College Men Leave For Army Tuesday

Sixteen Arizona State men who have been attending college under the Army Air Corps Enlisted Reserve plan left last Tuesday to report for active duty at Lincoln, Neb.

Students from Phoenix Junior College, Tempe, Flagstaff, and the University at Tucson congregated at the Phoenix Union Depot at 4:30 a. m. Tuesday, and left aboard three Pullmans for Lincoln at 2:30 p. m.

These former students may be classed in the same program as are the men training on the Arizona State campus at present, and they may receive further education in specialized fields in various schools throughout the country.

Tempe students who left Tuesday are Paul Schwark, Douglas Udall, Don Bullock, Joe Hartsig, Bud Porter, Steve Flood, Bernard Vittek, Howard Starnes, Allen Haws, Conrad Flake, Don Cook, George Sampson, Gene Henry, Carl Hilliard and Edward Pigg.

Bob Wald, also an Army Air Corps Reservist, is still waiting for his call to active duty.

Record Room Made Available To Groups

Members of Blue Key Arizona State men's honorary have made arrangements for the use of a section of the Arizona Room in the library for the safe-keeping of important organization records and rituals, it was announced by Bill Ward, president, Tuesday.

"In the past many such records have been lost, and in view of the present situation the filing of these papers will aid the different groups in permanently safe-guarding their records and rituals," Ward said.

It was suggested that each group secure small metal filing cases that could be locked or have their records put in heavy binders or folders. Each spring all important organizational documents could be turned into the library and the following fall could be checked out to responsible members of the organizations.

Gammage Hall Junior Wins Walsh Painting

An original Margaret Walsh painting was given to Beth Christensen for her lucky ticket drawn Feb. 26 at the West Hall British Cadet dance.

The framed picture was donated to the West Hall War Bond Fund as the objective of its raffle to obtain money for bonds. One hundred dollars' worth of chances were sold.

Miss Christensen, a Gammage Hall junior at the present, was the first person from West Hall last week to sign the list for girls volunteering to change halls in the emergency moving.

NEW STUDENT OFFICERS

Student Officers For 1943-'44 Named In Close General Election Held Last Friday

Roy Doyle, Glendale, was elected president of next year's student body during a close election held Friday, Feb. 26, in front of the Arts building. Nancy Frew, Phoenix, was elected vice-president, and Hazel Baker, also of Phoenix, secretary.

Doyle is a member of Blue Key, men's honorary, president of the junior class, former president of the Mu Sigma Chi fraternity, a member of the National Educational Association, and of Sigma Delta Phi, athletic honorary. He is also captain of the cheer leaders' squad.

Miss Frew, junior, is a member of the varsity dance team, secretary of Pi Alpha Gamma sorority, active in the Women's Athletic Association, and social chairman of Gammage Hall. She was chosen Homecoming Queen this year by popular vote, and she will be in charge of all social activities on the campus next year.

Miss Baker, outstanding in the field of journalism, is a member of Pleiades, women's honorary, and Philomathian sorority. She was secretary of her class as a freshman and is now secretary of West Hall. She is also active in the Women's Athletic Association and the Pan-American club.

In this election there was a greater percentage of student participation in voting than the campus had witnessed for several years.

Alpha Hall Schedules First Joint Meeting

The first joint meeting of Alpha and former East Hall men will be held in the basement of Alpha Hall Monday at 8 p. m.

Planning of the social calendar for the remainder of the year is to be the main topic of discussion. Refreshments will be served.

CHURCH MEETINGS

All students are invited to attend the Christian Church Young People's meeting held every Tuesday at 12:15 in the Library building, Room 115. Different ministers of the town will speak about the background of their churches.

Bill Ward, Al Onofrio, Gene Corno Made Associate Editors; Student Help Asked

Despite previous announcements that plans for the publication of an annual had been abandoned, arrangements have been made for the publication of a yearbook similar to last year's and containing about 50 pages, it was announced late Thursday by Al Onofrio, student body president.

Flag Paper, Annual Publication Stopped

Publication of the PINE, weekly newspaper published by the associated students of the Arizona State Teachers College at Flagstaff, has been suspended for an indefinite period, according to an announcement reaching here this week.

This action was taken after an agreement had been reached by the student council and the administrative committee, while at the same time publication of La CUESTA, student year book, was suspended.

Emphasizing that the measure was not an abolishment, but merely a suspension until better times, Wayne Bryant, student year book editor, said "that due to the present situation and a lack of funds, there will be no LA CUESTA this year."

It was said that the PINE had been in publication for over 30 years. It originated in 1913.

Procedure Outlined For Listing Events

Organizations wishing to reserve a date on the school calendar should follow this procedure:

- (1) Obtain a yellow card from Dean J. O. Grimes' office.
- (2) Fill out card and obtain the signatures of three sponsors.
- (3) If another event is already scheduled for the desired date, obtain the signature of that group's president.
- (4) All late permissions must be signed by Dr. Robert Plummer before being placed on the calendar.
- (5) Hand in the card at the Dean's office.

Calendar cards should be filed as early as possible and at least three days before the event. Organizations should schedule events for week-ends as often as possible, and should avoid the last weeks of school, as they are crowded.

Arts Colleges Must Justify Existence

Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission, wants to see the liberal arts colleges preserved, but added, in testimony before the House Military Affairs Committee recently, that every college in wartime must be able to "justify its own existence."

McNutt told the committee—which is investigating wartime college education—that he wanted to see every one of America's 1700 colleges utilized in the war effort.

The temporary abandonment of plans for a yearbook was thought necessary because of a lack of funds caused by a decrease in the student body and a corresponding decrease in the appropriations for activities.

But since the administration contributed $600 for the publication of the SAHUARO at the first of the year and it was found that this sum could be used for no other purpose, plans for a yearbook were again formulated.

Onofrio emphasized that the printing of the annual will in no way effect the amount of money available for other school functions, since at the beginning of the school year the student body budget was worked out on the basis that $5,000 would be received from activity fees, and this amount was supplemented by the $600 from the administration.

Editors Named
The withdrawal of Bob Nardelli as editor of the SAHUARO because of his army call has necessitated the appointment of Gene Corno, Al Onofrio, and Bill Ward as associate editors.

Aid Asked
Leaving the staff with only a short time to organize and complete it, the temporary abandonment of yearbook plans made it necessary for the new editors to ask for student volunteers who are willing to donate their time and services in aiding them. Especially needed are those who have worked on similar publications in high school or elsewhere.

All campus groups are urged to cooperate in seeing that their members are on time for future picture appointments. Pictures that are to be taken will be announced a week ahead of time in the STATE PRESS, and because of the shortage of time, it is absolutely necessary that this schedule be followed. No re-appointments will be made.

A drive for personal snapshots that may be used in the yearbook has been launched, and all students that possess such snapshots are asked to bring them in to the SAHUARO office, Arts building, south side basement, as soon as possible.

Tentative Dining Hall Schedule Announced

A tentative dining hall schedule for regular college students was announced this week by Mrs. Martha Krause, head of the dining hall.

Breakfast will be served from 6:45 a. m. to 7:10; lunch from 12:10 p. m. to 12:15, and dinner from 5:45 to 6:15.

Students have been asked not to break into the soldier line. However, if they must get through in a hurry, Mrs. Krause said that she would be glad to help them.

College Credit For Service Training?

The Office of War Information has just finished conducting a national poll on questions collegians want answered, and one of the questions most often asked by collegians was, "Can I continue my studies in the Army?"

Undoubtedly we are a bit prejudiced, but it seems to us that this is a problem that educators should be giving serious thought to. If students could be allowed to receive college credit for service training under the college Army-Navy program where they are doing equivalent work, many of us would receive our degrees that otherwise might never do so.

We could not and would not expect such college credit to be given gratis on the part of colleges.

Granting degrees despite the fact that work has not been completed would be a hindrance to college and university education. But since this war is a highly technical one, and a larger part of the students will be trained in some technical phase, it can only be plausible that education is education—whether it is in the college classroom or in the training camp classroom—and that a student should receive credit for such work.

Especially, since he would be earning college credit for the same work if no war had interfered.

Underground Jokes Help Keep Up The Morale Of Many Conquered Europeans

The Office of War Information has received the following stories which are being circulated underground in Occupied Europe. These stories, passed from person to person, serve to keep up the morale of oppressed peoples, it is said.

Norwegian patriots in a Trondheim movie palace were astonished to see a propaganda film showing the German forces giving food to the Norwegian civil population. For a few minutes they were too amazed to speak. Then one of them stood up and cried, "Stop! You're running the film backwards."

One day a German officer said to a close-mouthed loyal Dutchman: "Who is behind the resistance given by your people?" "Only one man," was the reply, "and he is dead."

"What was his name?" pursued the officer.

"William the Silent," replied the Dutchman.

In parts of France the Germans have imposed a fine of ten francs for the use of the French language. An Alsatian girl one day entered a shop and said, "Good morning, everybody," in French. A Gestapo man reminded her that the use of French was prohibited and asked her to hand over ten francs. The girl gave him 20 francs without so much as looking at him and said, "Now I can say 'Goodbye, everybody' in French as well."

After the attempted bombing of Hitler in the Munich Brauhaus became known, the following notices appeared in the windows of several butcher shops in Prague the next morning:

"There will unfortunately be no lard or pork today as the swine wasn't killed yesterday."

Hitler and Goering went to Cajais and stood looking sadly across the Channel towards England. Suddenly Goering said, "Adolph, I have an idea. When I was at school, I remember I learned a story about a man who divided the sea in order to enable his army to cross on dry land." Then he added doubtfully, "but I think he was a Jew."

Hitler, very excited and past caring whether the man was a Jew or not, sent immediately for a Rabbi. When he came, the Fuehrer asked him, "Is it true that a Jew once divided the sea, leaving dry land for his army to cross?"

"Certainly," was the answer. "It was Moses."

"Where is he now?" "I am afraid he has been dead a long time."

"Well, but how did he do it?" "By striking the sea with a stick given him by God."

"And where is the stick now?" asked Hitler, very excitedly.

"The stick?" was the quiet reply. "Oh, that is in the British Museum."

With Our Fighting Bulldogs

(A letter from Ray Williams, Tempe track star of last year, now in the army. Pvt. R. Williams, Co. B, 4th Repl. Br., Repl. Depot, Pittsburg, Calif.)

Dear Roy (Doyle):
When in the hell are you going to start answering some of these letters I'm writing you?

Have you left for the Marines yet? Hope you get to finish school, but I don't think any amount of schooling will help your case much. You'll just keep plugging through school getting A's and not learning anything.

Did I tell you I'm an instructor at this camp? Well, last week I got to drill my boys and tell them all about the M-1 rifle. This week they began marksmanship. It's going to be a "hell of a job, I imagine, but I want to stay here long enough to apply for a transfer into the Air Corps.

Tell me how Tempe looks for men since they started calling reserves. These coast schools are in a sad shape. I'll quit for now and hit the chow line.

Your pal,
RAY.

(A letter from Dominic Pellicino in Marine boot camp at San Diego. Pvt. D. R. Pellicino, Plt. 60 R.D. MCB, San Diego, Calif.)

Hi Steve (Adams):
I guess you've been wondering when your buddy was going to write you. Well, I've just been too busy to get one off.

Well, buddy, will you tell the boys on the basketball team that it sure makes us feel good to see in the box scores that our team is still carrying on.

I sure feel sorry for you guys that go to officers' training. It's twice as hard as our boot camp, and if I know you guys, I sure feel sorry for you, not saying you're lazy or anything.

Pottorf was elected honor man in his platoon, Plt. 37, and I lost out by one vote in platoon 60, but after seeing all the hell that the honor man goes through, I'm kinda glad that I didn't get it.

Pottorf had to sleep with his rifle in his bed, and I had to keep sand in my pockets for putting my hands in my pockets in chow line.

Well, Steve, say hello to every one for me. I'll write sooner next time.

Your buddy,
ROCKY.

(This letter from 2nd Lt. Keith Rice tells of his new set-up after graduation from Quantico, Va. Lt. K. M. Rice, Amphibian Tractor Det., U. S. M. C., Dunedin, Fla.)

Dear Steve (Adams):
Thanks so much for the letter. It certainly is swell to be able to hear from and about the fellows and school life and stuff.

My wife and I went over to look over Tampa, Fla., and who accosts us but Lt. Bob Dawson, Air Corps, and his wife. They were in Tempe about three weeks ago. Sure was good to see an old Arizona State student again.

Golly, this duty down here is just the best ever. If you don't apply for this division you don't know what's good for you. I'm sure glad to hear you joined the Marines, they will really give you a going over, as they did me.

I am to be officer of the day Tuesday. It's my first duty and I'm sorta shaky but as long as there isn't an air raid or a fire or an A.W.O.L. all will be well and I'll execute my duties as an offi-

(Ed's note: This article was written by one of the army boys who arrived here last week. In it he accurately expresses what the college training program means to him. His name is purposely withheld.)

To you, I'm just one of the boys in khaki. Millions of us dress alike, march alike, fight alike. We are soldiers.

But to me, I am an individual. I think, and feel, and love. And my senses react to stimulus, though most times I cannot reveal them.

That is why my heart is full of gratitude for this recognition and opportunity accorded by the government.

Not only does the college training program pave the way to military leadership for thousands of young men, but it instills in them a sense of their own dignity. It spurs them on to those heights of intellectual, moral, and physical leadership which are necessary to command the respect and obedience of American troops.

Ambition is not inherent in all men, but through the exigencies of war this program prods our patriotic instincts.

The knowledge of the job ahead, the will to help, and the desire to stand up well in the eyes of our fellow citizens combine to make us appreciate this chance to get ahead.

With this training, supplemented by further military instruction, we will go into combat fully equipped with the means by which we can do the most good for our country.

That is why my spirits are bright beneath this olive drab.

'V' For Victory Thinking's Required Now That Soldiers Have Arrived, Taken Over

By Connie Wilson

Column—right—MARCH! Column—left—MARCH! Hep—two—three—four! Hep—two—three—four! Company—HALT!

And so on into the night . . .

Joe College is wearing khaki according to latest reports from head clothiers of the nation and Betty Coed is all out for head-work, sidelighting glamour but definitely not shelving it, for the duration.

Arizona State's gone all-American since the army arrived last week. Anywhere you look you'll see the uniforms going on the way to classes, meals, athletics, or even occasionally to the Varsity Inn.

Girls' dorms were donated for the cause of Uncle Sam while East Hall was rejuvenated, and the new dorms were also prepared to house the newcomers. Inhospitable as it may seem, girls' halls, the Activity building and the Lyceum were numbered among the "out of bounds" territories for the soldiers. This, however, was not a student ruling and said situation will be rapidly remedied if coeds have their say.

Cooperation is the key word to everything on this campus now and everything from soup to nuts requires a little "V for Victory" thinking when patience runs short; especially when students stand outside the dining hall virtually wasting away to shadows while the hordes of soldiers file by.

It's even rumored about that coeds (especially P. E. majors) will no longer be allowed to run loose in abbreviated—but very!—clothes because of the commotion created among the armed forces practicing calisthenics on the south side while girls dash across to the gym.

Well, well, it'll all come out in the wash and meanwhile here we go again . . .

Former Student Is Made Marine Officer

Arizona State College's honor roll of alumni serving as officers in the armed forces has a new addition with this week's announcement that Loren E. Railsback, class of '41, Mesa, has been commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant in the U. S. Marine Corps.

Lt. Railsback, 23, a Lambda Delta Lambda, won the rank upon successful completion of a ten-week basic course. He is now enrolled in Reserve Officers' School for the next three months, where he will receive instructions in advanced phases of warfare.

Assignment to a combat unit for final training or a specialists' school will climax a six-month indoctrination course for Railsback.

Do you think you might be able to send me the STATE PRESS? I really miss the Lambdie-Pi Delt feuds, the school life, and all of my old friends.

Hope everything's O. K. and the new cadets get there. Be good to them—I know just how they feel.

Bye,
DEAN.

BUY ME A MASK LIKE THAT MAN'S WEARING, MOMMA

Remember 'way back when everyone was crying out for the administration to put its "o.k." stamp on the student union room about a month ago? It was a swell idea. It was thought students would have a place all their own to go to for recreation in the form of dancing and reading.

And now after hours of planning and working by student officers and faculty advisers, the students have a doggone nice room to spend their leisure hours in. It's a good start toward a Student Union building which could be constructed after the war. But it's going around the campus that if you ever find the library too full of studious students, the Rec Hall is a swell place to do your studying. There's no disturbing noises of any kind there.

In other words "The Far Off Hills Are Green." Every kid on the campus wanted a Rec Hall more than anything else. From 'far off' it was a wonderful idea. According to President Al Onofrio visitors and recreationers of the room are practically nil. Onofrio got the room for us, now it's up to us to use it. If we can't make this room be of some value, what percentage would there be in building a post-war building? Probably the only reason student leaders wanted a recreation room for their "people" was because other schools had them. Why not turn it over to the science majors to discuss Einstein's theory in? Or keep the studious students out and use it for a dungeon for stewed students?

WILL MURALS CONTINUE TO DIE A SLOW DEATH?

Biggest local headlines on sports this week were about Arizona State discontinuing intercollegiate sports. (That is officially, of course.) While we think of it, we still like Coach Lavik, even though he didn't let the STATE PRESS scoop the Phoenix Gazette on that piece of copy.

The dropping of intercollegiate sports here should make a great difference to the men of the school. There are still enough men to expand intramurals immensely. However we're willing to bet that murals will continue forever along their haphazard paths. Supposedly there is a student head of the mural program, who has the power of making schedules for games, calling meetings and taking care of general plans.

Most of that work has been left up to John "Bat" Allen, who doesn't have time to take care of the job of keeping the murals in line. What we're driving at is that the mural program is poorly organized. And now that we have dropped intercollegiate sports, intramurals should expand and try to fill up the hole

Coach Walker Joins U. S. Navy; To Train At Pre-Flight School

Bulldog grid mentor Hilman Walker announced last Saturday that he had been sworn into the U. S. naval reserve. He stated that he would attend the indoctrination school at Chapel Hill, N. C., as an ensign for four weeks. He is scheduled to report there on Mar. 18.

Walker had two years of R.O.T.C. military training while attending the University of Alabama where he was a commerce major and a general business minor.

Succeeding Millard (Dixie) Howell as head football coach last year, Walker led the Bulldogs through a grueling season hampered by a continual loss of players to the armed forces.

Thirty-year-old Coach Walker graduated from the University of Alabama in 1936. In 1933 and '34 Walker held the Southern Conference light-heavyweight boxing crown. He was a member of the Crimson Tide forward wall when Alabama downed Stanford in the Rose Bowl game Jan. 1, 1935.

Walker was also chosen All-Southern Conference end in 1935. During his stay at Alabama he collected nine letters in football, basketball, boxing and baseball.

Girls Slate Novelty Dance Performance

Women's dance intramurals will be held Wednesday, Mar. 10 at 4 p.m. in the Women's Activity building. Each hall and the off-campus women will be represented by a team. Every girl participating will be awarded 25 intramural points, while the winning team will gain 50 points. These points apply toward intramural sweaters, which are awarded to all girls with 400 points or more.

The program will offer original novelty dances, compiled by the students themselves. Chairmen in charge of the dances are the following W.A.A. council members: Nancy Frew, in charge of modern dances; Betty Conniff, tap dance; and Ruth Clevenger, folk dance.

The student body is invited to attend this display of dance techniques.

Made Necessary Because Of Manpower Shortage; Lavik To Aid Army Program

Director of Athletics at Arizona State Rudy Lavik announced last Saturday the abandonment of intercollegiate athletics by Tempe for the duration.

"It is not the establishment of any policy; we had no choice in the matter," Lavik said. "We just do not have the man power. We

Payne Is Appointed New Sports Editor

Sherman Payne, freshman sports writer, has been appointed to fill the office of sports editor on the STATE PRESS staff, which was vacated this week by Keith Turley.

Turley, active in journalism since a freshman, said that extracurricular activities interfered with his duties to the extent that he felt that he should resign his position. He will continue to write his column, "Sports This Week," however.

Payne, from Prescott, was outstanding in high school journalism and since his enrollment at Arizona State has been especially active in that field, specializing in sports writing.

Women's Softball Enthusiasts Called

While women's intramural basketball is drawing near to its final contest, enthusiasm for the coming softball season is rapidly growing among feminine athletes of Arizona State.

Scheduled for Mar. 8, at 4 p.m., the initial meeting of softball hopefuls should produce no fewer than 40 girls who would like to put their efforts in to knocking the ball over the fence.

Coaching the women's varsity softball club this year are Ed Horner and Lester "Truck" Dayton. Amelina Peralta will be in charge of the junior varsity outfit.

Athletic Program Is Set For Soldiers

The athletic program for the Army personnel stationed on our campus is now under way with Coach Rudy Lavik putting the boys through their paces.

Running and calisthenics and basic toughening-up courses are rapidly putting the boys into shape.

Six softball diamonds and several volley ball courts are now being prepared for the trainees.

Ping-pong and horse-shoe equipment will be made available for their use around the dormitories.

When softball gets under way, the boys will probably establish inter-pre-flight tournaments.

Outlaw Baseball Enthusiasts Called To Make Up All-Star Diamond Squad

Nick Johnson, who has been threatening to organize an outlaw baseball team because of wartime man power shortages, thinks he has finally rounded up an all-star team and is ready to schedule games with any of the big leagues.

Any one with ball playing ability is invited to come out. Those who do are asked to bring their own baseballs, gloves, shoes, uniforms, bats, and water buckets.

The present diamond set-up does not exactly conform to regulations, but Johnson figures he can do the trick with Lester "Truck" Dayton in the catching spot, Al Ridgeway at first base, Bill Kajikawa handling shortstop and third, and Bobby "Speed" Miller taking care of the three outfield positions. Johnson will pitch and cover second.

Umpire Needed
"If there are any eccentric dare-devils on the campus, they may apply for the umpire's job," said Johnson, looking toward Dominic Cosentino. Cosentino is well acquainted with one of baseball's greatest umpires, Homer Wagner, a ball player's ball-player.

The "Formidable Five" have made no definite game schedule as yet but are planning a big and successful season.

were fortunate to be able to finish the basketball season, and it was difficult enough to get through the last football season.

"Our situation in track was the same. We have only one letterman left, and he is due to report for duty any day.

"Unless some miracle happens," Lavik added, "and I don't see how it can, we have no choice but to abandon intercollegiate athletics."

The announcement came unexpectedly and was the first official action to be taken by any one of the eight schools which had been carrying on Border Loop competition this year.

It has been rumored that the Arizona State Teachers College at Flagstaff will abandon intercollegiate athletic activity for the duration although no official announcement has come from the Flagstaff college.

Coach Lavik will be engaged in the physical training of army personnel stationed at Tempe and will have little time to direct intercollegiate sports even if there were enough men left on the Arizona State campus to provide the necessary man power.

Off-Campus Women Take Basket Murals

The off-campus women of Arizona State have once again captured the winning position in basketball intramurals. Competing against West Hall in a close game Wednesday evening, they took the finals by a score of 37-26.

Several more games will be played before the season is declared officially closed. West Hall was undefeated until Wednesday; this gives them the privilege of a return game with Off-campus, who is still undefeated. In case West Hall wins, a third game will be played, as a team must lose two games consecutively to be considered out of the winning bracket.

Local Baseball Hope Is Meager For 1943

The prospects for a baseball team representing Arizona State on the diamond look mighty slim for the coming season.

There just aren't enough baseball players or even potential material left to make an outfit of college caliber.

Last year the boys organized a team with Bill Kajikawa as their coach. They had a fair season, coming out with a 50 per cent average. Those left from last year's team include Nick Johnson, Al Ridgeway and Lester Dayton.

Johnson is interested in organizing an outlaw team and scheduling a few local games. Any one interested in playing should contact him in the near future.

Ten years ago, Mary Pickford was starring in her latest picture "Secrets" at the State Theatre in Tempe.

Back in the 70's at Penn State College, the permission of the president as well as the approval of the dean of women was necessary to secure a date with a coed.

Two Officers Elected At Blue Key Meeting

At a meeting of Blue Key held Tuesday night at the home of Mr. C. E. Southern, two new officers were elected to fill recently created vacancies.

Verne LaTourrette was elected vice-president, replacing Sam Fees, who is busy with outside work.

Don Ellis was elected to fill the offices left vacant by John Baklarz, alumni secretary; Bob Nardelli, recording secretary; and Marion Ewan, corresponding secretary, who have answered the call to the colors. Through necessity, the separate duties have been combined and Ellis will be in charge of them all.

Mr. Ronald Bridges was notified of his approval by the national office as a faculty adviser.

Following the business meeting, the members enjoyed a spaghetti dinner, prepared by "Chef" Al Onofrio.

'Family Party' Next AWS Social Event

The grand finale of the Associated Women Students' hen parties will be held Mar. 25 in the Lyceum building. A novel theme is to be carried out in the form of a "Family Party." That is, several girls getting together and dressing the part of any type of family life they wish to portray.

Anything goes as long as it is carried out in the "family" theme and prizes will be given for the best stunt of the evening, so here's your chance, gals, for carrying off honors. "Families" participating in the stunt activities are asked to register with June Wendell as soon as possible.

It will be a hilarious evening filled with laughs and gags, guaranteed by Maestra Jeanne McCauley, who is heading the entertainment, and if you remember her as the beau brummel of the Zeta Follies you know it's going to be a kick. What better way of drawing the year's activities to an end, now, I ask ya?

Hold on, though! There will be a more serious moment of the evening when the nomination of next year's A.W.S. officers will be held. The primary election will be held Apr. 5.

Committee chairmen for the party include Jeanne McCauley, entertainment; Zada Boles, publicity; June Davis and June Rogers, invitations; Doris Holbert, refreshments and Virginia Kendall, clean up.

ASK THE W.A.A.C.

"COMPANY HALT. FALL OUT FIVE MINUTES."

"THANK GOODNESS FOR A PAUSE."

"AND AN ICE-COLD COCA-COLA."

"I'VE BEEN LONGING FOR THIS MOMENT."

"A W.A.A.C. does a double job. In doing her own job, she releases a man for combat service. In a way ice-cold Coke is like that, too. Not only quenches thirst but brings energizing refreshment, too. And on top of that it offers the taste you don't find this side of Coca-Cola, itself. How about a 'Coke date', now?"
