MY ROSE OF YESTER-E'EN

O the rose is dead, you gave me yester-e'en,
It was withered in the blast of yester-e'en;
O my heart is torn with thorns the rose left, sharp and green-
O give me back my rose of yester-e'en!

O the hours are dead, are dead, of yester-e'en,
They have faded in the joys of yester-e'en;
O mine eyes are dimmed with tears,-the memory of a dream-
O give me back the hours of yester-e'en!
