"Claudia" Opens Comedy Season Wednesday Night

"Claudia," the season's first major production of the Drama Workshop, goes into its dress rehearsal period this week-end and will open next Wednesday and Thursday evenings, December 16 and 17, in the college auditorium at 8:30 p. m.

For over two years this smash hit has been sending nightly New York audiences home weak with laughter. A laugh-graph of five performances at the University of Iowa last summer revealed over one-hundred roar laughs and about three chuckles a minute for "Claudia," or a total of approximately forty-five minutes of hearty laughter. The local cast, without exception, have proven themselves in rehearsal every bit as mirth-provoking as the professional company.

Men in the uniform of the United States armed forces will be guests of the workshop for both performances.

As usual, student tickets will be honored at the box office. Season ticket holders will have reserved seats in the center section, and those who do not hold season tickets are requested to cooperate by leaving the center seats free until the first intermission.

Williams in Title Role

The title role will be portrayed by Betsy Williams; Delma Allgood plays the part of Claudia's mother, Mrs. Brown; and Claudia's husband, David, is played by George Sampson.

Paul Kramer will be seen in the role of Jerry, a young British author; Billie Glotfelter plays the part of Bertha, delightful Czechoslovakian maid; and Bertha's husband, Fritz, is portrayed by Sherman Payne.

XMAS CAROLS ARE PLANNED

On Wednesday evening, December 23, the Young Peoples' Societies of five local churches will cooperate in a city-wide endeavor to sing Christmas carols. The town will be divided into sections and those desiring to have carols sung before their homes are asked to place a lighted candle in the window.

At a definite hour the groups will meet at the Baptist church and carol together and partake of refreshments.

Those churches participating are: Baptist, Congregational, Christian, Methodist, and Church of God.

It is hoped to arrange transportation for the whole group to sing at the State Sanatorium near here.

Mu Rho Alpha To Audition Musicians

Auditions for membership in Mu Rho Alpha, campus honorary music fraternity, will be held next Tuesday and Wednesday at 4 p. m. Candidates will appear before a committee of members in the auditorium of the Lyceum building.

All students interested in music are invited to come and try out. All that is required is that the candidate sing or play some musical selection. Membership will be granted solely on the musicianship of the candidate.

Stahnke Article In "Popular Science"

"How Deadly Is Arizona's Public Enemy No. 1?" an article by Dr. H. L. Stahnke, associate professor of science, which deals with Arizona's scorpion life, will appear in the January issue of Popular Science it was announced this week.

Covering four pages in the national publication, the article is complete with seven pictures taken in Dr. Stahnke's laboratory in the science building. Two are full-page reproductions.

In the article Dr. Stahnke describes the most deadly of his "denizens of the desert," the Centruroides sculpturatus Ewing and the Centruroides gertschi Stahnke, both of which may kill a person in a few hours. Fortunately, the article states, few of Arizona's scorpions are lethal and the stings of most of them cause only local swelling and pain.

Keith Rice Gets Lieutenant Bars

Keith M. Rice, Arizona State graduate in the class of 1942, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Marine Corps, it was announced this week by the Marine public relations office.

From Buckeye, Lieutenant Rice enlisted in the Marines last May and was called to active duty in August. He was ordered to Quantico, Va., and as a member of the candidates class underwent the Corps' basic training course.

Now, upon completing this 10-week indoctrination training, he has been commissioned and ordered to Reserve Officers' Class, also held at Quantico. The latter lasts three months. In it he will be taught the duties of a platoon commander and schooled in the science and tactics of modern warfare.

At Arizona State Lieutenant Rice majored in geography and education, was president of Gamma Theta Epsilon honorary fraternity and played one year of football.

Tramps Play For Stamps At "Hobo Holiday" Tonight

Why So Glum, Bum?

Things are never as bad as they seem, but to Don Ellis, Hazel Johnson, Alma Giacoma and Bill Ward life appears to have been very unkind. Things should be looking up for these bums tonight, however, when Blue Key's "Hobo Holiday" opens. Ward and Ellis are members of the sponsoring fraternity.

Students Don Hobo Attire For Carnival

"Hobo Holiday," Arizona State's first all-school carnival in many years, opens tonight at 7:30 in the B. B. Moeur Activity building. All student organizations will be represented at the gala affair, the purpose of which is to raise money for war bonds to be placed in the Student Union Fund.

Sponsored by Blue Key, national honor fraternity, the carnival will feature a variety of concessions, ranging from dart throwing games, bingo tables, and a pirate's den to a follies, refreshment stands, and bowling alleys.

Raffle Is Feature

One of the highlights of the evening will be the raffling of more than fifty dollars worth of merchandise and cash prizes donated to Blue Key by Herb Bland's, Porter's, Goldwater's, the Orpheum, Rialto, and Strand theatres, Riverside Park, Schoettner's Portrait Studio, Lowry's Beauty Parlor, Donofrio Confectionary Co. and Funk Jewelry Co., all of Phoenix. Several Tempe merchants have also donated prizes, but their names were not available at press time.

A jitney dance from 9:30 to 11:30 p. m. will be another attraction.

Hobo garb will be the order of the day and all students are expected to dress as "knights of the road" in order that the spirit of the event may be carried out throughout the day.

Open to the public, the carnival will have as guests the soldiers of valley airfields. High schools and service clubs in surrounding towns have also been given special invitations.

Proceeds from the carnival will be added to the fund of war bonds started last year which is being set aside for the building of a student union center.

Rural Students To Exhibit Art Work

Students of the Rural Training School will have an art exhibit in the foyer of the Arts Building beginning today and continuing through next Friday.

Subject matter for the exhibit is "Food for Victory." The youngsters have dramatized their own life by making posters about farm life. The project has also been successful in making the children realize that what the farmer produces, plays vital part in the war effort.

Applicants To Finish Reserve Enlistments

All types of enlistment in the Enlisted Reserve Corps of the U. S. Army are now suspended except to those who submitted a bona fide application for enlistment on or before December 5, Dr. J. O. Grimes, campus liaison officer, was informed this week by Major General Kenyon A. Joyce, commandant at Ft. Douglas, Utah.

Such applications must be completed on or before December 15, the general said.

Four Students Make Top Grade Indices

Sometimes, during the war, education regresses instead of progresses, but in spite of an upside down world, four students of Arizona State made a four point grade index during the first quarter this year, which is the highest possible scholarship score attainable.

Four pointers are Roberta Carl, Phoenix, senior; Walter Fischel, special student, Tempe; Mary Jane Lewis, Miami, senior; and Ruth Rosenau, Tempe, junior.

Runners-up for the honor were Ellen McCullough, Carlsbad, N. M., sophomore, 3.94; Lewis Neeb, Tempe, senior, 3.86; Kenneth Burkhard, Tempe, sophomore, 3.81; David Daws, Chandler, freshman, 3.80; Kenneth Shepherd, Mesa, sophomore, 3.75; and Esther Emmons, Buckeye, sophomore, 3.75.

BOYS SIGN-UP NEXT MONDAY

According to Ralph Fowler, Tempe member of the Selective Service Board which serves the Southside, next Monday, December 14, has been set to register the young men who were born July 1 to August 31, 1924, inclusive.

Registration will take place at the American Legion Hall. Those who have volunteered to do this work are Mrs. Melvin Smith, Mrs. Roy Hackett and Robert Mullen.

Student Body Dance Slated Next Friday

The annual student body Christmas dance will be held Friday, Dec. 18, from 8:30 to 11:30 p. m. in the Activity building, it was announced this week by Bernard Vitek, social chairman.

A date affair, dances will be traded and no stags are to be admitted, Vitek said.

Assembly Honors Tempe War Dead

An assembly commemorating the date of the invasion of Pearl Harbor and the entrance of the United States into World War II, was held Monday afternoon in the auditorium.

A program consisting of the singing of America, a talk by Dr. Grady Gammage, "What Lies Ahead," a discussion by Mr. I. D. Payne, "Teaching As a War Service," a talk by Dr. J. O. Grimes, "War Service Problems," and a memorial service dedicated to the nine dead and the more than three hundred Arizona State students and faculty members in the armed services was presented. The combined glee clubs participated in the musical and silent meditation services led by Wesley Baker and Steve Allen.

Students were asked to fill in a questionnaire concerning college men's and women's place in essential occupations or professions, armed services at home or abroad.

Students Told Of New Bank Policy

An announcement of interest to all persons using checking facilities of banks is made today by the First National Bank of Arizona.

Beginning today, stated H. J. Coerver, president of the bank which has a local branch at Mill and Sixth streets, there will be no monthly carrying charge regardless of how small the depositor's balance is. Checkbooks are free, with no advance payments of any kind. Only 5c is charged for each check drawn and each item deposited.

This is the gist of Mr. Coerver's announcement in telling of the plans made by his institution in connection with the installation of a CheckMaster department as an addition to its existing checking account facilities.

Are We Doing Our Part?

(Ed. note: This letter from Captain Arno Jewett, former professor of English and education at Arizona State, presents a challenge which we who are privileged to be college students in these times cannot ignore. Received this week by President Grady Gammage, the letter may shake many of us out of the blissful slumber which we have been enjoying too long.)

Dear Dr. Gammage:
 I was very much pleased to receive official notification that my position will be open for me when I am discharged from the service. However, I am somewhat worried by your statement that life at the college is about the same as usual. Unfortunately, this year's issues of the STATE PRESS give the same impression.

Frankly, the position of colleges during the years that this war lasts is very precarious and can be strengthened only if college presidents and faculties revise their academic programs so as to contribute the maximum to winning the war. Actually, that means colleges must help to make each young man a more effective combat unit, that is, a killer of Japs and Nazis. And we have to kill a lot of them before we need to worry too much about "winning the peace," a topic of favorite academic concern among many college faculties.

"Winning the peace" programs today leave me rather cold, for by the time we are ready to extend an armistice to our enemies, the conditions here and abroad will have changed considerably and with them our ideas of just peace terms. What I mean is that our ideas concerning peace will shift after months and years of fighting, just as our ideas of carrying on and winning this war have evolved during the last few years.

But of course Americans must first struggle to win the war. I do not think the colleges are doing their part, even though they do have accelerated three-year programs with more emphasis on shop work, aviation, mathematics, physics and chemistry.

For example, most athletic programs in our schools remain disgracefully ineffective. College football and basketball programs, in general, neglect the weak and injure the strong. Last spring I helped Hilman Walker draw up an athletic program which I feel is still good. For one thing, every young man in college should be able to swim 150 to 200 yards. His ability to swim 100 yards or more may mean the difference between life and death for himself and many of his countrymen. I can not understand what the Student Council was thinking of when it voted $1,000 for social events and only $100 for the intramural program.

The same day that I read about this $1,000 appropriation for parties and dances, the girls and young ladies who are the clerks and stenographers in this office were contributing from $5.00 to $10.00 each for the Community War Fund. Not only that, but every one of them has given from one-half to one pint or more of blood at the American Red Cross Blood Donor Center. Several of them have already yielded their blood twice. And these young women work almost nine hours daily, six days a week including all holidays except perhaps one-half day on Christmas. For this they earn barely enough to live on here in Washington.

"Accelerated" college programs are not really war-time programs. Why can't college students go to important classes morning, afternoon, and evening six days a week every week in the year? Instead, most of them are still having fifteen hour a week programs with vacations on Armistice Day, Thanksgiving, Christmas, and other holidays. Nursing, typing, shop, chemical, warefare, health, nutrition, swimming and other courses, that will enable our soldiers to destroy more Nazis and Japs quickly must be introduced into our college curriculums if the colleges are to retain the confidence of the American people. The educational program in the Army today can well serve as a model for our colleges during wartime. Army courses occupy a ten or twelve hour day, six days every week. Evenings are used for study, not parties.

Well, the above ideas are only a few which have been boiling in my head for the last few weeks. I wish I had time to express them more coherently and to develop more specifically what the college must do. But I do not have the time. Colleges must plan and act as the President and all of our military leaders are planning and acting; that is with the expectation that this will be a long, hard war. To do otherwise is foolhardy.

Sincerely yours,
ARNO JEWETT.

"ENLISTMENTS SUSPENDED," glaring from the front page of the Republic Sunday morning hit a lot of the fellows pretty hard. Most of them who are not in a reserve are planning to quit school at the end of the first semester. A lot of them are quitting now; many will not return from the Christmas holidays.

AMONG THOSE AFFECTED by the executive order freezing enlistments was Elmer, my roomie, you know. He, like most of the boys, went out Sunday night to "celebrate" his prospective buck private rating.

OF COURSE, I WOULDN'T insinuate that my roomie got inebriated, but he did look kinda funny a couple of hours later standing in a drug store eating tennis balls and saying to everyone that came in, "Have an orange?"

I DON'T KNOW WHAT time Elmer arrived home Monday morning, but Charlie, the night watchman, met him out in front of East Hall sometime during the night. Elmer was busily trying to insert his key into a lamp post, and

Charlie good-naturedly remarked, "Sorry, old fellow, there's no one home tonight."

AFTER EYEING CHARLIE to see who had interrupted his laborious task, Elmer replied, "There must be, there's a light on upstairs!" And he turned back to his work.

ELMER, UNLIKE MOST of the fellows who haunt East Hall, isn't leaving at the end of the semester. When I asked him about it, he replied, "No, I'd just as soon spend my time here as anywhere else. So, I'm not going to quit school—just stop attending classes."

THOSE 200-WATT LIGHT bulbs the East Hall boys have been using as a source of heat the past few months are proving insufficient because of the latest cold wave that has hit the campus. Or is it just because winter is finally here?

HOWEVER, NOT INFERRING that East Hall isn't well enough

Grimes To Marine Officer's School

Out to do his part in blocking Axis plots, Donald Edwin Grimes, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. O. Grimes, 906 South Mill Avenue, has started training to become a United States Marine Corps officer.

He has just reported at Quantico, Virginia, famous Marine base, to undergo ten weeks of training in military fundamentals.

Heated by steam heat, a group of the boys congregated above "Bat" Allen's room in East Hall the other night and began stamping the floor shouting, "Heat! heat! We want heat!" etc.

STRANGELY ENOUGH, the heat did come on from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. But it was turned on so low that by the time the radiators got warm, it was shut off again.

OF COURSE I'M NOT insinuating that East Hall isn't warm enough, but most of the fellows now throw their windows wide open when they go to bed so that the hot air from outside can come in and get their rooms warm by the time they get up in the morning.

What Ho! The Border Conference Sure Did Show!

Did anyone notice the All-National Professional Football League team in Tuesday's "Republic"? If you didn't, I'm here to tell you that our own Border conference was the only conference in the nation to place two men on the "All-Pro" team! The two boys giving this Cactus loop the nod over the Big Ten, Pacific Coast, etc., were Clyde "Bulldog" Turner of Hardin-Simmons; and Riley Matheson, Texas Mines. Both boys saw plenty of action against the Dogs in former years. Turner made the team at center while Matheson is a guard.

The Unknown Adventurous Youth, Who From Afar . . .

While we don't claim the Border loop to be on a par with the biggest leagues on the gridiron, we do like to point out that this circuit has some pretty solid senders . . . witness Hardin-Simmons' victories over Baylor and Southern Methodist of the Southwestern; Texas Tech's victory over Texas Christian, also of the Southwestern; and Arizona's victory over Utah, Big Seven titleholders . . . which fact gripes us all the more to see the so-called experts leave Doc Mobley of Hardin-Simmons off of so much as the third team "All-America" . . . Mobley's ball-carrying record is unmatched in the nation.

But Oh, Let There Be Peace 'Twixt Thee And Me!

This year's intra-mural football deal has created more interest than anything, according to the boys down at the corner. Chief surprise, say the boys, is the powerful Mu Sig team, which fooled the pre-season soothsayers to dispose of the Pi Deltas, Tau Sigs and Lambdies.

The second half should be interesting to watch—if the referees survive. It seems some of the boys would rather moan than play . . . and they're just the little boys that can do it. The Mu Sigs'll have to keep pouring it on though, 'cause any one of the three teams mentioned may beat them.

Sports a La HAH . . .

You can look for Rudy Lavik to have another smooth ball club this year . . . after thinking things over, scrapping the "ungainly" dampus fence does smack of super patriotism—let's leave it up . . . the Navy's pre-flight football teams at Iowa and St. Mary's sure pooped out at the end of the season—it must be the war and all . . . did you guys and gals see Pat Whelan's picture in Life this week???? Pat's still crazy about sports . . . I liked Bill Hearn's comments in favor of some type of recreation for boy's halls . . . West Texas State will win the Border conference basketball tournament in February . . . our Dogs will finish no worse than fourth, however . . . don't forget to attend the Blue Key Carnival tonight!

Pledge Initiation Set By Pi Alphas

Arrangements for the Pi Alpha Gamma concession for the carnival, which will be "Pitching Pennies," were made at the regular meeting held Monday night.

All sorority pledges attended the meeting, and plans for hell week initiation were discussed.

Archduke Rudolph, 23, youngest brother of Prince Otto, pretender to the Austrian throne, is a student at Quebec college.

Mu Sigs Grab First Half Football Title

Donning the dark jersey role, the Mu Sigs galloped to the intra-mural football first half championship this week after walloping all four of the other contenders.

Following the Mu Sigs in the quest for the crown were the Tau Sigs, who played the champions to a close 20-18 battle, and won their other three games with ease. The Mu Sig-Tau Sig encounter was the most thrilling game of the first half campaign, as both teams showed offense strength, but were unable to tighten the knot on defense.

At the STATE PRESS deadline the Lambdies and the Pi Deltas shared the third place berth, but were to battle for this position Wednesday evening. Up until the crucial battle they had one victory each marked to their credit.

The Mormons showed lack of organization and did not mark up a single win to wind up occupying the cellar position.

Chuck Foster, Roy Doyle and Bob Roether formed a dangerous threesome for the Mu Sig opposition, with Foster throwing the pigskin to his team-mates for valuable gains.

Larry Hartsig and Sherrill Willis led the Tau Sigs to the second place spot, which would probably be the team to watch in the second half, but Hartsig and Cashen have withdrawn from school, and their loss will leave the fratmen with wide holes to fill.

Shafton Speedy Leonard Shafton showed his track prowess in sweeping the ends for long gains for the Pi Deltas and pepped his team to hold the Mu Sigs to the narrow score of 7-0.

Ed Fleming and Don Ellis led the much publicized Lambdie team, but were unable to start the ball rolling in their favor in the first half campaign. Recruiting new players from their ranks may bolster the weak spots in the backfield to place them in the running for the second half crown.

The Mormons were handicapped by having star players throw basketballs every afternoon instead of footballs, but Doug Udall and Pinky Swain kept their small team in there plugging.

Dog Cage Season Opens Saturday

Coach Rudy Lavik's varsity and frosh cagers open their season this week-end with home games scheduled for each team. The Bulldog varsity will meet the O. B. Marston five tomorrow night at 8:30 here.

Sam Andrews Plays In Sun Bowl Again

Sammy Andrews, popular former college student here and one of the outstanding ends of the Border Football Conference for several seasons, walked down the avenue Sunday with a big, wide grin on his face.

Sam, now serving with the Air Corps at Fort George Wright, Washington, is a member of that hard-hitting grid outfit known as the Second Air Force "Bombers."

When seen Sunday he and his team has just arrived from Tucson where the night before they had "bombed" the University of Arizona, Sammy's old rival, to the tune of 27 to 13.

Sam said he was here for a couple of days only, but that his team will play Hardin-Simmons in the Sun Bowl at El Paso on January 1. This will be Sam's third Sun Bowl game. After that he will go to officers' school at Miami Beach, Florida.

Tau Sigs Play Women's Squad

When the Tau Sigs challenged the women's varsity football team a few weeks back they were turned down. It wasn't because the girls were afraid, but like the Big Ten Conference teams they do not indulge in post-season games.

Now, however, the W.A.A. has turned the tables by inviting the Tau Sig fraternity to meet its first string volleyball outfit; after much consideration, the men decided to accept the bid. A date for the contest is in the process of being settled.

Meanwhile, Miss Nina Murphy is having a hard time in making her choice of a starting lineup because of the large amount of excellent talent on hand. She hopes that the game with the Tempe high school representatives will clear up any doubts she has as to whom she should pick.

Tau Sigs' coach, Ed Horner, announced that he expects his boys, if they can keep their minds on volleyball, to win in a walk-away.

Boosters' Banquet Is Enjoyed By 100

Over one hundred Bulldog Boosters, menfolks of the community who follow the fortunes of Arizona State's grid endeavors, met last Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Legion Hall to enjoy the annual banquet and program. The affair was sponsored by Tempe Chamber of Commerce.

Led by Coach Hilman Walker and Director of Athletics Rudy Lavik, the 28 members of the grid squad were the special guests of the evening. Both coaches spoke briefly, told of the hardships of the season just ended, and thanked the businessmen present for the party. Squad members were individually introduced.

Berneice (correct) Schlemmer, senior in journalism at the University of Minnesota, is serving as a baseball reporter for the Minneapolis bureau of United Press.

The frosh will play a two-game series with the Phoenix Junior College Bears, with the first game in Phoenix this afternoon at four and the second tomorrow night at seven on the local court in the first game of a double-header program.

Coach Lavik will attempt to pick two winning teams from a small squad of eighteen men which is evenly divided, with nine freshman and nine varsity candidates. The varsity team will be built around three returning lettermen, Capt. Gale Mortenson, Nick Johnson and Oakley Ray.

Auldric Imboden, Mesa, Verl Heap, St. Johns, Chesley Cook, Tolleson and Frank Downs, Miami, have been showing up well among the frosh and are likely to see a lot of action this week.

Remember? Old State Presses Reveal Sport Lore

Someday when you're looking for something to do, drop into Room 117 of the Arts Building. Head straight for the north-west corner and you will find there, in bound volumes, the past editions of the STATE PRESS dating back to 1931. Let's turn to that part of the paper which is given over to the physical activities of the campus:

1931 — "Norris Steverson Leads Bulldogs to Win Over Rudy Lavik's Lumberjacks." Reads sort of screwy, doesn't it? Steverson, a member of the Arizona State faculty last year, is now holding down one of the physical education staff positions at the University of Arizona and the Flagstaff Teachers let Lavik slip away to Arizona State where he is now head of the athletic department.

Beat Wildcats The irony of the above lies in the fact that it was this same Norris Steverson who led a championship Maroon and Gold eleven against the University's Wildcats in '31 and carried them through to a 28-0 victory. Steverson is probably the greatest all-around back that this institution has ever produced.

1935—Ever hear of the "eel-hipped Nipponese"? That's the moniker they piped onto little (but mighty) Bill Kajikawa when he was running them ragged in 1935. Benched the year before because of a serious knee injury, Bill lost no time in making up for those long hours of gathering splinters. He just couldn't be stopped.

Lavik Arrives 1933 — By 1933, Rudy Lavik decided to favor us with his presence on this campus, and by golly, we're darn glad that he did. There's few men, if any, around these parts who knows any more about athletics than does the "wily Norseman."

1935—Among the list of 1935 graduates we find one Thomas Lilloco. Now graduate manager of Arizona State, Lilloco played varsity ball in three sports—basketball, baseball and football.

Memories are short, but the deeds of the above can still be read of in Mr. Southern's Room 117.

The University of Michigan's physical hardening program has been made compulsory for all men students.

"The Coke's in"

"That's the happy greeting heard today when a new supply of Coke arrives at a cooler. Folks wait for it . . . wait because the only thing like Coca-Cola is Coca-Cola itself. Customers smile and start moving up to pause and be refreshed.

"There's a cheerful spirit about this way of accepting wartime restrictions. Morale is high."

Bill Phillips.

Yuletide Spirit At Chi Sig Breakfast

Green and white sorority colors combined with Christmas decorations furnished a yuletide atmosphere to the Chi Sigma pledge breakfast last Sunday morning in the Lyceum Building.

In a candlelight service Freda Alexander, president, read the pledge ceremony. Corsages of white carnations tied with green ribbons were given to each of the seven pledges.

Guests were: Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Stahnke, Mrs. Leila Payne, Mrs. Ruth Vogel, Jeanette Craft, Elizabeth Hampton and Frances Perry.

Pledges are: Martha Bishop, Mary Ann Bishop, Ruth Crumbaker, Esther Emmons, Jean Allen, Gloria Stocks and Betsy Williams.

Religious Council To Hold Session

Members of the Arizona State Religious Council will hold a fellowship and planning session, Sunday afternoon at 4 p.m. in the Lyceum building. A supper will follow the meeting.

Rev. Cecil Hoffman, Tucson, a leader of Arizona student religious activities, will be guest speaker of the afternoon. Reservations for tickets must be made in Dr. Blanche Carrier's office by this afternoon at 4 p.m.

Thirty-One Girls Pledge Beta Chi

With a candle light service, Beta Chi, home economics honorary organization, held its initiation rites, officiated by Sally Kohlberg, president, Thursday night, December 10, in the home economics department room.

Tiny red and white ribbons were given to each new member. After the initiation service, the Beta Chi song was sung, games, led by Pauline Fees, were played, and refreshments were served.

A short summary of the life of Ellen H. Richards, a nationally-known home economist who is celebrating the 100th anniversary of her birthday this year, was given by Aleene Neely.
