

What A Sad December 7th It'll Be For Those Three Little Bears!

By Hazel Baker

Once upon a time there were three bears. There was a great big bear, a middle-sized bear, and a little teeny bear.

Now, this story isn't just like the one that was read to you in your childhood. These three bears weren't members of one big happy family—in fact, they never did and never will know each other very well—and they lived far apart. But they did have wondrous things in common.

For quite a while the middle-sized bear didn't let on to the other animals of the forest that he wanted to be friendly with the other two.

But, then we have to go way back to the year 1938 to find out about that.

It all began one day when great big bear, with little teeny bear as his "immoral" support, decided to take a walk. He did take a walk—a long, long walk. Instead of soup he tasted blood—in Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Finland, and France. He hadn't yet mastered the art of walking through the sea, so he decided to fly (and didn't you know that bears have wings?) to England. The blood there was too thick and too hot. In England big bear never actually tasted it.

Well, just about a year ago—December 7, 1941, to be exact—the middle-sized bear, who was quite yellow, decided to try to become an official blood taster too, but he started his campaign in another hemisphere. He tasted it, he got his tongue burned in a few places, but he just went right on slurping.

Now all this time, when these three bears were getting bloated with blood and were trying to adjust, as they called it, the affairs of these mighty forests, Goldilocks, who was as beautiful, sunny, and as industrious as any one you could find anywhere, finally awoke one day in a bed especially prepared for her by those three bears.

There were some little elves inside Goldilocks that kept telling her these bears were quite treacherous and that she shouldn't trust even one of them, but she was too good-natured and all-believing to change herself into a warrior. She wasn't entirely defenseless—women seldom are.

Using her ingenuity and a spirit that she inherited from her Puritan and pioneer grandfathers, little Goldilocks began to work. Her days were lengthened, her boys donned uniforms, her mother went to work in a defense factory, her car is now in the garage, and her sugar bin is only one-fourth full.

Goldilocks has two of the widest ocean blue eyes ever seen. Eyes that are set wide apart; eyes that have little brown flecks in them, which if one looks closely resemble bombers, pursuit planes, destroyers, and battleships. Those three bears have caused some troubled looks in those big blue eyes, but they have not yet closed them.

This is the modern, revised story of the three bears, only in this one Goldilocks didn't run away.

"Hobo Holiday" To Be Week From Today; Blue Key Slates Final Planning Session

Representatives of all campus organizations will meet with members of Blue Key Monday afternoon, Dec. 7, at 4 p.m. to make final plans for "Hobo Holiday," Arizona State's all-school carnival which will be held a week from tonight in the B. B. Moeur Activity Building. The meeting will be held in C. E. Southern's Arts building classroom.

To be held as a drive toward the purchase of war bonds for the Student Union fund, the carnival will be open to the public. Seventeen organizations have submitted applications for concessions, which range from bingo and a den of vice to refreshment stands and bowling.

Highlights of the affair will be a two-hour jitney dance from 9:30 to 11:30 and a raffle of merchandise contributed by valley merchants. The doors will open at 7:30 p.m.

Prizes in the various concessions will be for the most part in war stamps. Bill Ward, Blue Key president, told organization representatives this week that the honor fraternity will buy any stamps which might be left over and urged groups to purchase enough to meet their needs.

Navy May Train 600 Cadets Here

The possibility that 600 naval aviation cadets may be stationed on the campus for 12-week training periods beginning January 7 was announced this week by President Grady Gammage.

Although no definite plans have been made, administration leaders have received favorable replies from Navy officials regarding the plan.

Dr. Gammage emphasized that if the cadets were stationed here, civilian education would not be interrupted in any way and living quarters would be available for all present students.

Teaching Tests To Be Given Tuesday

Teaching entrance tests will be given Tuesday, December 8 at 4 p.m. in Room 115 of the Library building for all juniors and seniors planning to teach, according to Dean J. O. Grimes.

Those taking this test should first report to the Business Office, pay the fee, and present their receipt at the time the test is to be taken. The fee is fifty cents if the entire test is to be taken, twenty-five cents if only one re-take is necessary, and fifty cents if two or more tests are to be re-taken.

Gammage To Head War Fund Drive

President Grady Gammage was appointed this week by Governor Osborn as state chairman of the United War Relief Fund for the state of Arizona.

President Gammage will co-ordinate the drive, and strive for a large donation in this united cause. He will also appoint the county chairmen.

January has been set aside as United War Fund month by President Roosevelt.

Civilian Flight Training Slated

Plans for the organization of a second semester Civilian Pilot Training group were announced this week by L. S. Neeb, head of the department of industrial arts and technology.

Twenty students will be organized under the training plan, Mr. Neeb announced. The training program will cover a period of 16 weeks.

The training will be free of charge, all expenses except room and board being paid by the government. It may be taken in conjunction with any standard college course and will carry four units of credit.

Walsh Speaks At Kiwanis Luncheon

Miss Margaret Walsh, head resident at West Hall and noted authority on Southwest Indian lore and history, gave a short illustrated talk at the Phoenix Kiwanis Club's annual Thanksgiving luncheon in the Adams Hotel in Phoenix Tuesday, November 24.

Hopi Indian Katchinas, the gods of the Indians, were the subject of Miss Walsh's lecture and she used colored slides made from her own drawings by the Eastman Kodak Company to illustrate.

"Claudia" Is Set For December 16 And 17

"Claudia," first major production of the Drama Workshop which will be given December 16 and 17, is well under way. Dr. Marian Galloway, drama instructor and director of the play, declares that members of the cast are all capable and that she is well pleased with the progress they have made so far.

In the title role is Betsy Williams, freshman, graduate of Phoenix Union High School. She plays the part of an energetic, lovable young wife who is hardly aware of her own attractiveness.

Delma Allgood, a sophomore from Scottsdale, plays the part of Claudia's mother, Mrs. Brown. The part she plays is that of a highly-intelligent, worldly, but devoted and loving woman.

The part of David, Claudia's husband, is played by George Sampson, junior from Phoenix. As David, he is confronted with the problem of making Claudia grow up and get rid of her dangerous over-affection of her mother.

Paul Kramer, New York, plays the part of Jerry, a young author who is "not only English, he's British." He has a surprising and interesting incident with Claudia when David is not around.

Billie Glotfelter, junior transfer from Phoenix Junior College, plays the part of Bertha, delightful Czechoslovakian maid. She has worked in the production end of plays at Phoenix High, and Junior College, and appeared in a Phoenix Little Theatre play.

Bertha's husband, Fritz, is portrayed by Sherman Payne. Payne is a freshman from Prescott. While in high school acted in a number of plays and last summer attended the Radio Drama Workshop in Milwaukee on a scholarship.

Indian Doctor To Speak Wednesday

Dr. Dorothy L. Ferris of Ferozepur, India, will speak to students of Arizona State next Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 9, in the Lyceum Building on Hospitalization in India.

Dr. Ferris is a graduate of Maryville College, Tennessee, and of Cincinnati Medical School.

She has served in India for five years on the staff of the Frances Newton Hospital where one thousand women and children are hospitalized, and five or six thousand more are cared for in a courtyard clinic as out-patients. Most of them are Hindu, Moslem, and Sikh.

Enlistees To Receive Credit, Fee Refunds

Students entering the armed services, either by draft or enlistment, will be given either refund of fees or partial credit if forced to leave school before the end of a semester, the Executive Council has decided. The ruling was worded as follows:

Cadets Begin Training Here

The second contingent of 35 Navy Reserve aviation cadets to be assigned to Arizona State arrived on campus during Thanksgiving vacation and have already begun their elementary ground school and flight training, Lewis S. Neeb, coordinator of Civilian Pilot Training, announced this week.

The last class of 30 Navy Reserve fliers completed their courses in the scheduled eight weeks and are now continuing, as to their respective abilities, either in Secondary Pilot Training or in other branches of the air service.

The ground school will be held as previously in various buildings about the campus and the minimum of 240 hours of ground school training will be maintained.

The cadets will take flight training as did the last class, at Phoenix Sky Harbor airport.

The majority of the new cadets are from California, with the minority representing Utah, Washington, and Arizona about equally.

Saturday Work Is Open To Students

Employment for Saturdays only may now be obtained by any student wishing to aid farmers or even townspeople in the Salt River Valley. Dean J. O. Grimes stated that his office would be what he termed, "A clearing house for employment," in which he would personally interview prospective employers and recommend students for jobs.

Colleges all over America are now doing this because of the immense labor shortage caused by defense industries, which often leave the farm short of helpers.

In order to obtain this employment, a student needs only to write his name, telephone number and address on a sheet of paper and bring it to Dean Grimes' office.

1. If a student withdraws officially before the middle of a semester (See College Calendar for Date) and is inducted into military service through enlistment or draft, the activities fee will be refunded on a pro-rata basis and no credit will be given.

2. If a student withdraws officially after the middle of a semester (See College Calendar for Date) and is inducted into military service through enlistment or draft, no fees will be refunded but credit will be pro-rated to the nearest one-half semester hour, according to the time spent, for all courses with passing grades.

3. To be eligible for either refund of fees or for credit, the students shall be responsible for furnishing satisfactory evidence that the date of his induction occurred within two weeks from the date of official withdrawal.

4. Application for refund of fees or for credit, together with supporting evidence (See 3 above), must be made within one month from the date of official withdrawal.

Last year's ruling gave credit only to men drafted before the end of a semester.

Navy Men Must Take Exercise

Four and a half hours per week of physical training activity will be required for all reserve men enlisted in the Navy V-1 or V-7 program, according to a memorandum received this week from the Office of Director of Naval Officer Procurement by Dean J. O. Grimes, liaison officer for the college.

Dean Grimes suggests that even though these reserve students may not be enrolled for a physical education activity course it would be advisable to see R. H. Lavik, athletic director, and make arrangements to get into some such activity, possibly at the 4 o'clock period.

Navy reserve men are expected to comply with this regulation from the time of their enlistment.

Cadet Rumors Scare Campus

Rumors move fast. As soon as news got around that plans for the training of 600 naval aviation cadets on the campus were under consideration, students started the rumor mill grinding. Soon the report was circulating that if the cadets took their training here civilian education would, in effect, be crowded off the campus. The men of East Hall started protests against "the plan that was going to move them out of the hall and perhaps out of the college" and reports were rife about the turmoil which would be created in the dining hall by the new residents.

The climax, though, was when a group of hall girls started inquiring why they were going to have to move to Flagstaff if the cadets came.

In the first place, no change in curriculums, room and board accommodations, or any other phase of college life is anticipated if the navy men begin training here. In the second place, there was no idea of moving anyone to Flagstaff or to any other college. And in the third place, there is nothing at all certain about the Navy sending the men to Tempe.

What do you say we cross those bridges when we get to them?

The Power of Music All Our Hearts Allow . . .

How dy'a like that! The closing of the Campus Inn left us without a single place to dance in "the vale of old Tempe!" And with gas rationing in full sway! What to do! Go to Papago? Go over to the river? "No!" scream followers of Plato. The boys down at the corner are demanding that the student body officers do something about it. Or maybe the council, or Blue Key, or Pleiades, or the Men's Union. There are too many honorary titles and organizations around here that don't do anything but bask in the glory of their particular insignia. Now's their chance.

Informal dances as per "open house style" in one of the many empty rooms around here might do the trick—how about that!

Forsooth! Campaigning's Not Full Worth Its Salt

Alumnus Receives Captain's Rank

Still another name was added to the fast growing list of Arizona State alumni who have gone up in the ranks of the U. S. Army Air Forces as First Lieutenant William Gaylord, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gaylord, Sr., Chandler, Arizona, was promoted to the rank of captain last week at the AAF Navigation School, Hondø, Texas. Now on duty at the world's largest navigation school as an administrative officer, Captain Gaylord became a commissioned officer in 1935.

Letter To The Editor

(Editor's Note: Tom Anderson, last year's STATE PRESS editor, is now a third class petty officer in the navy. His address is Co. 42-6L, U.S.N.T.S., San Diego, California.)

Dear Dean:

Well, I finally made it—I'm in the Navy. I don't know what dope you have gathered concerning your status since I last saw you but opportunities for getting good ratings in the Navy are abundant. A rating of Petty Officer first class here is a good deal. I suppose you have STATE PRESS matters pretty well under control by now.

If you're still sending papers to fellows in the service add me to your list. (Where have you heard that before!)

Life in the Navy is plenty okay and, as yet, not too hard. But—radio school quite probably will be.

Well keep Fred and Walt in their places—and say hello to the old boy for me (Prof. C. E. Southern).

Women's Leader Is Guest Of Council

Mrs. Marion Reith, area secretary for the college YWCA, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Religious Council Wednesday at 4 o'clock in Room 118 of the Library.

Subject of the discussion was the inter-relations problem. Mrs. Reith, who came to the district for the primary purpose of visiting Sacaton, Japanese relocation center, suggested ways in which colleges could start making plans for immediate work in this field.

Southern Pacific is facing a critical situation in connection with holiday travel. Many thousands of men in uniform are being given holiday furloughs. We think everyone agrees that these men should be given first consideration. We intend to carry them wherever they wish to go.

Where men in uniform are not going on furlough they will be visited, in many cases, by their parents or wives. Their travel requirements must be recognized, too.

The tide of war traffic — troops, equipment, supplies and war materials — is mounting higher and higher, and we are hard pressed to supply the equipment to move it. Every locomotive we have or can rent is being used. The supply of passenger-carrying cars left for civilian use is naturally reduced.

Consequently, we will not be able to carry all the people who want to make holiday trips, despite all our efforts to increase the passenger-carrying capacity of our trains.

This is why we ask you not to travel during the holiday season.

Round Robin Out

The Border Conference representatives carried their wrinkled brows to El Paso Saturday for their annual tete-a-tete and voted against a round-robin basketball schedule this winter in favor of a four-day tournament to be held in Albuquerque, New Mexico, Feb. 17-20.

The conference delegates left to each member the responsibility of working out its own schedule with any available college or service teams. The winnaw of the conference crown, however, will be determined by the tourney results.

Coach Rudy Lavik has again placed his stern hands on the steering-wheel and although the season has not officially opened, he is driving his Bulldog basketeers through stiff drills in preparation for a successful campaign. If the freshman loopsters continue to blossom, they may be in full bloom for the New Mexico event, to team with veterans Johnson, Mortensen and Ward and bring to Arizona State its first conference crown in many a moon.

The University of Arizona has its gym occupied with army bunk beds, but the Tempe-Wildcat tussles will be staged in the Tucson High School gym. The New Mexico Aggies, always a bright contender on the hardwood, have discontinued all varsity sports for the duration, and are staging a very successful intra-mural program.

The intra-mural football season started with a bang this week and many new faces were seen on the firing line. The prophets are not climbing on the limb in picking the winner this year because the material is well scattered, and every game promises to be a fight to the finish. A few of the boys who have shown themselves as men-to-watch are Coor, Hancher, Hartsig, Roether, Willis, Thomas, Doyle, Shafton, Flood and Ward.

Orchids—to Coach Walker and his staff who maneuvered a losing football season into a financial success. (By a financial success we mean not losing money and even gaining some in the long run. This year was the first time this has happened at Tempe in five years!)

Last, But Not Least

Dimly lit pool halls and bars are bad on our future soldiers' eyes; while well-lighted recreation rooms, featuring table-tennis and other indoor games, help in more ways than merely counteracting the visual defects of these dives. Every evening before or after hours of gruelling studying, some type of game would put the eight ball in the side pocket and the bottle back on the shelf. The girls' dormitories are equipped with some type of recreation rooms, but both men's halls have no such rooms—or to be more precise—not even a game! That ain't all brother, but its enough!

Cagers Prep For Ten-Game Season

A ten-game varsity schedule for Coach Rudy Lavik's Bulldog cagers was announced yesterday by Tom Lilloco, graduate manager. Four games were also listed for the freshman members of the squad, who will play in the varsity contests also.

The schedule is as follows: January 15, University of Arizona at Tucson; January 22-23, University of Arizona at Tempe; February 1, 2, and 3, Flagstaff at Tempe; February 12, 13, and 15, Flagstaff at Flagstaff; February 17, 18, 19, and 20, Border Conference tournament at Albuquerque, N. M.

Freshman games are all with Phoenix Junior College. The yearlings play the Bears in Phoenix on December 11 and 19 and in Tempe on December 12 and 18.

With transportation curtailed due to gas rationing, members of the Border Conference will discontinue the round-robin system of play and meet in Albuquerque in February to determine the conference championship, it was decided Saturday.

As the pre-tournament games do not count toward the championship, individual schedules will be made up by the schools themselves from near-by schools and service teams.

Bulldogs Complete Tough Grid Season

Last Saturday's 35-7 loss to the Lobos of New Mexico University wound up Arizona State's 1942 football schedule. Although the season must necessarily be classed among Tempe's most unsuccessful, Coach Hilman Walker and a fighting bunch of underclassmen are deserving of a great deal of praise for their showing in the face of losses of men to the armed services, schedule mixups and travel difficulties.

The Bulldogs opened the season against a too-powerful San Francisco eleven and lost the initial contest by the lop-sided score of 54-6. They dropped the next one by a 28-0 margin to the West Texas Buffaloes and the Hardin-Simmons encounter had to be cancelled.

Hold Wildcats

Against the University of Arizona Wildcats, Johnny Baklarz led the Bulldogs to a moral victory by holding the highly-touted Cats to a 23-0 victory. Definitely showing their superiority, the Walkermen walked over the New Mexico Aggies, 20-0, in their next encounter. It was all Army as the Santa Ana Army Air Base team mauled the Tempeans the following week, 40-0. In their tangle with the Texas Miners, the Dogs came out on the short end of a 40-6 count.

Uncorking a vicious offense, the Arizona Staters defeated the Axemen from Flagstaff, 14-2. Fresno State wouldn't show up, so it remained for the Flying Kellys of the Albuquerque Air Base to whip the Bulldogs 13-0 before the Homecoming crowd. The next contest was the New Mexico battle.

Despite the fact that the Bulldogs only won two of their ten scheduled games there was definitely a brighter side to the picture. In tackle John Baklarz and fullback Al Onofrio, the Maroon and Gold have two of the Border Conference's most outstanding participants.

The Tempeans lost a star scabbard, Humbert Figueroa, to Uncle Sam's fighting forces early in the season but Roy Cours, a freshman, took over the burden in sparkling manner. There were others who showed promise of future greatness.

Lobos Whip Dogs In Season Finale

Playing before a small crowd of 500 spectators at Albuquerque last Saturday, the Arizona State Bulldogs wound up their season with a 35-7 loss to the New Mexico Lobos.

The Bulldogs, taking advantage of Al Onofrio's long punts and a New Mexico fumble near the goal line, sent Fullback John Baklarz through the line for the first score. Onofrio kicked the point and from then on it was New Mexico's game.

Pomeroy Gets Navy Commission Monday

Earle Pomeroy, ex-coach at Arizona State, now serving as civilian athletic instructor at Thunderbird Field No. 2, has been accepted by the Navy as a Lieutenant Junior Grade and will leave this week.

Pomeroy will report first to Chapel Hill, North Carolina. He will be there thirty days, and then go to Kansas City for further training.

Mrs. Pomeroy and their son Edward plan to leave this weekend for Ogden, Utah, where they will reside with Mrs. Pomeroy's family for the duration.

Intramural Grid Season Under Way

The intramural six-man football season commenced Wednesday, Dec. 2, at 4 p.m. with six squads competing in the tourney.

While use of standard football equipment such as shoulder pads, head gear, etc. is prohibited, the contestants are allowed to wear cleated shoes. Those who haven't cleats may be able to borrow an old pair from Bill Kajikawa in the men's gymnasium.

Any one of the teams appears able to come through to cop the title. Loss of many former intramural stars should not hamper the quality of play, because there are many new figures on the football horizon who seem not only willing, but able.

All games are in progress under the 1942 rules, mimeographed copies of which will be given to the players. The schedule is given below and each team is designated on the schedule by a given number.

Teams: (1) Lambdies, (2) Tau Sigs, (3) East Hall, (4) Mormons, (5) Pi Deltas, and (6) Mu Sigs.

Schedule: Mon., Dec. 7, 5-4, 6-3, 1-2; Tues. Dec. 8, 1-5, 2-6; Wed. Dec. 9, 3-5, 4-2; Thursday, Dec. 10, 1-3, 6-4.

War Work Stressed At Council Meeting

A special meeting of the Inter-Hall council was held Monday night in the Gammage Hall recreation room at the request of the residence council. Joan McNeil, president of the residence council, was in charge and she immediately turned the meeting over to Dr. Blanche Carrier, counselor of women.

The importance of all councils and their work and the new consciousness of the college woman's place in the war effort were subjects of discussion. Also stressed was the fact that girls going to college today are doing so because they believe that they are better serving their country in this way than by leaving school for jobs in defense industries.

After the general discussion each president of the halls gave reports on the special work which the campus women have been doing this year to promote interest and aptitude to college work.

The Lobos, using an array of tricky reverses and double laterals, scored a touchdown in each of the first three quarters and a touchdown and a safety in the last period.

Tempe threatened in the second quarter on a 40-yard runback of a kickoff by Onofrio and two consecutive first downs only to be stopped on the 23-yard line with a pass interception by the New Mexico center.

The statistics show that the Lobos dominated in all but kicking. Onofrio kept the long ones booming all afternoon and came out with a game average of 47 yards.

Football Banquet Slated For Tonight

Approximately 125 men are expected to be present this evening at 7:30 o'clock when the 1942 annual Bulldog Boosters' Banquet is called to order at Legion Hall. Honored guests will be Coach Hilman Walker, Coach Rudy Lavik and the members of the 1942 football team of Arizona State College.

Special guest will be Governor Sidney P. Osborn who will head the list of state and county leaders to be present.

The dinner, a stag affair, is sponsored by the Tempe Chamber of Commerce annually. All menfolks of the community are invited, tickets selling at $1.50 each, the amount covering the cost of admission for the purchaser and one football player as his guest.

Cagers Rounding Into Good Shape

Fifteen tall, loose-limbed young men have, for the past three weeks, been working themselves into top-notch condition for the coming cage season under the able direction of Coach Rudy Lavik.

Recently, Lavik has seen fit to divide his basketbatters into three quintets and have them scrimmage several times a week. From these scrimmages the coach learns a lot. Among the hopefuls who have looked good so far are Frankie Downs and Verl Heap. Both are freshmen.

Trio Presents Tonette Recital

Three Arizona State faculty members, Dr. Kenneth Wright, Genevieve Hargiss, and Robert Lyon, presented a short musical program Tuesday for members of Mu Rho Alpha, campus honorary music fraternity. The program was unique in that it consisted entirely of trios played upon the Tonette, an instrument closely related to the "sweet potato."

Mr. Lyon, Miss Hargiss, and Dr. Wright have been experimenting for some time with this new instrument. Although the Tonette has not yet been widely accepted in musical circles a bright future is predicted for it.

Pledges of the Philomathian sorority will be in charge of many future activities it was decided at a meeting held Monday evening in West Hall.

First of these activities will be the Pi Delt-Philomathian dance Saturday. Pledges will also provide the program for the next regular meeting and pledge captain, Joan Allen, will be in charge. Arrangements for the Carnival booth were made and committees will be appointed shortly.

Rannells Tells Of Rationing Problems

In cooperation with the "Share the Meat Program," a nation-wide program concerning the meat shortage, Dr. Jessie Rannells, head of the home economics department, gave a talk to the Civilian Defense leaders last Monday at the Tempe City Hall, informing them on the meat situation.

These Civilian Defense leaders, of which there are one to every block, will, in turn, visit the families of their various communities, requesting that they do their part in this program.

As Dr. Rannells explained in her speech, each family is asked not to use more than two and a half pounds of meat per person, per week; beef, pork, veal, and lamb being considered "meat." In this way the meat will be evenly distributed without rationing.

Scrap Books Made For Service Men

A service social, the purpose of which was to make scrap books for men in foreign service, was held last night in the home economics sewing room by all women students and house mothers who wished to attend.

The off-campus women furnished the magazines from which stories that might appeal to service men were cut and put on plain white paper. These papers will be bound to make the books, and will be sent overseas for soldiers who are unable to obtain magazines themselves.
