'Problems of Peace' Assembly Slated

Dr. C. Ray Hansen, Chicago Lawyer, Will Talk From First-Hand Experiences

Chicago's Crusading Patriot, Dr. C. Ray Hansen will speak in the college auditorium Monday, Feb. 15, at 1:30 a.m. Classes will be dismissed so that all students may hear this noted lecturer give an account of his thrilling experiences.

Dr. Hansen, started his career as a lawyer in Chicago but because he tried to interfere with an election that was being held, he found himself in the hands of a Chicago gang suffering bodily injuries.

After he had recovered of his injuries, he brought his captors to justice by serving as an undercover investigator. He then became a member of President Hoover's Crime Commission and served as prosecuting attorney, doing undercover work in other cities. He has also done clinical work in prisons and served on the summer faculties of leading universities.

Because he has traveled so widely and has had many interviews with statesmen, diplomats, educators and business men from all over the world, his lecture "Problems of Peace" comes from first hand experience. He states that the shift to peace time production, unemployment, labor, education and taxes are but a few of the post-war problems and are as challenging and pressing as the immediate conduct of the war.

Since the war began Dr. Hansen has been in industrial plants, in and around ship-yards, military posts and enemy gathering places, collecting evidence of sabotage, subversive and fifth column activity.

Dr. Hansen bears the distinction of having been honored officially by the Chicago Bar Association for "patriotic and courageous services." This is the only citation of its kind in the history of the association.

Schedule Tryouts For 'Far-Off Hills' Today

Tryouts for the third major dramatic production, "The Far-Off Hills," will be held this afternoon from 4:30 to 6:00 and this evening from 7:30 to 9:00 in the college auditorium, Dr. Marian Gallaway, head of the Drama Workshop, has announced.

There are ten very good parts—five men and five women—in Lennox Robinson's Irish tale of Marian Clancy, a dominating person who tries to manage her father's house. She tries to dominate her father, Patrick Clancy, and her two younger sisters, Dorthea and Ana, greatly to their distress. Pierce Hegarty comes to their rescue with a new proposition.

Dr. Gallaway announces this will be the last play of the season and will definitely be given at nearby air fields.

Cadet Training Plan Unconfirmed As Yet

Nothing new in Arizona State's aviation cadet training situation has developed since news that the college was being considered as a training center was released last Thursday, Pres. Grady Gammage announced yesterday.

Tentative plans made between the college and a high-ranking Santa Ana Air Base officer set February 20 as the date for the arrival of the first 300 of an expected 600 trainees who may be on the campus by March 1. No confirmation of this arrangement had been made by Army Air Corps headquarters in Washington, however, and no contracts had been signed by the time the STATE PRESS went to press.

Dr. Gammage assured students yesterday that no matter how developments go, civilian education will be continued as usual.

Solons Honor Memory Of Dr. A. J. Matthews

The memory of Dr. Arthur J. Matthews, president of the college for thirty years, who died July 20, 1942, was honored this week by the Sixteenth Arizona Legislature, which issued a concurrent resolution of sympathy to his widow and family.

The resolution, a copy of which was received by Pres. Grady Gammage from O. L. McDaniel, Speaker of the House of Representatives, to be placed in the college records, was as follows:

"WHEREAS, Dr. Arthur J. Matthews departed this life at the home of his daughter in Long Beach, California, on July 20, 1942, aged 82 years; and

"WHEREAS, Dr. Matthews, "the dean of Arizona educators," head of the Arizona Teachers College at Tempe for thirty years, and well-beloved President Emeritus of that institution since 1930, was for three decades one of Arizona's most prominent and most popular figures, its most distinguished teacher, a nationally known and nationally esteemed educator; and

"WHEREAS, in his passing Arizona loses a major contributor to its development, during the days when cultural and education progress was difficult and most needed; therefore

"Be it Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring:

"1. It is with a deep sense of loss and sorrow that the death of Dr. Arthur J. Matthews is noted.

"2. The sympathy of this body is extended to the bereaved widow and family."

The resolution was signed by the Speaker of the House, the President of the Senate, the Chief Clerk of the House and the Secretary of the Senate.

Australia Quiet

Lt. Peter Prussing, stationed somewhere in Australia, writes this week, saying that life "down under" is so far uneventful. A previous letter from Lt. Prussing was printed in the Dec. 18 issue of the STATE PRESS.

Ward, Tyler Appointed To Fill Student Offices

Dean Smith Receives Eight-Hour Notice To Leave; Editor Unnamed

Bill Ward was appointed student body vice-president and Merrill Tyler student body auditor in a special meeting of the student council Wednesday night. The new officers were named to fill the unexpired terms left open by Bernard Vitek, who was called to service in the Army Air Corps this week.

Army Reserves Face Active Service Soon

Notice that the calling to active service of men in the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps was begun February 6 was received yesterday by Dean J. O. Grimes. Not all men in this reserve will be called immediately, the War Department release said, but will be called "as soon as practicable with due regard to the avoidance of congestion in reception centers."

The only exceptions to the above order which were listed were medical, veterinary and technical engineering students. These men are to be given until May 21 and, in some cases, until graduation.

All E.R.C.'s not in one of these three groups will be ordered to duty in the near future and, after processing at a reception center, will be eligible for selection under the Army Specialized Training Program.

Women Have Place In New Military Plan

According to Paul V. McNutt, educational opportunity for women will not be destroyed in the co-educational colleges taken over for the military specialized training program. He explained that he understood there was no intention of taking over an entire plant for educating soldiers; the load would be distributed as fairly as possible. As the colleges are chosen by the Army-Navy-WMC committee, notification will be given directly to the schools.

"These men," declared Brig. Gen. J. N. Dalton, Assistant Chief of Staff for Personnel, Services of Supply, "will spend from 12 to 48 weeks in classrooms, laboratories and study halls preparing for special duties

Army Weather School Still Seeking Men

It has been announced by the University Meteorological Committee that the number of students required for the opening of the first Basic Course (C program) has been obtained, but the quota of students for the Pre-meteorology Course (B program), which opens March 15, has not yet been filled.

Applications are still being accepted for an Advanced Course (A program) opening March 29 and June 21. It was also announced that not all of the qualified applicants could be trained in the February class (C program) and that they, and new applicants as well, will be considered for a training course which opens May 17.

Late Thursday, Dean Smith, editor of the STATE PRESS, received his call to report immediately to Fort MacArthur, Calif. His duties have been delegated to Jean Benson and Howard Thompson until a meeting of the publications board is held to appoint a new editor.

Ward, senior student from Los Angeles, is a social science major and a geography minor. He transferred to Arizona State from U.C.L.A. at the end of his freshman year and since becoming a student here has been elected president of Blue Key, a member of Who's Who in American Colleges, and Homecoming King.

Is Gila Transfer

Tyler transferred here this year from Gila Junior College. A sophomore, he is an accounting major and a secretarial science minor. His home town is Thatcher and in high school he was active in commercial work and in journalism.

Vitek had held both student positions since November 18 when he added the auditor's job to his duties as vice-president. Tyler is the fourth auditor to hold the post this year, having been preceded by Harold Roberson, Bill Valentine and Vitek, all of whom are now in the armed forces.

Kenneth Flake Stars In Fantastic 'Noah'

By DEAN SMITH

Bewilderment struck the keynote Wednesday night when "Noah," second major production of the Drama Workshop, was presented to Arizona State playgoers in the college auditorium.

This reviewer saw in Andre Obey's story of the Biblical patriarch a puzzling mixture of pathos and comedy—of stark realism and pure fantasy. To sum up our opinion of how the drama struck the audience, we might say that there seemed always a certain tenseness because of the fact that they were seldom sure just when to laugh.

Kenneth Flake, freshman from Mesa, handled one of the most difficult roles in Drama Workshop history with real skill as he portrayed the ever-faithful Noah. While his supporting cast, especially Mildred King who played Noah's wife, turned in good performances, the very nature of the play put Flake in a position to dominate the performance.

Musical and lighting effects were outstanding, as were the set constructions. Only by seeing the play could one appreciate the vast amount of work which must have been done by the backstage crew.

Student Leaders Answer Call To Duty

By Howard Thompson

Two fellows, who will be greatly missed by Arizona State, checked out of school this week because of army calls. They were Dean Smith, STATE PRESS editor, and Bernard Vitek, vice-president and auditor.

It is said that Japanese snipers in the South Pacific Islands concentrate on picking off officers in preference to men, and apparently, the U. S. Army has adopted the same attitude here in the United States in regard to picking off student leaders. For two men such as Smith and Vitek are as difficult to replace here as officers are in the South Pacific.

Both men have held positions of responsibility and have carried out their duties faithfully and well. Smith's duties have been taken over temporarily by Jean Benson and Howard Thompson. Vitek's by Bill Ward and Merrill Tyler.

Smith, a junior from Chandler, was an honor student, Blue Key member, and editor of the STATE PRESS. Vitek, a senior from Phoenix, was an outstanding football player, a Blue Key member, and a leader in student affairs.

Although their duties may be taken over by others, their personalities cannot be replaced. Their loss will be felt by the student body, as well as by the college itself.

Wishing them luck seems an inadequate way of expressing our appreciation to these two fellows, both of whom have outstanding records. Smith, had he remained, would have been the first STATE PRESS editor to succeed himself in that office. Vitek was the first fellow ever officially to hold down two student offices, either of which was a full-time job.

But we do wish them luck. The very best of it. And we feel sure that these two fellows will fulfill their new duties—vastly more important duties—with the same faithfulness and thoroughness that they did in their positions here.

In a country such as this, where a person can grow in the way he desires, and yet go as far as his individual talents will take him, we find a great deal of the spirit of cooperation and individualism, as exemplified by these two fellows, freely mingled. It is for this that we are willing to give that "last full measure of devotion."

As long as our country retains this ideal, and as long as we have fellows like these two on which to count as the result, America need never fear losing a war.

So to Dean and Bernard, wherever their new duties may take them, we say Good Luck! God Speed! And may their stars remain forever blue!

We Honor Him Today

He was an American whose life was cursed by war—but an American who faced war and let it make him great.

He was born poor and never was able to accumulate a fortune, but the wealth of leadership and faith in an American union which he gave his nation has been equaled by few in all of this country's history.

His manners were rough, for his background was that of a backwoods farm laborer, but his understanding of human nature and his capacity for forgiveness could be found in no aristocrat of his day.

He lived his life in a day when gasoline, cokes, rubber tires and canned meats were not rationed but unheard of.

He did not have to face Hitler, Mussolini or Hirohito, but he faced a nation whose arrogance, eagerness for war and desperation of purpose was as intense as that of the nations those three dictators rule.

He did not have to wage battle against leering Japs or hated Germans but was confronted with the infinitely harder task of killing fellow Americans.

His home addresses were Springfield, Ill., and Washington, D. C.

His memory is dear to all Americans and we remember him today because it is the 134th anniversary of his birth.

His name is Abraham Lincoln.

With Our Fighting Bulldogs

Most Proficient!

A certificate of award and a medal were presented to Nathan Pottorff, former student of Arizona State Teachers College, last week for completing his basic Marine training in the most proficient and satisfactory manner of any man in his platoon.

The presentation was made by Colonel Hall during dress parade at the Marine Corps Naval Operating Base in San Diego, California.

Pottorff was an outstanding member of the 1942 football squad, holding the position of right tackle. He entered the Marines February 14, 1943.

(A letter from James G. Cox, who is in Marine training at San Diego, was received here this week by Dr. J. O. Grimes. Part of it is as follows:)

Every minute is used according to schedule. Sometimes the monotony really becomes unbearable until I think of what we are facing in this world of war and misery, then it merely becomes a stepping stone to something necessary if we are to maintain our present standard of living.

I suppose the life at ASTC remains the same except for the induction of most of the male population. I never really knew what I was striving for until I was suddenly thrown among the midst of men and boys from every walk of life, amount of education, and breeding in general. I see only too clearly the place education plays in this struggle of today. If I'm not being too presumptuous you might pass that little sermon along to all the fellows that will soon be entering the armed services of our country.

Oh! Oh! Lights out in ten minutes, so you'll have to excuse the brevity of this epistle.

Sincerely,
J. G. COX,
Det. 22, R. D. M. C. B.

(Aviation cadet Eldon Rudd writes from Walla Walla, Wash., where he was enjoying a two-day leave from his training duties at Pasco, Wash. His address is A/C E. D. Rudd, Class 10-A-42, Naval Air Station, Pasco, Wash.)
Dear Don (Ellis):

Well, fellow, I guess the big show is next week and believe me, Don boy, I'd give anything to be there for the formal. I know you will have a good time.

I know I have been negligent about correspondence, but I have thought about you often and Lambda Phi Sigma—things you can't replace. I am sure you understand my bit of sentimentalism because you must have it too.

I am on a two-day leave. I warn you that to spend two days in Walla Walla is a blow to one's nervous system.

Tell the members of Lambda Phi hello for me and take care of yourself.

Sincerely,
Rudd

P. S. I would appreciate a word from some of you, eh? Red Gannon, for instance.

NOODLES BY NARD

By BOB NARDELLI

The Legion of The Might-Have-Beens

Bob Feller, Joe Louis, Hank Greenberg, Billy Conn... these are names familiar to most every American sports lover. They are the names of men who have answered their country's call to the colors. They are the names of men who gave up fabulous incomes for the comparative pittance of the service. Those men were swept from the limelight of the dressing room, and from the cheers of Yankee Stadium, to the balm of the top sergeant's soothing voice, and the roar of the big guns.

But They're Not The Ones To Condole

But those men reached fame. They knew what it was to see their names in headlines, to make speeches over NBC, and to have kids seek their autograph. It's the "stars who might have been" that deserve whatever pity is forthcoming. There are a multitude of men with fine pitching arms! or with a world of talent under the basket; or with a pair of snake hips and plenty of leg drive; or with a straight left that packs a lot of authority; who will never hear the plaudits of the crowd or finger that green stuff that buys meat and potatoes.

Why?

Because in the two or three years they're in the service, that slender margin that sets aside the brilliant from the mediocre may have been lost on the Russian steppes or the Malay peninsula. A lot of that competitive spirit may have been spent on Hitler rather than on the Brooklyn Dodgers. And carrying a pack around for a year or two probably isn't conducive to a 4:08 mile.

Yes, There's World War No. I

No one can deny, of course, that the preview of today's feature attraction (1914-18) produced some remarkable sports figures—witness heavyweight champion Gene Tunney. And some of the boys who went across then came back to establish or reestablish themselves. But there was also the "legion of the might-have-beens." There was that group of potential greats whose career was nipped in the bud or never had a chance to start.

All Off Which Adds Up To What?

I don't know... but it's something to think about.

Van Hazel Youngest Of Six Fighting Sons

Albert Van Hazel, the youngest of six sons, will probably join his five brothers soon. They are Corporal Richard Van Hazel, medical corps of Camp Walters, Texas, Private Bert of Camp Ribonson, Arkansas, Sergeant George of the officers training school at Camp Hood, Texas, Private William, who is overseas, and Private Henry at Camp Clark, Missouri. Al is awaiting his call from the Marines.

This sophomore physical education major at present lives in East Hall but refers to Alpha as his Arizona home. During his two years' stay he has a grade index of 2.83 and has built quite a name in the sports world on the Arizona State campus.

His activities include a year each on the Freshman basketball team, Freshman football team, and Varsity football team, a year of track, Pi Deltas, working in the dining hall, and dodging the women. The Marines will gain what Arizona State and Sioux City, Iowa, lost.

plaining all about my army life to date. He seems to be in line for officers schools and I do hope he receives it.

Hardin-Simmons, in my belief, had the best team in the state of Texas and that bars none. They would have had a higher rating except, as usual, their publicity agent isn't well known nationally. Too bad Tempe never got a crack at them. Ha, ha.

So Big John (Baklarz) goes or is gone when you receive this letter. Looks like they will grab all you boys in the near future so start getting your feet in shape for the hikes and drilling. Too bad you didn't join the air force, for they tell me the Marines really do some stiff drilling.

There isn't a hell of a lot to say except I eat-stand guard-sleep-go into town and pray I get shipped out of here. Until I go out on the line and get to fly and fix planes this army life is very boring.

Your pal,
CAMPY.

The best students of all DON'T go to Carnegie Hall!

Marines On Tour

(This poem, written recently by a Marine pal of Pat Whelan, former Arizona State student now stationed in the South Pacific, was received this week by Frankie Daly.)

By An American Marine

Down where there's no Ten Commandments,
And a man can raise a thirst,
Lie the outcasts of civilization—
The victims of life at its worst.

Down on the gin-soaked island,
Where the men that God forgot
Battle the ever-present fever,
The itch and tropical rot.

Nobody knows they're living,
Nobody gives a damn,
Back home they're soon forgotten,
Those Marines of Uncle Sam.

Marines on foreign tour,
Earning their meager pay,
Guarding the country's millions
On a dot, called land, far away.

Living with dirty natives
Down in the sweltering zone,
Just kids to their Colonel,
A million miles from home.

Drenched with sweat in the evenings,
They sit on their bunks and dream,
Killing themselves with warm beer
To dam up memory's dream.

Into a saloon on pay day
To squander their meager pay,
They raise merry hell for an evening
And they're broke as usual next day.

Vermin at night on their pillows,
Ills that no doctor can cure,
Hell no! They're not convicts,
Just Marines on foreign tour.

In 1934 Governor B. B. Moeur, Dr. Grady Gammage, Dr. A. J. Matthews, and Dr. Charles R. Atkinson were named in the national "Who's Who in America." Collegian, Oct. 5, 1934.

See you at the Student Union Room!

Raymond Ashe and his college band will furnish music for an informal evening of fun which the entire student body is invited to attend.

Scouts Entertained At Spaghetti Dinner

Featuring an Italian spaghetti dinner, which was cooked under the supervision of Al Onofrio, parents and boys of Boy Scout Troop 78 of the campus training school were entertained last night in the school lunchroom.

It was also announced at the meeting last night that any persons having small quantities of scrap metal, which they would like to have hauled to the scrap pile may call the training school and notify any member of Troop 78.

Sports - - 1931 Style

After playing through the entire 1931 football schedule without serious injury, Norris Steverson, Arizona State's all-conference half-back, had to nurse a badly sprained ankle received while demonstrating the fine art of sprinting to a training school girl's physical education class.

Eleven years ago, charges of participation in professional athletics were brought against Dick Finley, a former all-around athlete and football captain of Arizona State. Finley later broke into coast football with the Occidental College gridders.

In 1931, Coach Ted Shipkey headed south with a squad of 25 to meet the Texas Miners in their first major conflict of the season. The Bulldogs lost the game 27-13 and then went on to make hash out of the Border Conference.

Among those who made the football trip to El Paso in 1931 were Tom Lillico and Ben Cole, now coach of Tempe High.

Imagine yourself waking up to find your face smeared with merchurochrome, or to find a smear of glue in your ear—Lillico and Cole did.

Paced by Curry, from Tempe High, the '31 Bullpup eleven walloped the Casa Blanca Indians by a 92-0 margin.

New WAA Members Initiated Last Week

New members, speeches, awards and food were plentiful last week at the initiation services of the Women's Athletic Association. W. A. A. President Anna Belle Allen, was in charge of the proceedings and Wilma Swan, Jean Allen, Alma Giacoma, Clara Austrum, Peggy Boyle, Zada Boles, Marie Corrales, Bessie Eisenhart, Pat Evans, June Essig, Annie Komadina, Betty Nye, Clyda Jean Saylor and Elaine Steiner were the new initiates.

Given to Margerie Allen, Katherine Row, Katherine Bowen, Mary Wilde, Anna Wallace, Hazel Holton and Marjorie Cook were the W.A.A. silver pins (400 points necessary).

Only one woman, Clara Essig, succeeded in making the 400 intramural points needed to obtain an intramural sweater.
