowledge of European cultures for both academic and professional purposes.

This program focuses on the interconnectedness of knowledge involving European cultures, politics, religions, ethnicities, social-economic justice and sustainable solutions to old and new challenges and divisions in today's Europe. It also develops students' ability to analyze the historical development of the region and its exchanges with other world cultures. Students analyze what it meant to be European in the past and what it means today and how that knowledge can be applied to contemporary political and cultural debates as well as to professional opportunities in the region.

Program Requirements:

The certificate requires 15 credit hours of upper-division coursework. Each course must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better.

Gender, Women and Sexuality Studies Certificate (LAWSTCERT)

Campus: Tempe

This program's name has changed effective Fall 2022. The previous name was Women and Gender Studies.

Description:

The gender, women and sexuality studies certificate program provides students with an intensive, liberal arts approach to relevant contemporary topics such as gender inequality and feminism and how these interact with sexuality, race and religion in society today.

Because students have the opportunity to explore issues from multiple disciplines, the certificate is an interdisciplinary alternative to a minor. The program enables students to write well, think critically and analyze problems effectively.

Program Requirements:

The women and gender studies certificate requires a minimum of 18 credit hours, of which at least 12 must be completed at the upper-division level. Each course must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher.

Required Course -- 3 credit hours

WST 100: Women, Gender, and Society (SB & C) or WST 300: Women and Gender in Contemporary Society (SB & C) (3)

Elective Core Course -- 3 credit hours

WST 377: History of American Feminist Thought (H & C) or WST 378: Global Feminist Theory (L & G) (3)

Electives -- 12 credit hours

WST Elective (3)

WST Upper Division Elective (9)

WST 100 and WST 300 cannot be used to fulfill the elective requirement.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Program Learning Outcomes:

Program learning outcomes identify what a student will learn or be able to do upon completion of their program. This program has the following program outcomes:

- Analyze the ways in which gender intersects with other social locations in shaping ideology, as well as social, political and cultural institutions.
- Demonstrate an understanding of key concepts, critical debates and interdisciplinary approaches and methodologies that have shaped the field of women and gender studies.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates who have combined the certificate in gender, women and sexuality studies with their major program of study may increase their marketability to employers.

Graduates often decide to pursue employment in law, education, public service, and human welfare and social work. Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Global Management Certificate (TBTGMCERT)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix, West

Description:

Research from McKinsey and Company, a highly respected consulting firm, indicates that in the near future, almost 40% of the growth globally will result from just 400 cities in emerging markets around the world. This undergraduate certificate program in global management provides broad-based training in global business and global studies that helps prepare students for a global management career. It offers unique courses that integrate an in-depth understanding of the political, economic and cultural aspects of doing business in specific regions with tools to assess business trends in specific countries.

Thunderbird School of Global Management has produced unique leaders for more than 70 years. Home to the BGM and BS in international trade, the school's innovative and practical curriculum complements a strong core of global business management skills, international political economy and cross-cultural training, with a transdisciplinary approach. The alumni network has over 45,000 graduates across 170 chapters around the globe.

Program Requirements:

The global management certificate requires 18 credit hours as outlined below, with a minimum of 12 upper-division credits. Students are encouraged to take courses that develop breadth within their sector rather than limiting their selection to courses in one particular subject area.

Required Course -- 3 credit hours

TGM 101: Principles of Global Management (G) (3)

It is recommended that students take TGM 101 prior to or concurrently with other TGM courses.

Electives -- 15 credit hours

TGM 204: Principles of Marketing for Global Organizations (3)

TGM 300: Principles of Finance for Global Organizations (3)
TGM 310: Supply Chain Operations for Global Organizations (3)
TGM 312: Big Data in the Global Economy (3)
TGM 353: Regional Management Environment (G) (3)
TGM 468: States and Markets in a Global Economy (SB & G) (3)
TGM 478: Cross-Cultural Communication and Negotiation (3)
TGM 487: Global Entrepreneurship (3)
TGM 489: Multinational Organizational Leadership (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Study abroad or international experience is encouraged but not required. Consider ASU Global Education Office (<https://goglobal.asu.edu/>) opportunities.

Enrollment Requirements:

Incompatible Majors: BGM in global management; BS in international trade.

No more than six credit hours may be shared between certificate and other degree programs, minors or other certificates.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates who have combined the certificate in global management with their major program of study may become more marketable to employers. They often decide to pursue employment in corporations, governments or nonprofits in positions such as business analyst, global entrepreneur, or marketing manager.

Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Hazardous Materials and Waste Management Certificate (TSETMCERT)

Campus: Polytechnic

Description:

The certificate program in hazardous materials and waste management is designed to provide current and prospective employees of industry and government with a comprehensive and practical curriculum of study in hazardous materials management. The certificate program features instruction by faculty, attorneys and professionals who work in the specific area in which they teach.

Students enrolled in this certificate program are offered several industry-required courses by the Environmental and Resources Management professional development program targeted to environmental professionals who engage in management and transportation of hazardous materials and waste: the OSHA-mandated 40 hour Hazardous Waste Operations and Emergency Response course; the 16 hour Initial Hazardous Materials Transportation Certification course; and the corresponding eight-hour refresher courses. To support their professional development, these training courses are provided for certificate students at less than 15% of the actual cost.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in hazardous materials and waste management requires 18 credit hours. Students must complete six selected courses (four required and two electives) and earn a grade of "C" (2.00 on a scale of 4.00) or higher to receive the certificate.

Core Courses -- 12 credit hours

ERM 203: Environmental Regulations (3)
ERM 401: Hazardous Waste Management (3)
ERM 406: Environmental Chemistry (3)
ERM 407: Occupational Hygiene (3)

Elective Courses -- 6 credit hours

ERM 402 (<https://webapp4.asu.edu/catalog/courselist?s=ERM&l=300-399&t=2227&hon=F>) > ERM 3 Elective or ERM 4 Elective (ERM 432 recommended) (6)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

The certificate in hazardous materials and waste management is available to all ASU students in good standing, except those pursuing any program in environmental and resource management.

To add the certificate in hazardous materials and waste management, a student must hold, at minimum, junior status and have a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.00.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

For disclosure information about this U.S. Department of Education Gainful Employment program, students should see <https://catalog.asu.edu/files/disclosures/TSETMCERT/Gedt.pdf> (<https://catalog.asu.edu/files/disclosures/TSETMCERT/Gedt.pdf>).

Career Opportunities:

Graduates with the skills gained in this certificate program are in high demand and can find work in industry, governmental management and regulatory agencies or in policy-making organizations.

Graduates are firmly grounded in the scientific, technical, and legal problems facing hazardous waste managers in today's business climate. They are prepared to be waste, health and safety professionals in industrial settings such as manufacturing, mining, oil and gas or environmental engineering consulting firms. They also assure compliance with OSHA and EPA requirements in manufacturing operations, water and wastewater treatment facilities, or local governments. On the regulatory side, graduates work for agencies such as the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency or state and county departments of environmental quality.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Employment of health educators is expected to grow much faster than the average for all professions, with the U.S. Department of Labor predicting a 17% increase in the field from 2020 to 2030. Certified health education specialists often pursue careers in wellness and health promotion in such environments as:

- colleges and universities
- community health agencies
- hospitals and clinical settings
- insurance companies
- private health care organizations
- schools
- state and county health departments
- voluntary health organizations
- wellness centers
- worksite wellness and health promotion

Earning the CHES[®] demonstrates competence and provides professionals a competitive edge in employment. ASU health education specialist certificate holders have a 100% pass rate on the CHES[®] exam, compared with a national average of 70%.

Master certified health education specialists are eligible to become certified diabetes educators with proper diabetes self-management practice hours.

Hospice and Palliative Care Certificate (NHHAPCCERT)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Description:

The certificate program in hospice and palliative care provides future health and health care workers with the skills they need to lead and manage chronic and end-of-life care through a variety of settings, including home health care.

Students learn from interprofessional instructors who are involved in hospice and palliative care as physicians, social workers, nurses and bereavement counselors and who work with children and adults as well as meet with palliative care and hospice patients. Students receive specialized instruction on dementia and Alzheimer's disease and learn about how these contemporary issues are burdening our health care system under its current structure.

In addition, students have the opportunity to shadow health professionals and learn about their roles through field experience. Students finish their program of study by completing an internship at Hospice of the Valley, affording them the opportunity to help provide nonclinical care needs to patients and their families.

Program Requirements:

The certificate requires a total of 18 credit hours. A minimum grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) is required for each course, with the exception of the MED 484 internship which is pass/fail.

Required Courses -- 12 credit hours

Experiential Learning Component -- 3 credit hours

To better connect classroom learning with practical experience, students will be required to participate in either a for-credit internship with a human rights organization in the U.S. or abroad, or a Research Experience for Undergraduates (REU) under faculty supervision (honors thesis may substitute). A written component to the internship or REU is required.

JUS 484: Internship or JUS 498: Research Apprenticeship (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

In order to declare a certificate in human rights, students must first have a minimum of 30 earned credit hours.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Program Learning Outcomes:

Program learning outcomes identify what a student will learn or be able to do upon completion of their program. This program has the following program outcomes:

- Employ the core concepts and methods used in studying human rights in their written work.
- Apply fundamental principles of human rights to research or community engagement.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates who have combined the certificate in human rights with their major program of study may be more marketable to employers. They often decide to pursue employment in law, education, public service, and human welfare and social work.

Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Indoor Farming Certificate (LSIFRMCERT)

Campus: Polytechnic

Description:

The future of farming may be vertical and urban. That future is now, and the novel indoor farming certificate program trains students and working professionals who have interests in cultivating crops indoors using technology enhancements including precise environmental control of temperature and lighting, sustainable energy management, and optimal nutrient amendment to achieve significant improvements in crop productivity, resource consumption and environmental impact.

This certificate program provides specific training in indoor crop production and management, including production of clean fruits, vegetables and ornamental plants. Through classroom instruction and hands-on laboratories, students gain knowledge and skills related to plant physiology, indoor crop production systems and facility management, which are necessary for the emerging indoor farming industry.

Program Requirements:

This certificate requires a minimum of 15 credit hours, including at least nine upper-division credit hours. Six credit hours must be taken from courses offered by the College of Integrative Sciences and Arts. A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required in all courses.

Required Courses -- 6 credit hours

ABS 365: Future of Agriculture: Vertical Farming (3)

ABS 369: Hydroponic Food Crop Production (3)

Elective Courses -- 9 credit hours

At least three credit hours of certificate electives must be from upper-division courses.

ABS 260: Fundamentals of Sustainable Horticulture (SG) (4)

ABS 314: Applied Plant Physiology (3)

ABS 368: Plant Propagation (3)

ABS 394: Food and Human Health (3)

ABS 414: Plant Pathology (L) (3)

ABS 462: Greenhouse/Nursery Management (4)

ABS 464: Desert Horticulture (3)

AGB 100: Introduction to Agribusiness (3)

AGB 250: Economics of Resource Allocation: Food and Agriculture (3)

AGB 333: Agribusiness Finance (3)

AGB 425: Food Supply Networks (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Current ASU students are required to complete BIO 100 The Living World or BIO 181 General Biology I or BIO 182 General Biology II.

Nondegree-seeking students are required to have a BS degree.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Students can advance their career options with an undergraduate certificate. The certificate in indoor farming helps students become more marketable to employers when they have complemented their major program of study with this specialization.

Students who complete this undergraduate certificate along with their major often decide to pursue employment in nursery and greenhouse management, plant science, or farm and ranch management. Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Informatics Certificate (ESCPICERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The certificate program in informatics teaches students to use computer technology to gather, synthesize, store, visualize and interpret information. These skills are critical to a broad range of disciplines.

This program provides students with an understanding of the capabilities and technologies of informatics as it applies to domain-specific problems in their field of study. Graduates are able to understand and use methods for the basic computational principles behind the operation of communication, networking and interaction; decision-making and problem-solving; modeling, inference and visualization; representing, creating and running routine activities; and storing, indexing and retrieving information.

Program Requirements:

This certificate requires 21 credit hours of coursework, of which at least 12 must be upper division. Students complete 15 credit hours of required courses and select six credit hours of elective coursework. All courses must be passed with a "C" or better. At least 12 credit hours must be completed in residency at ASU.

Enrollment Requirements:

ASU degree-seeking students

The undergraduate certificate in informatics is available to all students who are in good standing at ASU who have completed CSE 205, MAT 242 and MAT 243 with a "C" grade or better. This certificate also may be used by interdisciplinary studies BA students as part of their degree program.

Nondegree-seeking students

This certificate is also available through the Pathways for the Future program: <https://pff.asu.edu/> (<https://pff.asu.edu/>). Applicants with or without a bachelor's degree are eligible to apply for, and receive, this certificate, through the Pathways for the Futures program. Applicants must have completed CSE 205, MAT 242 and MAT 243, or the equivalents, with a "C" grade or higher (scale is 4.00 = "A"). Applicants who have taken these courses at another institution should use the Transfer Guide course search (<https://webapp4.asu.edu/transfercreditguide/app/home> (<https://webapp4.asu.edu/transfercreditguide/app/home>)) to determine if a transfer course can fulfill the prerequisite course requirements. Applicants who already hold a bachelor's degree should apply to ASU and this certificate program as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Students computing this certificate should be in high demand within the software industry and in government, education, science, medicine and other fields that make use of computer technology. Those with the applied and user-oriented focus of the certificate are attractive to such employers.

Innovation for Impact Certificate (FIIFICERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The innovation for impact certificate program enables students to cultivate the knowledge, skills and critical dispositions necessary to leverage the power of innovation and achieve personally meaningful and socially significant impact. The program is grounded in the belief that each person can do great things.

Students learn tools and concepts for synthesizing research from courses across disciplines in social sciences, humanities, natural sciences and engineering. They identify a problematic condition or aspirational future and work with peers, mentors and the community to produce innovations that cultivate a better future for society.

Program Requirements:

Required Courses -- 15 credit hours

FIS 201: Innovation in Society (H) (3)

FIS 305: Ways of Knowing (L) (3)

FIS 307: Navigating Futures (SB) (3)

FIS 371: Innovation for Impact: Impact Journey (1)

FIS 372: Innovation for Impact: Inquiry Journey (1)

FIS 373: Innovation for Impact: Innovation Journey (1)

FIS 481: Innovation for Impact: Application Journey (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Advising is not required, but students who wish to speak with an advisor can make an appointment through the College of Global Futures advising website: <https://collegeofglobalfutures.asu.edu/student-life/advising/undergraduate-advising> (<https://collegeofglobalfutures.asu.edu/student-life/advising/undergraduate-advising>).

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Program Learning Outcomes:

Program learning outcomes identify what a student will learn or be able to do upon completion of their program. This program has the following program outcomes:

- Think critically about innovation and the relationship between changes in technology and society, as well as demonstrate knowledge of the influences, origins, histories, values and risks across innovation systems.
- Apply foresight methods to analyze emerging trends and plausible futures, as well as demonstrate the ability to participate as a team member on an inquiry project and manage stakeholder alignment and ecosystem integration.

Career Opportunities:

Completing this certificate program can help students bring about positive change and innovation in many environments. The unique knowledge and skills gained from this transdisciplinary program enhances a student's bachelor's degree and career prospects. The certificate can complement any career path in a variety of sectors, including business, technology, science, education or government.

Interdisciplinary Health Humanities Certificate (LAIHHUCERT)

Campus: Tempe, West

Description:

The certificate program in interdisciplinary health humanities brings humanities methodologies to analyses of health and medicine in order to address challenges in health policy and health care practice and to advance understandings of the cultural formations of health, illness and the body.

The curriculum includes courses in areas such as history of medicine, bioethics, disability studies, socio-cultural aspects of health and narrative medicine. It includes critical analyses of representations of health and illness in literature and other media as well as training in narrative and structural competency for health care professionals. A capstone course, internship or applied project offers experiential or project-based learning in this field.

Program Requirements:

The interdisciplinary health humanities certificate requires a total of 15 credit hours. A minimum of 12 upper-division credit hours are required, with at least nine of those credit hours taken in courses offered by The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences for students on the Tempe campus, or by the School of Humanities, Arts and Cultural Studies in the New College of Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences on the West campus.

All courses must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher.

International Business Studies Certificate (BAIBSCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The certificate program in international business studies is designed to help students develop competence in a foreign language and a sensitivity to foreign cultures. It provides an awareness of global social processes and an understanding of international business environments, principles and operations.

The W. P. Carey School of Business has partnerships with universities all over the world, so students can experience new cultures, visit new places and build intercultural and language skills. International internships also are offered in conjunction with the ASU Global Education Office.

Program Requirements:

This certificate program requires a minimum of 18 credit hours (at least 12 credit hours must be upper division). All business coursework must be completed through the W. P. Carey School of Business or through an approved ASU international study program.

Only courses in which a student receives a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better may be used to meet the certificate requirements, and an overall certificate GPA of at least 2.50 must be earned.

Students must meet all course prerequisites and requirements as listed in the ASU catalog. Requirements must be met within one year after degree conferral date.

International Business Core Course -- 3 credit hours

MGT 302: Principles of International Business (G) or ECN 306: Survey of International Economics (SB & G) (3)

A. International Business Electives -- 6 credit hours

AGB 302: International Management and Agribusiness (G) (3)

ECN 306: Survey of International Economics (SB & G) (3)

ECN 331: Economics of the European Economic Union (SB & G) (3)

ECN 335: South Asia and the World Economy (SB & G) (3)

ECN 360: Economic Development (SB & G) (3)

ECN 365: Economics of Russia and Eastern Europe (SB & G) (3)

ECN 436: International Trade Theory (SB & G) (3)

ECN 438: International Monetary Economics (SB & G) (3)

FIN 456: International Financial Management (G) (3)

MGT 302: Principles of International Business (G) (3)

MGT 400: Cross-Cultural Management (C & G) (3)

MGT 425: Global Human Resources (3)

MGT 459: International Management (G) (3)

MKT 425: Global Marketing Management (G) (3)

SCM 463: Global Supply Chain Management (G) (3)

*300+ level WPC subject courses earned on a sponsored ASU study abroad program may be applied toward the elective area, per approval of the international programs coordinator. Courses applied toward the W. P. Carey business core cannot be used toward the elective area.

B. Nonbusiness Global Awareness Coursework -- 9 credit hours

Nonbusiness Global Awareness Coursework (9)

Notes: These hours may be satisfied by any combination of the following:

1. Students can choose any of the university-designated nonbusiness global awareness ("G") courses.
2. One course must be upper-division to meet the 12 upper-division hours requirement.
3. It is recommended to choose courses related to the area of study abroad experience. Additional courses may be approved by the international program coordinator.
4. Nonbusiness global awareness hours may also be satisfied by:

* An ASU or W. P. Carey School of Business education abroad program earning six credit hours or more fulfills six of the credit hours of nonbusiness global requirements.

* An ASU or W. P. Carey School of Business education abroad program earning three credit hours fulfills three of the credit hours of nonbusiness global requirements.

C. Foreign Language Proficiency

The certificate program requires students to meet a foreign language proficiency by meeting one of the the following:

- Completion of one year (two semesters) of the same foreign language at the college level.
- Completion of one semester of the equivalent of 101- and 102-level coursework.
- Completion of two years of the same foreign language in high school with a minimum grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale).
- Documentation of a proficiency or placement test confirming preparedness to start at least the second year of a foreign language (201 level or above).
- A student whose native language is not English may have this requirement waived.

D. International Study Experience

The certificate program requires students to participate in an ASU Global Education Office sponsored program. Students cannot use independent non-sponsored programs to fulfill this requirement. Sponsored programs can be found on the Global Education Office website at <https://goglobal.asu.edu/> (<https://goglobal.asu.edu/>).

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

No more than six credit hours may be shared between the certificate and other degree programs, minors or other certificates.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

For disclosure information on this U.S. Department of Education Gainful Employment program, students should see <https://catalog.asu.edu/files/disclosures/BAIBSCERT/Gedt.pdf> (<https://catalog.asu.edu/files/disclosures/BAIBSCERT/Gedt.pdf>).

Career Opportunities:

Students can advance their career options with an undergraduate certificate. The certificate in international business allow students to develop additional competencies that complement the marketable knowledge and skills they acquire in their majors.

Students who complete this undergraduate certificate often decide to pursue employment in management, sales, marketing and communication. Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

International Cinema Certificate (LAICINCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The power of international cinema lies in its ability to underscore national differences and engage diverse viewpoints.

The certificate program in international cinema provides undergraduates with the means to explore and understand the role that international film plays in highlighting cultural diversity; reflecting the sociocultural, political and economic currents of the period and cultural setting depicted; and calling into question an accepted idea of the dominance of Hollywood film.

Following an integrated pathway through the variety of international film courses, the certificate program explores facets of international film history and production not often covered by American programs in film studies. Students majoring in a second language can explore a particular culture's filmic heritage and traverse avenues for comparative analysis between the filmic heritage of two or more cultures. Students majoring in other areas can encounter visual narratives different from their own and connect international cinema to their own respective experiences.

Program Requirements:

The certificate requires 18 credit hours of upper-division coursework. Each course must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better.

Required Core Course -- 3 credit hours

SLC 340: Approaches to International Cinema (HU & G) (3)

Electives (choose five) -- 15 credit hours

SLC 450: Experimental Narrative (HU) (3)

SPA 475: Latin American Film ((L or HU) & G) (3)

THE 422: Latinx Theatre and Film (HU & C) (3)

Additional upper-division elective courses may be approved by the coordinator of the certificate program.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

ASU students in sophomore standing or above with a GPA of at least 2.50 in any degree program are eligible for the international cinema certificate program. Admission to the certificate program is approved by the certificate coordinator in consultation with advisors.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates who have combined the certificate in international cinema with their major program of study may be more marketable to employers. They often decide to pursue employment in education, tourism or the arts and humanities.

International Studies Certificate (LAINSCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

Students completing the international studies certificate develop a sophisticated understanding of some of the major issues and trends facing the world today. Courses examine relations among nations, including America's role in the world; key international concerns such as human rights; and the internal politics of specific nations or regions.

The certificate is not a substitute for degree requirements in any subject, including political science. Rather, the required courses add an international and comparative dimension to the student's chosen major.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in international studies is comprised of 15 credit hours in political science and global studies. At least 12 credit hours must be in upper-division coursework and at least six of those credit hours must be from courses offered by The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required for all courses used toward the certificate.

Foundations for International Studies (choose one course) -- 3 credit hours

POS 150: Comparative Government (SB & G) (3)

POS 160: Global Politics (SB & G) (3)

The U.S. in the World (choose one course) -- 3 credit hours

POS 365: Terrorism and Insurgency (3)

POS 379: The Resource Curse (3)

POS 452: China (SB & G) (3)

POS 453: Latin America (SB & G) (3)

POS 454: Mexico (SB & G) (3)

POS 468: Comparative Asian Foreign Policies (SB & G) (3)

SGS 360: Cultural Aspects of Globalization (3)

Only one of POS 160 Global Politics and POS 360 World Politics courses may apply to the certificate.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Requests to declare this certificate are reviewed by the academic advisor in the academic unit offering the certificate. Students may be contacted to discuss the certificate prior to the addition of the certificate to the student record.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates who have combined the certificate in international studies with their major program of study may become more marketable to employers. They often decide to pursue employment in diplomacy and international relations, national security or international business.

The international studies certificate program prepares students for careers in government agencies, international governmental and nongovernmental organizations, multinational firms and banks and for graduate studies in international relations and political science.

Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

International Trade Certificate (TBINTRCERT)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix, West

Description:

International trade is increasingly important in this globalized economy, but also increasingly challenging. The International Monetary Fund predicts that most of the world's economic growth in the next decade will take place in the largest emerging markets, which are not always easy for companies and nonprofit organizations to penetrate. Most of the world's consumers are outside of the United States. Given these trends, organizations across sectors that operate in multiple countries are increasingly in need of managers who understand the complexities of the global economy.

The undergraduate certificate program in international trade provides students with an understanding of foreign markets and the intricacies of international trade, laying the foundation for a career that can take them anywhere in the world.

Thunderbird School of Global Management has produced unique leaders for more than 70 years, leaders in every sector capable of tackling the world's greatest challenges. Home to the BGM and BS in international trade, the school's innovative and practical curriculum complements a strong core of global business management skills, international political economy and cross-cultural training, with a transdisciplinary approach. The alumni network has over 45,000 graduates across 170 chapters around the globe.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in international trade requires 18 credit hours as outlined below, with a minimum of 12 upper-division credits. Students are encouraged to take courses that develop breadth within their sector rather than limiting their selection to courses in one particular subject area.

Required Courses -- 6 credit hours

TGM 101: Principles of Global Management (G) (3)

TGM 430: International Trade and Regional Economic Agreements (3)

It is recommended that students take TGM 101 prior to or concurrently with other TGM courses.

Electives -- 12 credit hours

TGM 204: Principles of Marketing for Global Organizations (3)

TGM 300: Principles of Finance for Global Organizations (3)

TGM 310: Supply Chain Operations for Global Organizations (3)

TGM 312: Big Data in the Global Economy (3)

TGM 353: Regional Management Environment (G) (3)

TGM 460: Global Risk Assessment and Management (3)

TGM 468: States and Markets in a Global Economy (SB & G) (3)

TGM 478: Cross-Cultural Communication and Negotiation (3)

TGM 489: Multinational Organizational Leadership (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.
Academic Catalog Archive 2022-2023

Study abroad or international experience is encouraged but not required. Consider ASU Global Education Office (<https://goglobal.asu.edu/>) opportunities.

Enrollment Requirements:

Incompatible Majors: BGM in global management and BS in international trade

No more than six credit hours may be shared between certificate and other degree programs, minors or other certificates.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates who combined the certificate in international trade with their major program of study may be more marketable to employers. They often decide to pursue employment in corporations, governments and nonprofits in positions such as global logistics manager, import and export agent, or international compliance manager.

Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Enrollment Requirements:

There are no specific admission requirements other than a student's desire to learn about Islam and Islamic societies and culture.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Program Learning Outcomes:

Program learning outcomes identify what a student will learn or be able to do upon completion of their program. This program has the following program outcomes:

- Analyze an academic issue in Islamic Studies.
- Compose a critical argument about an academic issue related to Islamic Studies.
- Identify and summarize important features of the major periods of Islamic Civilization from the seventh century to the present.

Career Opportunities:

Students become more marketable to employers when they have complemented their major program of study with this specialization in Islamic studies.

Often, students who complete this undergraduate certificate decide to pursue employment in law, international law, business, journalism, international relations, diplomacy and the intelligence service. Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Upper-Division Electives -- 6 credit hours

Students choose upper-division electives from any of the thematic track course lists (the electives may be from any combination of thematic tracks).

Upper Division Certificate Electives (6)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Incompatible Majors: BA in Jewish studies

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Students become more marketable to employers when they complement their major program of study with an undergraduate certificate.

Through a certificate in Jewish studies, students gain a familiarity of Jewish culture which gives them a competitive edge when they pursue a career with one of the hundreds of U.S. companies that do business in Israel.

These students are also prepared to:

- attend rabbinic seminary in preparation for becoming a rabbi or chaplain
- engage in world political and economic issues
- pursue advanced education in Jewish professional service fields

The certificate also provides a foundation for students who wish to pursue advanced degrees or careers related to their area of interest in fields that may include archeology, history, justice studies, journalism, law and international relations. Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Korean Studies Certificate (LAKORCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The certificate program in Korean studies aims to train and produce students who are linguistically capable and culturally informed.

The program consists of two major components. The first builds students' Korean language proficiency in the areas of speaking, listening, reading and writing. The second offers students a broad range of knowledge of the culture, literature, history, art and religions of Korea. The certificate allows students to focus on Korean studies.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in Korean studies requires 22 credit hours, of which at least 12 must be completed at the upper-division level. Each course must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher.

Korean Language -- 10 credit hours

Students must choose one two-course sequence from KOR 101, KOR 102, KOR 201, KOR 202, for a total of 10 credit hours. Course substitutions may be permitted for heritage speakers and other advanced speakers of the Korean language based on their proficiency level as determined by the Korean Placement Test.

KOR 101: First-Year Korean I (5)

KOR 102: First-Year Korean II (5)

KOR 201: Second-Year Korean I (G) (5)

KOR 354: Religions of Korea (HU) (3)

Additional courses may be approved in consultation with an academic advisor in the School of International Letters and Cultures or the coordinator of the certificate. The completion of the requirements will be reviewed both by students' designated advisors and the coordinator of the program.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

ASU students admitted to a degree program in any field of study are eligible for the Korean studies certificate program. Requests to declare this certificate are reviewed by the academic advisor in the academic unit offering the certificate. Students may be contacted to discuss the certificate prior to the addition of the certificate to the student record.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates who have combined the certificate in Korean studies with their major program of study may be more marketable to employers.

They have an enriched perspective on different cultures and societies at the intellectual level and are equipped with a practical knowledge of Korean that will benefit a career in various professions, including in academia, government work, international trade, with nongovernmental organizations and translation. Graduates often decide to pursue employment in education, the military, political analysis, tourism and hospitality or marketing.

Latin American Studies Certificate (LALASCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The Latin American studies certificate is designed to give students an understanding of the culture, economies, political structures and history of Latin American nations.

The program combines six courses across disciplinary boundaries to provide a diverse perspective of the Latin American experience. The Department of Economics; the School of Geographical Sciences and Urban Planning; the School of Historical, Philosophical and Religious Studies; the School of Politics and Global Studies; the School of Human Evolution and Social Change; the School of International Letters and Cultures (Spanish and Portuguese) and the School of Transborder Studies offer courses that comprise the transdisciplinary certificate.

Program Requirements:

The certificate requires a minimum of 18 credit hours of Latin American studies content. At least 12 upper-division credit hours must be completed from courses offered by The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. Each course must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher.

Language Requirement

Students must demonstrate Spanish or Portuguese proficiency through the 313 level of conversation and composition. The language proficiency requirement may be waived for native speakers or those with in-field experience equivalent to SPA 313 or POR 313.

Language instruction courses dealing with Spanish and Portuguese conversation and composition cannot be used to satisfy the content course requirement. While students are encouraged to enroll in language instruction courses (i.e., conversation and composition) above the 313 level, they cannot apply such coursework to the Latin American studies certificate course requirements.

Latin American Content Course Requirements -- 18 credit hours

Students will take 18 upper-division credit hours (six courses) from this list of Latin American content courses. Students are required to select nine credit hours (three courses) from within their major and nine credit hours (three courses) outside their major.

Law and Human Behavior Certificate (PPLWHBCERT)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix, Tempe, West

Description:

Law and human behavior is an umbrella term that encompasses various aspects of the rapidly emerging field of forensic psychology, law and justice.

This 18 credit hour certificate program focuses on the criminal justice aspects of forensic psychology, emphasizing victimology, offender treatment, criminal incapacity, mental health law, juvenile justice and delinquency, and the dynamics of how the criminal justice system intersects with behavioral science.

The program is designed to provide students of social services and social sciences with an understanding of important but understudied areas where justice policy is in desperate need of empirical, psychological research.

Program Requirements:

Required Core -- 12 credit hours

CRJ 260: Criminal Law I: Introduction to Substantive Criminal Law (3)

CRJ 410: Criminal Procedure I: The Law of Investigations (3)

PSY 366: Abnormal Psychology (SB) (3)

PSY 468: Psychology and Law (3)

Electives (choose two from outside of one's major) -- 6 credit hours

CRJ 309: Criminology (SB) (3)

CRJ 403: Victims and the Criminal Justice System (3)

CRJ 406: Sex Crimes (3)

CRJ 434: Drugs of Abuse (3)

CRJ 435: Crime and Forensic Mental Health (SB) (3)

CRJ 484: Internship (1-6)

Notes: Only those relevant to law and human behavior

CRJ 494: Special Topics (3)

Notes: Only those relevant to law and human behavior

PSY 341: Developmental Psychology (SB) (3)

PSY 368: Forensic Psychology (3)

PSY 443: Abnormal Child Psychology (L or SB) (3)

PSY 472: Clinical Psychology (3)

PSY 474: Correctional Psychology (3)

PSY 494: Special Topics (3)

Notes: Only those relevant to law and human behavior

1. Special Topics courses (CRJ 494 and PSY 494) will be designated and approved by departments and schools. Students will need to work with an advisor in order to select appropriate special topics courses that are approved for credit in the law and human behavior certificate program.
 2. At least 12 credit hours must be taken in residence at ASU.
 3. A "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better is required in all coursework required for the certificate.
 4. Bachelor of Science in criminology and criminal justice majors who are also pursuing the Law and Human Behavior certificate may not use CRJ 309, CRJ 403, CRJ 406, CRJ 410, CRJ 434, CRJ 435, CRJ 484, and CRJ 494 towards both their degree and certificate.
- Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Students must complete the following prerequisite courses with a grade of "C" or higher (scale is 4.00 = "A") in order to enroll in the certificate program. These courses may be taken in-residence at ASU or may be transferred in from other institutions, including community colleges. Because these courses are requirements for the bachelor's degree program in psychology or criminology and criminal justice, their completion satisfies not only requirements of these two majors, but also the prerequisite requirements for enrollment in the certificate program in law and human behavior.

Completion of the following prerequisite courses with grades of "C" or higher are required for enrollment in the certificate program:

- CRJ 100 Introduction to Criminal Justice
- PSY 101 Introduction to Psychology
- first-year composition (ENG 102, 105 or 107)
- a course which meets the General Studies MA requirement (MAT 117, 119, 142, 170, 210 or 270)

one of the following two-course sequences in statistics and research methods:

- CRJ 302 and 303, or
- PSY 230 and 290

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates of the law and human behavior certificate program find a strong job market in the public and private sectors. Employment opportunities exist in supervisory and management positions in criminal justice agencies (federal, state and local) in roles such as evidence and crime scene supervisor (CSI activities), forensic psychologist, intelligence analyst and law enforcement officer. Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender Studies Certificate (PPLGBTCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The certificate program in lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender studies offers students a multifaceted understanding of society.

Lesbians, gay men, bisexuals and transgender people play important roles as colleagues, clients, parents, children, siblings, neighbors, employees, employers, religious leaders and friends. Given the increasing visibility and changing political climate for LGBTQ people in the United States, all students, not only those who identify themselves as gay, lesbian, bisexual or transgender, are served well by learning about the histories, communities and contemporary social issues regarding people from LGBTQ backgrounds.

The educational experience is enhanced when students are introduced to complex intersections between and among sexual, racial, ethnic, religious, geographic and national identities. This program's philosophy is to promote intellectual and pedagogical diversity as one of the university's greatest assets, and this is done, in part, by instilling in students a sensitivity to cultures different from their own and through careful analysis of the self in historical, artistic and sociocultural contexts.

The goals of the certificate program are to give students knowledge about the history, evolution of and current issues facing the LBGTQ community; practical experience utilizing coursework knowledge in the community through an internship or community service project; and theoretical perspectives on heterosexuality as a presumptive sexual identity. Students gain an understanding of lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender studies as an academic area of inquiry and an understanding of community politics, dynamics and conflicts; and they engage in a use-inspired education that culminates in a public presentation.

Capstone -- 3 credit hours

All students will complete a three credit hour capstone experience after completing a minimum of nine credit hours in the certificate program. The capstone experience will be supervised by any member of the faculty approved by the Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender Studies Committee.

Capstone Course (3)

Notes: Select capstone course with consultation of LGBT advisor.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Program Learning Outcomes:

Program learning outcomes identify what a student will learn or be able to do upon completion of their program. This program has the following program outcomes:

- Demonstrate knowledge about lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgendered communities
- Apply knowledge about LGBT communities through directed research, an internship or community based project under the supervision of an ASU faculty member.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates who have combined the certificate in lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender studies with their major program of study may become more marketable to employers. They often decide to pursue employment in law, education, public service, and human welfare and social work. Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Mathematical Concepts of Engineering Certificate (LAMACECERT)

Campus: Tempe, Online

Description:

The certificate program in mathematical concepts of engineering is designed for students who seek a strong foundation in mathematics to support their studies in engineering.

Combining a core foundation in the quantitative and analytical skills found in mathematics with related skills in engineering, the program provides students with a solid mathematical background well suited for multiple career paths.

Program Requirements:

The mathematical concepts of engineering certificate requires a minimum of 21 credit hours. At least 12 credit hours must be completed in upper-division coursework and at least nine credit hours must be completed at ASU. MAT 343 and STP 420 must be completed in courses offered by The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher is required for each course used to fulfill a certificate requirement.

Required Courses -- 18 credit hours

- IEE 380: Probability and Statistics for Engineering Problem Solving (CS) (3)
- MAT 266: Calculus for Engineers II (MA) (3)
- MAT 267: Calculus for Engineers III (MA) (3)
- MAT 275: Modern Differential Equations (MA) (3)
- MAT 343: Applied Linear Algebra (3)
- STP 420: Introductory Applied Statistics (CS) (3)

Electives (choose one) -- 3 credit hours

- DAT 301: Exploring Data in R and Python (4)
- IEE 381: Lean Six Sigma Methodology (3)
- IEE 385: Engineering Statistics: Probability (3)
- IEE 470: Stochastic Operations Research (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

ASU degree-seeking students

Students must have completed MAT 265 or MAT 270 with a "C" or higher prior to enrolling in the certificate program. Students also must be in good academic standing with a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.00.

Nondegree-seeking students

This certificate is available through the Pathways for the Future program: <https://pff.asu.edu/> (<https://pff.asu.edu/>). Applicants with or without a bachelor's degree are eligible to apply for, and receive, this certificate through the Pathways for the Futures program. Applicants must have completed MAT 265 or MAT 270 with a "C" grade or higher (scale is 4.00 = "A"). Applicants who have taken these courses at another institution should use the Transfer Guide course search (<https://webapp4.asu.edu/transfercreditguide/app/home> (<https://webapp4.asu.edu/transfercreditguide/app/home>)) to determine if a transfer course can fulfill the prerequisite course requirements. Applicants who already hold a bachelor's degree should apply to ASU and this certificate program as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Mild/Moderate Special Education Certificate (TEMSPECERT)

Campus: Tempe, ASU Sync

Description:

The certificate program in mild/moderate special education prepares students to make connections and provide equitable learning environments to meet the diverse learning needs of learners in kindergarten through grade 12.

This certificate program can only be added to the following programs at Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College in order to allow students eligibility for dual-teaching certificates at the completion of their undergraduate degree:

- BAE in early childhood education
- BAE in elementary education
- BAE in elementary multilingual education
- BAE in physical education
- BAE in secondary education

Students learn how to work and partner with a range of communities and schools to co-construct and negotiate roles and responsibilities in order to deliver effective special education programming. Coursework is grounded in data; theoretical foundations; federal, state and local policies; and a sense of responsibility to student and community needs.

Graduates are eligible to earn an institutional recommendation from ASU for Arizona teacher certification in Mild/Moderate Disabilities, K--12, from the Arizona Department of Education. In order to teach in an Arizona public school, graduates must pass the appropriate Arizona educator exams: National Evaluation Series or Arizona Educator Proficiency Assessments.

Format option: This program is also offered via ASU Sync. ASU Sync enables students to attend live classes remotely via Zoom. Classes are designed to foster active collaboration and discussion in real-time with faculty and peers. Students can learn more about ASU Sync for undergraduates at Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College on the college's website at <https://education.asu.edu/degree-programs/undergraduate-programs/asu-sync-statewide> (<https://education.asu.edu/degree-programs/undergraduate-programs/asu-sync-statewide>).

Students on I-20 visas are not permitted to complete courses via Sync and should speak with an advisor about other options to complete this program.

Students seeking to use GI Bill® benefits for ASU Sync programs should contact the Pat Tillman Veterans Center regarding certain limitations.

GI Bill® is a registered trademark of the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs. More information about education benefits offered by VA is available on the official U.S. government website at <https://www.benefits.va.gov/gibill>.

Program Requirements:

In addition to completing this certificate and a teacher certification program major, students will be required to earn a passing score on the professional knowledge portion of the AEPA/NES exam and a passing score on the subject knowledge portion of the AEPA/NES exam in each area an Arizona teaching credential is sought. Subject knowledge exam waivers may apply. Students should contact the Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College for more information.

This certificate requires 18 credit hours. A "C" or better is required in all coursework.

Required Courses -- 18 credit hours

Nonprofit Professional Certificate (PPNPYCERT)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix

Description:

This nationally recognized certificate program awards qualified students from diverse academic fields with the national Certified Nonprofit Professional credential. The CNP credential is awarded through the Nonprofit Leadership Alliance (formerly American Humanics, Inc.), a consortium of universities, nonprofits and funders that are committed to preparing students for management careers in the nonprofit sector. More information is available on the NLA website: <https://nla1.org/> (<https://nla1.org/>).

The NLA/ASU program provides curricular and cocurricular programs that prepare students through its competency-based, experiential educational framework, which includes curriculum instruction in management of nonprofit elements (fundraising, volunteers, organizational management) and field experience.

The program is ideal for students wishing to complement their majors with a strong core of nonprofit management knowledge and skills through professional affiliation with and certification by the Nonprofit Leadership Alliance, the nation's leader in education for nonprofit careers. NLA collaborates with a number of national nonprofit organizations as well as locally based grassroots organizations that actively seek NLA and ASU program interns and job candidates.

Program Requirements:

The program includes active participation by nonprofit professionals who offer workshops, seminars, mentoring and field trips. The certified nonprofit professional credential can be earned in conjunction with any bachelor's degree and requires successful participation in co-curricular, experiential activities in addition to required academic coursework. Oral History and Storytelling Certificate (ASOHCCERT)

Campus: West

Description:

The certificate program in oral history and storytelling introduces students to the interdisciplinary theories and methods required for collecting, documenting and preserving the stories of people's lives.

Through the program, students gain an understanding of and appreciation for diverse cultures, past and present, and engage in oral history research and interviewing. Students may build on existing projects or develop new community relationships at local, national and international levels.

With the knowledge and skills to abide by the professional standards involved in oral history documentation, research and presentation, students leave the program better prepared for graduate programs or careers that integrate oral history.

The program is offered by the School of Humanities, Arts and Cultural Studies.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in oral history and storytelling consists of 15 upper-division credit hours. A minimum of six upper-division credit hours must be completed through courses offered by the School of Humanities, Arts, and Cultural Studies. Six credit hours may be shared between the certificate and courses for a student's major. Students should consult an academic advisor to select appropriate courses. All courses used to satisfy requirements for the certificate must be passed with a "C" (2.00) or better.

Peace Corps Prep Certificate (LSPCPCERT)

Campus: Downtown Phoenix, Polytechnic, Tempe, West

Description:

The Peace Corps prep certificate program is designed to foster intellectual curiosity while building the competitiveness of Peace Corps applicants.

Six sectors --- education, youth development, health, environment, community and economic development, and agriculture --- comprise the program, unified by the mandatory course IDS 355 Peace Corps Seminar. To enhance the three core competencies of sector-specific skills, intercultural competence and leadership, students are encouraged to participate in service learning, internship opportunities and study abroad experiences.

Program Requirements:

The Peace Corps prep certificate requires a minimum of 21 credit hours as outlined below. However, students are able to double count credits from their current major, minor, general studies requirements, or other certificates where applicable. Students are encouraged to take courses that develop breadth within their sector rather than limiting their selection to courses in one particular subject area.

Applicants should contact an academic advisor in the College of Integrative Sciences and Arts, or the Peace Corps liaison at ASU by emailing pcrepcoordinator@asu.edu (mailto:pcrepcoordinator@asu.edu).

Required Courses -- 6 credit hours

IDS 355: Peace Corps Seminar (G) (3)

IDS 401: Integration: Experiential Learning or USL 402: Service Learning: Education & Youth (C) or USL 410: Service Learning: Diverse Community Issues (L & C) or any 484 Internship course (#trackgroup) (3)

Internship hours may be completed locally, out of state or through an international study abroad program. The internship must be completed in the same program sector as the affiliated program sector electives completed for a minimum of 3 credit hours.

Cultural Diversity in the U.S. or Global Awareness Course(s) -- 6 credit hours

Cultural Diversity in the U.S. (C) or Global Awareness (G) (6)

Students complete two additional "C" (Cultural Diversity in the U.S.) or "G" (Global Awareness) courses, excluding IDS 355 and the nine credit hours of sector related electives. Sector electives in excess of nine credit hours may count toward this C or G requirement. Classes can be either lower or upper division.

Electives (Choose one of the six sectors below) -- 9 credit hours

Program Sector Electives (9)

Students will select nine upper-division credit hours from one of the six program sectors of agriculture, community and economic development, education, environment, health, or youth development.

Students should see their academic advisor for a complete list of sector specific courses.

Agriculture Sector

Examples of electives include, but are not limited to:

AGB 302: International Management and Agribusiness (G) (3)

NLM 310: Volunteer Management (3)
PRM 315: Creating Community Through Park and Recreation Systems (3)
SWU 456: Immigrants and Refugees (C) (3)

An internship in the student's affiliated program sector is required. Students may complete a three credit hour internship () 484) or a service learning internship experience (USL 402 or USL 410). Students should visit the Service Learning Web Page (<https://communityengagement.education.asu.edu/programs/university-service-learning>) for questions regarding placement and enrollment. Students may also meet the internship requirement by completing an internship experience through a study abroad program. Study abroad or international experience is encouraged but not required. Consider IDS 394 "A Taste of Peace Corps in the Dominican Republic" during spring break as a substitute for any required certificate course. Foreign language study to at least the 200-level is encouraged but not required. For Peace Corps placements in Spanish or French-speaking countries, foreign language proficiency at the 200-level is often required. Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

- EXW 400: Stress Management for Wellness (3)
- SSP 320: Coaching Leadership, Performance Team and Facility Management (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

GPA Requirement: 2.00

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Students can improve their career options with an undergraduate certificate.

The certificate program in personal fitness training helps students become more marketable in the general health fields by providing specific content knowledge on exercise techniques, the positive impact physical activity can have on overall health, and reductions in the risk for developing chronic disease.

Professional Licensure:

ASU programs that may lead to professional licensure or certification are intended to prepare students for potential licensure or certification in Arizona. Completion of an ASU program may not meet educational requirements for licensure or certification in another state. For more information, students should visit the ASU professional licensure webpage: <https://admission.asu.edu/academics/licensure> (<https://admission.asu.edu/academics/licensure>).

Enrollment Requirements:

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Program Learning Outcomes:

Program learning outcomes identify what a student will learn or be able to do upon completion of their program. This program has the following program outcomes:

- Articulate and discuss questions raised by major political thinkers writing about democracy.
- Analyze and synthesize primary sources on the role of political leadership in history, identifying common themes that cut across a variety of time periods, places, and intellectual perspectives.

•Articulate or demonstrate the practical skills necessary in policy-making and/or administration, either in government or non-profit organizations. Such skills include critical decision-making, negotiation, and principled pragmatism, informed, all the while, by fundamental principles of democracy and republicanism.

Career Opportunities:

Students become more marketable to employers and advance their career options when they have complemented their major program of study with this specialization in political history and leadership.

Students who complete this certificate often pursue employment as military and naval officers, staff for governors, members of congress, city council officials, county prosecutors, financial advisors and campaign strategists. Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Religion, Conflict and Peace Certificate (LARELCERT)

Campus: Tempe

This program's name has changed effective Fall 2022. The previous name was Religion and Conflict.

Description:

A regional component of the religion, conflict and peace certificate program provides students with specific regional knowledge of how religion has been implicated in human conflict. Required coursework in at least two different regions fosters a comparative understanding of the dynamics of religion and conflict in historical and global contexts.

A political component explores how religion influences or is influenced by matters of state, law, government or other dimensions of political life.

A cultural component provides students with an understanding of how religion operates as a powerful force that impacts and intersects with expressions of human identity, thought and culture.

Program Requirements:

The certificate requires a minimum of 18 credit hours. At least 12 credit hours must be completed in upper-division coursework and at least 12 credit hours must be completed at ASU. At least six upper-division hours in the certificate must be completed in courses offered by The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher is required for each course used to fulfill a certificate requirement.

Humanities and Social Sciences Requirement

At least six of the 18 credit hours must be fulfilled with courses from the humanities and at least three credit hours from the social sciences.

When choosing courses from the lists below, complete six credit hours from the following subject areas to fulfill the humanities requirement: ARB, CEL, CHI, FMS, GER, HEB, HST, IAS, JST, PAX, PHI, REL, or SLC.

When choosing courses from the lists below, complete three credit hours from the following subject areas to fulfill the social sciences requirement: AFR, ASB, COM, GCU, JUS, NEW, POS, SGS, SOC, or WST.

Electives (two courses) -- 6 credit hours

Certificate Electives (6)

Students select electives from any of the course lists above, keeping in mind that at least 12 credit hours within the certificate must be upper division.

In some cases, the same course can be used to fulfill more than one requirement. For more information, please contact the certificate director in the Center for the Study of Religion and Conflict.

If a course is used to meet more than one component requirement above, additional electives may be required to meet the 18 credit hour minimum.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Students can become more marketable and advance their career options with an undergraduate certificate. The certificate in religion, conflict and peace complements their major program of study with specialized knowledge and enables them to demonstrate broad intellectual curiosity and skills.

Students who complete this certificate often decide to pursue employment in journalism, law, policy work, diplomacy, the military, public advocacy, publishing, education, ministry and other fields in which an enhanced understanding of religion and conflict is becoming increasingly vital. Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Risk Communication Certificate (ASRCMCERT)

Campus: West

Description:

The rising importance of the field of risk communication stems from the need to name, understand and manage physical and social risks as society is faced with increasingly challenging decisions concerning stressed social and environmental infrastructures.

Proficiency in risk communication requires understanding the complex interfaces of physical, biological, psychological and social systems. In response, the certificate program in risk communication combines the strengths of the three schools within the New College of Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences: the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences; the School of Mathematical and Natural Sciences; and the School of Humanities, Arts and Cultural Studies.

The program prepares students for a range of diverse careers in risk management, crisis communications and environmental public affairs. Specifically, students develop expertise suited to work as risk management specialists and environmental advocates, preparing them to translate complex scientific ideas and analyses into information that can be evaluated meaningfully by all members of society.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in risk communication requires 15 credit hours (a minimum of 12 credit hours must be upper division). A minimum of six upper-division credit hours must be completed through courses offered by the New College of Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences. A minimum of eight credit hours must be unique and not already being counted toward degree requirements in communication or environmental science. Other electives can be chosen in consultation with an academic advisor. All courses used to satisfy requirements for the certificate must be passed with a "C" (2.00) or better.

Core Requirements -- 6 credit hours

BIO 130: Introduction to Environmental Science (SQ) or ENV 201: Fundamentals of Environmental Science (3-4)

Notes: ENV 201 is required for Environmental Science or Biology majors only.

COM 415: Risk Communication (3)

Elective Courses (choose three) -- 9 credit hours

COM 319: Persuasion and Social Influence (SB) (3)

COM 414: Crisis Communication (3)

COM 450: Organizational Communication (SB) (3)

COM 454: Rhetorical and Critical Approaches to Public Relations (3)

COM 463: Intercultural Communication in a Global Context (SB & G) (3)

IAS 340 / PHI 320: Bioethics (HU) (3)

IAS 407 / PHI 407: Environmental Philosophy and Policy (L or HU) (3)

IAS 409 / PHI 409: Eco-Community Ethics (HU) (3)

LSC 362: The Human Environment (3)

PTX 301: Basics of Pharmacology and Toxicology (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Students wishing to pursue this certificate should consult an academic advisor in the School of Mathematical and Natural Sciences or the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences to ensure the appropriate set of courses is taken and the required paperwork is submitted.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates of this program work with local government agencies and law enforcement, public relations organizations, advertising, marketing and insurance.

Russian and East European Studies Certificate (LAREECERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The certificate in Russian and East European Studies encourages students to develop competency in Russian or another East European or Eurasian language as well as the culture and politics of the region.

Coursework leading to the certificate is offered by outstanding faculty in diverse fields of study including architecture, economics, film studies, geography, history, international business, literature, music, political science and religious studies.

A one credit capstone course, to be completed in the student's junior or senior year, is student-led; with the support of an advisor, students can write a research paper on the Russian and East European studies topic of their choice, prepare a writing sample or a graduate school application, or work on a creative project.

A student with a major in any school or department may pursue this certificate and develop a personalized plan of study in cooperation with an advisor at the Melikian Center.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in Russian and East European studies requires a minimum of 20 credit hours, of which at least four must be a language course and at least 12 must be upper division. A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher is required in all courses used toward the certificate.

Language Requirement -- 4 credit hours

Students may complete one 4-credit hour language course from BCS, PLC, ROM, or RUS, or they may complete the Albanian, Armenian, BCS, Kazakh, Macedonian, Polish, Russian, Turkish, Ukrainian, and Uzbek courses offered by the Critical Languages Institute (<https://melikian.asu.edu/cli>) to fulfill the language requirement.

NOTE: Native speakers of a language must complete four credit hours in a different language to fulfill this requirement.

Students complete the minimum 12 credit upper-division requirement with at least 6 credit hours of electives selected from the above list. Arranged honors theses and upper-division colloquia with Melikian Center faculty affiliates may also be used toward this requirement. An additional required or area-related elective OR an additional language course must be used toward the fulfillment of the 20 credit-hour requirement.

Capstone Project -- 1 credit hours

LIA 494: REES Certificate Capstone (1)

In their junior or senior year, students will complete the 1-credit REES Certificate Capstone. This can be in the form of a reading course offered by the Melikian Center OR a project chosen in cooperation with a Melikian Center faculty affiliate. The project should represent an extended, research-based focus on some dimension of the region's languages, cultures, religions, histories, and/or politics. It may take the form of an extended research paper, honors thesis, translation project, research assistantship, or internship.

Other courses may be used with the approval of the certificate advisor.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Program Learning Outcomes:

Program learning outcomes identify what a student will learn or be able to do upon completion of their program. This program has the following program outcomes:

- Analyze or examine a current or historical issue in Russia, Eastern Europe, or Eurasia, utilize and evaluate sources of information on the issue, and construct an argument or produce a creative project about the issue.
- Demonstrate a high degree of competency, defined as the ability to use language in real world situations in a manner deemed appropriate by native speakers and/or instructors of the language, in a REES Language.

Global Opportunities:

Global Experience:

The Critical Languages Institute at Arizona State University's Melikian Center is a national training institute for less-commonly taught languages, offering summer intensive courses and study abroad programs around the world. Languages taught include Albanian, Armenian, Bosnian/Serbian/Croatian, Hebrew, Indonesian, Kazakh, Macedonian, Persian/Farsi, Polish, Russian, Tatar, Turkish, Ukrainian and Uzbek.

The Critical Languages Institute instruction in Arizona and abroad is practically focused and proficiency-based. Students not only study a language but learn to live that language. Specially designed summer intensives on the ASU campus prepare students, even beginners, to function competently in the language they are learning when they go abroad. Once overseas, students live the language as they participate in family life, join sports and gaming clubs, sing in choirs, join theater groups, appear on television, give presentations and make speeches, participate in neighborhood projects and otherwise actively immerse themselves in the culture.

Students may learn more on the Melikian Center website at <https://melikian.asu.edu/cli> (<https://melikian.asu.edu/cli>).

Career Opportunities:

Students who complete the Russian and East European studies certificate enhance their prospects for highly selective study abroad fellowships, including Fulbright, Boren, and CLS, and for admission to graduate study. Certificate holders may also qualify for unique entry-level government employment opportunities at agencies such as the State Department and the NSA.

Secondary Education Certificate (TESEDCERT)

Campus: Polytechnic, Tempe, West, ASU@Lake Havasu, ASU@The Gila Valley, ASU Sync

Description:

The secondary education certificate program prepares students who wish to teach students enrolled in grades 6-12. While students develop a strong content background, the secondary education certificate program focuses on developing the requisite teaching knowledge and abilities for successfully teaching middle or high school students. In order to integrate teacher preparation with the academic specialization, Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College collaborates and communicates with academic departments throughout the university. Professional experiences and residency are required components of this certificate.

Students who complete this certificate program are issued an institutional recommendation for certification in Arizona. Students desiring to teach in a public school must also pass the Professional Knowledge Arizona Educator exam (either the National Evaluation Series or the Arizona Educator Proficiency Assessments) to be certified to teach in the state of Arizona.

The secondary education undergraduate certificate is also available for students who have earned a bachelor's degree; this is considered a nondegree graduate pathway.

Format option: This program is also offered via ASU Sync. ASU Sync enables students to attend live classes remotely via Zoom. Classes are designed to foster active collaboration and discussion in real-time with faculty and peers. Students can learn more about ASU Sync for undergraduates at Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College on the college's website at <https://education.asu.edu/degree-programs/undergraduate-programs/asu-sync-statewide> (<https://education.asu.edu/degree-programs/undergraduate-programs/asu-sync-statewide>).

Students on I-20 visas are not permitted to complete courses via Sync and should speak with an advisor about other options to complete this program.

Students seeking to use GI Bill® benefits for ASU Sync programs should contact the Pat Tillman Veterans Center regarding certain limitations.

GI Bill® is a registered trademark of the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs. More information about education benefits offered by VA is available on the official U.S. government website at <https://www.benefits.va.gov/gibill>.

SHS 484: SLPA Certificate (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Students who have completed at least nine credit hours in speech and hearing science coursework with a minimum GPA of 2.75 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in those courses are eligible to apply. Applications are accepted from students who have completed a bachelor's degree in speech and hearing science or communication disorders from a program accredited by the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association, providing their GPA in the major was at least 2.75.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a non-degree seeking graduate student.

Program Learning Outcomes:

Program learning outcomes identify what a student will learn or be able to do upon completion of their program. This program has the following program outcomes:

- Implement treatment strategies appropriate to client age and disorder in speech/language therapy sessions.
- Apply professional and ethical principles in the practice of speech language pathology for treatment of individuals with communication disorders.
- Understand clinical activities by observing and interviewing speech-language pathologists or audiologists.

Career Opportunities:

Graduates with this certificate are prepared to work under the direction and supervision of a speech-language pathologist in schools, clinics and rehabilitation agencies that provide speech and language services.

Coursework and clinical training completed as part of the program also enhances preparation for graduate programs in speech and communication disorders.

Professional Licensure:

ASU programs that may lead to professional licensure or certification are intended to prepare students for potential licensure or certification in Arizona. Completion of an ASU program may not meet educational requirements for licensure or certification in another state. Sustainable Food Systems Certificate (SUFSUCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

Food systems are particularly important for human societies to sustain; however, these systems are particularly vulnerable to multiple threats. Many students from a wide variety of disciplines are interested in food systems, especially as food and sustainability become increasingly relevant issues to employers in fields across the public and private sectors.

This certificate program in sustainable food systems allows students to take advantage of the diversity of courses offered that address challenges to food system sustainability. It encourages students to cover a breadth of topics and perspectives related to food system issues while providing the opportunity to focus on particular skills and approaches suitable for their career paths, which can range from agriculture to marketing and retail to policy or ethics. This program offers an innovative and exciting approach to the challenges of food system sustainability.

Due to the transdisciplinary nature of the certificate program, many courses may be found across all four ASU campuses, allowing students to choose both the focus area and location of study that best fit their needs.

The knowledge, competencies and skills students have upon completion of this certificate include the ability to identify food system drivers, activities, actors and outcomes at different spatial scales and the capacity to assess the primary social, economic and environmental drivers and outcomes associated with food system sustainability challenges.

Students also acquire the ability to apply one or more of the following analytical skills or approaches to the development of food system sustainability solutions: cultural and social analysis, alternative agricultural design and practice, analysis of biophysical processes and environmental services, urban planning and policy, marketing and entrepreneurial development, sustainability assessment, and consumer preference and behavior.

Program Requirements:

The certificate in sustainable food systems consists of 15 credit hours, at least 12 of which must be upper division.

All courses must be completed with a minimum grade of C (2.0 on a 4.0 scale), however, an overall average GPA of 2.5 or higher is required for

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The certificate program in symbolic, cognitive and linguistic systems takes a transdisciplinary approach to the symbolic representation and processing of information in human cognition; natural languages; and formal mathematical, logical and computing systems.

Coursework covers three areas: human cognition and theories of mind, philosophy of language and linguistics, and computing and logic.

Program Requirements:

The certificate requires 18 credit hours, of which at least 12 must be upper division. At least six upper-division credit hours must be taken through The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher is required for all courses used toward the certificate.

Required Course (choose one) -- 3 credit hours

- CSE 110: Principles of Programming (CS) (3)
- CSE 205: Object-Oriented Programming and Data Structures (CS) (3)
- CSE 240: Introduction to Programming Languages (3)

Upper Division Philosophy Course (choose one) -- 3 credit hours

- PHI 313: Probability, Evidence, and Decision (3)
- PHI 319: Philosophy, Computing and Artificial Intelligence (CS) (3)
- PHI 330: Theory of Knowledge (HU) (3)
- PHI 331: Philosophy of Language (HU) (3)
- PHI 333: Symbolic Logic (3)
- PHI 334: Philosophy of Mind (HU) (3)
- PHI 401: Rationalism (3)
- PHI 402: Empiricism (HU) (3)
- PHI 413: Advanced Symbolic Logic (3)

Electives -- 12 credit hours

- Elective (3)
- Upper Division Electives (9)

Students must complete at least one course each from the cognitive, linguistic and symbolic systems course lists below to earn the certificate. The required CSE course above also satisfies the requirement for a symbolic systems course, but students must cover the other two categories within the electives and upper division PHI course requirement. Once all three categories are satisfied, students may choose any courses from the cognitive, linguistic and symbolic systems lists for the remaining electives.

Cognitive Systems

PHI 313: Probability, Evidence, and Decision (3)

PHI 330: Theory of Knowledge (HU) (3)

PHI 334: Philosophy of Mind (HU) (3)

PHI 401: Rationalism (3)

PHI 402: Empiricism (HU) (3)

PSY 323: Sensation and Perception (3)

PSY 324: Memory and Cognition (3)

PSY 434: Cognitive Psychology (L) (3)

PSY 437: Human Factors (L) (3)

Linguistic Systems

ENG 213: Introduction to the Study of Language (3)

ENG 312: English in its Social Setting (L or HU or SB) (3)

ENG 313: Phonology and Morphology (3)

ENG 314: Modern Grammar (3)

ENG 413: History of English Language (HU) (3)

PHI 331: Philosophy of Language (HU) (3)

Symbolic Systems

CSE 110: Principles of Programming (CS) (3)

CSE 205: Object-Oriented Programming and Data Structures (CS) (3)

CSE 240: Introduction to Programming Languages (3)

CSE 471: Introduction to Artificial Intelligence (3)

MAT 243: Discrete Mathematical Structures (3)

MAT 300: Mathematical Structures (L) (3)

MAT 420: Scientific Computing (3)

PHI 319: Philosophy, Computing and Artificial Intelligence (CS) (3)

PHI 333: Symbolic Logic (3)

PHI 413: Advanced Symbolic Logic (3)

With the approval of the director of undergraduate studies, students may substitute one course not on the approved course lists. Please obtain approval prior to enrolling in any course not on the approved list.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Program Learning Outcomes:

Program learning outcomes identify what a student will learn or be able to do upon completion of their program. This program has the following program outcomes:

- Evaluate arguments for formal validity and construct formal proofs. Students will be able to capture the logical form of English sentences.
- Explain and apply key philosophical concepts or theories in the study of human cognition, including techniques and challenges for modeling human cognition using formal or programming languages.

Career Opportunities:

Students become more marketable to employers and advance their career options when they have complemented their major with this specialization in symbolic, cognitive and linguistic systems that develops their analytical and reasoning skills, particularly reasoning with computer programming languages and other symbolic systems.

Students who complete this undergraduate certificate often decide to pursue employment in business, engineering, information systems or psychology. Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) Certificate (LATESLCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The undergraduate certificate program in teaching English to speakers of other languages consists of a coherent set of courses that provides students with the skills necessary to teach English as a foreign language.

This certificate does not certify students to teach in Arizona public schools (K-12).

Program Requirements:

The certificate program in teaching English as a second language requires a minimum of 18 credit hours, of which 12 must be completed at the upper-division level. At least six credit hours must be completed from courses offered by The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. Each course must be completed with a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher.

Core -- 6 credit hours

ENG 213: Introduction to the Study of Language (3)

ENG 484: TESOL Internship (3)

Theory/Methods -- 6 credit hours

ENG 404: Studies in Second Language Acquisition (6)

Notes: ENG 404 is repeatable for credit and must be completed twice.

Linguistics Electives -- 6 credit hours

Choose one course from each group below.

Group 1:

ENG 403: Semantics (3)

ENG 404: Studies in Second Language Acquisition (3)

ENG 414: Studies in Linguistics (3)

Group 2:

ENG 214: English Grammar and Usage (3)

ENG 312: English in its Social Setting (L or HU or SB) (3)

ENG 313: Phonology and Morphology (3)

ENG 314: Modern Grammar (3)

ENG 413: History of English Language (HU) (3)

Course substitutions may be used with approval of an academic advisor in the Department of English before enrollment.

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

Requests to declare this certificate are reviewed by the academic advisor in the academic unit offering the certificate. Students may be contacted to discuss the certificate prior to the addition of the certificate to the student record.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Program Learning Outcomes:

Program learning outcomes identify what a student will learn or be able to do upon completion of their program. This program has the following program outcomes:

- Recall and explain structural and functional features of human language.
- Recall and explain theories, research, and key concepts in first/second language use and learning.
- Recall and explain key concepts, theories, and methods in second language (L2) teaching and will be able to develop teaching/learning materials.
- Apply theories and key concepts in (a) language studies, (b) L2 use and learning, and (c) L2 teaching to real-world contexts (e.g., language teaching, materials development, or related professional practices).

Career Opportunities:

The TESOL certificate is useful for students interested in careers in this increasingly important field. It also serves as excellent preparation for students wishing to pursue graduate studies in the Master of Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages program at ASU or in a similar program at another institution.

Students who combine this TESOL certificate with their major program of study may become more marketable to employers.

Students who complete this undergraduate certificate often decide to pursue employment in teaching abroad. Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.

Water Resources Certificate (LAWATRCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

The certificate program in water resources covers topics related to hydrologic science and their application to water resources management. The sequence of classes offered through the certificate program build from a foundation in geological sciences up to water policy and design aspects of hydrology, as selected by the student.

Program Requirements:

The certificate requires a minimum of 16 credit hours. At least 12 credit hours must be completed in upper-division coursework and at least nine credit hours must be completed at ASU. At least six upper-division hours in the certificate must be completed in courses offered by The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. A grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher is required for each course used to fulfill a certificate requirement.

Required Courses -- 10 credit hours

GLG 108 / SOS 182: Water Planet (SQ) (4)

GLG 325 / BIO 325 / CHM 385: Oceanography (3)

GLG 362: Geomorphology (3)

GLG 471: Hydrology (3)

GLG 481: Geochemistry (3)

SOS 433: Sustainable Water Use (3)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

With the job outlook for water resources increasing at a rate faster than other job averages (more than 11% by 2024, U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics), the demand for individuals with industry-specific skills is clear.

Students who earn a certificate in water resources can advance their career opportunities and become more marketable to employers. Exciting career opportunities in this field exist within government agencies, private sector consulting, engineering firms and nonprofit organizations, though most career areas do require more training than a certificate alone can provide.

Career opportunities include:

- hydrologist
- soil and water conservationist
- water or wastewater engineer
- water resources technician

Sample career settings include:

- environmental industry
- governmental agencies
- nongovernmental organizations
- nonprofit organizations
- regulatory agencies
- utilities

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Students can advance their career options with an undergraduate certificate. This certificate may give a hiring edge, through requisite knowledge and skills, to students who want to pursue employment in the growing number of environmental careers offered by state and federal agencies (e.g., Arizona Game and Fish Department, U.S. Forest Service, U.S. Geological Survey, U.S. Bureau of Land Management) and nongovernmental organizations in areas of fish and wildlife management, range management or as biological technicians.

Working with Military Families Certificate (LAWWMFCERT)

Campus: Tempe

Description:

Students in all majors will benefit from the knowledge gained by completing the requirements for this certificate. Understanding and appreciating the similarities and differences in civilian and military culture will help students become more inclusive coworkers, managers and community members with those in the military community and their families.

Important complexities surround the dynamics of military families. Military personnel, veterans and their families face unique issues and challenges such as navigating military culture and dealing with multiple deployments, war, combat, trauma and death. Students interested in careers focusing on these families have a need to understand normative family processes, stress and coping, and military culture and leadership.

Students enrolled in this program take a unique combination of academic coursework and military leadership training. Students who complete the certificate program are conversant with human development, marital and familial relationships, and family dynamics in the context of military culture.

Program Requirements:

The certificate requires 18 credit hours. At least 12 credit hours must be completed at the upper-division level and a grade of "C" (2.00 on a 4.00 scale) or higher is required in all courses.

Required Courses -- 15 credit hours

Writing (New College) Certificate (ASWRTCERT)

Campus: West

Description:

The certificate in writing is a valuable program for students in any discipline. The ability to communicate clearly, directly and effectively is a key to advancement in all careers.

The program offers five track options (creative writing, generalist, nonfiction writing, professional and technical writing, and publishing and editing) which can be tailored to students' individual interests and career goals. The program comprises intensive coursework that culminates in an exit portfolio, a collection of work that demonstrates the writing skills mastered by each student.

The certificate in writing is offered by the School of Humanities, Arts and Cultural Studies.

Program Requirements:

The writing certificate consists of 16 credit hours, 13 of which must be upper division. Students must complete a minimum of six upper-division credit hours offered by the School of Humanities, Arts, and Cultural Studies. Requirements include 15 credit hours of track courses from one track (chosen in consultation with the faculty certificate coordinator) and one credit hour of AMS 490 Writing Portfolio. Six to nine credit hours may be shared between the certificate and major requirements upon approval. All courses used to satisfy the requirements for the certificate must be passed with a "B" (3.00 on a 4.00 scale) or better.

Track Requirements -- 15 credit hours

Select and complete 15 credit hours from within one Track. Coursework must be chosen in consultation with the faculty certificate coordinator. A minimum of 12 out of the 15 credit hours must be upper division. (15)

Writing Portfolio -- 1 credit hours

AMS 490: Writing Certificate Portfolio (1)

Prerequisite courses may be needed in order to complete the requirements of this certificate.

Enrollment Requirements:

The certificate in writing is open to all ASU undergraduate majors. To gain admission to the program, students must demonstrate fundamental writing skills through the completion of English composition. Students are required to submit an application, which includes at least three samples of writing from lower-division courses or independent writing projects. Applications must be submitted at least two months before the start of the semester they anticipate being admitted. Students wishing to pursue this certificate should consult an academic advisor in the School of Humanities, Arts and Cultural Studies to ensure the appropriate set of courses is taken and all required paperwork is submitted.

A student pursuing an undergraduate certificate must be enrolled as a degree-seeking student at ASU. Undergraduate certificates are not awarded prior to the award of an undergraduate degree. A student already holding an undergraduate degree may pursue an undergraduate certificate as a nondegree-seeking graduate student.

Career Opportunities:

Certification of advanced writing skills opens the way to a vast array of opportunities: journalism and publishing, public advocacy, military and government, elementary and secondary education, industry and management, economic development and law. Graduates are prepared for jobs as technical writers, copy editors, teachers, publishers, writers, reporters and correspondents, and script writers.

Undergraduate Degrees (Program Descriptions)

Business, W. P. Carey School of

Accountancy, BS (BAACCBS)

Campus: Tempe, West, Online

Program Description:

The W. P. Carey School of Accountancy works closely with its Professional Advisory Board to create a learning environment that emulates the real world by exploring applied processes and strategies. The BS program in accountancy prepares students by equipping them with critical thinking, team-building, communication and information technology skills along with accounting theories and procedures.

Additional Program Fee: Y

Second Language Requirement: N

First Required Math Course: MAT 210 - Brief Calculus

Program Math Intensity: Moderate

Concurrent Program Options:

Students pursuing concurrent degrees (also known as a "double major") earn two distinct degrees and receive two diplomas. Working with their academic advisors, students can create their own concurrent degree combination. Some combinations are not possible due to high levels of overlap in curriculum.

Accelerated Program Options:

This program allows students to choose a 3-year path while participating in the same high-quality educational experience of a 4-year option. Students can opt to fast-track their studies after acceptance into a participating program by connecting with their academic advisor. Fast track options appear at the top of the major map.

This program also allows students to obtain both a bachelor's and master's degree in as little as five years. It is offered as an accelerated bachelor's and master's degree with:

Taxation and Data Analytics, MTax

Acceptance to the graduate program requires a separate application. During their junior year, eligible students are advised by their academic departments to apply.

Admission Requirements:

General University Admission Requirements:

All students are required to meet general university admission requirements.

Freshman (<https://admission.asu.edu/freshman/apply>)

Transfer (<https://admission.asu.edu/transfer/apply>)

International (<https://admission.asu.edu/international/undergrad-apply>)

Readmission (<https://admission.asu.edu/undergrad/readmission>)

Additional Requirements:

Freshmen admission requirements: 1230 SAT Reasoning OR 25 ACT score, OR graduated in the top 8% of high school class, OR have an overall high school GPA of 3.40 in ASU competency courses (scale is 4.00 = "A").

Freshmen should select an additional major when applying for admission. Additional choices may include any of the W. P. Carey business BA programs or any other degree program outside W. P. Carey School of Business. Students who are not admissible to a W. P. Carey business BS major and who did not select a second major or are not admissible to their second major choice will be placed in a business BA program in W. P. Carey School of Business.

Readmission requirements: Students must meet freshman admission requirements by way of high school GPA, test score or class rank and must have a transfer GPA of 3.00 (if applicable) and a cumulative ASU GPA of 3.00.

Transfer Admission Requirements:

Transfer admission requirements (30 or more semester hours of credit after high school): transfer GPA of 3.00 and one of the following: 1160 (prior to March 2016) or 1230 SAT Reasoning (after March 2016) OR 25 ACT score OR must have graduated in the top 8% of their high school class OR have an overall high school GPA of 3.40 in ASU competency courses (scale is 4.00 = "A").

Transfer students should select an additional major when applying for admission. Additional choices may include any of the W. P. Carey business BA programs or any other business or other degree program outside W. P. Carey School of Business.

Students with fewer than 45 transfer hours who are not admissible to a W. P. Carey School of Business major and who did not select a second major or are not admissible to their second major choice are placed in the exploratory social and behavioral sciences program in University College.

Students with more than 45 transfer hours who are not admissible to a W. P. Carey School of Business major and who did not select a second major or are not admissible to their second major choice are prompted in My ASU to select a new major.

Change of Major Requirements:

Students should visit the following W. P. Carey School of Business website to determine if they meet change of major requirements:

<https://students.wpcarey.asu.edu/degrees-and-advising/degree-programs/change-majors> (<https://students.wpcarey.asu.edu/degrees-and-advising/degree-programs/change-majors>). Students should refer to <https://changemajor.apps.asu.edu> for information about how to change a major to this program.

Attend Online:

ASU Online: ASU offers this program in an online format with multiple enrollment sessions throughout the year. Applicants may view the program description and request more information here. (<https://asuonline.asu.edu/online-degree-programs/undergraduate/accounting-degree/>)

ASU Local: It is now possible to earn an ASU degree with ASU Local, an integrated college experience in which students take advantage of in-person success coaching and programming experiences on site while completing one of 130+ undergraduate online degree programs, all of which come with online faculty interaction and tutoring support. Those interested may learn more about ASU Local here. (<https://asulocal.asu.edu>)

Transfer Options:

ASU is committed to helping students thrive by offering tools that allow personalization of the transfer path to ASU. Students may use MyPath2ASU (<https://webapp4.asu.edu/transfercreditguide/app/transfermap?major=BAACCBS~null + &college=CBA>) to outline a list of recommended courses to take prior to transfer.

ASU has transfer partnerships in Arizona and across the country to create a simplified transfer experience for students. These pathway programs include exclusive benefits, tools and resources, and help students save time and money in their college journey. Students may learn more about these programs by visiting the admission site: <https://admission.asu.edu/transfer/pathway-programs>.

Global Opportunities:

Global Experience:

Study abroad experiences open up new doors for accountancy majors. Students gain valuable skills employers want, such as communication, interpersonal skills and flexibility, and understanding international accounting methods helps students become more well-rounded and competitive in the accounting field. Students benefit from thinking about study abroad early, allowing for opportunities to take summer courses in places like Costa Rica or studying a full semester in Europe to gain a real-life perspective on business applications worldwide.

The W. P. Carey School of Business recommends the following study abroad programs for students majoring in accountancy:

<https://goglobal.asu.edu/students/major/wp-carey/accountancy> (<https://goglobal.asu.edu/students/major/wp-carey/accountancy>).

Career Opportunities:

Accounting is a dynamic field, with diverse career opportunities in the private sector and in government agencies worldwide.

Graduates have the essential academic preparation and competitive edge they need for:

- a professional career in public, corporate and governmental accounting
- a position in consulting or are planning to operate a business
- a position in personal financial planning and portfolio analysis

The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics' Occupational Outlook Handbook (2018) states, "Employment of accountants and auditors is projected to grow 10% between 2016 and 2026, faster than the average for all occupations."
Graduates are also well-positioned to pursue a graduate degree or attend law school.

Program Description:

The mission of the concentration in Chinese language and culture within the BA program in business is to create global business professionals who can function well culturally and linguistically in the business environment in China and domestically. As China becomes an increasingly important participant in the global economy, and as the manufacturing and financial sectors become more globalized, the need for business professionals skilled in communicating in the Chinese language is growing.

With a network of 26 flagship programs at 22 institutions of higher education across the U.S., the language flagship program graduates are prepared to take their place among the next generation of global professionals, commanding a superior level of proficiency in languages critical to U.S. national security and economic competitiveness. This program prepares participants to function professionally in Chinese within diverse business fields.

Readmission requirements: Students must have a 3.00 transfer GPA (if applicable) and a 3.00 cumulative ASU GPA.

Transfer Admission Requirements:

Transfer applicants must have a 3.00 GPA for all transfer work and meet university transfer admission requirements. Transfer students should select an additional major, which must be outside W. P. Carey School of Business, when applying for admission.

Students with fewer than 45 transfer hours who are not admissible to a W. P. Carey School of Business major and who did not select a second major or are not admissible to their second major choice are placed in the exploratory social and behavioral sciences program in the College of Integrative Sciences and Arts.

Students with more than 45 transfer hours who are not admissible to a W. P. Carey School of Business major and who did not select a second major or are not admissible to their second major choice are prompted in My ASU to select a new major.

Transfer Options:

ASU is committed to helping students thrive by offering tools that allow personalization of the transfer path to ASU. Students may use MyPath2ASU (<https://webapp4.asu.edu/transfercreditguide/app/transfermap?major=BABUSCLBA~null + &college=CBA>) to outline a list of recommended courses to take prior to transfer.

ASU has transfer partnerships in Arizona and across the country to create a simplified transfer experience for students. These pathway programs include exclusive benefits, tools and resources, and help students save time and money in their college journey. Students may learn more about these programs by visiting the admission site: <https://admission.asu.edu/transfer/pathway-programs>.

Global Opportunities:

Global Experience:

As globalization continues to impact the way business functions, study abroad programs provide vital experiences to students. Study abroad programs allow students in the Chinese language and culture concentration to practice language and cultural competency-building for global business success. Students gain valuable skills employers are looking for, including communication skills, flexibility, motivation and a global perspective on business applications worldwide. Successful graduates of this program are familiar with cultural customs and nuances of conducting business in China.

The W. P. Carey School of Business recommends the following study abroad programs for students majoring in business with a concentration in Chinese language and culture: <https://goglobal.asu.edu/students/major/wp-carey/chinese-language-culture> (<https://goglobal.asu.edu/students/major/wp-carey/chinese-language-culture>).

Career Opportunities:

This degree program provides students with the fundamental business skills, linguistic training, critical thinking and intercultural competencies required to work in the increasingly globalized world markets that now rely on trade and commerce with China.

Graduates of this program are equipped to play a key role in companies and organizations seeking new markets or dealing with international interests in the U.S. and are suited to the demands of small-business enterprises as well as multinational companies.

Currently, there is a demand for Mandarin-speaking business professionals in the hotel and tourism industry and in the consulting, banking and finance, international trade, sports management and media fields.

Global Opportunities:

Global Experience:

Study abroad experiences open up new doors for corporate accounting majors. Students gain valuable skills employers want, such as communication, interpersonal skills and flexibility, and understanding international accounting methods helps students become more well-rounded and competitive in the accounting field. Students benefit from thinking about study abroad early, allowing themselves the opportunity to gain a global perspective on business applications worldwide by taking summer courses in places like Costa Rica or studying a full semester in Europe.

The W. P. Carey School of Business recommends the following study abroad programs for students majoring in business with a concentration in corporate accounting: <https://goglobal.asu.edu/students/major/wp-carey/corporate-accounting> (<https://goglobal.asu.edu/students/major/wp-carey/corporate-accounting>).

Career Opportunities:

Career opportunities are generally substantive and in high demand. Senior management roles for corporate accountants include chief financial officer positions. Currently, more than half the CFOs at larger corporations have formal accounting training. Projecting into the future, the longer term trend is for CFOs to have extensive corporate accounting training, particularly since CFOs at public U.S. corporations personally sign the financial statements.

Typical early- to mid-career positions held by corporate accountants include controllers, treasurers and vice presidents in areas like financial planning, divisional controlling, cost accounting directing, senior financial analysis and senior accounting. These positions typically report to the CFO.

Professional Licensure:

ASU programs that may lead to professional licensure or certification are intended to prepare students for potential licensure or certification in Arizona. Completion of an ASU program may not meet educational requirements for licensure or certification in another state. Career Opportunities:

Financial planners are in high demand in the dynamic field of financial services and planning. Aging populations are paying closer attention to their finances as they approach retirement, and the rising need for financial planning services and advisors translates into huge opportunities for careers in this growing market. Employment of personal financial advisors is projected to grow 15% between 2016 and 2026, much faster than the average for all occupations.

Graduates of the Bachelor of Arts in financial planning can secure employment in the growing field of financial services and planning.

Campus: Polytechnic

Program Description:

The agribusiness industry is increasingly competitive, sophisticated and global, driving demand for innovative leaders who understand the industry's unique challenges and practices. The BA program in business with a concentration in global agribusiness teaches students the business of agricultural production, finance, marketing and distribution.

Through a technology-rich, applied, industry-oriented curriculum that focuses on real-world projects, students explore global agribusiness issues such as international trade, food safety and sustainability. It is specifically designed to meet the needs of students interested in studying the business aspects of agriculture in the domestic and global economy. Students learn to analyze and manage issues involved in food manufacturing, input and output supply activities, commodity trading and food distribution.

Global Opportunities:

Global Experience:

As globalization continues to impact the way business functions, study abroad programs provide students with the valuable skills employers are looking for, including communication skills, flexibility, motivation and a global perspective on business applications worldwide.

Students in the global agribusiness concentration can study abroad nearly anywhere and participate in real-world applications, such as navigating the coffee business in Costa Rica, principles of business in the Czech Republic or spending a semester in Madrid, among many others.

The W. P. Carey School of Business recommends the following study abroad programs for students majoring in business with a concentration in global agribusiness: <https://goglobal.asu.edu/students/major/wp-carey/global-agribusiness> (<https://goglobal.asu.edu/students/major/wp-carey/global-agribusiness>).

Career Opportunities:

Accounting for more than 50% of the global economy and employing 25% of Americans, agribusiness brings food from the farm to the global table. Possible career paths include positions with private agribusiness firms and governmental agencies in these fields:

- finance
- management
- marketing
- technology

Business (Global Logistics Management), BA (BABUSGLBA)

Campus: West, Online

Program Description:

Logistics management focuses on the integration and partnerships necessary to meet customer needs on a timely basis, with relevant and high-quality products produced and delivered in a service-effective manner.

This BA program in business with a concentration in global logistics management trains students to be strategic thinkers, excellent analysts, effective communicators and team leaders who are focused on efficiency, effectiveness and increasing revenue.

An efficient logistics management system is critical to the success of global corporations, ensuring the supply of goods and services flowing through the system closely matches the demand. Logistics management professionals manage, coordinate and transport products from raw materials to the finished goods that sit on a local store shelf or are offered by an online retailer. Efficient logistics is a key reason consumers can buy an ever-increasing variety of goods and services at remarkably low prices. Not surprisingly, logistics also plays a major role in the health care industry where efficient, effective delivery systems are gaining significant traction.

Business (Sports Business), BA (BABUSMSBA)

Campus: Tempe, West, Online

Program Description:

The BA program in business with a concentration in sports business is attractive to students with an interest in the sports industry.

This concentration provides students with the necessary skills to build knowledge and understanding of the development of the strategic business process in sports organizations and its relationship to media. The program offers a strong focus on applied elements of the sports industry, especially as it relates to media and its impact on the industry.

The proliferation of mass communication, including television, game systems and social networks, has transformed sports into a highly commercialized industry and, in turn, sports continue to generate revenues for these businesses. The interaction between sports and media has led to a multitude of applications of business knowledge to these fields.

Career Opportunities:

Finding ways to grow and prosper while reducing the stress on the global environment is a critical issue facing today's society. Interest in sustainability issues is growing and most likely will be increasingly important to business in the next few years.

People around the world are asking serious questions about how they can understand, evaluate and act on issues related to sustainability while making sensible business decisions for both the now and the future. Qualified individuals are needed, those who understand that ensuring success involves the societal, scientific and business aspects of the issues. Graduates from this degree program fill these needs.

Global Opportunities:

Global Experience:

As globalization continues to impact the way people live and work, international experiences have become vital to success in every field of business. Through international study and internships, students can see different economic systems play out in real time and gain valuable skills employers seek, including communication and interpersonal skills, flexibility, motivation and a global perspective on business applications worldwide.

The W. P. Carey School of Business recommends the following study abroad programs for students majoring in economics: <https://goglobal.asu.edu/students/major/wp-carey/economics> (<https://goglobal.asu.edu/students/major/wp-carey/economics>).

Career Opportunities:

A major in economics provides students with the analytical and quantitative skills needed in careers in business, government and public policy.

Graduates have taken positions such as:

- consultants who serve as advisers to state and federal governments as well as private corporations
- corporate economists who collect data and make forecasts relevant to the firm's business
- employees in banking and financial services firms

Each year, many graduates pursue additional studies at other prestigious universities.

Admission Requirements:

General University Admission Requirements:

All students are required to meet general university admission requirements.

Freshman (<https://admission.asu.edu/freshman/apply>)

Transfer (<https://admission.asu.edu/transfer/apply>)

International (<https://admission.asu.edu/international/undergrad-apply>)

Readmission (<https://admission.asu.edu/undergrad/readmission>)

Additional Requirements:

Freshmen admission requirements: 1230 SAT Reasoning OR 25 ACT score, OR graduated in the top 8% of high school class, OR an overall high school GPA of 3.40 in ASU competency courses (scale is 4.00 = "A").

Freshmen should select an additional major when applying for admission. Additional choices may include any of the W. P. Carey business BA programs or any other degree program outside of the W. P. Carey School of Business. Students who are not admissible to a W. P. Carey business BS major and who did not select a second major or are not admissible to their second major choice are placed in a business BA program in the W. P. Carey School of Business.

Readmission requirements: Students must meet freshman admission requirements by way of high school GPA, test score or class rank and must have a transfer GPA of 3.00 (if applicable) and a cumulative ASU GPA of 3.00.

Transfer Admission Requirements:

Transfer admission requirements (30 or more semester hours of credit after high school): transfer GPA of 3.00 and one of the following: 1160 (prior to March 2016) or 1230 SAT Reasoning (after March 2016) OR 25 ACT score OR the student must have graduated in the top 8% of their high school class OR an overall high school GPA of 3.40 in ASU competency courses (scale is 4.00 = "A").

Transfer students should select an additional major when applying for admission. Additional choices may include any of the W. P. Carey business BA programs or any other business or other degree program outside of the W. P. Carey School of Business.

Students with fewer than 45 transfer hours who are not admissible to a W. P. Carey School of Business major and who did not select a second major or are not admissible to their second major choice are placed in the exploratory social and behavioral sciences program in University College.

Students with more than 45 transfer hours who are not admissible to a W. P. Carey School of Business major and who did not select a second major or are not admissible to their second major choice are prompted in My ASU to select a new major.

Change of Major Requirements:

Students should refer to the following W. P. Carey website to determine if they meet change of major requirements:

<https://students.wpcarey.asu.edu/degrees-and-advising/degree-programs/change-majors> (<https://students.wpcarey.asu.edu/degrees-and-advising/degree-programs/change-majors>). Students should refer to <https://changemajor.apps.asu.edu> for information about how to change a major to this program.

Transfer Options:

ASU is committed to helping students thrive by offering tools that allow personalization of the transfer path to ASU. Students may use MyPath2ASU (<https://webapp4.asu.edu/transfercreditguide/app/transfermap?major=BAMKTPSBS~null + &college=CBA>) to outline a list of recommended courses to take prior to transfer.

ASU has transfer partnerships in Arizona and across the country to create a simplified transfer experience for students. These pathway programs include exclusive benefits, tools and resources, and help students save time and money in their college journey. Students may learn more about these programs by visiting the admission site: <https://admission.asu.edu/transfer/pathway-programs>.

Global Opportunities:

Global Experience:

Understanding how cultural norms and values impact the marketing of goods and services in an international context is vital for a marketing career. Through study abroad, students gain skills employers seek, including communication and interpersonal skills and global perspectives on business applications worldwide. Students can choose from many options like faculty-directed programs in the summer or full semesters in locations throughout the world, including Italy, Australia and South Korea.

The W. P. Carey School of Business recommends the following study abroad programs for students majoring in marketing with a concentration in professional sales: <https://goglobal.asu.edu/students/major/wp-carey/marketing> (<https://goglobal.asu.edu/students/major/wp-carey/marketing>).

Career Opportunities:

The number of employers interested in hiring professionals for sales roles far exceeds the number of students who are pursuing career opportunities in sales.

Graduates are prepared for careers in account management across a variety of industries in the business-to-business and consumer products domains.

Art (Animation), BFA (HIARTANBFA)

Campus: Tempe

Program Description:

The BFA program in art with a concentration in animation prepares students to excel in this field. Animation students are provided an education that simultaneously sustains tradition and fosters innovation through embracing new visualization methodologies and tools with the potential to advance discoveries and insights across disciplines.

Upon completion of the program, graduates are able to demonstrate the technical and artistic abilities to create animations for exhibition in arts venues (galleries, museums, festivals, etc.) and in entertainment media-arts industries. They also are prepared to pursue advanced research in graduate animation programs.

The mission of the Herberger Institute for Design and the Arts is to create works of art, explore the history and traditions of art production, understand more about art's function in society and promote national and international recognition for research and creative activities while fostering cultural development in the community.

Students declare their Bachelor of Fine Arts concentration at the time of their ASU admission. Following admission, if students wish to change their Bachelor of Fine Arts concentration, they may meet with their School of Art academic advisor.

Art (Art Education), BFA (FAARTEBFA)

Campus: Tempe

Program Description:

The BFA program in art with a concentration in art education involves creative teaching and learning processes and strategies, first-hand experience teaching art for a range of ages, the study of art history and global cultures, and practice in a variety of studio areas.

The program focuses on engaging with artistic inquiry and education in K-12, community and museum settings. Students investigate issues related to teaching art from multiple perspectives, including:

- creativity and critical thinking
- ecological connections
- inquiry-based learning
- interdisciplinary curriculum development
- multicultural contexts
- studio and conceptual art practices

In addition to their art education coursework, students are required to take coursework in the various studio areas offered in the School of Art.

Students declare their Bachelor of Fine Arts concentration at the time of their ASU admission. Following admission, if students wish to change their concentration, they may meet with their School of Art academic advisor.

Additional Program Fee: Y

Second Language Requirement: N

First Required Math Course: Any math course that meets the MA designation.

Transfer (<https://admission.asu.edu/transfer/apply>)

International (<https://admission.asu.edu/international/undergrad-apply>)

Readmission (<https://admission.asu.edu/undergrad/readmission>)

Additional Requirements:

Students are admitted directly to the art education concentration upon admittance to the BFA program in art.

Transfer Admission Requirements:

Transfer students who have completed the foundational core and pre-art requirements are admitted directly to the art education concentration upon admittance to the BFA program in art. To complete an undergraduate degree in four years, it is recommended that community college transfer students who are completing a two-year degree and have completed the foundational core and pre-art requirements apply and submit a declaration form in the semester they are completing their community college degree or the semester before they plan to enter Arizona State University.

Direct transfer of courses from other accredited institutions to the Herberger Institute for Design and the Arts are subject to the existence of parallel and equal courses in the college's curriculum and subject to departmental or school evaluation of studio courses with respect to performance standards.

Every candidate for the bachelor's degree must earn a minimum of 30 credit hours in resident credit at ASU. Transfer students enrolled in the college must complete a minimum of 15 credit hours of resident credit in the major as approved by the faculty.

Change of Major Requirements:

An ASU student who would like to change majors to one offered by the Herberger Institute for Design and the Arts must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.50 (scale is 4.00 = "A").

Art (Art History), BA (FAARTHBA)

Campus: Tempe, Online

Program Description:

The BA in art history is a dynamic program that investigates visual culture and engages students in a rich and diverse curriculum. Inherently interdisciplinary, art history intersects with a variety of fields including history, literature and economics.

Faculty members emphasize critical concepts in their teaching, including the close study of artists, objects and technologies. Students explore art's history in economic, social and political contexts and the relationship of visual art to other disciplines such as literature, science, anthropology, media and performance studies. In addition to art history courses, the program includes interdisciplinary coursework from disciplines across the university.

Internships are available at a wide range of arts organizations. The program is enriched by partnerships with the ASU Art Museum and museums throughout the Phoenix metropolitan area and beyond, including an affiliation with the Los Angeles County Museum of Art.

Students can deepen their understanding of art history by experiencing it firsthand. Study abroad provides students with valuable insight into the cultures and minds of some of the world's most notable artists, and exposure to multicultural environments enhances students' communication skills and fosters valuable career-building experiences. Students can volunteer as a tour guide of the historic Palazzo Vecchio in Florence, explore internships in Prague, or spend a semester in Japan. <https://goglobal.asu.edu/> (<https://goglobal.asu.edu/>)

Career Opportunities:

Graduates of art history programs at the bachelor's degree level find employment opportunities in commercial art galleries, art museums and historical societies and archives. Other options include arts agencies and public art programs or admission to prestigious graduate programs across the nation.

A graduate degree is essential for professional positions, as a master's degree prepares individuals to teach at the community college level; to practice and publish as an art critic or writer; to enhance one's own practice as an artist; or gain entry into museums, archives, historical societies, auction houses, publishing companies and academic presses as well as to art libraries. The doctorate is a necessity for employment as a university or college teacher and for responsible administrative and curatorial positions in the museum and publishing world.
