Richardson Lists New War Courses

Six new war service courses for women and eight evening and Saturday courses, all beginning the second semester, were announced this week by Dr. H. D. Richardson, registrar.

Dealing with nearly every phase of the civilian woman's part in the war effort, the war service courses include Home Nursing, instructed by Dr. Jessie Rannels and Mrs. Irvine; Nurses' Aide, Josephine Durham and staff; First Aid, Nina Murphy and staff; Emergency Drivers' Course, Highway Patrol; War and Social Reconstruction, Dr. Samuel Burkhard; and News Digest and Discussion, Dr. Blanche Carrier.

Volunteer Work

Also listed were knitting, sewing and making surgical dressings, which will be done by any who care to volunteer at the Red Cross Center, Legion Hall, Tempe, on Fridays. A letter-writing and gift-box project, sponsored by the A. W. S. activity council, is also open to volunteers.

Evening and Saturday classes, schedules for which may be obtained at the Registrar's office, were given as follows: Early Childhood Education, Arizona School System, Laws and Records, Methods of Teaching in Junior and Senior High School, Education for the Air Age, War and Social Reconstruction, Modern Elementary Curriculum Development, School Counseling and Advanced Educational Psychology.

Finals Open Monday, To End On Thursday

Final examinations for the first semester will begin at 8:30 a. m. Monday, Jan. 18, it was announced this week by Dr. J. O. Grimes, dean of the college.

Examination schedules have been posted on the Matthews Library bulletin board and in various classrooms throughout the campus. Regularly scheduled exams will be completed by Thursday noon, Jan. 21, but instructors of "arranged" classes may give finals at any time convenient with their classes.

Registration of new students will be held Monday, Jan. 25, and second semester classes will begin Tuesday morning, Jan. 26.

Openings Listed In Industrial Classes

With the ever growing demand in war industry today for skilled workers there are now openings for men and women in defense classes now being conducted in the Department of Industrial Arts and Technology at the Arizona State Teachers College in Tempe. Classes are open in machine shop, aircraft mechanics, aircraft engine mechanics, and radio.

These classes are held during the day and in the evening. Excellent training is afforded men and women who desire to go into defense industries or into the armed forces.

For further information contact or write Lewis S. Neeb, head of the department of industrial arts and technology at the Arizona State Teachers College in Tempe.

Gammage Approves Student Union Room

President Grady Gammage this week gave the official go-ahead signal to plans for a new student union room in the Lyceum building and announced that the recreation center should be ready for use by the end of next week.

A student-faculty committee conceived the idea a few weeks before Christmas and drew up tentative plans, which included placing in the Lyceum a juke box, ping-pong table, checkers, dominoes, darts, reading material, maps, globes, a radio and other facilities. A full-time woman student may be hired to supervise the recreation room each evening of the week.

Biggest of the problems yet to be solved before the room can be opened is that of furniture. Although the dormitories have volunteered to contribute various furnishings, the necessary furniture has yet to be obtained.

Military Units May Take Training Here

President Grady Gammage returned to Tempe last weekend from a trip to Washington, D. C., where he attended a committee meeting of the American Association of Teachers Colleges and investigated possibilities of obtaining military training units for Arizona State.

Dr. Gammage stated Wednesday that he received encouragement regarding the military units and believes that such a training program will be given the college, although perhaps not until June, 1943.

Cal Tech Offers New Fellowships

Appointments are open to assistantships and fellowships in the Industrial Design Section of the California Institute of Technology, Arizona State students were notified this week.

The appointees will be expected to divide their time between the regular course of study of the section, and the current research and development program in ceramics being undertaken to extend the use of ceramic products in replacing essential and critical war materials wherever possible.

These fellowships and assistantships are open to draft exempt men and to women college graduates who should have had training or experience in art or engineering.

Winterton Is Named To Men's Judiciary

Sophomore Boyd Winterton was notified early this week by Men's Union president Ed Horner that he has been selected to fill the chair on the Men's Judiciary left vacant by John Baklarz's entering the Marines.

Never before has a sophomore been a member of the judiciary. It has always been the custom to have all the positions held by juniors or seniors.

Winterton will immediately assume his judicial duties after having been officially sworn in at the judiciary's next meeting.

Maricopa Solon Introduces College Bill To Senate Again

'Noah' Slated For February 10 And 11

The Drama Workshop, under the direction of Dr. Marian Gallaway, has begun rehearsals for the second major production of the season, Andre Obey's "Noah," to be presented in the college auditorium February 10 and 11.

Casting for the play is not yet complete and several players already chosen may be unable to take their parts due to approaching military service.

The delightful story of the play centers about the character of old, patient Noah, close to God, going on with his task of building the ark even though an unprecedented drought makes the flood appear unlikely. When his sons become restless, it is the animals on the ark who try to comfort Noah, lending their shaggy backs for pillows.

Rainbow Is Answer

After narrowly escaping death, Noah is left alone at his altar fire, wondering if God is satisfied. The rainbow gives him his answer.

Many fascinating problems are to be met in the production of this fantasy; masks for the animals, the construction of the ark, practicable hills, sound effects for various storm scenes, and lighting devices to make sunrises, sunsets and rainbows.

Dr. Gallaway announced this week that several parts are still open and that students interested in acting or in technical work are asked to see her at once at the auditorium.

Name Change, Non-Teaching Degree, Military Training Proposed By Minotto

The battle for Arizona State's right to grant a non-teaching degree was renewed in the state senate Tuesday when Maricopa County Senator James Minotto introduced Senate Bill 6, a bill similar to that which has caused controversy in many previous legislatures.

Providing for the authorization of a non-teaching degree for Arizona's two teachers colleges, the organization of reserve officer training units at the two institutions and the changing of their names to Arizona State College at Tempe and Flagstaff, the bill was one of the first introduced in a busy opening session of the Sixteenth Legislature.

Nine Grads Get Teaching Posts

With the current shortage of teachers it is not hard for the Tempe graduate to find a position.

There are 21 January graduates, 12 desired teaching positions. The other nine went into other types of work such as social service, secretarial, defense work, art designing and the armed forces.

Nine of the twelve desiring teaching positions were placed as follows: Joe Acuff, Tempe Grammar; Sarah Cowan, WPA Nursery School, Phoenix; LaVaughn Ebell, Balsz School, Phoenix; Dudley Hancher, Wickenburg; Lillian McFarland, Wilson School, Phoenix; Frances Hunsaker, Lehi School, Mesa; Kathryn Richardson, Wilson School, Phoenix; Ruth Sharpe, Clifton; and Lois Woodward, Tempe. Of the four left, three are colored students and the other desires placement only in Phoenix.

Teachers are trying to secure positions in larger centers because of the uncertainty of transportation. This leaves an acute shortage in the rural districts. Teachers graduating in May and June will probably not help the shortage much.

"The bill is fair and essential to the people of Arizona," Senator Minotto said Wednesday. "It is not right for the state to ask parents to send their children to Tucson and pay the extra expense of university training when a non-teaching degree could be earned in the center of the state's population."

Students Urged To Stay Away

Senator Minotto also cited the inability of the two colleges to obtain officer training units as long as the "normal school stigma" hangs over their heads. He urged students to contact their parents throughout the state asking support of the bill but strongly requested that students avoid the appearance of lobbying by staying away from the legislative sessions themselves.

The wordings of the important changes in the existing law are:

"where the terms 'normal school' or 'state teachers college' appear they shall be understood to mean 'state college'.... The boards may award a bachelor's degree to students who are not candidates for teaching credentials" "Courses in military science and tactics may be given in conformity with the laws of the United States relating to R. O. T. C. units in educational institutions."

Action on the bill, which Senator Minotto said would probably be "highly controversial," is not expected for several weeks.

She'll Work And She'll Wait For HIM, This Girl Of Arizona State

(Ed. Note: This feature, telling of how the college women feel about war, was written in response to Howard Thompson's "Arizona State Wartime Alien," which appeared in last week's STATE PRESS.)

By Hazel Baker

She's a different girl than that one of 1918, this co-ed in a college which is almost minus men, but which still has a great opportunity for knowledge. A different person, yes, because if she is still in school, she has lost the idea that college is the place to go to "get your man."

This girl doesn't like being told constantly that she is not doing her part, because she really thinks she is. Her opinion is that by preparing to be a teacher she is serving her country. She believes that teacher preparation is a full-time job and that it should not be hampered by too many other time-taking activities.

This girl has gotten out of the idea that every boy she dates must have a Ford Deluxe Coupe, and has even forsaken the idea that a fellow must also have a C ration card and five good tires. For the sake of her country, she will ride the bus—or walk.

This college girl, formerly a wearer of nothing but two-thread silk stockings, now only one pair of hose, and they're made of rayon.

This girl hates to think of the time when her sweetheart goes across. She regrets that she cannot plan to have a normal married life for some time to come, but she has changed her mind about wartime marriages. For Joe's sake she would marry him now, for she is a fond believer in Tennyson's saying, "Tis better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all."—and if she doesn't marry him, she'll wait till it's over.

This college girl is a sentimental, an idealist, an optimist. She is all those things she must be to live through what she calls "an upside-down world." And as there goes on much gossip and idle talk about this college girl sluffing off the importance of the war, even so, she goes on her way studying, convincing herself she isn't of the lost generation, and hoping that someday she might be a constructor in the building of a new world.

Students Wanted For Engineering

College-trained persons are being sought for training in engineering in the federal service, the U. S. Civil Service Commission announces. Graduates and senior students majoring in any field are qualified for positions as junior engineers with an entrance salary of $2,000 a year and with authorized overtime which may amount as much as 20 percent of the yearly salary.

Applications may be made to the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., by graduates or senior students in any field, provided they enroll in the special tuition free ESMWT course. Engineering senior students or graduates or senior students in astronomy, chemistry, geology, physics, mathematics, and engineering sciences who can show 6 semester hours in strictly engineering subjects or the completion of any ESMWT course in engineering are eligible.

Teaching, A Patriotic Service

One thing, and very little else these days, is certain and that is that all of us—men and women alike—must enlist ourselves wholeheartedly in some phase of the war effort immediately if our country is to win the war. For the men at Arizona State this presents a comparatively small problem because Uncle Sam has a way of placing us in one of the armed services or in a military reserve so quickly that it makes one's head swim.

But for women students the problem is immeasurably tougher. A few have joined the Waacs, the Waves, or some allied branch of the women's military services and a few others have married servicemen and have left college to live with their husbands. Most of the marked drop in women's attendance at Arizona State can be attributed directly, however, to the fact that hundreds have taken jobs in nearby war industries and air fields. While at first glance dropping school to take such work seems patriotic, a closer look presents a different picture.

Remaining in school now and receiving a teachers certificate so that they might relieve the daily-increasing teacher shortage appears to us as one of the most sincerely patriotic procedures a college coed can follow. For it is the nation who can come up five, ten, and fifteen years after the war with an educated group of young adults who are not suffering from skepticism and a host of other mental ills that will take a place of leadership in our post-war world. For an example of what lack of proper education during a war can do to a nation's youth, one has only to look at Germany from 1918 to 1939.

We must be sure that ignorance on the part of our youngsters will not be our lot after the war and that fertile young minds will not be allowed to become beds for the weeds of propaganda like that which Hitler sowed with such great success. We must be so sure that we are willing to give up temporarily high-salaried war jobs to finish our education if possible. Upon the decision of Arizona State's women students and teachers college students all over the country may rest the fate of our nation's future.

Myers Is Captain

Capt. L. M. Myers, an officer in the Army Signal Corps Intelligence Service, now stationed at Fort Devon, Mass., has been promoted to his present rank from a first lieutenant, it was reported this week. Capt. Myers, former head of the Arizona State English department, entered the Army this summer after teaching at the college since 1937.

CORRECTION

The STATE PRESS erred last week in reporting that Major Arno Jewett, former professor of English and education at Arizona State, was a member of the Army Specialist's Corps. Instead, Major Jewett is with the Inspector General's office in Washington, D. C.

We understand that men who have been in the army as long as Major Jewett dislike being referred to as members of the Army Specialist's Corps, a comparatively recent addition to the Army setup, and we regret that the error was made.

Pomeroy Moved

Lt. J. G. Earle Pomeroy, U. S. Naval Reserve, has been transferred to Athens, Ga., for active duty, it was learned Tuesday. He was sent to his new post from Chapel Hill, N. C., where he recently completed a 30-day indoctrination course.

Lt. Pomeroy, former football backfield coach and mentor of Arizona State tennis and golf teams, left the college October 25 to take a position at Thunderbird Field II, from which post he entered the navy a month later.

Ensign Ranks High

Ensign N. K. Stamps, graduate of Arizona State in the class of 1940, rated a 3.5 index in a recent I. Q. test given to more than 1000 graduates of various colleges throughout the United States, it was reported this week.

The rating placed among the leaders in the testing. Ensign Stamps, a member of the U. S. Naval Reserve, is now training at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center in Chicago.

I. D. Payne Elected Red Cross Chairman

At a special meeting Tuesday night to elect new officers for the coming year, Ira D. Payne was chosen chairman of the Tempe branch, American Red Cross. The chair was recently left vacant by the resignation of Norris Stevenson.

All other officers were re-elected, these being Miss Helen Roberts, vice-chairman; Howard Woolum, secretary-treasurer; and Miss Louise Lynd, home service chairman.

Mr. Woolum reported on finances. He stated that the local branch is in good financial condition to start the year, and that this is most important in a war year.

The group commented on the fine co-operation of various chairmen and their departments, and those people who have given so much time to Red Cross work during the past year.

Never Dares the Man Put Off the Prophet

Looking through some old files of the "Collegian" (now your STATE PRESS) this week, I came across something that really knocked me out. Dig this! Way back in 1934, Dr. Rufus K. Wyllys predicted that a World War would come in four years. The good doctor missed only by a matter of months, which I would say is really cookin' on all four burners.

Forsooth, The Recreation Room Looms Closely!

I got the straight copy from President Gammage this week that our proposed recreation room would probably be ready to go some time next week. So any of the lads that've been steering their girls down to the grammar school "because there's nothing else to do" will have to think up another excuse. How about that!

Not Now! A Time Will Come To Eat And Drink . . .

Students, if your particular organization is planning something at the Westward Ho, be prepared to talk fast and put up your dukes. The management of that hostelry will have an eye on your purse strings, and will make no bones about it. They will also give you the impression that they're doing you a great favor by letting you rent the place.

Hunger Conquers All, And Calling Max Factor!

It's an established fact that the first love of a football coach is a first rate halfback but I'll wager that a starving Hilman Walker out in the middle of the Sahara Desert would rather have a ham sinkwich than a Frank Sinkwich, Wow! That hockey game between the girls' varsity and Falcon Field was pretty rare. The teams were evenly matched but our girls would have won if Marie Roberts hadn't stopped to powder her nose right in the middle of the Falcon attack.

Let Music Fill The Breeze . . .

Best ballad now out is "I've Heard That Song Before," as played by Harry James . . . which reminds me—a lot of people fail to realize what a fine band James has because of his unbeatable trumpet . . . is there anything to the report that Coach Lavik's team demanded time-and-a-half for the overtime period against Williams Field last week?? . . . why don't sororities serenade more often, say the former Alpha Hall boys . . . and have you heard the latest one about the sweater girl?

Alpha Men Move, Moan

By Steve Adams

Everything was running smoothly in Alpha Hall until a notice appeared on the bulletin board this week. Not only did it state that we had to be out of Alpha by 8 p.m. Wednesday, but that we had to move into an already crowded East Hall on short notice.

The excitement of moving and of something new covered over most of the griping. After a mad dash for rooms began, there were still a few who were without and are still in Alpha.

Alpha Hall, with the leaving of Mr. and Mrs. Pomeroy, was an honor hall with a student as head resident. The men behaved well, and the hall was kept clean. There were 25 students and three naval cadets in Alpha, making it sort of a family affair with everybody knowing each other very closely and respecting the rights of others. On the other hand, in East Hall there is shouting and boys running up and down the hallways at night, and if they don't steal the hall lights they break them for amusement.

Yes, it's our move and we don't like it. We've been split up, the men from Alpha have been spread in every nook and corner of that hall. At least they could have waited until the semester to make this move, when more rooms would have been available, and maybe a wing where Alpha men could move together, but it was our move by Wednesday at eight.

Swanson To Write For 'School Review'

Edwin A. Swanson, head of the Arizona State commerce department, has been invited to serve as a contributor to the forthcoming March issue of "The School Review."

This will be the second time Mr. Swanson has served as a contributor to this magazine, which is a journal of secondary education and is published by the department of education of the University of Chicago.

Tau Sigs To Hold Gala Pioneer Dance

The Tau Sigma Phi Pioneer Dance, which will take the place of the annual barn dance, will be held in the American Legion Hall Friday night, Jan. 22, the last day of this semester.

The Pioneer dance will be on the same order as a barn dance but will consist of slight variations. As in the past the hall will be transformed into a barn of the pioneer days, complete with hay and appropriate decorations. The music of the evening will be that of the days when the west was young. The Schottish, Paul Jones and other dances of that period will be featured.

The dance will be open to the entire student body and tickets will be obtained from any member or pledge of Tau Sigma Phi.

The dance will be strictly a date affair and no stags will be admitted.

Alumnus Gives To School Loan Fund

Carlotta Robinson Gray, a graduate of Tempe Normal in 1925, sent a donation to the Alumni Student Loan Fund this week from her home in San Leandro, California. She made a similar gift last year.

This fund to lend money to seniors was started by C. M. Paddock, who died last year. Mrs. Robert Krause is temporary treasurer of the association, replacing Leona Haulot.

Ed Dusac Joins Navy, Leaves Monday

Voluntarily enlisting in the United States Navy, Edmund M. Dusac, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dusac of Curry Apartments, plans to depart next Monday for New Orleans, Louisiana, for his induction and indoctrination. Young Dusac completed enlistment early this week.

A freshman at Arizona State College here, Ed graduated from Tempe Union high school with the Class of 1942.

THIS WEEK

By KEITH TURLEY

DON'T LOOK NOW, BUT WHAT'S THE SCORE?

Probably no one was more surprised than the unpredictable Lambdies themselves when they knocked the Mu Sigs out of first place and into a tie with the Tau Sigs in last Monday's intramural football game. Since last week, when the Mu Sigs smothered the Tau Sigs, everyone was ready to concede the intramural championship to the Mu Sigs, who previously had won the first half pennant.

Without a doubt the Lambdies didn't expect to win that ball game any more than the Mu Sigs expected to lose it. However 'they dood it.' Because the Lambdies did do it, the Mu Sigs were matched against the Tau Sigs for the third time this year in a game Wednesday.

He Was Only A Football Player, But Look At Him Now!

If I don't do it now, someone else will, so here are the boys whom I picked to be on the all-star intramural football team. There were so many outstanding players that at times it was tough to make the decisions.

Undoubtedly everyone will agree that Bob Roether is the outstanding player of the season. A Mu Sig, he played every game the full time. His passing and running and fine defensive playing contributed much to his team's success. We'll stick him in the halfback slot and choose his teammate Chuck Foster to hold down the quarterback chore. Foster was another big gun in the Mu Sigs powerful offense.

Shirell Willis, versatile passing star, is a good choice for fullback. Very rarely did he miss his mark with those passes. If the Tau Sigs had had about five more like Willis they would have been the team to beat. For the ends (or guards) Auldric Imboden, Pi Delt, and Don Ellis, Lambdie, seem to be the logical men, Imboden was just a natural at snagging the passes and Ellis never would give up. Both of them are good blockers. Eddie Dusac, Tau Sig, has a stranglehold on the center spot. No center from any other team can keep up with him.

More Flowers And Stuff For The Basketball Stars

In last week's game with Williams Field, Nick Johnson proved himself to be the outstanding hoopster of the Bulldogs and any other team in the valley. You can bet your money that Coach Lavik was plenty thankful for Johnson after Friday night's overtime period with the Fliers. He accounted for the points that gave us the game after the score had been tied.

Bulldog fans were also surprised and pleased with the brilliant playing of Auldric Imboden, freshman from Mesa. He was high-point man accounting for 13 of the Bulldogs' 38 points. Beside being just plain good and dependable, among other things Imboden has the respect of his teammates and his coach, because they know that no matter how good or how much his fame may grow, his head will still be the same size.

Hockey Teams Play Tie Game Sunday

Two mixed teams composed of Arizona State Women and Falcon Field cadets got together last Sunday afternoon for a hockey match on the B. B. Moeur playground. The game, played by elevens designated as squads Red and White, ended in a tie, 1 to 1.

Despite a hot sun, which beat down mercilessly on the rapidly moving contestants, not one time out was taken by either side during the entire fray.

Offensively, it was all Whites during the first period. They finally succeeded at scoring on a series of shots from Peralta to Cooke to Apperton, with the latter driving it over. Half-time score: Whites 1, Reds 0.

Somewhat refreshed by the oranges served during the intermission, a determined Red team took the driver's seat away from the Whites and with only two minutes to play, managed to ring the bell as Neely and Downs teamed together to scorch one past hardworking Anna Belle Allen.

The afternoon's proceedings got under way at 2 p.m. with a demonstration speed ball game by the girls from North Phoenix High School under the direction of Catherine Wilkinson. Miss Wilkinson, a nationally-known hockey official, later umpired the hockey activities.

Sponsor of the day's sport entertainment were the members of the women's physical education department of Arizona State.

Lieutenant Liudmilla Pavlichenko, Russia's woman sniper credited with killing 309 Nazis, has been made an honorary student at the University of Michigan.

Mu Sigs Win 1943 Grid Championship

The Mu Sigs, first half champions, clinched their hold on the six-man football crown Wednesday afternoon with a 26-6 victory over the Tau Sigs in the deciding game of the second half. This game, the second between these two teams in the second half, was made necessary by the Lambdies 7-6 upset of the Mu Sigs Monday afternoon.

The Mu Sigs scored three touchdowns and two extra points in the first half and added seven more points in the second half. The Tau Sig' onl yscore came late in the second half. After a sustained drive up the field to the fifteen, Sherill Willis carried the ball around the end for the score.

The second half title battle was thought to be all over but the shouting last Thursday when the Tau Sigs, then in second place, were defeated by the Mu Sigs; but the Lambdies, then occupying the cellar spot, upset the undefeated Mu Sigs 7-6. This placed the Mu Sigs and Tau Sigs in a tie for the second half title.

This Is It - - A Pledge's Dream

Ask any new fraternity member, preferably one whose Hell Week scars are even yet a little tender, what the biggest thrill of his fraternity life has been. He may say one of several things—perhaps that his biggest kick came the night he was asked to join, or that he was impressed most by the smiles and handshakes that followed the formal initiation ceremony—but the chances are that he'll tell you it was the nonchalant way in which he plopped himself down, unshaven and with no crease in his pants, on the front row at his first meeting as a member.

Throughout his pledgship, which in some fraternities on the campus is eleven weeks, he has been required to regard himself, outwardly at least, as an inferior sort of creature. At the command of any of his future brothers he has had to run errands, keep himself at neat as he knows how at meetings, and live through a week of tortures that would do justice to the Spanish Inquisition. In short, he has been a pledge.

But now all that is past and no one can question his right to be a human being again. No matter how neat he may be in everyday life he makes it a point to be otherwise at that first meeting. Wearing no tie, and with shoes, trousers, and coat in as filthy a condition as the State Board of Health will permit, he sprawls in a chair as far from the hated back row as possible and shows the world in general that his days of pledgship are over.

Yes, he may tell you a number of reasons why he joined the fraternity of his choice. He'll recite that routine about its opportunities for leadership, its scholarship standards, and its social prestige, but you can bet that underlying all these reasons was the anticipation of the smug, self-satisfied, air with which he planned to carry himself at first and all important meeting as a member.

Johnson, Imboden Expected To Pace Dogs In Victory Try On University Home Court

Comment was scarce yesterday as a ten-man squad of Bulldog varsity cagers left for Tucson to tangle with the formidable University of Arizona Wildcats in a two-game series last night and tonight.

Yet, despite his unwillingness to speak of what might happen in Tucson, Coach Rudy Lavik let it be known that he was highly pleased with the showing that his boys had made against a very good Williams Field quintet last week.

Backers of the University club point to Arizona's record of four conference victories and no defeats as an indication of what the Bulldogs can expect. They strengthen their argument by naming a list of veterans in the Wildcat starting line-up — Ruman, Cullen, Miller, Genung, and Ballantyne.

Rambling Bob Ruman, completely recovered from a shoulder injury, has been consistently scoring in double figures. Chief assistants to Ruman in making life miserable for the other team, are 6' 4" Miller and dead-eye Vince Cullen.

Bulldog Ready

However, after a week of strenuous practice the Maroon and Gold outfit is ready to give the Tucsonians a very busy pair of forty-minute sessions. With Imboden and Johnson hitting the hoop in their usual manner, the smooth Verl Heap passing as only he can and Captain Gale Mortensen and Oakley Ray guarding closely, anything can happen.

One of the interesting sidelights of the game is the battle between Ruman and Johnson for the high-scoring honors.

The probable lineups are:

Arizona State	pos.	U. of A.
Imboden	f	Cullen
Johnson	f	Ruman
Heap	c	Miller
Mortensen	g	Ballantyne
Ray	g	Genung

Dog Cagers Split With Williams Five

The Arizona State cagers split a two-game series with the Williams Field Fliers here last week, winning the first game Friday night 38-36 and dropping Saturday's game 49-42.

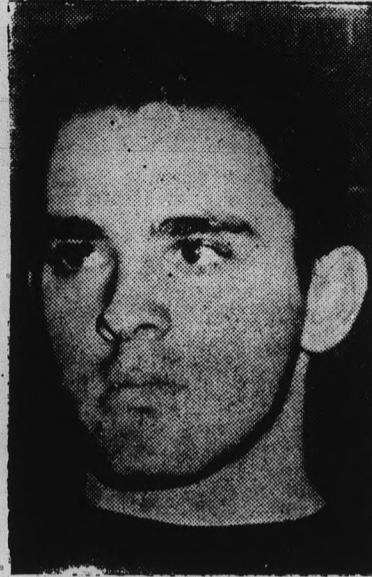

Nick Johnson and Auldric Imboden led the Bulldogs in their first tilt with the Fliers, which saw the Dogs take an early lead in the first half only to be overtaken in the second, which required an overtime period to play off the 36-36 tie. Nick Johnson broke the tie with a timely basket and the overtime period ended with the Bulldogs clinging to their slim two-point margin. Imboden took high point honors with 13 points.

Outstanding among the Fliers were Walt Lezosky, Ernie Richardson, playing-coach, and Stan Goletz. Saturday night's game evened the count, with the revenge-seeking Fliers gaining a 49-42 decision over the Bulldogs in a rough game with Lezosky and Goletz, who paved the way for the Fliers, fouling out in the fourth quarter.

Johnson and Imboden again led the Bulldogs, scoring 19 and 11 points respectively.

Carl Robson, 45-year-old Burlington, Kan., farmer, has enrolled as a freshman at Kansas University, where his two daughters also are students.

WILDCAT ACE

Shown above is the University of Arizona's "Rambling Robert" Ruman, who will be matched against Tempe's forward, Nick Johnson, in the second basketball game of a two-game series tonight on the University floor.

Intramurals To Stay, J. R. Allen Declares

There'll always be intramurals at Arizona State even though there's only one student attending, was the impression John Allen, head of men's intramurals, gave this week.

Apparently a great number of the men will be leaving soon after the semester and Allen was asked what was to become of men's intramurals. He said that definitely there would be tennis, track and softball intramurals the second semester and perhaps golf, if finances hold out.

Tennis intramurals will begin about two weeks after the start of the semester. Later in the spring the annual intramural track meet will be held and following that will be softball.

Students Urged To Get Auto Stickers

Business is lagging at the automobile license sticker bureau here, operated at City Hall offices of Justice Paul V. McCaw. Hours are 9 to 12 a.m., and 1 to 4 p.m. daily, except Saturday—and on that day 9 to 12 a.m.

Applicants must present their registration cards in addition to their car titles, to obtain the 1943 stickers.

February 1, is the deadline and vehicles will not be permitted to operate over the highways after that date, if they are not displaying the license sticker. Further, the fee will be double after February 1. "Do not wait until the last day to apply," warns Judge McCaw, "for it will be impossible to take care of all late comers!"

Pi Alphas Elect New Sorority President

The pledges of the Pi Alpha Gamma sorority entertained their older sister members with a party in the Activities building Monday evening. After spending the evening playing "Cooty" they were refreshed with lemonade and sandwiches.

The pledges responsible for the party were Zada Boles, Pat Evans, June Essig, Katherine Setka, Katherine Bowen, Dolores Roache, Lucille Holdeman and Dorothy Prior.

The election of officers was also held during the meeting with Jeanne Evans elected as new president; Aleene Neely, vice-president;

Kappas Plan Next Semester Activities

At their regular meeting last Monday evening, Kappa Kappa Alpha sorority activities for next semester were discussed.

A program committee was appointed with Edith Borcharding, Betty Gail Hancock, Jean Holcomb and Helen Sunden as members.

Nancy Frew, secretary; Katherine Row, treasurer; Hazel Holton, reporter; and Lucille Holdeman, historian.

The "library chimes," five bells that struck every quarter hour for more than 50 years on the University of Michigan, campus, are to be melted down for scrap.

WAAC's Take Page Four

This week the society page has been turned over to the advertising of the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps. We feel that in this time of need, this is the least we can do.

Since many women students of Arizona State are uncertain as to their future, this information will be helpful as well as enlightening to others, the services the WAAC's perform. We urge every woman student to join in the serving of her country in the way in which she is best suited. And for all of us we can buy war bonds and stamps.

Annual Lambdie Formal Slated For January 23

San Marcos Hotel Site For Gala Affair

Members of Lambda Phi Sigma fraternity will entertain next Saturday night with their annual formal dance to be held this year at the San Marcos Hotel in Chandler from 7 to 12 p. m.

Bob Stafford and his Thunderbirds will provide music for the evening's dancing. Fraternity colors of blue and gold will be used in the color scheme and favors will be presented after the grand march.

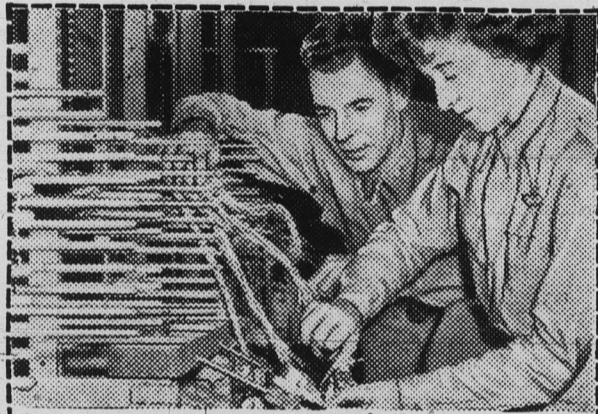

Ed Fleming, president, is in charge of arrangements, aided by Roy Hugh, transportation; Dean Smith, programs; and Marion Ewan and James Gannon, location.

Special guests will be alumni members and Dr. and Mrs. R. K. Wyllys, sponsors. The event is being held early this year so that members leaving for the armed forces next semester may attend.

More than 3,500 students who have attended the University of Wisconsin are now in the armed services.

Your Army has scores of jobs in the WAAC for alert college women . . . jobs vital to the war . . . jobs that will train you for interesting new careers in the post-war world. And here is good news indeed — you may enroll now in the fast-growing WAAC and be placed on inactive duty until the school year ends. Then you will be subject to call for duty with this splendid women's corps and be launched upon an adventure such as no previous generation has known.

New horizons . . . new places and people . . . interesting, practical experience with good pay . . . and, above all, a real opportunity to help your country by doing essential military work for the U. S. Army that frees a soldier for combat duty. These are among many reasons why thousands of American women are responding to the Army's need.

You will receive valuable training which may fit you for many of the new careers which are opening to women, and full Army pay while doing so. And by joining now you will have excellent chances for quick advancement for, as the WAAC expands, many more officers are needed. Every member, regardless of race, color or creed—has equal opportunity and is encouraged to compete for selection to Officer Candidate School. If qualified, you may obtain a commission in 12 weeks after beginning basic training.

Go to your WAAC Faculty Adviser for further information on the list of openings, pay, and promotions. Or inquire at any U. S. Army Recruiting and Induction Station.
