Kenneth Flake To Head 'Noah' Cast

"Noah," second offering of the Drama Workshop, now in preparation for production February 10 and 11, boasts an exceptionally young but talented cast, Dr. Marian Gallaway, head of the workshop, said this week in announcing cast members.

The cast is headed by Kenneth Flake in the role of the legendary patriarch. Flake is a graduate of Mesa Union High School, where he participated in dramatics. He distinguished himself in the drama department's one-act plays earlier this year.

King Has Feminine Lead

Mildred King, a newcomer to the theatre, plays opposite Flake as the gentle, practical mother of the family. Miss King played last semester the role of the stenographer in Barrie's "The Twelve Pound Look," one of a series of one-act plays presented by the department.

Among the other characters in the play, several are veterans of the college dancing classes: Harriet Zenor, who plays the role of Ada; Betty Lee Ward, who plays Sella; Marjorie Williams, the Monkey, and Jean Allen, the Tiger.

Others in the cast are Olive Riddle, Wesley Baker, Sherman Payne, Louis Tryon, Frank Kelley, Betsy Williams, Billie Glofelter, Patricia Kielgass and Bill Swackhammer.

A beautiful effect which is brought out in "Noah" is the background music. Dr. Kenneth Wright, instructor in violin, is composing and arranging a large part of the music for the play. A small chamber orchestra will be used.

Because of the educational values of "Noah," the Drama Workshop will hold a children's matinee Saturday afternoon, Feb. 13, at 2 p.m.

Marine Reserves To Begin Service July 1

Plans to call college members of the Marine Corps Reserve, Class III-d, to active service about July 1, 1943, were announced to Dean J. O. Grimes this week by Marine Corps Headquarters, Washington, D. C.

The information was received in a letter from Major R. Arnett, U. S. Marines, which said in part "it is contemplated assigning all college students with a freshman, sophomore, junior or first-semester senior status who are enlisted in Class III-d, Marine Corps Reserve, to active duty as privates, with pay and allowance, on or about July 1, 1943."

Men called under this order will be given additional instructions prior to being called into active service. Arizona State now has eleven men enrolled who are members of the Marine Corps Reserve, three others having left for immediate service within the past month.

Here It Is!

Pictured above is a section of the new Student Union room in the basement of the Lyceum building. Among facilities of the new room is a juke box for dancing, a large console radio, easy chairs, card and study tables, magazines and newspapers. Dedication ceremonies for the room will be held this afternoon at 4 p.m.

Dedication Slated At Four This Afternoon

Informal dedication ceremonies for Arizona State's new student union room in the Lyceum building basement will be held this afternoon at 4 p. m. Classes will be dismissed for the dedication.

President Grady Gammage will make the presentation of the keys to the new recreation room to Al Onofrio, student body president, who will make a brief speech of acceptance. Students will be asked to sign a register after the ceremonies which will be kept as a permanent record of the first students to use the room.

"Only A Start"

"We feel that the present facilities of the recreation room will provide hours of enjoyment to students," Onofrio said yesterday, "but what we have now is only a start. We hope that students will make the room their own and contribute games, books, pictures and anything else which will add to the enjoyment of the group as time goes on."

Opening of the room will provide facilities for dancing, thus filling a need that has always been acute and has grown more so since gas rationing was started. The recreation room also has a large console radio, modern furniture, a number of tables for reading or card games, and current issues of popular magazines and newspapers.

Among projects now being worked on is a plan to make curtains for the windows; setting aside one section of the room for a current events table, with maps, a globe, and current news magazines; providing space for the numerous athletic trophies and pictures of past years; a bulletin board on which news of developments on the campus and important announcements may be posted, and a student service flag.

Two hostesses, as yet unnamed, will be in charge of the basement room. It will be open from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday; from 3:30 to 5 p. m. and 8 to 11 p. m. on Friday; from 2 to 5 p. m. and 8 to 11 on Saturday, and will be closed Sundays.

Although no effort toward enforcing discipline in the recreation room is to be made, students were asked to cooperate in maintaining reasonable order and in keeping the facilities of the room new as long as possible.

Weather Postpones Cadet Graduation

Bad weather left little flying time to Arizona State's contingent of 35 naval cadets this week and the aviation trainees, who were slated to complete their course here tomorrow, will probably not graduate until the middle of next week, L. S. Neeb, head of the department of industrial arts and technology, said yesterday.

The trainees took their government ground school final exam Wednesday, but individual flying hours are yet to be completed, Neeb said.

First In Africa!

To an Arizona State graduate in the class of 1939 goes the honor of being the first enlisted Waac to set foot on African soil, the Associated Press announced yesterday.

She is First Sergeant Elaine Olmsted, former West Hall girl, who led her contingent as they disembarked on the North African coast. The first group of Waacs included women from 39 states and the District of Columbia.

Only five pioneer Waac officers had arrived in Africa previously.

Sergeant Olmsted attended Arizona State four years, taught in Miami one year, and attended one day of summer school last June. She enlisted in the Waacs on July 17 and was trained at Ft. Des Moines, Iowa.

Students To Train For Service Abroad

Foreign area courses for college students all over the United States who plan to take positions in post-war work abroad will open at Yale University February 1, it was announced this week.

Stressing work in the languages, customs and economic conditions of nearly any area desired, the courses will be of from 12 to 14 weeks duration, with new classes beginning three times a year. Preference will be given to those preparing for official war or post-war assignments.

Information and application blanks may be obtained by writing "Foreign Area Studies, Graduate School, Yale University, New Haven, Conn."

War Prediction In 1934 'Collegian' Comes True As Wyllys Names Date, Enemies

By HAZEL BAKER

(EDITOR'S NOTE—If this story seems fantastic and you want proof, come to the STATE PRESS office, and you will be directed to the original.)

"For I dipped into the future, far as human eye could see,
Saw the vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be . . .
Heard the heavens fill with shouting, and there raised a ghastly dew,

From the nation's airy navies grappling in the central blue . . ."

Just one hundred years ago, Alfred Lord Tennyson had a general idea of what might happen some day to the civilization of the nations of the far-flung world. But in September, 1934, four years before Hitler goose-stepped into Austria, a campus personality knew what and when the present world situation would have its beginning.

This personality is Dr. Rufus K. Wyllys, head of the social science department at Arizona State.

Prophecy Is Printed

Dr. Wyllys did not only voice his opinion on the subject, but a lengthy story was printed about his prophecy in the Arizona State Collegian, forerunner of the STATE PRESS, on September 28, 1934.

The article of Arizona State's yester-year story began: "People today face a crisis—a second world war is just around the corner."

His prophecy completely came true. So true that it behooves one today to read that story by feature writer Kitty Hill former co-ed here. Not only did Dr. Wyllys state when the war would begin, but he gave causes for the conflict as well as the prospective enemies.

Nine years ago Dr. Wyllys said:

"There will be another world war within the next three or four years." He almost prophesied it to the minute, so close did this come to Hitler's first advance.

Listed as the possibilities for another world war were the "Austrian situation, the Polish Corridor trouble, Hitler and Mussolini, attempts at a comeback to the throne by the Hapsburgs, trouble between Japan and Russia, and our own United States Navy's Pacific coast drill which occurred recently and brought forth considerable comment." He also quoted Japan as being a future enemy of the United States.

"Disarmament A Joke"

Asked what he thought about war in general, Dr. Wyllys, in the long-ago story, said, "War will never be abolished until all means of war are abolished, and that seems sheer impossibility, for complete disarmament has become a joke."

Today Dr. Wyllys should be classed as a qualified political prophet, and he should be a constant reminder to an America that was once asleep, an America that wakes up more each day, and to Americans who will recognize men like him as the carpenters—not the painters—of tomorrow's world.

Uncle Sam Thought Of It First

We noticed the other day, in a quick glance through the legislative log published by the Republic, a bill proposed by Representative Pulsipher of Apache county. This bill proposes "To place all students in the state teachers' colleges, who are not conscientious objectors, in cadet companies under training prescribed by the Arizona Cadet Commission."

We don't choose to find fault with Mr. Pulsipher's motive in introducing this bill to the Arizona House of Representatives. If no provision were being made to get every college man in Arizona into the war effort his bill would be perfectly justifiable, but with the various service reserves now claiming 99 per cent of the physically-able men we can't see his point.

He may have had no such intention, but to us it looks suspiciously like a slap in the face of the military reserve directors of the two teachers' colleges.

They Deserve A Hand

With volumes of talk being generated about food shortages, at least one group on the campus has decided to do something about it. It was the training school who made the first move—a victory garden.

Dorothy Robinson, fourth grade teacher in the training school, got behind the idea some weeks ago and soon every student in the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades was taking a part in the project.

The vegetables raised are being used in the training school cafeteria to help alleviate the shortage of food and the children are gaining valuable experience in gardening besides.

Only one fly has bobbed up in the ointment. College students, probably thoughtlessly, have been guilty on several occasions of picking the young radish and lettuce plants on their way to and from the dining hall. It may seem a small matter, but what kind of an example are we setting to the training school children by destroying, even a little bit, the work which they have been taught is fine and patriotic? It shouldn't happen again.

Carrier Named As Reserve Adviser

Dr. Blanche Carrier, professor of psychology and former dean of women, was named this week by President Grady Gammage as Arizona State's coordinator for the three women's reserves, the WAAC'S, the WAVES and the SPARS.

Senior women, whom the American Council on Education has announced are the most needed at present, may now enlist in reserves similar to those in which many Arizona State men are now enlisted, Dr. Carrier said Wednesday. Information on these deferred service plans, as well as on immediate enlistment, may be obtained from Dr. Carrier at her office on the second floor of Old Main.

New Seniors Must Pay Graduation Fee

New students entering this semester who plan to graduate in May or August should report at once to the Business Office to pay the required fee. They should then take receipts to the Registrar's Office and make application for graduation.

Leaders Invited To Planning Conference

Arizona State student and faculty leaders were invited this week to meet with representatives from 20 other colleges and universities in Colorado, Texas, Arizona and New Mexico in the first major conference on Post-War Reconstruction problems, to be held February 11-13 on the campus of the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque.

The regional conference is one of seven to be held throughout the country to crystallize American collegiate and community thought and opinion on Post-War Reconstruction problems.

February 1 Last Day For Changes

Changes in registration can be made during the first two weeks of the semester by means of a Drop-Add card, the Registrar's office has announced. Through February 1, changes may be made without change of registration fee; from February 1 through February 8, Drop-Add cards will be issued only upon payment of a change of program fee of fifty cents.

With Our Fighting Bulldogs

(Ed. note: This letter from Lt. J. Kelly Moeur, U. S. Marine Corps, is one of the first from our fighting men in the South Pacific to reveal the location of the writer. Lt. Moeur is stationed on Guadalcanal Island and his address is Lt. J. K. Moeur, U. S. M.C. Unit 845, Postmaster, San Francisco, California.)

Dear Ewan:
Well, chum, how are things going in dear old Tempe? Thought a lot about the place over Christmas and New Years. The old gang with all the parties and busts—a person sure remembers those things when he is sitting on an island half way to hell already, which by the way is Guadalcanal. Just received the word that I could say so. Of course that is about all I can say about it except that it isn't the nicest place in the world.

Seems to me as if it is about time for you boys to start digging for the Lambdie formal, or have they cut such things out for the duration? God knows how long that will be. By the way, I ran into an old pledge here. I think you know him well. You should, he's one of the Winslow mob—Harry William. He's in the Army. I knew damn well I had known him some place before. I finally asked where he was from. We had a hell of a good talk about the old Lambdies — Shumway, Meikle, Ted (John) Hollar and all the old gang. Quite an event to see someone to talk about home with. You can even dream about it that night after your memory is refreshed. It may sound funny to hear that but it's the truth. After so long a time out here it's almost impossible to dream about the States.

Well, buddy, I hope you don't make so much money on my cleaning business that you can't pay your income tax. Give my regards to the Gants and all. Do you have the address of Garrett, Rudd or the rest of the bunch? I sure would like to have them. Don't know where I might run into them. Tell the Lambdies hello.

Fraternally,
Kelly.

(Ed. note: "Middle east, Jan. 11, 1943" is the heading of this letter from Sgt. Eddie Rush, U. S. Army Air Corps. Now stationed in Africa, Sgt. Rush's address is Sgt. Rue E. Rush, 19th Weather Sq., APO 608, c/o P.M., Miami, Fla.)

Dear Coach (Lavik):

Just got your letter and was really surprised and very glad to hear from you. No, the organization gets our mail to us very promptly. About a thousand miles a day in my case.

I've been in Africa for about eight months and have seen everything they will let me. I've got lots of pictures, too. I do want to come home but I don't let that keep me from seeing things I've read about, learned in history.

What the hell is wrong with the army? I know men who aren't half the physical specimens you are who are colonels. I hear every day of some such man being commissioned. That is the Army, though. By the way, I'm about to apply for officer candidate school. If they send anyone from here, and they assure us they will, I will probably be back.

I transferred from the infantry to the air corps about 18 months ago, and immediately got in the

By HOWARD THOMPSON

Elmer and I were talking about our final exams last night and I asked, "Well, how were they?" "Not bad," said Elmer, "Twelve gallons of coffee, two boxes of aspirin, and four hours sleep last week was all it took. But it certainly is a strange feeling," he said, "to get a final exam when there isn't a darn think on it that you recognize."

"I know just how you feel," I said, thinking of "Doc" Wexler's algebra brainstorm.

"By the way," said Elmer, "here's a little list of questions I've made up that I'd like to submit as a final exam to some of the profs around here — and brother I mean final!"

I took the paper from his hand, and these were a few of the questions:

WEXLER: If a boy traveled a certain distance at the rate of 15 mph, and on the way back traveled 50 miles at 5 mph, 10 miles at 10 mph, 20 miles at 15 mph, and the rest of the distance walking backwards against a 125 mph wind from the northwest, what time was it in Istanbul? The answer is NOT 10:15. Solve, using Logarithms cosine of four theta.

WYLLYS: During the time of the French and Indian Wars, a certain captain led a band of 45 men against a band of Indians that had been raiding isolated settlers' homes. What was the date, who was the captain, what tribe was involved, and what was the middle name of the fourth Indian on the right when the troops first spotted the Indians?

STAHNKE: Concerning the Notre Dame football team of 1929, elaborate upon the yards gained, passes intercepted, points scored, positions played, etc., and list the names of all the players, SPELL CORRECTLY, in alphabetical order. (English alphabet).

"How about the rest?" I asked. "Their's will be a cinch," said Elmer, "I'm going to have each of them sent a letter that begins: GREETINGS: From the President of the United States to . . ."

"But there's one thing I must say," said Elmer. "What's that?" I asked. "They all teach well-rounded courses—everything they don't give during the year, they include on the final exam."

"You can say that again," I replied . . .

meteorology service. I like the work very well.

I guess there is no longer a housing problem at the school, as there was when I was there. One thing I can say about this country is that it's hot as hell. I haven't seen a temperature under 60 degrees in eight months, and every day even now it hits 95 degrees.

I guess I can't say any more this time so I'll close. Write any time you can, I'll always be glad to hear from you.

Sincerely,
Shorty.

In a letter received this week by Mrs. Robert Krause, Maynard Montgomery, a student here last year, requested work by correspondence to complete the nine units he needs for graduation.

Montgomery, stationed in Anchorage, Alaska, is engaged in military work for the government, the nature of which he was not permitted to reveal. He was a major in biological science during his attendance at Arizona State.

Registration Totals High As Term Opens

War service and defense jobs failed to cut second semester enrollment as expected and, with registration of both new and previously enrolled students practically complete, the total enrollment figure has passed 800 students, the Registrar's office announced yesterday.

This number does not include defense classes, Saturday, or night courses, or summer school. Registration in Saturday, night, and defense courses is being done at the first meeting of the individual classes.

Emphasizing courses designed to aid military reserve students and women preparing for places in the war effort, the second semester schedule was opened Tuesday morning.

His address is M. C. Montgomery, Civil Aeronautics Administration, 8-45, Anchorage, Alaska.

THIS WEEK

BY ED HORNER

To many of his friends who have been asking why John Baklarz's name received little or no mention in the State Press when he left for the Marines some time ago we say right you are, and we're sorry. But, we did write a story about the big guy—however, we're not editing this paper. . . . Before any of you start going around calling your prof an old book-worm you'd better look into his college life. A good many of our instructors have been, at one time or another, considered pretty fair athletes. Bridges played at the running guard position for Bowdoin; when Harold "Red" Grange showed his flying cleats to Ohio long ago, the fullback for the opponents was a later-to-become English instructor Clarence "Chuck" Southern; ask Dr. Worthy about the time he coached a group of novice girl basketballers to a championship; Bradley Tech's alumni still recall the fine-around play of one of their best football captains, Lewis S. Neeb; somewhere among his files Rudy Lavik has a letter which was sent to him by a female admirer during his varsity days at Springfield. She seemed to think that Mr. Lavik was the best basketball player she had ever seen; Mr. Ostrander has seen the day when he was addressed as Coach Ostrander; there are others—we'll tell you about them at another time. . . . Tonight we're honored by a visit from our brothers—the Lumberjacks of Arizona State at Flagstaff. Leading the northern aggregation into battle will be Frank Cosseboom. This will be Frank's third straight year that he has visited our establishment. Against West Texas last year Casseboom boomed 12 points through the cords.

Here's hoping that he finds the going a bit rougher on our wavy hardwood floor. . . . No doubt about it, the past intramural football season was the roughest ever. Witness all those nice young fellows making their short journeys on crutches. . . . "Doc" Wright, former intramural star, is now a top-notch basketball official in the Winslow region of the state. . . . When Junius Hammons walks past you can't but think to yourself that there goes a well-built lad. Despite his 6' 3" he moves around like a cat inside and outside of the ring. Yes, he's a boxer. At one time he held the state heavyweight championship. To gain the crown he had to defeat Ira O'Neil. It was one of those slugger meets boxer affairs and the boxer won. In class he doesn't have much to say, but when those old tests come around he tears into them like they were the palookas he's bowled over. Needless to say, he's an honor student. "Bat" Allen likes to tell of the time that his fine colored lad chopped down the campus bully. Arizona State can be proud of Junius Hammons—scholar, gentleman and fighter.

Axmen Invade Bulldogs' Court Tonight, Saturday

Bulldogs To Battle Fliers and Marines

Arizona State's Bulldogs will play the San Diego Marine Base five here in a tilt scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 4, Coach Rudy Lavik announced yesterday.

Lavik completed negotiations yesterday but has received very little information concerning the Marines other than that the coast five is one of the top service teams of California. A tentative game has been scheduled with the Williams Field Fliers for next Wednesday, Feb. 3. Previously the Bulldogs split a two-game series with the Fliers.

Thus far Tempe's basketball season has been considered fairly successful although the losses have been more than the wins. Out of nine starts the Dogs have been able to take only three tumbles. They defeated the O. B. Marston, Williams Field, and University of Arizona fives. Two games were lost to O. B. Marston, one to Williams Field and three to the Wildcats.

Lavikmen Favored In Two-Game Series As Court Rivalry Is Renewed With Flagstaff

Smarting from two spankings given them by the Wildcats from Tucson Monday and Tuesday, the Arizona State Teachers College at Flagstaff cagemen will invade the favored Bulldog yard for a two-game series here tonight and Saturday. The Bulldog hoopsters will also have the memory of the defeats handed them by the University of Arizona in last week's clashes to spur them in the forthcoming games.

Last year's court meeting saw the Bulldogs split a two-game series with the Axmen, winning 43-27 on the Tempe court and dropping the second game, 48-38, on a Phoenix court. The second game was a charity tilt and did not affect the Bulldogs' conference standing. Nick Johnson, now free from eligibility worries, and Gale Mortensen will be the only men in Bulldog colors who saw action in last year's clash.

"Iron Man" Five To Start

Coach Rudy Lavik said yesterday that the starting nod would go to the same five that met the university last week but that he would shift Aldric Imboden to the guard spot and move Gale Mortensen to the pivot position. Verl Heap and Nick Johnson will provide the Axmen with plenty of trouble while taking care of the forward slots and Oakly Ray will fill his regular guard berth.

The Bulldogs should tear a fair sized hole in the Lumberjacks' pants, although the judging is based entirely upon comparative scores. Flagstaff has suffered heavily from that wartime disease, "veteran loss," that has hit so many college athletic departments, and the northern five boasts only one returning basketketeer.

Cosseboom To Pace Jacks

Lumberjacks seeing action will include the lone veteran Frank Cosseboom at guard and probably Kelly, guard; Sturgeon, who paced his courtmates in the Wildcat fray Tuesday night with 17 tallies, and Stove, forwards; and Diers, who slipped through the highly touted university man-to-man defense Monday night to lead his team with eight points, at center. Diers and Sturgeon were the main sparks of the Lumberjack quintet and will be a threat to the Tempe defense.

Education Group Initiates Members

The Association of Childhood Education met January 13 to initiate new members and to make plans for the ensuing semester.

New members included Dorothy Gaither, Katherine Fennell, Bertha Wilkinson, Martha Horrall, Billie Glotfelter, Marie Cook, Margaret Jackman, Margaret Gjursovich, Lois Smith and Jean Kennedy.

Old members present were Margaret Quick, Doris Rae Williams and Fay Lindbergh.

New officers elected were Margaret Quick to vice-president and Lois Smith to publicity director.

The University of Notre Dame was founded Nov. 27, 1842, by the Very Rev. Edward Sorin, a French priest.

BULLETIN

As the paper went to press, news was received that "Blind Tom" Lillico, graduate manager, received an appointment yesterday as Lieutenant Junior Grade, in the U. S. Naval Reserve. Lillico will report to the University of Arizona soon for a brief indoctrination course before being assigned to active duty.

Arizona Five Downs Dog Cagers Twice

Against a fast-breaking, sure-shooting University of Arizona five the Bulldogs of Arizona State fought stubbornly for two games Friday and Saturday nights and lost both, the first 43-29 and the second by a 63-40 score.

With skyscraper Bob Miller controlling the rebounds and teammate Vince Cullen popping them in from away out, the Wildcats gradually pulled away from the Lavikmen after a nip and tuck earlier period Friday evening. For the Maroon and Gold outfit Verl Heap and Nick Johnson kept the Tempeans within possible reach of victory.

Hoping to duplicate their feat of copping the second tray in Tucson some weeks back, the Bulldogs gained the lead for the first 15 minutes of the initial period of Saturday night's tussle. However, George Genung, Wildcat guard, evened matters with an arching long shot and then sent the Tucsonians ahead with a jumping one-hander from the foul line. At half-time the visitors topped the home team 26-20.

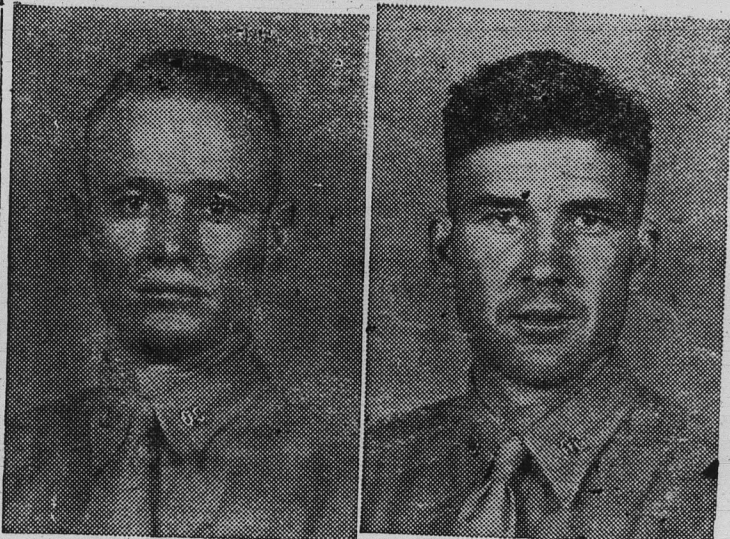

Losing no time during the latter twenty minutes of the game, "Red" Padelford, Bob Ruman and Miller put on a finishing drive that left little for their rooters to desire.

However, it remained for Nick Johnson, Bulldog forward, to garner scoring honors for the battle by dumping in 7 field goals and 3 foul attempts for a total of 17 points. Heap, Arizona State center, made 10 markers while Padelford of the Wildcats had 16 to his credit.

Lettering Instruments Needed, Harter Says

Due to the shortage of mechanical drawing instruments, all former lettering students were urged this week by Tom Harter, art instructor, to sell their used drawing sets to the bookstore at once. Good prices will be paid for them, Harter said, and without them lettering students will be unable to complete requirements of the course.

DeWitt And Buntz, Former Arizona State Athletes, Win Marine Lieutenants' Ratings

Two Arizona State athletes are now enrolled in Reserve Officers Class at the Marine Corps Base at Quantico, Va., having successfully completed their basic training and having won their commissions as Second Lieutenants.

One is Lieutenant John Paul DeWitt, 29, who was graduated in June, 1940, with an A. B. degree as a science major. He was a member of Pi Delta Sigma and played four years of basketball at Tempe and was two years on the football and track squads. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. DeWitt of St. Johns.

The other newly commissioned officer of the Leathernecks is Lieutenant Robert L. Buntz, 28, who majored in physical education. He was a member of Tau Sigma Phi and played four years of football. He is the son of Mrs. Edna Buntz of Buckeye.

Mural Tennis To Be Planned On Monday

Final plans for this year's intramural tennis tournaments will be made at a meeting of intramural heads of campus organizations next Monday noon in East Hall, John Allen, director of men's intramurals, announced this week.

Last year the Lambdies annexed both single and doubles crowns with "Doc" Wright and Gordon Dennis carrying the load. Apparently the courts are wide open for neither Wright nor Dennis returned to school this year. Women's tennis intramurals will not be held until spring.

Lambdie Formal Held Saturday

Members of Lambda Phi Sigma fraternity entertained Saturday night with their annual formal dance, which was held at the San Marcos Hotel in Chandler from 9 to 12 p.m.

Bob Stafford and his Thunderbirds provided music for the evening's dancing. Favors of cigarette and make-up compacts were presented after the grand march.

Ed Fleming, president, was in charge of arrangements, and was aided by Roy Hugh, transportation; Dean Smith, programs; and Marion Ewan and James Gannon, location.

Special guests were alumni members, Dr. and Mrs. R. K. Wyllys, sponsors, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Southern.

Fraternity members and their guests were: Kenneth Shephard, June Dana; Pinky Swain, Suzanne O'Neil; Paul Schwark, Connie Vaughan; Boyd Winterton, Lorena Chaney; Kenneth Parker, June Whitewing; Keith Miller, Imogene Allison; Dean Smith, Jean Holcomb.

Kenneth Flake, Marjorie Welker, Lt. Pratt Greer, Barbara Platt; Bob Easley, Hazel Johnson; Norman Sharber, Betsy Williams; Hal Fincher, Rita Mae Paul; Don Ellis, Thelma Hambrick; Jim Share, Pat Murray; Doc Wright, Olive Riddle.

Allison Named As Phi Beta Prexy

The Phi Betas elected their new officers Monday, January 25. Imogene Allison was elected president, Anna Wallace, vice-president and Connie Vaughan secretary-treasurer. The historian-publicity chairman is Rita Paul.

Plans were made for a formal initiation party to be held in the off-campus room of the Activity building on March first.

Exhibit Tells Of Artists In War

Showing how the artist of today contributes to America's effort in a world at war, an exhibition of "Art at War" was stationed in the lobby of the Arts building during the past week.

Tom Harter, art instructor, supervised the exhibition. The work was done in his commercial art classes.

Arizona State students who contributed the work are Gene Carlin, Margaret Davis, Sara Carillo and Jim Phillips.

Recording America at war are works on honor rolls, memorials, propaganda and information posters, camouflage techniques, industrial designs, production illustrations and painted pictures which could record war on the battlefield and on the home front.

Thompson Named As Judiciary Member

Another new judiciary member was announced last Wednesday evening. Howard Thompson has been chosen to take the place of Kyle Pierce, who was inducted into the army and sent to Fort MacArthur, San Pedro, California.

Thompson, a junior, has been an active member of the debating team at Arizona State and is now in the navy reserve.

Drama Workshop To Entertain Soldiers

The Drama Workshop has been asked to participate in a plan to organize soldier entertainment throughout the valley. A fund of $5000 has been made available by the Lanham Act for recreational purposes in this area and part of this fund is made available for dramatic entertainment.

At a recent meeting which included directors of the Phoenix Little Theatre and Phoenix Junior College dramatics department, representatives of KTAR, KOY, the Orpheus Club, the Cathedral Players and other organizations, Dr. Marian Gallaway of the Arizona State Drama Workshop proposed that the college could provide one entertainment a month to be taken on circuit to nearby camps.

It is expected that a new course, Speech 200, will assume responsibility for many such programs but recruits from outside the speech department will undoubtedly be necessary. Whether or not they can act, all students willing to try are asked to report at once to Dr. Gallaway in her auditorium office.

Mu Sigs To Elect Semester Officers

Election of second semester officers will be the main order of business at next Wednesday night's meeting of Mu Sigma Chi fraternity, Roy Doyle, president, announced this week.

Discussion of social and service plans for the remainder of the year will also be held and tentative arrangements made for a skating party to be held in the near future.

The regular meeting night of the Mu Sigs was changed from Monday to Wednesday because of conflicts with night classes and rehearsals of the Phoenix Symphony Orchestra, of which several Mu Sigs are members.
